On Wednesday afternoon, July 5th, '93, at the residence of the bride's parents in Tecumseh, occured the marriage of Miss Ella Jackson to Dwella Hodges. Rev. J. P. Varner, performed the ceremony. The numerous valuable and beautiful presents bear evidence of the high esteem in which the young couple were held by their many friends. After the usual congratulations, the groom with his bride left on the afternoon train for a visit with Mr. Hodges parents in New York state. On their return they will make Jackson their home for a year, as Mr. Hodges has a situation as traveling salesman for the Akron edge tool company. Relatives and friends were present as follows: Mrs. John Winchell and daughter, of Leslie; Prof. M. L. Palmer and wife, of Wyandotte; W. J. Clark and wife, of Britton; Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Hurlburt; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Clapp, Adrian; Nellie Conklin, Toledo; Nellie Rowley, Hillsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey, Raisin; Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Loree, R. S. and Mrs. Houseman, Mrs. W. H. Arner, Mrs. Jacob Arner, Mrs. Catharine Cox, J. C. Palmer, Ed. Palmer and wife, Mrs. Henry Palmer and daughter Loana, J. D., Rhoda and Lou Arner, Kittie Clark, of Ridgeway.

There was a sudden fall in hammocks and ice cream at Wamper's the Fourth, as a certain handsome young Tipton lady can testify, as she was said to be "in it," both as regards the hammock and the cream. Possibly Claude T., could throw some light on the subject.

A good story is told concerning a certain Jackson County disciple of Annanias and some sportsmen from the Buckeye state, that is "too rich to keep." The parties were all sojourning at a pleasant lake resort and made daily excursions fishing, the Buckeyes coming in without a "bite" every day, in spite of the most elaborate fishing outfits, while the Jackson County brother always showed a fine string of beauties. The buckeyes begged to know at last what bait he used, "pond lilly leaves," responded the sinner, looking as grave as a judge. "But how do you keep them on," querred the buckeyes. "Tie them on," was answered. Next day the credulous Ohio men, with pond lilly leaves tied on their hooks thrashed the waves in the most approved style, but without avail. "Annanias" kept just near enough to witness their efforts, but used his spoon hook to such good advantage that he came in again with a splendid catch of fish, to the utter demoralization of the buckeyes, who saw him tie on the magical "pond lilly leaves," at starting, but did not see him remove them when he got away from them. But it is safe to say, that Jackson County bachelor is liable to come to an untimely end, when those deluded fishermen, find how they were sold by him.

MACON MUSIC.

WEDDING BELLS.

Mae E. Morrison and Prof. W. E. Warner were married Monday evening the 10th inst., at the home of the bride's mother, on Adrian street. Rev. Frank Fistler officiated, and the marriage ceremony could scarcely have been performed under more congenial and auspicious circumstances. It would be difficult to give an overdrawn eulogy of the fair young bride. Lovely in mind, person and disposition, she has been loved and respected both in her own town and the other places which have been her temporary homes since she graduated from the Tecumseh High school, one of the most distinguished members of the brilliant class of '89. Both she and the groom graduated from the State Normal at Ypsilanti in the class of '91, and at once entered their professional duties in Saginaw, she teaching in the school of which he was Superintendent. While spending his vacation at the home of his affianced, Prof. Warner has made many friends here, and those who know both bride and groom pronounce him worthy of her. No higher econium could be offered. It requires no stretch of imagination to predict a happy future for the gifted young couple. In accordance with the tastes and wishes of the persons concerned, the wedding was quiet, only the relatives and a few particular friends of the family being present. The bridesmaid wore green and white with Catalpa blossoms, these being the colors and flower of the Normal Class of '91. Mr. and Mrs. Warner left on the 9:40 train for a short visit in Saginaw, after which they will return to Tecumseh and be at home to their friends for the rest of the vacation.

Co. C. Attention!

A letter to Captain Hayden, from Major S. Howell, comanding the 2nd Battalion, of the 1st Infantry should be read by every militiaman, as it gives a very comprehensive idea of what is expected of officers and men at the coming state encampmement. We append the letter verbatim:

2nd Batt. 1st Inf. M. S. T.
Adrian, Mich., July 10th, 1893.

Order No. 2.—Orders having been issued for the annual encampment at Island Lake, August 10th to 15th. Company Commanders should avail themselves of every opportunity to thoroughly drill and instruct their commands in all that pertains to the duties of a soldier. This is varied, and by no means confined to a knowledge of drill regulations. One of the most essential points is guard duty, requiring constant and careful instruction, particular attention being given to paragraphs 202 to 251 inclusive also 328 of the Manual of Guard Duty, all of which should be thoroughly understood, paragraph 202 and 203 being committed to memory. Every officer and soldier of this battalion is expected to intelligently and correctly perform any duty in this connection to which he may be assigned. Non-commissioned officers should be well informed and receive frequent practice in their duties as guides of companies or subdivisions in battalion. Battalion drills will embrace all movements in the school of the company, the manual of arms, loading and firing standing, kneeling and lying down, also stacking arms with the swivel Your attention is also called to the importance of the extended order, and the drill by signal in that formation. A soldierly appearance and deportment, courtesy and respect for the colors shonld be cultivated and insisted upon at all times.

By order of
MAJ. S. HOWELL.

Notes of Interest from the Fair.

If you get tired when on the long pier take a ride on the moving sidewalk and enjoy the cool breezes of the lake. Such a ride is very refreshing.

Over in administration building, in one of its numerous halls, Prof. Gooch has been telling large audiences what he knows about electricity.

California's building was the scene of a pleasant reception given to the author of the poem, "Liberty Bell," Mrs. Madge M. Wagner, last week.

That Centennial State, Colorado, has provided a unique entertainment for its visitors in the way of a song service at noon, conducted by the Dudley Buck Glee Club.

On the same day of Venezuela's opening, Costa Rica followed in her wake and to the soft strains of mandolin and and harp, their commissioner declared her to be one of us.

Don't imagine because the czar of Russia has recalled his military representatives, that he intends withdrawing that country's beautiful exhibits. Such is not the case. He probably has more use for the soldiers at home than at the fair.

If you are at all interested in art, do not pass slightly by the many meritorious works painted by American artists. It's time we recognized home talent, and give up the idea that nothing is worthy unless it comes from the other side.

The weather is very fine, and in that respect there is no excuse for the people staying at home. There are so many short lake excursions that can be made, as side issues, at reasonable rates, that one can change about from the fair to these other recreations at will.

Despite the vigilence of the detective service, sneak thieves ply their trade with profit. Numerous instances of theft are recorded aud especially in the woman's building. It's very foolish to carry anything of value about your person, or more than enough money for your daily expenses.

The tenants of the gallery in manufacture building went through the pleasant task of getting up a petition to the council of administration, asking for ventilation and more stairways leading to their quarters. They are now in high dudgeon because these mighty potentates have ignored their request, in placing the petition in the pigeon hole.

That tropical American state, Venezuela, feels very prond over the celebration of her independence, because on the anniversary day of this event, she become one of the links in the great chain which this wonderful exposition is forging. Her beautifully decorated pavillion was formally made one of us on that day, and as usual, speeches and towers did much to make the exercises interesting.

Stop and consider how large an army 325,000 people would make, and then you can form some estimate of the throng which gathered to do some homage to our flag on the day of the celebration of independence. The White City was fairly alive with the surging multitude, and yet there was room for thousands more. The vast area immediately east of the manufacturers building, for the whole quarter-mile stretch, was one compact mass of humanity. It was a Fourth of July celebration well worth coming miles to participate in, and I doubt if on the Centennial of our Independence the eagle screamed louder, or the small boy was more happy. The display of pyrotechnics was unusually fine, and lake Michigan, at times, looked as if it were on fire.

THE BAY VIEW SEASON.

Half Fare on the T., A. A. & N. M. R. R.

The advent of hot weather sets everybody thinking about the cool breezes and good times at Bay View. The Summer University opens on July 12, the Assembly on July 17, continuing to August 16, and the Toledo, Ann Arbor and Northern Michigan Railroad will sell half fare round trip tickets there, covering the full season.

Tickets will be sold daily from July 10 to 19 inclusive, with return limit, August 17. Return tickets from Dundee will be only $9 15. The Assembly programs are said to be the richest and the University advantages the best ever offered there.

The University Review gives all the programs and courses of instruction, tells all about Bay View, expenses, etc.

The June number is beautifully illustrated and will interest you. Send for it to Mr. J. M. Hall, Bay View, Mich.

THE WORLD'S RAILWAYS

Magnificent Endeavor of One Individual.

MUSEUM AT THE BIG EXPOSITION.

How Colonel Pangborn, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Got Together One of the Most Admirable Collections To Be Seen at the World's Fair—Progress of Railroading.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 12.—[Special.]—In the Transportation building is a single exhibit which contains a whole exposition in itself. If I were called upon to select out of the great Columbian aggregate the most important and interesting exhibit made by individual, firm or corporation, I should unhesitatingly choose that which is grouped under the title—"The World's Railways." It is one of the most admirable things in the exposition, a series of object-lessons in railroad history and today the most thorough and comprehensive railway museum and retrospective in existence. Moreover, it was gathered together by one man, and a single railway paid all the expense of it. There is no finer example anywhere of what an American with brains, energy and means can accomplish in a short time, for this historical collection astonishes all beholders. There is nothing else like it in the world, and the best of it is the display is to be the nucleus around which will be formed a permanent American railway museum.

How did it come to be? Well, Colonel J. G. Pangborn, of the Baltimore and Ohio railway, suggested to Mr. Mayer, the president of the road, that it would be a great idea to prepare for the World's fair not simply a one railroad exhibit, but an exposition of railway development throughout the whole world. The idea was promptly adopted, and Mr. Pangborn set to work. He spent a year in Europe, visiting the heads of great railway corporations, and securing their co-operation. By exercise of those arts known only to a railroader and newspaper man—Mr. Pangborn is both—he obtained imperial orders for assistance in Germany, Austria, Russia and other monarchies, as well as similar orders from the great museums of Paris, London and other cities. Then he returned to America, employed a staff of artists and photographers, set up his own machine shop, wrote 13,000 letters to railway managers throughout the world, ransacked all libraries and found all the old prints, sketches and drawings on the face of the earth, spent weeks unraveling disputed historical points, secured old locomotives, cars, tracks and appliances from all countries, and here we have the magnificent result of this magnificent endeavor.

On three tracks, side by side, stand fifty-nine original locomotives or models thereof which are perfect reproductions. Though built of wood, every one of the models is a working machine, having all the mechanism of the originals. The World's fair visitor who studies these fifty-nine object-lessons will conclude with a better idea of the history of railway development than he could gather from all the books in existence.

Now, let us start down one of these tracks and have a brief look at these models and originals. They cover the evolution of the locomotive from the idea of Newton, a tea-kettle on wheels impelled forward by the steam escaping from its spout, to the 100-ton compound-cylinder "Director-General," finest type of the modern passenger locomotive. The period covered is 213 years, or from 1680 to the present time. Between Newton's idea, represented by a bronzed model, and the first actual steam propulsion, there is a gulf of eighty-nine years. But even in this period the processes of evolution were at work, and are shown here by the aid of a large number of pictures of tramways on which cars were run by animal or human power and the picturesque period of wind propulsion, in which cars were fitted with sails and blown along the highways on rude tracks.

After Newton we come to the first example of steam locomotion on our globe. It was by a Frenchman, Cugnot, in 1769. His machine is still in existence in the Paris Conservatory of Arts, and here we have an exact model of it. Next is the machine of Murdoch, 1784. He was the companion of Watt, of steam engine fame, and was a believer in high pressure, while Watt was not. Murdoch was simply ahead of his times. He was also the inventor of illuminating gas. Here we have the awkward steam road wagon of a Yankee, Nathan Reed, of Salem, Mass., who invented the multitubular boiler, without which the locomotive of today would be an impossibility. His wagon was built in 1794. Next to this model is the earliest effort of the Father of the Locomotive, Richard Trevithick, a Cornish colliery foreman.

Here is the first locomotive that ever ran on a rail. It was built by Trevithick in 1803 to decide a wager that he could not make an engine to run five miles in an hour. He won his bet, and attached to the reproduction are the first cars ever drawn by a locomotive. These old relics were used in the colliery at Merthyr Tydvil, Wales. The next is another important link in locomotive evolution. In 1804 Oliver Evans, of Philadelphia, accomplished the first practical propulsion on land by steam. His machine was not intended as a locomotive at all, but as a dredger. When it was built its great weight raised the question of how it was to be transported to the foot of Market street, where its work was to begin. To solve this problem Evans rigged it as a locomotive and ran it through the streets to the Schuylkill, there shifted the power from drivers to paddle-wheels and propelled it as a steamboat to the place where it was to be used. Evans was the inventor of the high pressure engine, and only recently is getting the credit rightfully his.

We have now reached a period in which the locomotive grew pretty rapidly. Here is Blenkinsop's machine, the first ever put to practical use. It has toothed wheels, for in that day it was not believed smooth driving wheels would do anything but fly round and round on the rails, and they used to hammer the wheels and roughen the surface of the rails in order to secure adhesion. Curious example of this error is Brunton's horse-peg locomotive or mechanical traveler—two long legs walking behind the machine and pushing on the ground one after the other. This curious contrivance actually moved four miles an hour and pulled a load. Hedley came along in 1812 and demonstrated that smooth wheels would do the work. In 1813 he made his famous "Puffing Billy," oldest locomotive in the world, now in South Kensington museum, London, and here we have a model of it.

Now we come to Stephenson's first effort, the "Blucher," in 1814. It is easy to see that this great adapter and imitator, who has had more than his share of credit for the creation of the locomotive, combined Trevithick and Hedley. The Blucher was not a success, and for twelve or fifteen years the locomotive did not make much headway. Here is Seguin's locomotive with a multitubular boiler, which he patented in France in 1827, though we have indisputable truth that Nathan Reed had invented that form of boiler many years before. Next to Seguin's is the first locomotive on which a patent was taken out in America—the locomotive of William Howard, of Baltimore, with a radial axle and a sort of walking beam connecting two engines together.

This brings us to the famous locomotive trial on the Liverpool and Manchester railroad in 1829, and we have not only models of the machines which took part in that memorable contest, but five of the original rails and chairs over which the trials took place. The model of the winner of that contest, Stephenson's "Rocket," shows the engine as it was when it won its victory and established its maker's fame, with inclined cylinders, while the original "Rocket" now in Kensington museum had had its cylinders changed to horizontal. This is one of many similar evidences of the care exercised in preparation of this exhibit. Next to the "Rocket" is Hackworth's locomotive, which was in the trial but suffered an accident, possibly because it had been built in Stephenson's machine shop. As a matter of fact Hackworth did more for the locomotive than Stephenson. One of his grandson's is now superintendent of the Transportation building. We have here, also, Ericsson's famous "Novelty," and the Stourbridge Lion, the first locomotive seen in America. It was used on the Carbondale (Pa.) road by Horatio Allen, who was the only man not afraid to ride upon it.

Now we come to the distinctively American epoch in the early history of the locomotive. In 1829 the "Tom Thumb," the first locomotive built on this continent was put together by Peter Cooper, and here it is. In 1831 the Baltimore and Ohio railroad offered $4,000 in prizes for the best locomotives, and five inventors entered the competition. These were the "George W. Johnson," Baltimore, first locomotive in the world with a double fire box and an extended front, the "York," which won first prize, the "Costell," the "Child" and the "James." Not one of these candidates was like any other, and in none of them was any imitation of the English types to be seen. Every man had started out on his own ideas.

None of these locomotives was a commercial success, but the following models show us the tremendous influence which that trial exerted upon locomotive work in America. Here we stop to look a long time at the old "Atlantic," built in 1832 and used until a few months ago as a switch engine. It is now retired after sixty years' service, and is today the oldest locomotive on the continent that preserves its original working parts.

Epoch-markers are some of these models. Here is "Old Ironsides," the first built by Baldwin; the "South Carolina," first of the eight-wheelers; Jervis, 1832, first with bogie or forward truck; James, 1832, first with the link motion and proof to the world that Stephenson did not invent that important mechanical movement, for James was thirteen years ahead of him; the "Traveler," Baltimore and Ohio's first freight engine, marking the differentiation of freight from passenger locomotives, sixty years in service; the "Thomas Jefferson," fifty-eight years in service and arriving here with water in its boiler; the first of the Camel type, which set the locomotive fashion in America just as Stephenson's Mercury, 1830, set the fashion in England; the Hercules, 1837, which first used equalizing beams; the "Lafayette," built by a Baltimore druggist who astonished the English by making an engine that would climb an incline; the "Sandusky," first built by Rogers, and first locomotive used west of the Ohio river; the "Albion" and "Samson" from Nova Scotia; the "Buffalo," 1845, first eight-wheeled coupled engine; the "Dragon;" the Pepper Sauce," first mountain climber, an early effort of William Mason, who was the first to put symmetry and grace into the locomotive, and who more than any other man is entitled to credit for making the American locomotive a thing of beauty.

Here is the locomotive exhibited by the Baltimore and Ohio at the Centennial, No. 600. It was a magnificent machine in that day, but compare it with the "Director General!"

As if these sixty object-lessons in the development of railways was not enough, we have here nearly two thousand pictures, railway scenes from all times and lands, the development of locomotives, of cars, of rails, of bridges; the great workshops; the royal trains of the world; railway engineering everywhere.

MICHIGAN CROP REPORT.

Wheat Yield for This Year Is Estimated at 13.24 Bushels per Acre.

LANSING, July 10.—The official estimate of the Michigan wheat crop for 1893, just made by the secretary of state, is based on the number of acres in wheat in May, as shown by the reports of over 1,200 correspondents. The estimates of the yield an acre have been made while the crop was yet standing. The total yield is estimated at 20,895,374 bushels and the average yield an acre 13.24 bushels. The unfavorable weather in May not only delayed corn planting but caused a reduction of acreage. An average crop of oats is promised. Potatoes are in good condition, as are also meadows and clover sown this year. Apples promise three-fifths of a crop and peaches 82 per cent. of an average crop.

FIRE AT MORLEY.

Several Business Firms Suffer Loss, the Total Aggregating About $10,600.

MORLEY, July 10.—Fire started Sunday afternoon in a vacant store building owned by Miss Kate Lacey, of Grand Rapids, and for a time threatened the business portion of the town. It was confined to the block where it started. Losses are as follows:

Cutter & Wright, hardware stock, $3,500, insured; building owned by A. J. Ecker, Greenville, $800, insured; Commercial hotel building and barns, owned by McClure of Charlotte, $1,200, insured; two store buildings, owned by N. W. GREAT SAVING RESULTS FROM THE USE OF

SAPOLIO

A HOME MISSIONARY.

JOSEPH ADDISON HALLOCK (Octogenarian.)

HIS EXPERIENCE WITH THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT.

AN OLD MAN WITH PROGRESSIVE IDEAS AND HIS DESIRE TO ENLIGHTEN THE PUBLIC.

The winter of 1884-85 was my first experience with rheumatism. I was traveling as a home missionary, and with great difficulty and suffering I reached my appointments. It was located in my hips and back. From that time to this year of grace, 1891, I have suffered more or less under the grip of that disease. About three years later, liver complaint, and the calomel taken to cure it, fastened upon the walls and organs of my chest, a rheumatic affection from which I was never wholly free, and at times even a breath was cruelty. Yet, in a general way, my health has been as good, perhaps better than the average of men.

During the last days of the last year, I bought of Dr. Owen two of the Owen Electric Belts. One I have worn, the other my daughter has worn. In either case the remedial has been satisfactory. The rheumatism of my chest and hips I can no longer find. A limited case of varicocele, of more than thirty years standing, after two weeks' use of the Belt, has diminished to a mere lump, and a few days later could not be found. A nasal catarrh of years had so affected the substance of the nose that a friend in jest twitted me of brandy. My nose itself again, and other symptoms of nasal and throat catarrh are fast disappearing carrying my deafness of seven years with them.

I have studied electricity in its bearings upon mental and physico mental phenomena for fifty years, and have seen its wonders in these directions, and, thus prepared, my attention was easily turned to its efficiency in controlling the nerves, muscles and motions of the living, as galvanism does those of the recent dead.

I have no wish to undervalue any appliance which carries a real electric current from a genuine battery to human nerves with a gentle, a genial force; but I do wish to do my utmost to disarm public fears as to the well-ordered Electric Belts.

THE PUBLIC COMFORT.

Rest and Recreation for Visitors at the Fair.

VALUE OF THE STATE BUILDINGS.

When One Is Overcome With Fatigue He May Walk into Any One of the Structures and Recuperate—Lack of Seats on the Exposition Grounds—City of Magnificent Distances.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 10.—[Special.]—What would the people who come to the exposition have done without the State buildings? It almost makes one shudder to think of the condition some of the visitors would be in these warm days if it were not for the rest and recreation they are able to take at the club-houses erected here by more than thirty of the states of the union. If there is any fault to be found with the World's fair it is that it is too large. It covers too much ground. The first impression which hundreds of thousands of people have is that of utter helplessness. It is a sense of hopelessness. They throw up their hands, as the saying is, and whisper to themselves that they can never expect to see all this vast show. So, what's the use of trying? I have met a great many friends here who told me that the first day of their visit they were so overcome by this feeling of human inability to cope with the magnitude of the fair that they were tempted to enjoy one good look about the grounds, noting the beauty of the fairy-like scene and the grandeur of the architecture, and then go home without ever entering one of the buildings.

Of course they did nothing of the sort. This feeling wears off after the first day, and when one has entered a building and become fascinated with the things to be seen there—it doesn't matter much which building you first go into, the effect is the same—there follows a desire to stay until everything can be seen. Then begins the hard work. Then comes the determination to take it all in or die in the attempt. It would never do to go back home, one thinks, and be forced to confess that he had not seen this or that which some one is sure to ask about. Hence people are driven into overtaxing themselves. They walk and walk and look and look until they are utterly worn out. One of the commonest sights about the grounds is that of men and women lopping down on the benches or the grass thoroughly fatigued and appearing as if they had not the energy to stir another step. But after a short rest, and sometimes a cat-nap, they get up and go at it again.

The managers of the exposition have done fairly well in providing for the public comfort, though not as much as they should have done. There is a complaint, well-founded, that there are not seats enough on the grounds, and that there is not enough shade to protect the people from the driving rays of the sun that glisten almost blistering hot from the white buildings which surround the landscape. Here is where the structures erected by the states show their great value. Nearly all of these buildings have commodious piazzas, well furnished with easy chairs. It doesn't matter whether one is from Pennsylvania, or New York, or Massachusetts, or Wisconsin, if he happens at the Pennsylvania, or the New York, or the Massachusetts, or the Wisconsin building when fatigue overtakes him he walks boldly in and helps himself to the first seat he comes to. He may do more. The parlors, the lavatories, the lounges and rocking-chairs are at the disposal of himself and the ladies of his party. It is one of the good features of American national and state life that we are all brothers, no matter whence we hail. The western man is as welcome at the club-houses of the eastern commonwealths as he is in his own, and so it is everywhere. There is no narrowness, no sectionalism, no north, south, east or west in this fine array of state conveniences. The welcome is hearty in them all, and one is not asked whence he hails.

If it were not for these state buildings and their comforts a great many people would fall by the wayside. There would be more cases of heat prostrations, or of fatigue prostrations, for the terms are often interchangeable, than the exposition hospital could take care of. There is a great number of such cases as it is. Again I feel like warning people who come to the fair against the error of over-doing. It is for your own good and greater enjoyment. Do not try to see the whole fair in three or four days. If you have but a few days to spend here select the features of most interest to you, and confine the most of your efforts in those directions. It is the easiest place in the world to be mistaken in the amount of ground one is covering. The distances are all deceptive. Often when you have walked three miles you think you have covered no more than a mile. You are so preoccupied that you do not even notice your own fatigue, not until it is too late and the mischief is done.

Every day I see women, and men, too, stretched out on the sofas and in the easy chairs which the state buildings have so beneficently provided, asleep, utterly worn out. A curious scene was that which met my eyes today as I walked into the elegant and luxurious headquarters of New York. In the ladies' reception room a woman was playing a piano, and playing it well and loudly. Not twenty feet from the instrument were no fewer than five men and women asleep in their chairs. In a hallway in the Pennsylvania building I saw a whole family, father, mother, two girls and a boy, all stretched out on two sofas, and all asleep. They literally lay upon each other, or lopped upon each other, and the father was snoring as confidently as if it were in his own domicile, which may be in Oregon or Texas for aught I know, instead of in a public place in the beautiful palace which the Keystone state has erected here for the convenience of its sons and all who may come to its doors.

The management of the exposition is open to criticism in one very important particular. They built a great city of palaces, some of them a mile and a half apart, and then provided but indifferent and rather expensive means of getting from one to the other. There are three methods of transit about the grounds. One is by the intramural railway, an elevated electric road, which runs numerous trains at good speed, and the cars are comfortable and at night brilliantly lighted. The trouble is that they only skirt the edge of the grounds and except in rare instances do not take the people where they want to go. To reach the cars it is necessary not only to walk some distance, but to climb a pretty long flight of stairs. The fare is 10 cents, which is just 100 per cent. too much for a ride of a mile and a half. Then on alighting one finds it necessary to walk some distance again, usually, before arriving at his destination.

Then there are the wheel-chairs. These are very comfortable and convenient for those who can afford the luxury which they provide. But the tolls are excessive—75 cents an hour or 50 cents for a half hour. Many people do not feel like paying this sum for a ride. It costs but 50 cents for admission to the whole exposition, and it does look like imposition to be compelled to pay one-half as much more for a cheap chair and a young man to push it about for one hour. A hansom cab in Chicago, with a horse and driver, costs no more by the hour. The best way to do is to hire a chair at 50 cents an hour without a guide, and push it yourself with your wife or sister as the passenger. By occasionally sitting in the chair yourself for a short rest you will, if strong, be able to do this for two or three hours without tiring yourself very much. There has been a great deal of agitation here in favor of reduced prices for these chairs, but inasmuch as the management made a contract when they let the concession it seems they are powerless to make any change.

The third method of getting to and fro is by far the most pleasant of all, but it, too, is rather costly. I speak now of the electric launches which ply up and down the lagoons. There are fifty of these, and they make pretty good speed. Each boat will hold thirty-five passengers when fully loaded, and fifty minutes are consumed in making a round trip. The fare is 50 cents, though during the day a half trip, or a ride one way, may be had for 25 cents. A quarter of a dollar is an excessive charge for the privilege of riding a mile or a mile and a quarter, even in a trim and pretty electric launch operated by storage battery and through a most enchanting scene. There is an agitation in favor of reducing the tolls to 25 cents for a round trip and 15 cents for a one-way ride, but I fear it will not amount to anything, and if we ride we shall have to pay the piper.

This electric launch concession is one of the richest prizes from a financial point of view in the exposition. The men who own it are likely to make a great deal of money before the summer is over. Their fifty launches cost them only $130,000, complete. The power to charge their batteries is furnished by the exposition at cost. The exposition, besides, put in the seventeen landings and gates used in the embarkation and disembarkation of passengers. The boats make a trip an hour, and their average earnings are $10 a trip. It is estimated that the owners of this contract are now making a profit of about $2,000 a day, and that they will make even more after a time, when the great crowds come to the fair. Their prices are much too high, and there is a great deal of complaint about them. At night the company suspends the one-way half fare trip, and if you want to ride from one building to another by the electric launch you must pay 50 cents for doing so.

The problem of how to get to and fro within the grounds is one of the biggest problems here. It has been suggested that the exposition managers permit the establishment of a line of carettes or cheap omnibuses running north and south, with fares at 5 cents. But the managers having made their contracts with the wheel chair men, the elevated railway people and the greedy launch men, are not in position to provide any additional means of transportation. If they do they will violate their contracts with the other fellows, and suits for damages will follow. It is a pity the exposition sold itself out to the concessionaries in this way, and that it is now powerless to do the best that might be done for the comfort of the people.

Looking at the exposition proper is a good deal like study to some people. It is a great school, a fascinating one, to be sure, but it tires the eyes, the brain, the neck, the soul and body. One wants a recess from its confinement and application and concentration, just as the children in school must have a recess once or twice a day. The Midway plaisance is the playground of the exposition school. It is the place to which the people go when they are tired of their studies and want a little rest and recreation, something to relieve the mind and the eye from the tension of looking at and trying to understand and remember all the exhibits of this world object-lesson. The Midway is amusing and in some places gay. It is a place in which one may have sport or rest quietly in the shade, drinking his glass of beer or sipping his lemonade while listening to some of the best bands the Old World has turned out. The great problem for most folks is how to get to the plaisance. It is a problem easily solved for those who are rich enough to be able to afford the wheel-chairs, but other people have to walk; and a pretty long walk it is after one has consumed all his energies in the exposition proper.

It is a pity the managers of the exposition have sold out their authority in such way that they are now powerless to do anything in the direction of meeting this public demand for cheaper and more accessible conveyances. If we could have a line of carettes or chariots, or even plain omnibuses, running from the administration building to the plaisance, and from the Administration building around the avenue of states, it would be a great boon to millions of tired and limping visitors. Meanwhile people who come to the fair must remember that their greatest danger is in trying to do too much.

ROBERT GRAVES.

Mrs. Potter Palmer has evolved a plan of practical benevolence which will result in more real happiness among a class of children with whom happiness is a rare experience than anything which has been devised by philanthropic souls since Santa Claus was first invented. It is nothing more nor less than an outing at the World's fair on July 27, "poor children's day," in which all the waifs in the city, the newsboys, bootblacks, and other homeless ones will be included.

UNTOLD HARDSHIPS.

They Are Suffered by the Residents of Ironwood.

Capture of a Man Held to Be Responsible for the Typhoid Epidemic—Hundreds Are Utterly Destitute and Starving.

AN AWFUL STATE OF AFFAIRS.

IRONWOOD, July 10.—S. A. Souther the former superintendent of the Ironwood Waterworks company, who is charged with criminal neglect in his management of the waterworks, was arrested at Glidden, Wis., a small station south of Ashland. The impure water furnished while Souther was superintendent is alleged to have been the principal cause of the terrible epidemic of typhoid fever which has raged here for over a month. Indignation runs high, and as it was feared that violence might be done Souther were he to be brought here he was taken to Bessemer for safe keeping. Threats of lynching are freely made, but it is believed better counsel will prevail and that there will be no violence.

For over a month past there has been an average of 209 cases of typhoid fever in the city. For a time the deaths averaged nearly fifteen a week. The death rate is lower now, but the epidemic lessens very slowly. For the past three weeks the doctors have had no rest, and the large mine hospital having proved wholly inadequate the armory of the City rifles was secured. Thirty-two patients were removed there at once, and the capacity of the improvised hospital has since been taxed to the utmost. The volunteer fire department was pressed into service as an ambulance corps, and its work has been very effective.

When matters assumed such a serious aspect in the middle of June, mass meetings were held and a committee was appointed to investigate the city water supply and the other causes which were believed to contribute to the epidemic. The committee, which included the mayor, the common council, a couple of doctors and four prominent citizens, went to the waterworks plant and opened the standpipe on Norrie hill. The revelation was appalling. The bottom of the standpipe was covered to a depth of from 8 inches to a foot with a sickening mass of dead fish, birds and other substances, the whole in a state of putrefaction. The stench was unbearable and some members of the committee were unable to stand the awful sight. It was also discovered that the superintendent had failed to filter the water as had been agreed upon.

Dr. C. F. Baker, of the state board of health, also made an investigation and reported that the water supply had been the principal cause of the epidemic, though poor sewerage and defective sanitary arrangements had contributed to the spread of the disease. Superintendent Souther at once left the city and it was not until Sunday that he was located at Glidden, across the state line. The papers call for his prosecution on charges of criminal neglect and murder. Within the past week many wells have become infected with the disease germs and Health Officer Nevins has ordered nearly all the wells closed. The city board of health advises all who can do so to leave the city at once.

Added to the horrors of the plague, 8,000 miners are idle and the city and county poor funds are exhausted. Five hundred persons are now living on public or private bounty and thousands more are on the verge of requiring charity to buy food.

FUN FOR THE TOILERS.

Michigan Central Railroad Sends Its Detroit Car Shop Men to the Fair.

DETROIT, July 10.—The management of the Michigan Central, quick to recognize the value of the world's fair as a means of education in industrial art, sent a special train from this city Saturday night to the world's fair grounds at Chicago for the transportation of about 450 employes of the Michigan Central's car shops in this city. All of these employes and their families, who are furnished with passes for the purpose, are given the privilege of coming back upon this special train or upon certain regular trains. It is expected that the benefit that they will derive from the unsurpassed exhibition of industrial and decorative arts at the world's fair will be highly appreciated by these workmen and will undoubtedly redound to the highest interests of the company in the improvement of their technical skill, the character of their work and the training of their perceptive and inventive faculties.

Gov. Rich Suspends Col. Tyrrell.

LANSING, July 9.—Col. John E. Tyrrell, of the First infantry, having caustically criticised the action of the state military board in abandoning the proposed Chicago encampment and ordering a camp at Island lake, in this state, and having also authorized the announcement that he would grant leaves of absence to all members of his command who applied for them, the governor, as commander-in-chief, has suspended him from duty pending an investigation, and placed the regiment in command of Lieut. Col. Shubel, of this city.

The Cannon Burst.

CEDAR SPRINGS, July 5.—E. Supples died about noon Tuesday in Sheffield, 3 miles east of here on the Toledo, Saginaw & Muskegon railway. He was celebrating the Fourth and was firing a sort of a cannon which the boys had manufactured from an old gun, when, as he touched it off, standing close behind it, it exploded, and a piece of the gun entered his body.

Promoted.

LANSING, July 8.—J. E. St. John, of this city, has been appointed superintendent of the industrial school for boys in place of W. H. S. Wood, resigned. The exchange will take place on August 1. Mr. St. John has been connected with the institution at various periods for the past twenty years.

Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 8 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing our manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '93 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—or if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one ($100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 17-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

DR. FRASER'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold [illegible] dealers in medicine.

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Pimple to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

MANY certificates, much further information and full directions for using will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 30 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you. It will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

A MESSAGE FROM MACKINAC.

GRAND HOTEL, MACKINAC ISLAND,
July 9th, 1893.

TO THE HERALD BOYS:—I have resolved more than a dozen times during the past two days to prepare a "good long letter" for this week's HERALD, but the time has been so crowded with pleasure seeking that I have found it utterly impossible to do so. Look out for a big grist next week,

I have never attended a more enjoyable session of the Press Association than the present one. Every day has been filled with incidents, but no accidents thus far. Thursday was given up wholly to seeing some of the attractive features of Detroit. Friday morning the party took the new steamer "City of Alpena" for Mackinac Island. The attendance is larger than usual this year, and a jollier party I never had the good fortune to meet. The boat ride up the Detroit river through lake St. Clair and the river St. Clair was delightful. We arrived at Alpena at seven a. m. Saturday and found a big crowd and a brass band waiting to receive us. Formed a procession and marched to the Opera House to be formally welcomed, and thence to the Churchill House for breakfast. Then took a carriage drive about the city, and resumed our trip at 10 a. m. We arrived at Mackinac Island at seven p. m., just in time for a good square dinner, as they call it here. The party will be here during to-day, (Sunday) and leave on the Manitou for Chicago at five p. m. This is a magnificent morning. The thermometer marked sixty degrees at eight o'clock. The sky is cloudless, and the air seems to be supercharged with ozone. A few days spent here would brace up a body worn out with overwork in a wonderful manner. It is a model Sabbath day. The members of the party are scattered. Some are writing to "loved ones at home," others lounging about the broad verandah of the hotel and others strolling through the woods or driving around the Island. Last evening the association held a business session here to talk over a new Constitution and By-Laws. Sessions will be held to-morrow on the Manitou and at the Hotel Mecca after our arrival in Chicago.

Editor Field, of the NEWS is among the members present, accompanied by his wife and son and his sister, Mrs. John Spafard. Editor Smith with his wife and sister, of the Milan Leader, are also with us. James Schemerhorn and wife of the Hudson Gazette, are among the party. So I have not been lonesome for lack of acquaintance. Last evening I met Wm. H. Osborn, Jr. of Milwaukee, here at the Grand. He came in upon the Manitou with his family and intends stopping here a few days. This morning I found Prof. Arthur W. Burnett straying about the veranhah. He has been doing the World's Fair, and came in yesterday for a visit of a week on the Island, and will then return via Detroit.

I must close this note to catch the forenoon's mail and shall spend the rest of the day personifying "The Rambler." Unless I go the bottom of Lake Michigan, you will hear from me again from the Windy City. S. C. S.

MONDAY AFTERNOON ON THE MANITOU.

We left Mackinaw Island yesterday afternoon at five o'clock and had passed through the straits before sundown. The Manitou is another new boat and this is her third trip from Chicago. She is a steel propeller, and although not as fast a boat as the City of Alpena, she is elegantly finished add equipped throughout. The trip up lake Michigan to-day has been a delightful one. The sky is nearly cloudless, only a fringe of fleecy clouds lining the horizon, the air is cool and bracing, the surface of the lake shows scarcely a ripple and the steamer is gaining on her schedule time. The association are holding their business sessions to day on the upper deck beneath an awning which serves as a shelter from the sun's rays. A good literary program was presented this forenoon, and considerable business transacted. Another session will be held to-morrow at the Michigan building, on Jackson Park. The members of the Association will make The Mecca their headquarters and most of them will stop there. The balance of the week after Tuesday will be devoted to the World's Fair. On Saturday many of the members will leave for home although some will remain another week. I hope to find time during the week to prepare a letter for next week's HERALD, giving detailed account of the day's doings in Detroit, and the trip on the water from Detroit around to Chicago.

SEED WHEAT—Last fall I introduced a new variety of seed wheat here known as International Seed Co.'s No. 5, and it is being grown by the following farmers—Chas. Underwood, J. F. Gilmore, Wm. Underwood, Chas. Collins, Joe Osborn, Jno. Hendershot, Jno. Fisher, Alex Wilson, Enos Palmer, Ed. Allshouse, Archie Boyd, Chas. Ives, H. B. Ager, Horace Eaton, Sam Boyce, A. B. Bangs, Ben Lamkin, Levi Bowen, Blinn Tallman, Israel Schreder, Philip Kehoe, Al Kelley, Brant Roberts, E. G. Price and Walter Osborn. As you will soon want seed wheat and of the best variety I invite you to call on some of these farmers and see the wheat growing; then see me and engage some before it is all sold. C. A. SLAYTON.

A TRIP TO CALIFORNIA.

SAN DIEGO, CAL., May 31st, '93.

DEAR FRIENDS—As I have fulfilled my promise to my Saline friends, of a description of my journey to the far West, I will now send one to the HERALD, for the benefit of friends and relatives in and around Tecumseh.

We left Tecumseh, Mich., April 5th, in company with a party from Macon, Mich., arriving in Chicago, Thursday morning, April 6th. As we were obliged to remain in that city all day (for the excursion train which we were to take did not leave until 6 p. m.) we anticipated a visit to the World's Fair grounds, but the weather was very cold and chilly, and we decided that it would be for the best comfort of all to remain indoors. Before our excursion train left Chicago we were joined by the remainder of our party, numbering five more people, from Coldwater, Mich. This increased our party to eleven people, and a jollier lot of travelers than we were you never saw, as we took our waiting train out of the great western metropolis. We reached Kansas City, Mo., about ten o'clock the next morning. Our entire train, numbering fourteen coaches, was carefully examined, and at half-past ten we left that city behind us and between twelve and one o'clock arrived at Topeka, Kan. This is the beautiful capital city of Kansas and its situation is very fine; the surrounding country being quite pretty, but I do not think I should care to live there, although it is a much pleasanter country than Missouri, as the latter is such a barren, lonely and desolate country, and looks as if the people barely kept themselves from starvation.

From Topeka our train took up its journey again and in a short time we arrived in the city of Pueblo, Col., about ten o'clock Saturday morning. As our train was behind time in crossing the Rockies, on account of timid edgineers, we were obliged to miss seeing the handsome City of Denver, Col., of which we read so much. While waiting at Pueblo, nearly two hours, we took the electric street car and went around the city. Then we visited a beautiful little lake in the suberbs, but the pure air, together with the elevation, made the atmosphere very cold, and we were glad to return to the business part of the city, where it was a little warmer. At Pueblo we could look off at our right and see Colorado's great landmark, Pike's Peak, wearing its beautiful cap of snow and ice, which looked to us, viewing it from so far, like millions of dewdrops sparkling in the sunshine. The elevation of Pike's Peak above the level of the sea is 14,147 feet.

We left Pueblo early Saturday afternoon and as evening was approaching we came in full view of Leadville, another large city of Colorado. At half-past nine we came upon a most beautiful sight,—that of Glenwood Springs,—all illuminated with electricity, and around the hotel were large basins of hot water steaming and boiling up from the earth. It was a sight to be remembered and appreciated by the least observing.

The scenery all along the Rockies is so wild that it makes a person shudder to pass some of the awful-looking bowlders and tunnels which lay in our way. In some places the rocks seemed to hang almost over our heads, and looking away up in many places I could not see the tops of the rocks, for they were so very high and so near the track. Through most of the Rockies there is scarcely any vegetation at all, and in some places you could now and then see a tiny miner's cabin peeping from the rocks surrounding it. From Pueblo to Ogden the scenery was simply grand. As our train puffed out of Canon City, which is nearly 163 miles from Denver, it entered the Grand Canon of the Arkansas, the narrowest part of which is known as the Royal Gorge. Through this gorge the cliffs are a thousand feet high and are smooth and unbroken by tree or shrub. On the right a grand pinnacle lifts its head upward for three times that distance.

As our train sped on its way, after leaving the beautiful sight of Glenwood Springs in the distance, we took another refreshing sleep and awoke the next morning—Sunday, April 9th—to find ourselves nearing Grand Junction, Col., the chief city of Grand River Valley, at the Junction of the Grand and Gunnison Rivers. It is said that Grand Junction is destined to be the leading city of western Colorado. This is one of the most striking little towns among the mountains, its distance from Denver being 425 miles. For about 260 miles beyond Grand Junction no agricultural country is to be seen, as this is known as the Colorado Desert; but, as water for this region can be obtained from the Grand River, not many years will pass before the "Colorado Desert" will be ranked with that geographical myth of twenty years ago—"The Great American Desert."

The place of next most interesting scenery is Utah Valley. This favored spot presents the appearance of a well cultivated park. It has an Arcadian beauty and resembles the descriptions of the vales of Scotland. In its center rests Utah Lake, forming a most beautiful little scene, which would delight the eye of an artist.

One of the strangest things that I noticed along through the Rockies was that of the herding of cows, sheep and goats on the bare rocks, which looked as if they hadn't a single sprout of vegetable life. The animals did not look much as if they were very near starving, but, as I looked out of the car window and saw them eating something, apparently from nothing but those wild, barren crags, I thought that Michigan sheep and cows would not thrive long on such food as that.

Near ten o'clock Sunday morning we entered the great Mormon capital, Salt Lake City. It is said that forty-one years ago Brigham Young stood on Ensign Peak, the "Mount of Prophecy," and announced to his followers that down in the valley below, should be founded the new "City of Zion," the future home of the Later Day Saints, which is now Salt Lake City. The city is situated at the base of the Wasatch Mountains, which are a part of the great Continental Range dividing the Far West from the plains which extend from the base of the Rockies to the Missouri River. The finest residence portion of the city occupies the mountain bench, once the shore of a great inland sea, from which, ages ago, the waters receded until they settled in the basin of Great Salt Lake, distant eighteen miles from the water marks yet plainly to be seen above the city. The location is such as to command a view of the entire valley, both ranges of mountains, and the southern portion of the lake. The streets are 132 feet wide and are bordered on each side with long rows of shade trees. Streams of pure water are conveyed in ditches along both sides of all the streets. The place of greatest attraction for the tourist here is "Temple Square." On this are situated the Mormon Temple, Tabernacle and Assembly Hall. The Tabernacle is immense in its proportions, the roof resembling an upturned boat, and is visible from nearly every part of the city. Near by is the "Bee-Hive," once the home of Brigham Young, and opposite the house of President Taylor. As far as can be learned, the first mention of Great Salt Lake was made by Baron La Hantan, in 1689, who gathered some vague notions of its existence from the western Indians. The most mysterious thing about this inland sea, aside from its saltness, is the fact that it has no known outlet.

From Salt Lake City to Ogden the Denver & Rio Grande traverses a narrow plain. On the west lies the Great Salt Lake, while to the north rise the serrated peaks of the Wasatch Mountains. The region is under a high state of cultivation, farms reaching their green fields over its length and breadth, and little streams run in bright threads out of the mountain canons down across the meadows. The lake is in full view of the traveler most of the way and was a source of never-ending interest as we sped on our way, reaching Ogden Sunday afternoon between two and three o'clock. We were then nearing the border of Nevada, and Monday morning, April 10th, we stopped at the beautiful town of Reno for breakfast. In addition to being the county seat of Washoe County, Reno is a thriving business center. It possesses all the modern improvements, including electric lights. The town was named after General Reno, who lost his life in the battle of South Mountain. Reno possesses a lively interest for the traveler, as it is the junction point of the world-famed Comstock Mines.

After leaving Reno the scenery becomes grand beyond description, the Sierra Nevada scenery far surpassing that of the Rockies. Just imagine what a beautiful sight it was, as we were winding our way through the Sierra Nevada, our train circling the heights of a mountain, bringing us into every view of the granduer below in the valley and on the sides of the mountains, where the sweetest little homes were built, surrounded by immense fields of green, thickly dotted with the most beautiful little wild flowers that I ever saw. As spring was somewhat further advanced here than in the East. The orchards were already budded and seemed to be waiting impatiently to burst into bloom. Altogether it was the most beautiful piece of scenery that I saw on the way.

In crossing the Sierra Nevada Mountains we were obliged to pass through forty miles of snow-sheds, besides a great number of tunnels. There sheds are quite an interruption of the view, but they serve an eminently practical purpose and are necessary for winter travel. Plunging onward through the snow-sheds the two great engines dragged the train upward, while below could be seen the winding roadway we were ascending; then, rumbling through a tunnel, the train came to a halt on the highest point of the Sierras, which is called Summit.

Leaving Summit we soon came to the scenic wonder, "Cape Horn." There are few mountain passes more famous than that known to the world as "Cape Horn." The approach to it is picturesque. The north fork of the American River is seen raging and foaming in its rocky bed fifteen hundred feet below and parallel with the track. The train rolled on and on and was soon clinging to the side of the mountain wall, which climbs to the clouds above it and drops to the water beneath. A hand thrust from the window of the car could drop a stone straight as a plummet falls into the chasm, 2,500 feet below. We were then rounding Cape Horn. The road having been carved from the solid rock, the workmen, when building it, had to be suspended from the cliff above by means of ropes, until they had blasted sufficient to gain a foothold. A beautiful valley lay beneath us to the left, and across this vale, on the opposite side, could be seen the line of road on which we soon appeared.

Passing through a number of small stations we arrived in a short time at Sacramento, the capital city of California, about five o'clock Monday afternoon. From Sacramento to Los Angeles the scenery represents an everlasting spring day, there being nothing of especial interest, other than the extensive beds of wild flowers that thickly cover the ground on both sides of the track and also the fields as far as the eye can reach.

We reached Los Angeles at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. Here our party separated, five going to Santa Monica, Cal., and three more to Santa Barbara, while father, mother and myself took the train at one o'clock from Los Angeles for Long Beach, where we remained two days visiting the Gillett people, who are old friends, formerly living at Saline, Mich., the place where our old home was located.

On Friday, April 14th, we returned to Los Angeles and again took the train, arriving in San Diego, where our journey ended at half-past nine o'clock Friday evening.

I will now draw my long letter to a close and say, with kind wishes to all,

I am ever yours respectfully,

GERTIE E. SMITH,
San Diego, Cal.

Bold Break for Liberty.

Last Monday at 9:30 a. m. while laborers were repairing the eavetroughs on the furniture shops, standing near the walls of the Ionia House of Correction, seventy-five convicts, under the leadership of convict Smith, made a dash for the ladders which were being used and attempted to scale the walls. Guard Gurley, who was at the point where the attempt was made, fired into the crowd, the other guards rushed out, and after a sharp fight the convicts were driven back and confined in their cells. Convict Oscar Millen was shot dead and several others were severely injured. The convicts had been organized under the direction of Smith for some time and were only waiting their opportunity to escape in a body and trust to their numbers to overpower the guards. Warden Parsell has scented some devilry for quite a time past and was on the alert, otherwise there is no doubt but that a successful and general delivery would have ensued, as the convicts were armed with knives, hammers and clubs and were determined to make the most of their opportunity.

"Victor Flyers" in the Van.

Cycling has become such a universal pastime as well as a healthful recreation and business expedient that some of the largest workshops in the country are devoted to the manufacture of the modern vehicle. But there is only one establishment in the U. S. in which an entire machine is made, including the steel parts, leather work, rubber tires, nickel-plating, tools, etc., and on this account nicety of adjustment, smoothness of bearing, lightness and strength are insured, all of which are essential elements in a perfect wheel. This great factory is located at Chicopee Falls, Mass., and bears the name of the Overman Wheel Company, familiar to cyclists the world over. This company introduced the safety bicycle in America, and on that account as well as by reason of superlative merit "The Victor" has steadily held first place in popular favor. It is universally preferred because its makers are known to be masters of improved construction. The "Victor Flyer" has undoubtedly attained the highest plane of perfection. The Overman Company has the handsome exhibit in the balcony of the Transportation Building at the World's Fair. This exhibit is mainly of solid mahogany, elaborately carved and ornamented with gold. It far surpasses any other display in this department, was designed by one of Boston's best architects, and built by the most artistic cabinet-makers of that city. The display of 'Victor' machines here is attracting the attention of all wheel-men, as well as thousands of young men and women who hope and expect to become expert riders. The company has issued an elegantly printed and embossed "Victor" catalogue for 1893 covering every feature of their splendid machines, as well as cycling in general. The work is as fine as the printer's art can make it, and gives much useful information. Visitors to the exhibit can obtain copies of this catalogue on request. "The Victor" fully deserves its high reputation for the reason that it is made with as much skill and care as the finest piece of mechanism. The vast factories built by the Messrs. Overman were intended expressly and solely for its manufacture, and with the express object in view of turning out the best and highest grade bicycles in the world.

Frank Hall returned to Washington Saturday. His wife went with him as far as Oberlin, O., where she will visit friends.

Miss Nora Cairnes, of Schoolcraft, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Fred. Shepard, and her brother Elsworth, in this place.

A party of six of our local wheelmen took a trip to Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor last Sunday. They enjoyed a pleasant ride and appeared little the worse for wear.

Chas. Wylie, of west Tecumseh, who has been confined to his bed for the greater part of the last year, is so much improved as to be to out, and rode to town, Monday, for the first in nine months.

The Fayette Normal University has a novel and attractive advertisement in another column. If you are interested in schools, you should not fail to write for souvenir and catalogue of this institution.

William R. Bresie, of Decatur, Ill., is spending a few days with his mother and looking after the farm and other interests left by his father. We like to shake and chat with Billy and hope to see him often in our village.

A gang of six men arrived in town Tuesday morning for the purpose of rebuilding the telephone line between this place and a point three miles south. They are working under the supervision of the Telephone and Telegraph Construction Company.

E. F. Kirchgessner has concluded to retain the Telephone business and arrangements have been made changing the wires from the old to his new store and a neat office for the accommodation of the public, constructed in the rear part of it. Lamont Rowland will do the Hello-ing.

Communion services will be held in the Presbyterian church, next Sunday morning, conducted by Rev. W. H. Babbitt. Service preparatory to communion at 2:30 on Saturday. Children may be presented for baptism at the opening of this service. The session will meet at its close and will be happy to receive applications for membership either by certificate on profession.

For the past four years the Chicago office of the Slayton Lyceum Bureau has been under the direction of H. L. Buker and L. B. Fuller. Both men have now retired and have no connection with it. Mr. H. L. Slayton, who established the Bureau twenty years ago and for fifteen years of wise management won the confidence of the whole country, has returned for New York and taken upon himself the whole control of its affairs.

The News suggested last week that there be public watering places put in on the streets, now that the town had an abundant supply of water. The idea is a splendid one, and while you are at it put a fountain in military square and trim the grass once in a while. The park has fine large shade trees and every advantage to make it pleasant and if properly taken care of, would be a pleasure to people in general instead of a resort for a few beer guzzlers.

During our visit at Detroit last week at the Press Association, Miss Loana Stacy enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. W. P. Smalledge who makes her home with her son Frank, on Jefferson Ave. Mrs. Smalledge was quite ill several days last spring but has now fully recovered her health. Owing to the fact that our time was so fully taken up with meetings of the association we found it impossible to make several other calls which we would gladly have done.

A historic relic of Michigan in the war was destroyed at Lansing on the evening preceding the 4th. A large cannon standing on the capitol lawn, was blown into fragments by some careless celebrators. How it happened is not known, but the supposition is that a cannon fire-cracker or dynamite cartridge was dropped into the muzzle and exploded. The accident if such it was is all the more deplorable as the the gun belonged to the famous Loomis battery which played an important part during the war in the hands of the Coldwater Light Artillery. The guns were afterward donated to Michigan.

This year with its water works, and its electric railway franchise, is one in which poople are particularly interested in the proceedings of the common council. But they are not gratified. They therefore, drop, all sprawled out, upon the local papers with an inquiry something like this: "Why in the name of common sense, (they don't always use that phrase but one just as expressive,) don't you publish the council proceedings; there hasn't been a report made in months, what's your paper for anyway?" To all such we would say, that we are unable to go to the expense of hiring a special reporter, and that as long as we can obtain a copy of the workings of the council in no other way we will be compelled to omit them.

We have just received the announcement of the Michigan and Ohio Band Association, to be held in Hudson, on Thursday, Aug. 17. Hudson is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the visiting bands, and will leave nothing undone which will contribute to the day's pleasure. Excursion rates will be given for that day on both the Lake Shore and Macinaw roads. It is urged upon every band to make an immediate acceptance of Hudson's invitation, so that arrangements for sending the music can be completed.

Upon an invitation from their captain W. H. Hayden, Co. C held their business meeting at his home, Tuesday evening, instead of at their armory parlors. Cap. never forgets that there's two sides to a man and so he had procured for inside nourishment, a supply of ice cream, which the company defeated in a very short space of time. An important business meeting was then held, the object of which will be made known later on. The boys spent on enjoyable evening and on leaving gave three, rousing cheers for their host, and dispersed.

Col. John E. Tyrell who was suspended from the colonelcy of the 1st. infantry last week, for saying that he was not in favor of a camp at Brighton, and that he would grant a leave of absence to any man in his command who wished to attend the World's Fair, and would use his influence to get the other Colonels to do the same, has been reinstated. Col. Tyrell has worked hard for an encampment at Chicago, and when his plans were overturned by blundering authorities, he forgot himself for the time and expressed his opinions. He is very popular with the boys in blue on account of his labors in their behalf, and his suspension was doubtless due to feelings of jealousy entertained by some of his superiors.

If any one has any idea of getting on a rousing old drunk, for the sake of humanity don't come to this village to do it, for in case of getting put in the cooler (and a more inappropriate name for the thing, couldn't be imagined,) an officer's conscience would drive him crazy when he thought of his victim. Any person who can survive twelve hours in a place which smells like a flourishing menagerie, with no light and less ventilation, with the theremometer playing pitch and toss with the nineties, must have a constitution like a horse. Let us appeal to you, "village dads" to punch a two-inch auger hole, or even two of 'em, in the partition for permanent ventilation, and sulphur or chloride of lime are quite inexpensive.

The coming issue of Harper's Weekly will contain illustrations of the Silver Vaults at the United States Treasury, Washington. Mr. George W. Childs has contributed a valuable article on the death of Mr. A. J. Drexel, his life-long friend, which is accompanied by a portrait of Mr. Drexel. There is also a page illustration giving views of the proposed new National Park at Mount Tacoma. A full-page picture of the Fourth of July crowd on their way to the Fair Grounds, and another page of views at the great Harvard Yale boat-race, are timely subjects. The fiction of the number is composed of two short stories, "A Maid of the Nineteenth Parallel" and "The Lost Sixpence," besides another installment of the entertaining Chicago novel, "The Cliff Dwellers."

Dr. J. Gore Galleher will be at the Lilley House, Thursday and Friday July 27 and 28. See his ad for particulars.

Mr. and Mrs. John Griswold, of London, Monroe Co., who came here to attend the funeral of Geo. Griswold, last week, have been detained by sickness for several days at the home of Mrs. Griswold's mother, Mrs. Jno. Bangs.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup [illegible]ly, whose name is printed on every [illegible]ge, also the name, Syrup of Figs. [illegible]eing well informed, you will not [illegible]t any substitute if offered.

WHY ARE WHEELER & WILSON'S "No. 9" SEWING MACHINES POPULAR?

BECAUSE LADIES BUY THEM LIKE THEM AND TELL THEIR FRIENDS.

Many ladies have used our machines twenty to thirty years in their family work, and are still using the original machines we furnished them a generation ago. Many of our machines have run more than twenty years without repairs, other than needles. With proper care they never wear out, and seldom need repair.

We have built sewing machines for more than forty years and have constantly improved them. We build our machines on honor, and they are recognized everywhere as the most accurately fitted and finely finished sewing machines in the world. Our latest, the "No. 9," is the result of our long experience. In competition with the leading machines of the world, it received the Grand Prize at the Paris Exposition of 1889, as the best, other machines receiving only complimentary medals of gold, silver and bronze. The Grand Prize was what all sought for, and our machine was awarded it.

THE IRISH VILLAGES.

Two Interesting Shows at the World's Fair.

LOCATED IN MIDWAY PLAISANCE.

One Village Under the Superintendency of Lady Aberdeen and the Other of Mrs. Alice Hart—Blarney Castle With the Blarney Stone and Donegal Castle Reproduced—Bonny Irish Lassies.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 7.—[Special.]—There are two shows on the Midway plaisance which are not only interesting in themselves but worthy our attention and support because they are something more than mere private speculations. These are the two Irish villages, established here incidentally to show the progress that has been made in handiwork among the poor people of Ireland under the patronage of two associations, and more directly to earn a little money to help along that work of industrial education where it is so much needed and where it is doing so much good. Quaint and picturesque are the two villages, and they adorn the always interesting landscape of the World's fair as no other structures here do. One has for its principal entrance a reproduction of a part of the noted ruins of ecclesiastical buildings which stand on the rock of Cashel in county Tipperary, with Blarney castle as another attraction. The other building has as its chief architectural adornment a reproduction of Donegal castle. Its entrance is a great feudal gate with tower, and both villages, with their heavy walls and battlements, and their collections of peasants' houses with thatched roofs and walls of turf, carry the visitor over both sea and time.

The first of these villages, the one with Blarney castle, stands near the entrance to the plaisance, and is perhaps the more popular of the two. It was founded by Lady Aberdeen, as president of the Irish Industry association, which has been in existence now some seven years and which in that time has taught thousands of poor Irish boys and girls how to work to best advantage with their hands. It has organized the working people of many counties, and taught them lace-making, dairy-farming, basket-making, wood-carving, shirt-making, knitting, weaving and many other trades. Moreover, it has helped the workers to find a market for their products, and has now two large stores, one in London and the other in Dublin, handling exclusively the handiwork of the pupils and dependents of the association. These stores are not only self-supporting, but last year were able to turn over to the association a profit of $25,000, and this money was used in extending the organization so as to give a much larger number of needy people the benefits of its teaching and help.

The other village, known as the Drogheda castle, was built by Mrs. Alice Hart, for a similar purpose. Ten years ago two English women journeyed through parts of Ireland expressly to observe the condition of the people. They traveled not by railway, but by the familiar jaunting cart, which passed through the highways and stopped at the doors of the houses and humble homes of the poor. They saw so much poverty and suffering, so much willingness to work if only the opportunity could be found, so much heroism and self-sacrifice and at the same time so many deft fingers that could work to good advantage if they had but the chance, that the hearts of the English women were touched and they resolved to do what they could, be it much or little, to ameliorate the condition of those unhappy people. They returned to London, organized an association, sought assistance and found it, and speedily opened schools and factories and arranged for markets. In ten years they have been able to put thousands of idle hands to work and to bring peace and comfort into homes where poverty and hopelessness formerly reigned.

These Irish villages are so much alike that to describe one of them is to describe both. Taking the one nearest the gate, we pay a quarter for a ticket which admits us to everything in the enclosure. First we enter a charming reproduction of far-famed Muckross abbey. Here the cloisters are cool, the grass grows green in the church yard, a tree stands within, and one's thoughts are of the graves and the heroes of bygone days. But the Irish village is nothing if not practical, and the visitor must not linger long in the cloisters. There is much else to see. Emerging from these sacred precincts one finds himself confronted by an array of real Irish cottages in which the inhabitants of this busy little community ply their industries.

Here is one large room which takes us across the sea to the shores of the Emerald isle. There is a turf-fire in the chimney, and over it hangs the potato pot. The bare wood floor is scrupulously clean. Neatness but not luxury are visible everywhere. In one corner, near a latticed window, sits Ellen Aher, who was trained at the Presbyterian convent of Youghal to make the fine needle point lace which is perhaps the most admired of all the products of Ireland. She works as fast as she can from early morning till late at night, but is unable to supply the demand. Near by Kate Kennedy illustrates the making of applique lace as it is done in the cottage homes of Carrickmacross, and Mary Flynn, a little farther along, is hard at work upon the fine crochet stuff made by the poor women in the vicinity of Clones, County Monaghan, and already well known and much admired in America. Ellie Murphy, one of the bonniest of the many bonny Irish lasses in the village, shows how the pretty light Limerick lace is made, which is fast regaining its old-time popularity since Mrs. Vere O'Brien and other ladies and gentlemen have made efforts to improve the designs.

The Irish girls are so fresh of face, so winsome of manner and yet so earnest in their work that one dislikes to pass on, but there are many more cottages awaiting inspection. In the next one Bridget McGinley hums an Irish ditty as she makes her old-fashioned wheel sing also as it works, turning out the wool for Patrick Fagan from Donegal to weave into those delightful homespuns whose merits have been appreciated of late years by fashionable folk as well as by the sportsman and athlete. Maggie Dennehy, buxom and smiling, sits near by plying her knitting needles, and showing how Miss Fitzgerald, one of the association teachers, taught the poor women of Valencia island, County Kerry, to earn their own living.

There are people who do not like buttermilk, but if they wish to overcome their distaste for it my advice to them is to visit the dairy in the Irish village and take a glass of the cooling beverage from the rosy hands of Johanna Doherty, Kate Barry or Maria Connolly, the three dairymaids. These girls were taught the art of buttermaking—which is a real art—in the Munster Dairy school, an excellent institution near Cork, where all branches of scientific agriculture are taught, to the great benefit of the people. In the dairy you may have not only buttermilk but may purchase pretty little pats of butter to eat with your luncheon on the tables which are waiting for you in the cool and shady court near by. While you are eating a pair of lusty Irish boys come out upon the stage or platform in the center of the court, and give you an hour of refreshing amusement. Jimmy Touhy plays the pipes and Patrick Brannigan, the crack jig-dancer of the South of Ireland, rattles off some very clever jigs. Willie Roche, smooth-faced and bright-eyed, as all these Irish boys are, comes out and sings—

I am an Irish boy, my heart is full of joy,
I owe my birth to famous Limerick city,
I can handle well the twig or flitter an Irish jig.
And give you stave of any Irish ditty.

Willie Roche is the finest singer in Ballynookeava. Miss Josephine Sullivan is a noted harpist in the Emerald isle, and she often brings tears to the eyes of those who sit here in Tara's hall, an excellent reproduction which serves as a music hall for the village, and plays the sweetly patriotic airs of the old sod.

There are many other industries which we have not seen yet, and having finished our luncheon and heard the music and singing we pass on to see Mary Fagan make torchon lace on a pillow, and to watch Mary Cosgrove doing her pretty embroidery. The latter is from Bagnalstown, where Mrs. Edward Ponsonby has founded a school for the teaching of this art. In another cottage, with its quaint, old-fashioned furniture and open roof, a great collection of Irish photographs is kept for sale at reasonable prices. The bog-oak bazaar is quite interesting. You will be surprised when you come here to see the immense variety of pretty articles which the nimble fingers of the Irish boys have turned out from this material. I can think of no better souvenirs of the exposition than these carvings of the oak of the bog land, and there is the sweet consciousness that every penny you spend here will go to lighten the day for some needy people in that unfortunate land.

Now we have come to Blarney castle. There is no additional admission fee, as there would be in any of the purely speculative show-villages which possessed such an attraction. We walk up and around the spiral stairway a seemingly interminable hight, and finally emerge on the roof overlooking the battlements of the castle and "all Ireland" spread out below. At one side a green rug has been thrown down on the floor, and there, set low and deep in the white wall of the castle we see a small, dark stone, about as big as a man's head. It is a piece of the genuine old blarney stone, famous in song and story. By its side sits a small Irish lad, clad in corduroy homespun, and his business it is to receive the dimes of the visitors who may wish to kiss the stone. He is a glum little fellow, who evidently has been chaffed so much, and compelled to answer so many questions, that he is tired. He has little to say, but is always ready to receive the bright silver pieces, and a steady stream of the white metal passes through his eager fingers into his green-lined pockets.

Over the blarney stone is an inscription which reads:

This is the stone that whoever kisses
He never misses to grow eloquent.
A clever spouter he'll turn out,
Or an out-an-outer in parliament.

And below is a tablet on which has been cut these words:

BLARNEY STONE.

This stone of world-wide renown was placed in position and dedicated to the Irish-Americans of the United States by the Hon. Carter H. Harrison, Mayor of Chicago, June 17, 1893.

Ten cents each person to kiss the blarney stone. And the people do kiss the blarney stone. From $50 to $80 dollars a day is the size of the pile taken in by the boy in the homespun. The women kiss it, too, though in order to do so they are compelled to get down on their hands and knees and stick their noses into a sort of a crevice in the wall a foot below the level of the floor. But even this is not as hard as kissing the original stone in Blarney castle, for there, they say, you have to be held over the top of the wall by your heels.

ROBERT GRAVES.

FIVE PERISHED.

Terrible Result of the Burning of a Residence Near Gagetown.

Struck by Lightning While the Inmates Slept—Five of Them Are Burned to Death—A Young Lady Severely Injured.

A SAD STORY.

GAGETOWN, July 6.—During an electrical storm Tuesday night lightning struck the house of A. Roberts, 4 miles northeast of here, and destroyed the building, and five of the occupants were burned to death, one other slightly and one perhaps fatally. Mr. Roberts' daughter, her husband and child, of Fostoria, were here on a visit to see a young man named George Frost from Silverwood, this county. The whole party had been to Cass City to celebrate the Fourth and returned about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning. After the boys had exploded a few firecrackers all retired.

About 3 o'clock Wesley Roberts was awakened by the bedclothes being on fire and burning his hair. He and his brother and Mr. Frost slept upstairs. Jumping out of a window Wesley ran to his father's bedroom, aroused him and got his father, mother and one sister out by pulling them through the window. In the meantime his other brother and sister managed to get out, but A. E. Babcock, his wife and child, who slept in another room, were stunned by the lightning or suffocated by the smoke, and were consumed with the building.

The five persons who perished are: A. E. Babcock, Mrs. A. E. Babcock and their 2-year-old child, all of Fostoria; George Frost, of Silverwood, and a son of Mr. Roberts, 7 years old. Nothing is left of the five unfortunates but the charred trunks of their bodies, and it is a sickening sight. The death of Mr. Babcock, wife and child, takes the whole of that family.

Miss Hannah Roberts is thought to be fatally burned. Both her hands and arms are cooked to the elbows, and Dr. Lyman, the attending physician, thinks she inhaled flame and is internally burned. Mr. Roberts, his wife and one girl and his son Wesley, who saved his parents, escaped without much injury.

There is only one theory as to the cause of this terrible accident. It was during the rain and thunder storm that was prevailing early Wednesday morning. Lightning struck the house and set it on fire. The inmates returning late, worn out by the day's tramp, probably never aroused and were suffocated long before the flames reached them. This does not apply to Mr. Frost, who, it is supposed, tried to rescue Mr. Babcock and his wife, and was overcome by the heat and smoke.

FORCED TO SUSPEND.

Heavy Withdrawals of Funds Cause the Northern National Bank at Big Rapids to Close.

BIG RAPIDS, July 9.—Saturday morning the Northern national bank of this city failed to open its doors, and a notice on the entrance informed the public that "Owing to the continuous heavy drain on its funds the bank has been closed by order of the board of directors, who feel confident that the depositors will be paid in full." Within a few days upwards of $90,000 has been withdrawn, and the bank, being unable to negotiate paper that is said to be good, concluded to close its doors. It is impossible to get any figures of assets and liabilities, but while the failure is considered serious no run has been made on the other banks and the general belief is that depositors will get their money in due time. The May statement of the bank showed upwards of $300,000 in deposits. Examiner Caldwell has been ordered to take charge of the bank.

Convicted on False Testimony.

LANSING, July 8.—V. O. Harrison, who has done nearly two years of a ten years' sentence to state's prison for incest, was pardoned by Gov. Rich Friday, the basis for the pardon being the affidavit of his alleged victim that her testimony given at the trial was forced from her by her aunt, who was her father's bitter enemy, and was false in every detail.

A New Publication.

LANSING, July 7.—L. M. Miller, chief clerk of the late house of representatives, will soon commence the publication of a semi-monthly journal, to be called "State Affairs." It will deal with transactions of the state government, the laws of the state and the judicial interpretation of them by the supreme court, and state politics.

Will Sell No More Liquors.

LANSING, July 8.—Gov. Rich has issued orders abolishing the system of canteens for the sale of liquor by the state which was in full blast at the annual encampments of the national guard during the Winans' administration and which was almost universally protested against by the better class of citizens.

Suspected of Murder.

MENOMINEE, July 6.—With a crushed skull and other marks of violence on his body, Joe Nelson was found dead in his bed at Carney. Nelson had for some time been employed by John Bloomquist, and the latter was arrested on suspicion. He is now in jail awaiting examination.

Killed in a Runaway.

EVART, July 6.—A fatal accident occurred just north of here. The team of David Severs, of Hartwick township, while being driven by his wife and child became frightened and ran away, throwing Mrs. Severs to the ground, causing injuries from which she died.

Poison in the Veal.

BATTLE CREEK, July 6.—All the members of a family named Bird, living in the northern part of the city, were seriously poisoned by eating veal. All recovered but the youngest, a boy of 6 years. He died in terrible agony.

A LEADER.

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. J. J. Orr, druggist.

"What's the name of your new boat?" "I named it Bridget, after the cook, because it made such heavy rolls.

Baldness is often preceded or accompanied by grayness of the hair. To prevent both baldness and grayness, use Hall's Hair Renewer, an honest remedy.

Treetop—In the big stores I was in they seemed to expect me to stand on my head.

Hayrick—Did they ask you?

Treetop—Not exactly; but every time I tried to get in the elevator the boy shut the door and said, "Other side up, please."

FELL DEAD.

These words are very familiar to our readers, as not a day passes without the report of the sudden death of some prominent citizen. The explanation is "Heart Disease." Therefore beware if you have any of the following symptoms: short breath, pain in side, smothering Spells, swollen ankles, asthmatic breathing, weak and hungry spells Tenderness in shoulder or arm, fluttering of heart or irregular pulse. These symptoms mean heart disease. The most reliable remedy is Dr. Miles' New Heart cure, which has saved thousands of lives. Book of testimonials free at Baker and Halls.

VanArndt—And so you are to be married. Who's the lucky one?

Miss Highheels—Give it up. Ask me a year from now.

Helen—I do think that man I stood in front of in the car must have been a perfect brute.

Nettie—Why, dear?

Helen—I stood on his feet for twenty minutes and he didn't have manners enough to offer me his seat.

TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM

Effectually yet gently, when costive or billious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys or liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds or fevers use Syrup of Figs.

"Do you know of an opening for me?" inquired the college gratnate. "Ain't the reg'lar bars wide enough?" rejoined his father, gesturing eloquently in the direction of the cornfield.

You may rest nights if you will take "Adironda." Wheeler's heart and nerve cure. It contains no Opium or Morphine.

German Student—I know dose scars my face on look not pretty, but I proud of them am, I get them in duels.

American Student—Huh! Wait till you see some of our football champions.

Regular features of every "wash day" are clothes torn, twisted and rubbed out of shape; and an aching back. You can't have any of these if you use Pearline. It cleans the house or hands, as well as it washes clothes. It injures nothing except dirt. Your heart will be heavy 'till you get it; your labor will be light when you have it.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. 222 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieves all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick

Do mothers realize that the tables of mortality show that one-third of all the children born, die before the age of five years. Of these, fully one-half die of Stomach and Bowel Troubles. These troubles prevail worse during hot weather, caused by unripe fruit, change of water or food, improper action of the digestive organs, etc. They are liable and frequent during the whole period of infancy, often very quick in fatality. Every mother should have the remedy, Brant's Extract of Blackberry, at hand for prompt use. Warranted reliable. Directions simple. 25 cents of J. J. Orr, Tecumseh.

"What's the matter?" said the roundsman. "Hi hev a loud an' boisterous tooth," replied the officer. "As a good policeman yez ought to find no trouble makin' up yer moind phat to do wid it." "Phat?" "Hov it pulled."

A Horrible Creamation.

At 1:30 Monday p m. fire was discovered in the dome of a wooden building situated just outside the World's Fair grounds, owned by the Hercules Iron Co., of Chicago, and used as a cold storeage warehouse and ice skating rink. The fire at first seemed but a small affair, but was high up on the dome, some 200 feet above the ground. The firemen were soon on the roof and hauling up the hose; the work was slow and hazardous, and the flames high above them. Suddenly without warning fire burst out below the place where they were standing, cutting off all means of escape, except to jump to the roof below, a clear drop of 90 feet. As the fire closed in on them they one by one, took the fearful leap until a single man remained. As he prepared to jump, the dome fell carrying him down into the fiery furnace below. A number of persons thinking to be of service, rushed into the building at the alarm of fire, and were caught by the falling timbers and perished. In a short space of time nothing but a smoking mass of ruins remained of the large structure. Several other buildings caught fire but were promptly extinguished, the wind from the lake probably saving the main buildings. As soon as the fire abated sufficiently the work of recovering the dead bodies of the victims began and at 6:30 the first one was found. Up to this time 18 persons are known to have perished in the flames and 19 are severely injured. Of the dead but few are recognizable being burned to a cinder. A number of the Columbian Guards are unaccounted for, and it is feared they were also victims, but their Captains yet have hope that they will put in an appearance. As soon as the extent of the calamity was known, a subscription was started for the benefit of the dead firemen's families. A box strongly guarded was placed in front of the Philadelphia cafe, and was soon showered with coin and bills from the thousands in sympathy with the bereaved friends of the victims.

A conscientious woman will keep a secret though she has to call on a half dozen personal friends for assistance.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Monday, the twenty-sixth day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

Present, Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of John N. Gordon, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Eugenie H. Gordon, executrix of the last will and testament and upon the estate of said deceased, allowing that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred have been fully paid, and that she is now ready to render her first annual account and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed according to the terms of the will, and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper,

It is ordered, that Monday, the 24th day of July next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendancy of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

IN THE MATTER of the Estate of William Breale, deceased.

The undersigned, having been appointed by the Probate Court of said County Commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands against the estate of said deceased, do hereby give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the office of Charles Burridge, in the village of Tecumseh, Lenawee county, Michigan, on the 12th day of August, 1893, and on the 5th day of December, 1893, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of each of said days. And that six months from the 5th day of June, A. D. 1893, are allowed by said probate court for the creditors of said estate to present their claims to us for examination and allowance.

Dated July 6, 1893,

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

Read What DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN Have Done.

"At 14 years of age I learned a bad habit which almost ruined me. I became nervous and weak. My back troubled me. I could stand no exertion. Head and eyes became dull. Dreams and drains at night weakened me. I tried seven Medical Firms, Electric Belts, Patent Medicines and Family Doctors. They gave me no help. A friend advised me to try Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. They sent me one month's treatment and it cured me. I could feel myself gaining every day. Their New Method Treatment cures when all else fails." They have cured many of my friends."

Cured 5 years ago. Capt. Townsend.

CURES GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

"Some 8 years ago I contracted a serious constitutional blood disease. I went to Hot Springs to treat for syphilis. Mercury almost killed me. After a while the symptoms again appeared. Throat became sore, pains in limbs, pimples on face, blotches, eyes red, loss of hair, glands enlarged, etc. A medical friend advised Drs. Kennedy & Kergan's New Method Treatment. It cured me, and I have had no symptoms for five years. I am married and happy. As a doctor, I heartily recomend it to all who have this terrible disease—syphilis." It will eradicate the poison from the blood."

LLEY HOUSE, Tecumseh, Mich.

Thursday and Friday, July 27 and 28.

TWO DAYS ONLY.

NSULTATION AND EXAMINATIONS FREE.

If you are interested in the condition of your eyes, call on the noted Dr. Galleher. He is an expert in his profession. Eyesight is precious—more valuable than any other of the special senses. The Doctor has treated in the last 12 months more than 3,500 cases of all forms of eye trouble and errors of refractions, such as Glaucoma, Ulceration of the Cornea, Granulation of the lids, Presbyopia, Paralysis of Accomodation, Spasm of Accomodation, Hypermetrobia, Aphakia, Myopia, Astigmatism, Anisometropia, Strabismus, Diplopia, Asthenopia, etc. Have you ever stopped to think how many people in this world are blind from their own negligence and carelessness in not giving their eyes attention at the proper time? You now have the opportunity of consulting one who gives all his time in treating cronic eye trouble. Thousands of persons in this world that do not use glasses that should, then again there are thousands of persons using gasses they think suited to their eyes, but the truth of the matter is, the glasses do not correct the trouble, but aggravate it and produce headache, spots before the eyes, inflamation, granulation, winking, trembling spells, various nerve and brain affections, cattracts, burning and smarting of the eyes, etc.; entailing not only positive injury to the sight, but untold misery and blindness. Dr. Galleher makes examinations that few in this country can make. He has instruments with which he can examine every and fibre in the inside of the eye. He can tell you in an instant after examining your whether he can benefit you or not, and will truthfully say so. It should be understood that alleher is well known throughout the Eastern States as a practical and successful electrionhe invented some of the finest electrical appliances ever imported to this country. Remem- at Dr. Galleher does not give one drop of medicine. He is the only man in America who has clusive sale of Dr. Edgar Scott's Positive Catarrh Cure. An instrument put up of compress- medicated gasses, which is Dr. S's. own invention. Dr. Galleher also has appliances which move a tape worm in from two to four hours or no charges made Testimonials of the best in this country at his room at the hotel. Call early and secure convenient hours for free tation and examination.

Another Fatal Visitation.

Last Saturday, about noon, one of the worst electrical storms experienced in these parts in a long time occurred. Just as the storm was at its height Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Powell and 4 year old son, living in the Guerney district in Adrian township, were about to sit down to their noonday meal. Suddenly there was a blinding flash and all three were prostrated. Mr. Powell and the child soon recovered but Mrs. Powell was beyond human aid. In the hope that there might be some chance of life a messenger was hurried to Adrian and Dr. Logue hastened to the scene but found her services could avail nothing. The bolt struck the chimney in the upright, followed the sitting room ceiling to the kitchen door, and from there glanced across the kitchen and out of the rear door, tearing away the screen door in its course and then entered the ground. The chimney was demolished, the plastering torn off and the house itself took fire, but was extinguished before doing much damage. Not a mark was visible on the person of the victim except the hair being slightly singed.

Mrs. Powell was the daughter of Charles Armstrong, was 29 years of age, and had been married about five years. The three persons mentioned constituted the little family now so sorely bereaved.

PENTECOST POINTERS.

Miss Tiny Ellis, of Monroe county, is visiting relatives here.

Charles Tyson is dressing up his home in a new coat af paint.

Every cottage at Sand Lake is said to be occupied now, while some are camping in tents.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boyd, of Marquette county, came Monday on a visit to friends here and were met by the sad news of a sister's death.

A party of 21 pleasure seekers from the Hoosier State arrived at Sand Lake last week. Landlord Putnam must be kept pretty busy looking after his crowd of guests.

A severe storm of wind, rain, hail and lightning passed over a part of Cambridge and Franklin Sunday afternoon, but so far we have not learned of any serious damage done.

Mrs. Augusta Boyd-Card passed to a better world last Sabbath afternoon, after months of suffering. A husband and one son survive her. Within a short time Mr. Card has lost both his daughters and now the stricken home mourns the loss of the wife and mother. They have the earnest sympathy of all in their terrible affliction.

What is pleasanter than to sit in a cool, shady porch and read the HERALD'S delightfully interesting gossip, anent the World's Fair, and study its graceful and artistic sketches of the most noteworthy scenes and people, with no harrowing fear of glass domes crashing down on one's head by day, or of being grilled in some seventeenth-story "seven-by-nine" room at night.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

Aunt Anne Allen has a new horse.

Seth Simmons has purchased a McCormick binder.

Mrs. McCook is with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Marshall.

The orchestra meets for practice at Seth Simmons' Saturday night.

Lightning struck a wheat shock on Mr. Gove's farm Saturday, burning it to the ground.

A lyceum picnic at Wampler's Lake Saturday, Aug. 12. No fuss; just fun, basket dinner, roller-skating, boating, etc.

Mrs. Ann Stephens, of Ohio, has moved into Jack Hooten's house and is prepared to do weaving. Her son, Howard Deming, arrived here last week.

Mrs. Ernest Wisner, of Nebraska, is visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins, of Tipton. Miss Grace Wisner, of the same place, is visiting here with relatives and friends.

Quite a sensation was created late one night last week by the report that Horace Wilcox's little boy was lost. He had been to a neighbor's that afternoon, a mile from home, and nothing had been heard of him since that time. A party was at once organized and a long but unsuccessful search instituted. Late in the night the child entered his home, having been hiding in the woodhouse. The small young man was put under bonds not to run away the next day.

Charles Dunham, of Kansas City, Mo. was calling on old friends here Monday. Thirty-two years ago he left here to work as brakeman on a railroad. He worked on Jay Gould's roads for fourteen years. He returns as president of a new road that is building in the Southwest. Time has dealt lightly and fortune lavishly with him. His wife and daughter accompanied him to Adrian and have returned to the World's Fair, while he goes to Dayton, Ohio, on business connected with his road.

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

Will be of value to the world by illustrating the improvements in the mechanical arts and eminent physicians will tell you that the progress in medicinal agents has been of equal importance, and as a strengthening laxative that Syrup of Figs is far in advance of all others.

This is the season when the mixed drink and the mixed drinker are involved.

JACKSON PARK,
July 11, 1893.

Some time ago we started on a trip through the exposition. The Transportation building was our starting point and some of the interesting things to be seen there were mentioned in my last letter.

To-day we will see some of the things overlooked before.

Entering the building by the "Golden Gate," the main entrance on the east, we find ourselves gazing at the model of a curious looking ship. Many people think it is a Chinese Junk and indeed it does look very much like the pictures of those vessls which appeared in the geographies of my school days. The model represents the flag ship of Columbus, the Santa Maria. Just in the rear of this, is a boat still in the frame in which it was shipped. It looks as if it had seen hard service and in places is begining to show decay. A card informs the visitor that this is the boat used by Grace Darling and her father in the life-saving exploits which have made Grace Darling a familiar name in all our country.

Along the outside aisle towards the north end is an exhibit of the Hickory Wheel Co. A trotting sulky is the chief attraction here and hundreds of people stop to look at it. Is is a hickory wheel pneumatic tire sulky and a placard bears the inscription, "This is the sulky before which Nancey Hanks trotted when she broke the record."

Up in the north east corner one finds some curious old vehicles. The Jin Rika Sha from Japan compares very favorably with the others. The Spanish Volante is drawn by two horses hitched tandem. The carriages owned and used by ex-president Polk and by Daniel Webster reminded me of one I have seen in W. H. Osborn's barnyard in Macon and were probably in use about the same time. The entire north end of the main building and the annex is devoted to the vehicle display.

Near the center of the building just north and west of the elevators is the exhibit of T. W. Cook & Son, London, Eng. They have a minature model of the Temple of Luksor, an Egyptian temple of worship built 220 years B. C. An old Egyptian in native costume explains the religious ceremonies of that time to crowds of interested listeners.

On the east side of the annex south of the middle is the "general" a locomotive of historic interest. It is the one used by the Andrews raiders for that fatal ride in April, 1861.

The average visitor can hardly fail to be interested in the Transportation building.

At another time we will continue our trip through some of the other buildings. Attendance at the fair does not yet come up to the expectations of the management. There are two reasons for this, the high rates maintained by the railroads and the Sunday opening question. There is no doubt but the open Sunday fair is the cause of a boycott on the part of thousands of people who would otherwise attend.

The Sunday attendance in very light and does not in any way interfere with the business of the saloons and fake shows. Time will not permit the mention of the many interesting events which have happened since my last letter.

The celebration of the Fourth was the biggest thing in its way that the exposition has seen. The grounds were crowded with over 300,000 people and very many were disappointed and tired out before reaching home that night. It was impossible ta hear the music or the speaking or to get a place to sit down, except on the ground, after 3 p. m. The fire works which had been advertised to last from 8 to 11 p. m., lasted 45 minutes and were not more elaborate than some we had seen before.

By the time this letter reaches the readers of the HERALD they will all have heard of the terrible fire of yesterday afternoon in which over a score of unfortunate men lost their lives.

Shortly after one o'clock fire broke out in the tower of the cold storage building, just south of the 64th street gate and despite the efforts of the fire department the building was completely burned with the exposition barn which stood near the south end.

The killed and injured men were nearly all firemen, a few were Columbian Guards, and several were men employed in the building. Complete returns of the lost cannot yet be had as many were burned to ashes and buried beneath the ruins. It was an awful sight and will not be soon forgotten by those who chanced to see it.

I have had pleasant visit with a number of Lenawee people lately. J. D. Martin and wife, of Macon, spent a week here taking in the sights and the Misses Mary, Jennie and Phoebe Osgood, of Macon, and Clara Temple, of Ridgeway, left for home last Friday after a two weeks stay. They were entertained while here by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Osgood, formerly of Britton. Elmer is now in the hardware business at South Englewood. I will close for this time and go and see if the Editor of the HERALD has registered yet at the Michigan State building.

SCENES OF ANIMATION

At the Great World's Fair Terminal Station.

ARRIVAL OF EXCURSION TRAINS.

Only a Few of the Railways Make Use of the Magnificent Station, the Main Shed of Which Has Thirty-six Tracks Side by Side—Compared with Other Railway Stations.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 14.—[Special.]—Now the railroads are beginning to run trains into the World's fair railway station. Every day there are scenes of animation in this great building, as the loads of passengers disembark and pass through the gates into the fair. You may not know it, but the World's fair has one of the finest passenger stations in the world. They built it in the expectation that nearly all the roads leading into Chicago would be glad of the opportunity to run their trains into it and there to discharge their passengers. But this expectation proved to be poorly founded. Only a few of the roads have been willing to use the station. The reason therefor is obvious, and the wonder is the managers of the exposition did not see it in time to save themselves the enormous outlay. Only those roads which enter the city somewhere near the fair grounds can afford to run their trains to this terminal instead of to their regular stations. Take, for example, the Milwaukee and St. Paul road. If it were to attempt to run its excursion trains to the World's fair entrance its passengers would have to wait two hours and a half after arriving in the city before they could enter the gates of the exposition, for that is the time which would be required to run a train from the Union railway station, where the St. Paul comes in, to the fair.

How much do you suppose this railway station at the World's fair and the system of tracks leading to it cost? More than $600,000. It is a tremendous station. It is colossal in dimensions, magnificent in design and unrivalled in the conveniences which it affords to the people who make use of it. Compare it with the greatest railway stations in the country, the Pennsylvania at Jersey City or Broad street, Philadelphia, the New York Central at Forty-second street, New York, the Grand Central station in Chicago, and the World's fair station surpasses them all. Where those structures have eight or ten tracks each for the handling of trains, the World's fair train shed has thirty-six tracks side by side. The system of rails entering the southwest corner of the grounds and converging in this station is like a great fan of steel spread out over the landscape. Moreover, the system is provided with all modern appliances of signals and blocks for handling trains with celerity and safety. The plant therefore becomes not only a convenience for practical use but a splendid exhibit of the development of modern railroading.

Suppose you come to the fair by a train which enters this magnificent station. The cars stop under a shed, where the platforms are very long and surprisingly clean. A short walk brings you to the fence which separates the platforms from the station proper. Here a surprising scene awaits your eye. Here are forty ticket offices for sale of tickets to the fair, for you must remember that the other side of the fence is the Columbian exposition and that you must pay 50 cents for the privilege of entering the precincts of the world's wonders. There are no fewer than ninety-six turnstiles for you to pass through, and a great array the forty ticket windows and ninety-six turnstiles make, spread out in a long row.

Overhead you hear a rumbling sound, and some one tells you that the elevated electric railway, which runs all through the exposition grounds, passes right over the station, and near by are broad stairs leading to the platforms of that road. A few rods to the north you see the broad entrance to the elevated railway which runs from the fair to the center of the city of Chicago, eight miles away, and there are many more turnstiles and a long row of ticket windows. Just beyond is the great red Transportation building, and at its lower end you may see locomotives and snow plows, and near by the splendid exhibits made outdoors or in their special buildings by the Pennsylvania and New York Central roads. All these things bring one to a realization of the fact that this is the era of transportation, and that this is a spot in which the greatest and best that man has been able to accomplish in that line is spread out before his eyes, both for use and for illustration.

Just after passing through the turnstile you find yourself in a passage or transept that is of tremendous proportions. It is some sixty feet wide and several hundred feet in length. On one side are the entrances to and exits from the trains, and every gate is plainly marked with the name of the road using it and the destination of the train. There are check rooms where you may leave your parcels, baggage rooms in which you may have your luggage checked to any point or transferred to any address in the city, and many other conveniences.

Now you pass into the station proper. It has a great court in its center, with a roof so high above the floor that you look in vain to distinguish the details of construction at the great hight. There are galleries running all round the court, broad and airy, and these, like all the floors, are abundantly supplied with comfortable seats. There are balconies from which one may enjoy a splendid view of the fair grounds. There are restaurants, lunch rooms, cigars, newspapers, candy, telegraph offices, rest rooms where weary travelers may wait in comfort, writing rooms, lavatories, a room in which passengers may eat their home-made lunchgons, buying only coffee or whatever they like from the cafe, and many other conveniences. In the center of the ground floor is a large booth, in which men and women who speak all modern languages are constantly stationed, and the signs on this booth are "Information," "Informacione," "Informazione," "Auskunft." It doesn't matter what it is you want to know, about the fair, the trains, the city or the programme, or in what tongue you ask for it, here is where you may learn it without delay and without price.

One is instantly impressed by the cosmopolitan aspect of the station. Here you see people from all over the world. The Orientals in their fezes, the Esquimaux in their skins, the South Sea islanders in their not much to speak of, the Coreans with their bird-cage head-dress, may now and then be seen here, mixing with Americans native and transplanted (the former in their red blankets and feathers in their hair), with Germans, Frenchmen, Spaniards, Italians, Russians, Scandinavians, men from Australia, from New Zealand, Egypt, Greece, Japan and China. This air of cosmopolitanism is added to greatly by the fact that the fast express trains which run from the fair to the city without stopping now enter and depart from this station, and the officials, exhibitors, employes and showmen of the nations have frequent occasion to use these trains in going to and fro on their business.

Cosmopolitanism shows itself everywhere. If you cast your eye upward, above the great galleries surrounding the court, you will see that the walls are studded with a great number of clocks. The clocks are marked with the names of cities all over the world, and that instrument denotes the time in the city which it represents. Ninety-nine out of a hundred people who pass through this station pause to look at the international clock-race, and it doesn't matter whether they are experienced travelers who have trotted from one side of the globe to the other, or country folk who have never before been away from home. The interest is the same. Many people take out their notebooks and jot down the difference in time between some of the more prominent points, and a large number are so mixed up between the east and west differences that they have to appeal to the information bureau for assistance. They do not appeal in vain, and the young man or woman in that booth will cheerfully explain to all comers that the time for these clocks is furnished from Washington, that it comes over a telegraph wire, and that running forty clocks in this way is just as easy as to run one clock, the only point being to have the clocks and to set them right in the first place. The clock display affords a splendid object lesson in geography, and helps to familiarize one with the relative location of such cities as Jerusalem, Bombay, Victoria, Yeddo, Yokahama, Constantinople, St. Petersburg, Paris and London.

CROWDS AT THE TERMINAL STATION.

If you will come to this station some evening when there are extraordinary attractions at the fair, such as a great display of fireworks, you will see one of the finest examples of transportation of masses of people that the world is able to show. Take, for example, the Fourth of July. There were more than 300,000 people on the grounds that day. Certainly more than 200,000 of these remained to see the fireworks in the evening. About a quarter of ten o'clock the display was finished and the crowds broke for the railway trains, steamers, cable cars and other means of conveyance. It was a mighty throng that poured toward the gates. Just at that hour I happened to ride over the intramural elevated railway, from one end of the grounds to the other, and the spectacle made by that great lake of humanity pouring itself through every road way in a black surging river was most impressive.

In one hour and three-quarters the Illinois Central special express trains carried 60,000 people out of this station. Eight trains were loaded at the same instant, and on account of the construction of the cars, without aisles and every seat opening to a side entrance, the trains were loaded in a few seconds. As fast as one moved out another backed in to take its place. In those 105 minutes no fewer than fifty-three trains, of from eight to fourteen coaches, each train averaging 1,200 people, were moved from the World's fair station to the city. It is said by experienced railway men that this beats the world's record for rapid movement over such a distance, and it is an encouraging commentary on the splendid facilities which Chicago has provided for handling crowds of World's fair visitors. Two hundred thousand people who remained the evening of the Fourth to see the fireworks were moved to their homes without a single accident, and without much delay.

One of the best lessons of this fair is in the possibilities of transportation when the tracks are elevated and modern appliances for speed and safety are employed. Chicago is sure to reap an immense benefit from the exposition in this respect alone, besides profiting directly or indirectly in many other ways. Nearly two miles of Illinois Central track within the city were elevated on account of the fair, and the success of that enterprise has taught the people, and the railroads, too, that all the steam tracks in the city should be raised above the streets. Chicago is a net work of railway tracks, being by far the greatest railway center in the world, and with one or two exceptions all the roads cross all the streets at grade. Hundreds of persons are killed or injured every year at the crossings, and elevation of the tracks is the only relief from such slaughter.

It is a great pity the splendid railway station at the fair cannot be used by a larger number of roads. But this terminal plant affords at least a striking illustration of the energy and enterprise of the builders of the fair. Between the Mining building on one side and the Machinery hall on the other, west of the Administration building, there was a great open space. To complete the landscape picture it had to be filled in with something or other. With what? Some one suggested a railway station. Happy thought. If it was to be a station of course it would have to be the biggest and finest in the world, else it would not do for this exposition. So $600,000 was poured into it, in the hope that the railroads would run enough trains into the shed, paying trackage or wheelage for the right, to defray the cost of construction. As it turns out the receipts from this source will not pay the expense of maintaining the station and tracks, let alone first cost. It was in such ways as this that the exposition has been made to cost $24,000,000 to build and manage, more than twice as much as any other exposition ever cost.

But it is a great fair.

UNDER A CLOUD.

The Buffalo Mining Company's Works at Negaunee Attached.

The Property Levied Upon to Secure Claims Aggregating $32,800—Work Not Stopped, and All May Yet Be Right.

HURT BY DEPRESSION IN TRADE.

NEGAUNEE, July 15.—The Schleisinger syndicate, the largest ore operators in the world, are in difficulty owing to the depression in the trade. Adolph Schleisinger, one of the organizers of the syndicate, says the output was reduced 25 per cent some time ago. All the mines are in Michigan and the central office is in Milwaukee. The plants owned by the syndicate are: The Chapin Mining company, the Buffalo Mining company, York Mining company, Arogan Mining company, Claire Mining company and Sunday Lode Mining company.

Attachments aggregating $32,800 have been placed on the property of the Buffalo Mining company. The largest claim is $24,000, held by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company for freight on ore shipped. Other claims are by the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railway for freight; F. W. Read & Co., mining timber, and M. A. Hanna & Co., ore brokers, Cleveland. Sheriff Broad is in possession and has completed the inventory, which shows 115,000 tons of ore alone in stock, worth easily two dollars a ton in the mine. The sheriff is not interfering with the mining work at all, which is going on as usual, over 500 men being employed.

Ferdinand Schleisinger, president of the Buffalo Mining company, frankly admitted the embarrassment of the Buffalo company, but stated that if given several days to turn around in he can square everything, and the indications are that he can do so. The Milwaukee banks hold $1,000,000 of Schleisingers' paper secured, but in justice to themselves they must come to his rescue in this case, especially when less than $50,000 will set the Buffalo company well on its feet again.

Schleisinger began operations four years ago and has cut a large figure in the iron trade. He was embarrassed ten years ago, but sold the Escanaba, Iron Mountain & Western railway to the Chicago & Northwestern railway and pulled out of difficulties. If matters cannot be fixed here it will probably lead to trouble at his numerous other mines, employing nearly 2,500 men all told.

MICHIGAN AT THE FAIR.

How the Appropriation Has Been Used by the Commissioners.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 15.—A report has just been issued of all the expenses of the Michigan world's fair commission up to June 30. There is a balance still on hand of $45,132.25 of the grand total of all appropriations. This balance is made up of the following items:

Maintenance of state building, $11,836.18; board and general expenses, $5,089.06; secretary's salary, $1,333.43; secretary's traveling expenses, $322.78; state exhibits, $2,854.69; fruit exhibit, $4,799.22; agricultural exhibit, $11,904.40; mineral exhibit, $88.24; forestry and forest products, $529.58; commoh school exhibits, 4 cents; state university exhibit, $1,241.39; woman's work, $1,479.61; agricultural college exhibit, $1,479.61; fisheries exhibit, $1,000; contingent fund, $3,000.

The only fund overdrawn is the one for the construction and furnishing of the state building, which has been overdrawn to the amount of $538.19.

WORK FOR IDLE MEN.

Benevolent Action of One of the Owners of the Winthrop Mine.

ISHPEMING, July 14.—The Winthrop mine closed down a week ago, throwing out 400 men. Fred Braaslad, half owner of the property, has secured the consent of his partners and opened the mine again on his own responsibility. He will meet all expenses of the mine for the next ninety days. He has not only employed the 400 old hands discharged, but has given work to many men with dependent families discharged from other mines.

Train and Hand-Car Collide.

BAY CITY, July 15.—A Michigan Central train on the Midland branch, running 35 miles an hour, bore down upon a hand-car and its load of section men in a fog Friday morning at 5:30 o'clock. Thaddeus Finkelbough had a leg and two ribs broken, John Olsen an arm broken, and the other hands were more or less injured. Finkelbough was taken to his home in Saginaw and may die.

Drowned at Saginaw.

SAGINAW, July 17.—Willie Kagel, aged 14 years, son of William Kagel, proprietor of the bottling works, was drowned Sunday evening while bathing in the river at the west end of Mackinaw street bridge. He was unable to swim, but had hold of a large rope and as it sank he became frightened and let go. He sank at once and his little brothers with him could render no assistance.

Fatal Electrical Storm.

ADRIAN, July 16.—A brief but intense electrical storm passed over this section at noon Saturday. The house of Lafayette Powell was struck by lightning while the family was at dinner and Mrs. Powell, aged 29, was instantly killed. Mr. Powell and a 4-year-old son were temporarily stunned.

A Well-Known Preacher Dead.

ST. JOSEPH, July 14.—Rev. Ernest C. Tschirch, of this city, formerly of Chicago, died Wednesday evening at the age of 69 years. He was a native of Saxony, and came to this country forty-four years ago. He has preached in cities in New York, Missouri, Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois.

United in Death.

KALAMAZOO, July 15.—Mrs. Young, of Texas, fell down a stairway and was instantly killed. When her remains were brought to Ross township, this county, it was learned that her husband had died only a few minutes before from erysipelas. Both were pioneers of that section.

DR. A. OWEN:

Dear Sir—I take pleasure in stating that the Owen Electric Belt purchased from you last [illegible] has been worth more than all the medicines in the world to me. On the 27th of January, [illegible] was taken with La Grippe and from that to nervous prostration of the stomach and spine, [illegible] complaint, exitation of the lungs and constipation. About this time I went to consult the [illegible] doctor in the county for treatment. I stopped at my mother's home on my return, as my [illegible] tion was so great that I could not reach my own home which I dearly loved. I was a [illegible] married wife of six months and had kept house only four months. My hopes seemed all [illegible] as I gradually failed under the care and treatment and nursing by my kind and willing [illegible] and mother, one of the best of mothers. I could not get up or be moved, so my husband [illegible] farm and turned all of his attention to me. Time passed, and I suffered more than tongue can [illegible] I could eat nothing to speak of, and what I did eat hurt my stomach. At times I seemed [illegible] and then I would get worse. I remained in this condition about sixteen months, or up to the [illegible] I purchased your Belt. Then I commenced to improve at once, and life has been bright [illegible] since. My husband has purchased another farm and we commenced to keep house on [illegible] ing Day, and I have done our work with my husband's help ever since. Before I purchased [illegible] of your Belts I could hardly stand on my feet. May God bless you, as the Owen Electric Belt [illegible] the means of saving my life and giving me health and strength to live and enjoy life with [illegible] band once more. I cannot say enough for your Belt if I should write half a day. My [illegible] provement caused a good deal of excitement, as the doctors and every one around said I [illegible] die of consumption. I can eat my three meals every day. If you wish to publish this letter [illegible] will answer all correspondents who wish to inquire fully about my case, by sending directed [illegible] stamped envelope.

Yours very truly,

DR. A. OWEN:

Dear Sir—Six months has passed since I wrote my first testimonial letter in praise of your Electric Belt. I cannot say enough for your Belts. I have been improving rapidly since I put you the first letter six months ago. Now I am able to do my work, and this week I rode 18 miles to Thunder Knob on the banks of Lake Michigan, camped out over night, and came back the next day over hills and rough roads, 44 miles in all, through the hot sun. I could not have done the same one year ago for the wealth of Michigan. My health has improved so rapidly that others are waking up to the idea that the Owen Electric Belts are the only means by which they can be cured.

I remain as ever your friend, HATTIE H. McGOWAN.

What Is To Be Seen in La Rabida Convent.

HISTORICAL EXHIBIT AT THE FAIR

Captain Concas of the Caravels Saw Something to Surprise Him When He Landed at the World's Columbian Exposition—Chart Showing the Course Followed by Erikson.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 19.—[Special.]—When Captain Concas, commander of the caravels, landed at the exposition a week or so ago great was his surprise to find here a reproduction of the famous Convent of La Rabida. As he drew near the shores of the White City and saw the dull grey walls of the old pile rising from the rocks at the water's edge, he says it seemed to him as if some magic had bodily lifted the ancient monastery and set it down here in the midst of the highest manifestations of modern civilization. If Captain Concas was surprised and delighted with the exterior of the convent, what must have been his amazement when he passed through the clumsy doors of dark wood and stood within the gloomy interiors. There he found instead of the rigid asceticism of monastical life such a museum of Columbian relics, pictures and manuscripts as no other country in the world possesses. Not Italy which gave birth to the discoverer, nor Spain which sent him on his momentous voyage, has amassed within its borders a collection of Columbiana worthy comparison with that which these old walls hold. It remained for America and the exposition given in the navigator's honor to present under one roof a graphic history of the man and the event which together filled the greatest and momentous page in all human records.

This Convent of Rabida, with its wealth of relics of the career and voyages of Columbus, has proved one of the most attractive features of the exposition. All day long streams of people pour in and out the low, square doors, and jostle each other in the narrow passages where there are so many things to rouse their interest and their admiration. Foreign visitors are particularly delighted with it. There the Duke of Veragua spent half his time while at the exposition, and there the Princess Eulalia passed many hours. Captain Concas, too, is enthusiastic in his praise for the happy manner in which this exceedingly happy idea has been carried out. Credit for all this must be given William Eleroy Curtis, who as chief of the Latin-American department of the exposition had full charge of its preparation. Indeed, the idea itself was his, and with what energy, skill and success he performed his work the result is ample witness.

To write the story of the convent is to write the history of Christopher Columbus and his voyages to the western world. Nothing that is known in connection with the life of that man is absent from these walls. Everything authentic pertaining to the history of the discovery of America is shown here in one way or another. Even Captain Andersen, commander of the Viking ship, was not disappointed when he visited the convent the history of which dates back to the era of those Norsemen whose supposed achievements he has crossed the ocean in his strange craft to celebrate. For with unexpected impartiality this museum of the history of discovery, though intended principally to glorify Columbus, shows by the aid of graphic art all that is known or believed of the discovery of this continent by Leif Erikson and his fellow voyagers.

There is here a model of a Viking ship such as Erikson is supposed to have used in his voyage to America, and of it Mr. Curtis says: "It is not improbable that the Norsemen cruised along the coast of North America centuries before Columbus was born, but their claim to discovery of the continent rests entirely upon tradition, poetic legends, and some slight circumstantial evidence."

Since the presence in the harbor of the World's fair, anchored within pistol shot of each other, the three Columbus caravels and the Viking ship from Norway, has revived interest in the question whether or not the Norsemen did discover America in the tenth century, this part of the Rabida museum will prove of extraordinary interest to visitors. Here is a chart showing the course followed by Erikson in his voyage from Greenland to the coast of Massachusetts. It was prepared under the direction of the late Professor E. N. Horsford, of Cambridge, who has done more than any one else to establish the Norse claim. In brief the story is that Eric the Red, an outlaw, established a colony in Greenland in 984. In 986 a viking named Bjarne, while seeking the Greenland colony, was driven by northeasterly gales as far south as Nantucket. On returning to Norway he sold his ship to Lief Erikson, son of Eric the Red, who set sail with a crew of thirty-five men and found the lands which Bjarne had described. Lief returned to Greenland in the spring, when his brother Thorwald took the ship and went to Vinland (Massachusetts) there remaining three years. He was killed by Indians and buried near Fall River, with crosses to mark his grave.

In 1836 there was exumed near Fall River a skeleton clad in broken armor, which was made the subject of one of Longfellow's most beautiful poems, "I Was a Viking Old." The remains were thought to have been those of an Indian until Professor Rafn, a Scandinavian, pronounced them those of a Norse chief and insisted that the burial place of Thorwald Erikson had been discovered. We find here charts of these voyages, more or less imaginative, and also pictures of the sites of the villages which the Norsemen are said to have established near Boston. A picture of the old mill at Newport, R. I., suggests one of the strongest links in the chain of evidence welded by the supporters of the Norse theory, now, alas, broken; for while it was claimed the old mill afforded proof of the occupation of New England by the vikings, subsequent investigations have shown that it was erected by Governor Arnold, of Rhode Island, for a windmill some time between 1670 and 1680, and is a copy of a tower of a mill at Chesterton, England, whence Arnold had come to America.

There are other pictures, manuscripts and printed books bearing on the viking theory of discovery, among them facsimiles of inscriptions on the Dighton rock, near Taunton, Mass., said to have been carved by the Norsemen. But these inscriptions are now believed to have been executed by the Algonquin Indians. Mr. Curtis shows a facsimile of an old saga or manuscript written in Iceland 400 years after the discovery by Erikson, and making allusion to that discovery. A picture is given of the Lief Erikson monument in Boston, which also has a duplicate in Boston.

In the old convent we find an alleged portrait of Kublai-Kahn, Emperor of Mongols, who is said to have visited America in the thirteenth century under the command of his son. A number of books have been printed to show that America was discovered by the Chinese and Mongols, who occupied Mexico and Peru. Notwithstanding all these claims or theories it was Columbus who made the western world known to Europe and brought the new continent under the domain of civilization. It is somewhat remarkable that Mr. Curtis, in all his Columbian researches, could not find a portrait of the discoverer that is supported by credible evidence, though he was able to find an authentic portrait of Marco Polo, the famous Venetian traveler, who visited China and India in 1298 and first made those countries known to the people of Europe. It was Polo's description of these countries that inspired in Columbus, nearly two hundred years later, a desire to sail to Cathay (China) by the western route. The copy of Marco Polo read by Columbus and carried with him on his voyages was printed in Latin at Antwerp in 1485, and is still preserved in the Columbian library at Seville, with many marginal notes in his own handwriting.

The convent contains all the maps and geographies of the time of Columbus. It has a complete history of Ferdinand and Isabella, shown in pictures, manuscripts, armor, costumes and relics. The history of Columbus himself is illustrates with seven or eight hundred pictures, manuscripts, facsimiles, relics, models, etc. Here is the house in Genoa in which Columbus is believed to have been born; the university at which he was taught Latin and geography; the church in which he was married, at Lisbon; houses in which he lived at the Maderia islands, with actual doors, windows and other articles from those habitations; views of Rabida in Spain; paintings of Columbus with his son at the gate of the convent begging bread; portrait of Father Perez, who was Columbus' friend; a dozen pictures of Columbus before the Council of Dominicans at Salamanca, endeavoring to make the wise men believe in the rotundity of the earth, a favorite topic of the artists; several paintings of Columbus as he appeared before the court of Isabella; Heaton's picture of the recall of Columbus—that recall which took him back to court after his request for assistance had been denied and finally sent him forth on his memorable journey; portrait of Santangel, who was treasurer of the fund appropriated to pay the expense of the voyage, variously estimated at from $3,000 up to $7,000, certainly not a large sum for Isabella to raise by pawning her jewels.

THE CARAVELS AND VIKING SHIP.

Nearly a hundred paintings, relics and manuscripts are shown here as having been associated with the voyage of discovery, the voyage of the three caravels which are anchored in Lake Michigan near the walls of the convent. The record starts with Columbus taking leave of his faithful friend, Father Perez, in the Rabida, and follows with his departure from Palos. It is an interesting coincidence, worthy of the attention of the superstitious, that the contract between Columbus and the sovereigns was signed on Friday; discovered land on Friday; set sail homeward on Friday, and reached Palos on Friday.

There are pictures showing the mutiny at sea, Columbus on the deck of his ship, and finally, and more interesting than all others, the "first cry of land" and the discovery of America. Mr. Curtis gives many pictures of Watlings island, Bahamas, the island on which Columbus set up his royal standards and to which he gave the name San Salvador. Most of these pictures were made by the expedition which the Chicago Herald sent to the Bahamas two years ago to determine if possible the spot on which Columbus landed, and there to erect a monument. The expedition decided on the eastern coast of Watlings as the scene of the landfall, and the investigations which the Columbian commissioner, Mr. F. A. Oker, subsequently made, confirmed the correctness of this decision. Geographers and historians the world over now accept Watlings as the San Salvador of Columbus and the Guanahani of the natives. Mr. Oker, whose official duty it was to follow Columbus from the port of Palos throughout his first voyage, has published a handsome book called "In the Wake of Columbus," which is well worth reading; and Mr. Blaney, a noted artist of Boston, has made a beautiful etching of the very spot at which the discovery took place and which was appropriately marked through the enterprise of a Chicago newspaper.

Among many interesting Columbian relics to be found here is an anchor lost from the Santa Maria on the coast of Hayti, Christmas eve, 1492. There is little or no doubt of its authenticity, and was found by Mr. Oker after a long search, Mr. Curtis having obtained a clue to its whereabouts.

We have also stone from the ruins of the city of Isabella, founded by Columbus on the shores of Santo Domingo, during his second voyage, and the first civilized settlement in America. Columbus built there a church, a public store house, known as the "King's Palace," and a residence for himself known as the "Governor's Palace." There were also a number of private houses, and we have a pile of stones, all that remains of the first city in the new world. Moreover, here is the identical bell, of bronze, some eight inches high, that hung in the church at Isabella, and was therefore the first church bell in America.

Here are the precious original papers pertaining to Columbus and loaned by his descendant, the Duke of Veragua, including the original commission given to Columbus by Ferdinand and Isabella upon his departure for the first voyage, a number of royal letters patent to the discoverer, many autograph letters of Columbus, and the original of his will.

BITS OF INFORMATION.

An Interesting Batch of News from Points in Michigan.

The fair at Howard City will be held from September 12 to 15.

A $30,000 hotel is to be built by Chicago capitalists at Sand Lake.

Otis Fuller, of St. Johns, has been appointed warden of the state house of correction.

From the new school census it is estimated that Lansing now has a population of about 20,000.

The ninth annual reunion of the Michigan and Ohio Band association is to be held in Hudson August 17.

The officers of the Old National bank at Grand Rapids say they will prosecute young Forger Smith to the bitter end.

An elevator with a capacity of 60,000 bushels of grain is in course of construction by W. A. Coomb at Coldwater.

The annual picnic of the farmers of Washtenaw, Oakland, Wayne and Livingston counties will be held at Whitmore lake August 17.

William Johnson, a five-year convict sent up from Flint, escaped from the house of correction at Ionia while working outside the walls.

Prospects are good for an excellent crop of grapes in Allegan county, while Newaygo county vines are being destroyed by worms which strip off the leaves.

Out of a family of six only two members of the Tibbits family, of Lansing, remain alive, diphtheria having carried off the other four within a period of two weeks.

Farmers in the vicinity of Vicksburg have been compelled to plant potatoes for the second time this season, the first planting, especially on the lowlands, having rotted.

Inmates of the soldiers' home at Grand Rapids contemplate a visit to the world's fair, arrangements being under way to enable them to do so at small expense.

Burglars stole the registered mail in the post office building at Escanaba Tuesday night. They tried and failed to get $400 which was in the safe. No arrests have been made.

Schools for the instruction of women in politics in order to prepare themselves for the privilege of voting in municipal affairs, which has been given them, have been formed in some cities of the state.

F. W. Stock owns the electric light plant of Hillsdale. He secured an injunction on the council restraining them from starting a rival plant. They retaliated Tuesday night by getting an injunction restraining him from running his plant on account of defective lines and poles.

ELOPED WITH A TEACHER.

Prof. Stephenson, of Brooklyn, Mich., Deserts His Wife and Family.

BROOKLYN, July 14.—Prof. John B. Stephenson, for five years superintendent of the public schools of this city and one of the foremost citizens of Jackson county, has eloped with Miss Ida Culver, a pretty young woman 22 years of age. The professor is 55 years old. Before going away he turned all his real estate over to his wife, at the same time informing her that she would never see him again. He has a family of grown children. Miss Culver is also a schoolteacher. The pair met at Coldwater, and have been traced from there to Chicago.

ANOTHER CONVICTION.

William Repke Found Guilty of Implication in the Molitor Murder.

ALPENA, July 14.—William Repke, who confessed and implicated twelve others in the murder of Albert Molitor in Rogers City in 1875, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree. The jury was out only twenty minutes. Repke, together with the three prisoners who were convicted Monday of the same crime, will probably be sentenced to life imprisonment in Jackson. This makes the fifth conviction in the case, one man already having been sentenced. Reiger, another of the conspirators, will be tried next week.

PRAISED THE GUARD.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury on the Ionia Prison Affair.

IONIA, July 14.—A coroner's jury has fully exonerated the officers and guards of the state house of correction for the killing of Oscar Mellior during the recent attempt of a lot of convicts to scale the walls and escape. Thomas W. Mitchell was identified as the guard who shot Mellior, but the jury decided that he was acting strictly in the line of duty when he fired the fatal shot that knocked Mellior off the ladder.

Electrical Storm at Kalamazoo.

KALAMAZOO, July 14.—The worst electrical and windstorm of years passed over the city Thursday afternoon. Lightning struck ten places in the city, including the First Presbyterian church. At Mr. North's house a bolt exploded inside, passing under a cradle in which a baby was sleeping, badly stunning the child. The loss to farmers is variously estimated at from $20,000 to $50,000.

Flames in a Mine.

JACKSON, July 15.—A fire which has been burning for several days in the refuse from the Emerson coal mine, near this city, set fire to the shaft and buildings, completely destroying them and either destroying or badly damaging the machinery. The loss will reach $3,000; insurance, $2,000. The mine has not been in operation since February last.

Drowned in a Water Tank.

BATTLE CREEK, July 14.—The 2-year-old child of Mrs. H. Bennett, of Richland, was drowned Thursday in a water tank. It climbed up the tank and losing its balance fell in head foremost.

Will Reduce Wages.

ISHPEMING, July 14.—The Lake Superior Iron company will reduce its force from 1,100 to 800 men, and will reduce the wages of all employes about July 20.

because the alleged steer which is put out by inexperienced manufacturers have gone down in ordinary winds, a feeling has grown that the Steel Wheel is unsafe. Judge it only by the Aermotor.

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes.

☞ These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermotor. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country." Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 8 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 6th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How it came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—or if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one ($100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

NATURE'S REMEDY FOR LIVER COMPLAINT
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE LIVER PILLS

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

THE EDITOR'S OUTING.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE MICHIGAN PRESS ASSOCIATION AT DETROIT.

A Day of Sight-Seeing, Which the Large Crowd In Attendance Enjoyed.

Newspaper men, no less than ordinary mortals, need a play spell occasionally. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. A week's vacation and respite from the hum drum of office life and the drudgery of newspaper work, will invigorate, both mentally and physically, and fit him to resume his vocation with a readier hand and a clearer brain. We have generally chosen the time of the Press Association meeting, to take our annual outing, and the program presented this year was of so flattering a character, that we readily decided to observe the good old rule in this Columbian year. The program consisted of a day's recreation in Detroit and a lake trip, via Mackinac Island to Chicago. The business sessions and literary exercises were mostly held on the boats and were of a more than usually interesting character. We concluded to begin at the beginning and take in the entire tournament from start to finish.

We left home Wednesday afternoon and had a pleasant, but rather dusty ride from Tecumseh to Adrian via the Lake Shore and thence over the Wabash to Detroit. Miss Loana Stacy went along to keep the editor out of mischief. Editor Field of the News, accompanied by his wife and son and Mrs. J. F. Spafard, of Manchester, were also in the party. At Adrian we met James Schemerhorn and wife, of the Hudson Gazette, and at Milan, Editor Smith of the Leader, with his wife and sister, joined us. Editor Grandon and wife of the Adrian Messenger, and Editor Kempton of the Addison Courier, expect to meet the party at Chicago to help do the World's Fair. Our section of the state therefor will be well represented.

Promptly at 9 o'clock a. m., on Thursday morning the members began to assemble at the Light Infantry Armory, which had been placed at their disposal for headquarters. Although the drizzle which began about eight o'clock had settled down into a good healthy rain storm, the editors brought out their umbrellas and the editor's wives donned their water proofs and soon filled the reception rooms of the armory to overflowing. Michigan editors are not easily frightened from a program of pleasure by either a cyclone or a thunder shower. At ten o'clock the registry showed over one hundred present. The fair sex were more largely represented than usual. At least one-third of the number who reported on that Thursday morning were ladies and that proportion has held good ever since until the arrival of the party at Chicago. The Woman's Press Association had held their annual session at the Cadillac on the preceeding day, and joined our party Thursday morning for the lake trip

At ten o'clock time was called and the procession was formed, not exactly in military array, perhaps, but it got their just the same, and proceeded to Wonderland, to inspect the sights of that museum of wonders. Upon entering each person received an elegant souvenir program, setting forth the day's plans in detail, which were presented with the compliments of J. H. Moon, the proprietor. About fifteen minutes were devoted to the Eden Musee, art department and curio hall, which were filled with the queer and quaint in pleasing variety. The strong man who could out pull four fighting editors with his teeth, the trained dog, which showed almost human intelligence, and other exhibitions amused the crowd. Passing on to the theater, a fine treat awaited the party. Here Leona Garetta showed the intelligence of her educated birds; Frank Clayton gave some nonsensical music on nonsensical instruments; the Dare Brothers, one of whom had lost a leg, gave some wonderful specimens of skill on the trapeze; and the lightning calculator did some heavy work in the multiplication table. When he chalked down the member of days, hours, minutes which an editor had lived who gave his age at 33 years, they responded with a vociferous shout. Wellini, the magician, showed himself to be another Herrman in the "black art." He performed many wonderful tricks closing with the mystery of the vanishing lady. The hour passed at Wonderland was crowded with novelties, the proprietor doing all in his power to make it enjoyable. Many will take advantage of their first trip to Detroit to visit the establishment again and stay longer.

The next thing on the program was a carriage drive about the city. As there came a perfect deluge of rain just at that hour, the drive about the city was indefinitely postponed, and the carriages were all driven to the House of Correction as speedily as possible. Do not infer gentle reader, that our trip to the House of Correction was undertaken, nolens volens, in obedience to legal process. We wanted to see Capt. Joe Nicholson, that is true, and judging from the hospitable manner in which we were entertained he evidently wanted to see us. The visitors were first shown through the establishment, taken through the work shops, into the kitchen, through the laundry and into the business office, giving them a faint idea of the immense amount of labor and system required to conduct a large penal institution. The guests were then conducted to Capt. Joe's family apartments where a sumptuous banquet was served in true Wolverine style. Altho the company exceeded all expectations, the host proved himself fully equal to the occasion. The Captain modestly called the banquet a luncheon. In one sense perhaps it was, for the guests were free to help themselves when there was any delay on the part of the waiters. Capt. Joe's health was drank in the heartiest manner when lemonade and claret punch were passed around, and the party bade him good day with sincere regret.

In the mean time the rain had ceased, the clouds broke away, a fine breeze sprang up, and the carriage drive to Belle Isle was a most exhilirating one. Passing over the Belle Isle bridge, we drove up the west side of the Island to the Michigan Yacht Club house, where a few moments halt was made to inspect that institution. The party then took a stroll over the Island and gathered at the base ball grounds on the east side, where a most novel series of contests were indulged in. An impromptu game of base ball was played between an editorial nine and a city nine. Brother Schermerhorn of the Hudson Gazette, acted as umpire, and it is stating only the simple truth when we say that we were proud of Old Lenawee then. He umpired with genuine umpirical accuracy. He possesses both muscle and decision of character, made up his mind beforehand which side ought to win and umpired accordingly. Out of courtesy to our hosts he decided in favor of the city nine by a score of 8 to 6. Prizes had been offered by several Detroit firms to the winners in a few athletic contests, and these were gone through with in a way that provoked uproarious mirth An outsider, who could easily divine that the boys were out on a vacation. A. B. Smith of Milan, snatched the first prize in the boat race, consisting of a silk umbrella, and the second, a scarf pin, was taken by J. B. Smiley of Galesburg. In the foot-race of seven-five yards there were seven entries, J. H. Jennings of Benton Harbor, won a pair of silver cuff buttons and C. S. Rowlson of Hillsdale, a negligee shirt, The ladies then entered the arena in a fifty yard dash, with five entries: Mrs. Beal of Ann Arbor got there all right and got a Merritt typewriter too. The fat mens' race wound up the list. C. T. Fairfield of Eaton Rapids, and A. E. Gammage, although both two hundred pounders, took the race, and with it a cane and a silver match safe.

The party then headed for the Casino at the south end of the Island and upon reaching it, they were invited to the refreshment room on the upper floor, where a sumptuous banquet was served. Salads, cold meats, ice cream and cakes comprised the repast and it was partaken of with a keen relish, for the tramp about the Island had given the visitors a healthy appetite. While the editor's gave their attenton to the editables, the Metropolitan Band furnished some of their best selections. The party then adjourned to the east wharf where they halted a few moments to inspect the Viking Ship, celebrated in song and story, and then boarded the steamer Sappho. The run down the river to Fort Wayne was a delightful one. There was an exhilerating breeze and the Metropolitan Band gave some of Sousa's latest and best marches.

Unon arriving at the Fort, the party found the Nineteenth Infantry band occupying its balcony on the parade grounds, and a superb band concert were given fully an hour in length. It consisted of six selections, all of which were executed in the highest style of the art. Meanwhile the visitors scattered about the grounds beneath the shade trees enjoying the music. The trumpeter then sonnded the summons for dress parade, and the companies constituting the garrison filed out of the fort to the parade ground. The manual of arms was presented, followed by a drill. The sun had now sank beneath the western horizon, and the party wended their way back to the Sappho and in fifteen minutes were landed at the foot of Woodward avenue.

There was still another program in store for them. The visitors marched back to the armory and took possession of the room and listened to an exquisite musical program, gotten up by some of Detroit's best talent. The entertainment was opened by a selection from Schremser's full orchestra. There were six numbers on the program. The first regular number was given by the Imperial Quartette entitled, "Oh for the Swords." They were accorded a hearty encore and responded with "On the Sea." The Ladies Quartette sang "The Mill." Their voices have been thoroughly trained and blend in the perfect harmony. They were greeted with a storm of applause and responded with "The Cuckoo," which provoked another call. Fred Mills rendered a violin solo or rather two selections, which were very warmly received and was obliged to respond to an encore: Prof. Harold Jarvis who sang at the last Commencement at Tecumseh, gave a vocal solo. Prof. Jarvis is justly regarded as one of the best vocalists in Michigan. He always makes a hit and is always treated with a call for more. His first song was "Childrens Home" and he responded to his second call with a simple ballad, "Afton Water." Both were exquisitely given. Miss Corlette, who is a member of the Ladies Quartette sang a solo "Heart's Delight." She has a magnificient soprano voice, and the song was well adapted to her peculiar qualities. And she too was obliged to favor her auditors with another selection "Within a Mile of Edenborough Town." The program closed with a selection by the Mehan Quartette, which was drawn out into two selections before the audience would let them go. The chairs were removed and those who chose to do so, selected their partners and indulged in a social dance. Schremser's orchestra furnished the dance music and the wee sma hours had arrived before the company bid adieu to the armory.

Thus ended the program at Detroit. The members repaired to their various hotels and early Friday morning embarked on the new steamer, City of Alpena, for a trip up the lakes. The day's festivities in Detroit will long be remembered with keenest delight by the lucky ones who were there. Detroit hospitality was pretty heavily drawn upon but she honored the draft most bountifully. From nine o'clock in the morning, when we assembled at the Armory in a rain-storm, until the last waltz in the evening every moment of the day was crowded with pleasure and recreation. The committees having the arrangements in charge went about their work in a business way and the day's program ran so smoothly that not the slightest hitch was noticeable. The clerk of the weather attempted to make trouble in the morning but the editors took it so good-naturedly that the old gent gave up in disgust and put himself on his good behavior in the afternoon. The citizens of Detroit, such of them as were responsible for the hospitalities tendered, did themselves proud. In fact it has passed into a proverb that Detroit hospitality is never overcrowded and is never found wanting.

Although we frequently visit the city and keep track of the improvements that are constantly making in the business, we seldom have occasion or spare time to visit Belle Isle, and we confess our surprise at the wonderful transformation that three years have accomplished in the island park. On this island Detroit has laid the foundation for one of the most beautiful parks in the northern states. The wisdom of its projectors has already been verified and the liberality of the city from year to year will transform it into a picture of landscape loveliness which will form the brightest diadem in the crown of the City of the Straits. SAD CASUALITY.

A Brakeman Crushed to Death Under the Wheels of a Freight Train.

Last Friday morning as freight train No. 148, on the Lake Shore road was doing its switching in the yards, here, an accident occurred which called for a human life. Brakeman John Fleurer was sent to cut off a car on the west side track. He stepped between the cars to draw the coupling-pin, the train meanwhile moving backward toward the freight house, suddenly there came a cry of agony, the engine was stopped quickly, and the train hands ran to the place from whence the sounds proceeded, where they found the unfortunate brakeman lying across the rails under a car his limbs cut and mangled in a fearful manner.

The engine was detached from the train and rushed back to the city for a surgeon and in a few moments several physicians and a number of citizens were on the spot. The injured man was carefully placed upon a stretcher and carried to the Central Hotel, a quarter of a mile distant, where his injuries were pronounced fatal. He was conscious until his death, and made some broken remarks to his fellow trainmen. He died at, about 10:15, city time. A HERALD reporter, accompanied Dr. Tefft went into the room where the body lay, and made an examination of the wounds. He found the shoe from the right foot missing, and the foot itself terribly torn and lacerated. The limb was severed a few inches below the knee, being taken squarely off. The flesh on the left limb was taken off lengthwise from the ankle to the rear part of the knee. The fatal injury however was a gash beginning on the inside of the right thigh and extending up into the abdomen, a distance of fourteen inches. No injuries were found above the waist except that the face was somewhat bruised.

A telegram to Lenawee Junction, brought the dead mans father and sister-in-law from that place, on the 11:11 train.

A coroners jury empaneled by Justice Frazer viewed the remains at the hotel, after which undertaker Tansley took charge of the body and removed it to his place of business where it was made ready to take to Lenawee Junction, on the afternoon train. At the depot the casket was opened and his former companions allowed to see him. They were then summoned to the inquest for examination. Late in the evening the jury brought in a verdict as follows: We find that the deceased came to his death by being run over by a car attached to train number 148 on the L. S. & M. S. railroad, while in the line of his duty.

PROPABLE CAUSE OF THE ACCIDENT.

At the place where the accident occured, is a private crossing just opposite the large barns on the Bidwell place, and used in driving from the barns to the part of the farm on the other side of the tracks. The plank next to the east rail had become displaced leaving a space large enough to admit a man's foot. As the man ran along between the cars holding on to the hand rod on the car in front of him, he experienced some difficulty in withdrawing the coupling pin. Suddenly he stepped into the deadly trap, between the rail and plank and before he could extricate himself the brake-beam on the rear car caught him, wrenching his shoe off and pulling him partially under the wheels of the car. With the determination of despair he clung to the hand-rod for fifteen or twenty feet when he was drawn down and the east wheels of the front truck passed over him. The fatal injury was probably made by a rod or bolt in some part of the truck or brake-beam; for had it been made by the wheels, it would have cut clear through his body.

Mr. Flurer was about 32 years of age, and lived on the first farm north of the Junction. He had been married about two years. We understand that he carried insurance to the amount of $1,000 in the K. O. T. M. society, also an accident policy of $3.000.

The funeral was held at the church in Palmyra, Sunday at 10 a. m. A special train was run from Adrian for the accomodation of the railroad men and the Adrian Maccabees, sixty of the latter being present in a body. The assemblage was very large. The procession contained between 150 and 175 carriages. The Palmyra Maccabees were in charge of the services.

OBITUARY.

George Griswold was born in Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 21st, 1822. His parents, Thomas and Betsey Griswold came here when he was only two years old and settled on a farm a few miles north of the village. He was united in marriage to Miss Helen Fitzsimmons, Feb. 14th, 1850, and went to housekeeping in the house on the northern portion of the Old Homestead, where they lived forty-two years. He was one of the oldest, if not the oldest pioneers of Lenawee County at the time of his death. Three daughters were born to them, one of whom died in infancy. The other two, Mrs. W. J. Waldron of Tecumseh and Mrs. J. W. Crane of Elmhurst, Ill., with their mother live to mourn his death. He has only one surviving brother, John Griswold and sister, Julia Sawyer, both of whom are living in Monroe County. He was converted and joined the M. E. Church of Tecumseh, under the pastorate of Rev. Wm. Fox. Since that time he has been a faithful member and for many years an active member of the official board. He was always a loyal member of the church of his choice, and a remarkably regular attendant of her services. He was also a zealous friend and supporter of the missionary cause. He was a manly christian, never hesitating to declare his faith in the christian religion or to speak of his christian experience when the occasion required it. On a recent visit to his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Crane, Elmhurst, Ill., with the intention, in company with his wife, to visit the World's Fair at Chicago. He had a renewed attack of chronic heart trouble and on the morning of the 5th of July, in the presence of his devoted wife and youngest daughter, died in the hope of a glorious immortality, his remains were brought back to Tecumseh and the funeral held from the family residence, Rev. J. P. Varner officiating, and all that was mortal of our dear friend and brother was buried in Tecumseh cemetery, to await the welcome, "Come ye blessed of My Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." His grief-stricken family have the deep and heartfelt sympathy of their many friends. L. B.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank our kind neighbors and friends, for their sympathy and thoughtful attention on our return with the remains of our dear husband and father, the ladies of the W. F. M. S. for their beautiful floral tribute to his memory, the choir for their service of song so kindly rendered, and our beloved pastor for his words of christian hope and comfort, in our sore bereavement. Their great kindness will always be gratefully remembered.

MRS. GEO. GRISWOLD,
MRS. W. J. WALDRON,
MRS. J. W. CRANE.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors, for their kind assistance and sympathy, during the sickness and death of our baby.

Last Friday morning Mr. J. S. Strong asked us if we would like to hear good music. We thought so, and going to the Presbyterian church, had the pleasure of listening to six selections on the pipe organ by Prof. Zimmerman, of Owosso. He is a fine musician and his efforts were highly appreciated by those who were fortunate enough to hear him.

An interesting game of ball is expected to be played on Bills' Driving Park to-morrow afternoon. The contesting teams are the Adrian Pearls and the T. H. S. club. All turn out and help the boys financially, and some good games will be insured for the remainder of the season. Admission 10c.; Ladies free.

The Sturgis races open on July 31st. and will continue until August 5th. Twenty-four races are on and $50.000 in stakes and purses are up. There will be four races each day, and there are over 400 entries in the stake ready closed and fully 200 more are expected in the class races. Sturgis has good hotel accommodations and excursion trains will be run on all railroads. J. L. McCarthy of Chicago, who gave such excellent satisfaction as starting judge last year has been again engaged for this meeting.

We clip the following item from the Negaunee Iron Herald. Mr. Boyd is well and favorable known here, having graduated from our High school in '89, and a host of friends will be pleased to join us in wishing the bride and groom prosperity and happiness;

Mr. Fredrick J. Boyd and Miss Celia Weidenbach were united in marriage Thursday afternoon at the residence of the bride's father, the Rev. Mr. Polglaze of Champion, officiating. Mr. Boyd has been principal of the Spurr school for two years past and is a gentleman of unquestionable ability. His amiable bride is one of Michigan me's fairest daughters and a resident here since childhood; has always been connected with our Sunday school, organist of the M. E. church and has always been recognized as a leader in society, and it is safe to say that she was one of our most popular and well-beloved young ladies. Immediately after the marriage cermony the happy couple left for a tour down the lakes and after visiting Chicago, Detroit, New York and other eastern cities, will return to Tecumseh, Mich., the home of Boyd. The HERALD extends congratulations.

Miss Mertie Goodykoontz, an elocutionist of superior talent, will give a recital at the M. E. church next Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Epworth League. The admission is only 15 cents.

The following is the program to be rendered at the entertainment at the M. E. church next Monday evening.

Fritz's Courtship, E. J. Hall.
Claudius and Cynthia, Anon.

Tuesday evening two drivers were jogging along, side by side on Pattawatamie street, each with a gray horse attached to a sulky. The waterworks on the street had been turned on and a mud puddle formed. When the horses struck this both veered out locking the sulky wheels together. One horse reared in the air and came down with a thump on top of the other. Quick work by both drivers, the wheels cleared, and equines straightened out with no damage. Probably another like catastrophy would not end so fortunately.

Prof. T. C. Trueblood, teacher of Elocution and Oratory in Michigan University, says: To schools, colleges and lecture associations, I desire unsolicited to say that Miss Mertie Goodykoontz is a lady of remarkable power as an elocutionist and a teacher of elocution. In her readings before a typical Ann Arbor audience in the Annual Art Recital of the department of elocution the people were repeatedly stirred to enthusiasm. Church societies and lecture associations would do well to engage her, for recitale during my illness last April, I asked her to conduct my classes in the University. This shows my confidence in her as a teacher.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package. also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

WHY ARE WHEELER & WILSON'S No. 9 SEWING MACHINES POPULAR?

BECAUSE LADIES BUY THEM LIKE THEM AND TELL THEIR FRIENDS.

Many ladies have used our machines twenty to thirty years in their family work, and are still using the original machines we furnished them a generation ago. Many of our machines have run more than twenty years without repairs, other than needles. With proper care they never wear out, and seldom need repair.

We have built sewing machines for more than forty years and have constantly improved them. We build our machines on honor, and they are recognized everywhere as the most accurately fitted and finely finished sewing machines in the world. Our latest, the "No. 9," is the result of our long experience. In competition with the leading machines of the world, it received the Grand Prize at the Paris Exposition of 1889, as the best, other machines receiving only complimentary medals of gold, silver and bronze. The Grand Prize was what all sought for, and our machine was awarded it.

WOODS FROM VARIOUS COUNTRIES

Elaborate Finish of the Main Entrance to the Structure—Skillful Use of Rustic Woods in the Adornment of the Building—Workmanship Furnished by the Woodworkers of the World.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 17.—[Special.]—Just as a visitor to the exposition has reached the conclusion that all the interesting features of this mighty show have passed in review before his eye, and he is ready to go home satisfied that he has seen all that is worth seeing, some one asks him what he thinks of this or that display, and the visitor is compelled to admit he has not seen it all at all. Among the features which the careless or hurried visitor is likely to overlook altogether is the Forestry building. But to do this is a great mistake. It is true the building stands at the extreme southern end of the grounds, where the crowds do not much go, but the location is really easily accessible for the reason that the elevated intramural railway runs along side it and has a station right by its main entrance. Therefore there is no excuse for any one failing to see the magnificent display of the forestry products of the world to be found down there.

For the first time in the history of international expositions there is a department of forestry. This is but one of the many innovations which have made this exposition stand out pre-eminent above all its predecessors as the most comprehensive thing of the sort the world ever saw. Not only is the foresty department unprecedented, but the special building erected for its use is unique, characteristic and beautiful. Though a very large enclosure, containing more than three acres of ground space, it does not appear large in comparison with its mighty surroundings.

The exterior is made of timber in a state of nature, or only half dressed, and the bark side is shown outward as much as possible. On each of the four sides of the building is a veranda, its roof supported by a series of columns composed of tree trunks, the thickest being 20 inches in diameter and the others smaller. All these trunks are left with the bark on. The columns were contributed by the various states and territories of the Union, each furnishing specimens of its most characteristic trees. The sides of the building are covered with slabs with the bark removed, and the windows and other openings are treated in the same rustic manner. The main entrance is elaborately finished in different kinds of woods, the material and workmanship being furnished by the wood-workers of the world. The other entrances are treated artistically to show the woods and workmanship of various countries and regions. The roof is thatched with tanbark and other barks. The interior is finished with woods so dressed as to show the grains of the world's timber and its capacity to receive polish.

Within the show is wonderfully complete and fascinating. It first impresses the visitor as being dull and afflicted with sameness all the way through, but pause for a few moments and this notion will be effectually removed from your mind. When you come to make a detailed examination of the displays, to which you should devote at least half a day and will be sorry before you get through that you have not even more time, you will perceive that about everything in the world that comes from the forests is here to be found in its most interesting and suggestive form. Here are shown great logs cut bodily from big trees, with bark a foot thick around their outer edge. Here are all the barks and dye woods of commerce, from the equator and from the northern forests. Here are quaint mosses, abnormal growths into fanciful forms, galls and burls, lichens, vegetable substances used for bedding and upholstery, gums, resins, vegetable ivory, cocoanut shells, gourds, wood pulp which is becoming such an important factor in the making of wrapping paper and the paper from which newspapers are printed, rattan, wooden ware, willow ware—everything which grows in the forests or is manufactured from their products.

Moreover, this exhibit is likely to mark a turning point in the history of American forestry. One of the chief difficulties encountered in the preparation of the exhibit was the absence of forestry organization in this country, the lack of statistics and cohesiveness in the great timber industries. The various states and territories of the Union were appealed to for information concerning the extent, variety and value of their native forests, and they responded so generously that it may be said the future promises an organization and understanding of the forestry interests such as has been long needed in this country. In Germany the science of preserving forests or growing new forests is a great factor in the industrial life of the empire. There forestry is regarded as a profession, and every year hundreds of graduates are turned out of the technical schools who afterward follow that important branch of agriculture for a livelihood.

Probably the first lessons in this noble art were taught in this country by the establishment of arbor or tree-planting day on the western prairies, and when Secretary of Agriculture Morton, the father of Arbor day, comes to the World's fair he will be pleased to find here a fine display of native woods from the prairies of Nebraska cut from trees planted by the early settlers. Already the department of agriculture at Washington, which is doing more good service to the farmers and the people of this country than most people think, has taken the lead under the intelligent and enthusiastic guidance of Professor Fernow in efforts to instill the art of forest preservation and cultivation among the masses. It is predicted by competent judges that the indirect effects of this forestry show at the World's fair will be worth hundreds of millions of dollars to the American people during the next century.

In the center of the building is an impressive trophy of forestry products, a heaping together of pieces which are noteworthy or characteristic. To this pyramid the states and territories of this country and many of the nations of the world contributed. More interesting than any other feature of the pile is the pair of tall, light and graceful bamboos which Japan has erected as a crown to the whole. They are 65 feet long and reach to the roof of the building. At their base they are not more than eight inches in diameter, and at the top they curve in pretty lines under the white screen which hangs under the gable of the building. Kansas contributes a walnut log more than seven feet in diameter and weighing 30,000 pounds. Kentucky furnishes the splendid white oak log that forms the base, and North Carolina is represented by another mammoth walnut log.

in diameter. A tack placed in the section near the center shows the stage of growth which the tree had attained in the year that Columbus discovered America, and then this veteran of the forests was 375 years old. The Argentine Republic is well represented by a section of a palm tree, which looks like mineral and which is said to be indestructible when placed in the earth and therefore immensely valuable for telegraph poles, fence posts and other construction. There are specimens of the famous Ching-Ching wood from Siam, out of which all manner of tools are fashioned, the pradoo knot from the same country which polishes like onyx, great sections of the Oregon larch or tamarack, and so many similar specimens from all over the world that one finds the trophy-pyramid a little exposition in itself.

The general system of display followed throughout the building is well contrived to show the nature and value of the various specimens. Each section of a tree exhibited is so prepared as to show the heart and sapwood by four planes—transverse, radial, oblique and tangential. These surfaces are so highly polished that the commercial value of the wood may be readily judged. With each log come specimens of the tree's limbs and another section on which is displayed the seed and leaf of the tree.

At the eastern or lake front entrance to the building is a vestibule worth going miles to see. It was erected by the Southern Lumber Manufacturers' association, and was designed to show the value of the various species of southern pines. The walls and ceilings are of this lumber throughout, polished and ornamented, and the result is rich and pleasing beyond description. The exhibit cost $10,000, and was money well invested by the enterprising southrons.

New South Wales makes a fine showing, her enclosure being formed of polished boards. She excels in cedars. One plank of cedar 9 feet long and 6 feet broad, was recently sold to the Pullman company for $500. Brazil has a neat pavilion and a comprehensive showing of her wonderful woods, including the dye and ornamental specimens, the latter polishing like bronze. Kentucky sends more than one hundred and fifty varieties of wood, and the entrance to her pavilion is through the heart of a sycamore tree 16 feet in diameter. British Columbia shows fine maples and firs and cedars, and has a limb from a fir tree that is itself a pretty good log, being two feet in diameter and solid. West Virginia, the wonderful timber state which was for a long time overlooked by capitalists, but which now is being heavily drawn upon and is amassing fortunes for those who were smart enough to obtain big holdings, astonishes a great many visitors with the variety and value of its wood.

Ohio has a novel display, showing the wood, the bark, the leaves and burrs of her varieties, both polished and unpolished in a well-arranged pavilion. She also shows 500 specimens of medicinal barks, roots and herbs. Michigan is magnificent and comprehensive, and so is Wisconsin. North Carolina is intensely interesting, for she has not only a display of products but large and exceedingly fine pictures of her grand native forests. In addition to this George Vanderbilt, who is constructing at Asheville, that state, the finest country home or palace in America, makes an exhibit of his own. His head forester was educated in the German school, and has prepared the exhibit of his employer in a thoroughly scientific manner.

Of course every one wants to see the marvelous display of California redwoods, walnut, maples and oaks. Great trunks are shown, and also slabs large enough for the floors of rooms in single pieces and all beautifully polished. The Arizona petrified wood is among the most wonderful of nature's handiworks. Wisconsin is rich in oak, cherry, black walnut, locust, spruce, tamarack, diamond willows and canoe and paper birches. Minnesota and the Dakotas make surprisingly good showings, while Oregon and Washington exhibit forestry riches equal to those of California. The latter state has a cedar slab of giant size that was cut eighteen and one-half feet from the ground, and cedar shingles that will neither split, warp nor rot. Oregon proudly exhibits a saw-log from a tideland spruce tree that was 305 feet high, or fifty feet higher than the top of the Administration building, and that was upwards of 300 years old. The log was cut twenty-five feet from the ground and is nearly ten feet in diameter.

France and Germany make scientific forestry displays, while Japan shows with her usual art what may be done with the wonderful bamboo and other of her wood products.

CAUGHT AT LAST.

Noted Criminals Arrested in Detroit After a Long Chase.

Dr. Henry C. Meyer and His Wife, Wanted in Several Cities on Charges of Wholesale Poisoning, in the Toils—Sent to New York.

A NOTABLE ARREST.

DETROIT, July 14.—Wednesday night one of the most notorious poisoners in America fell into the hands of the police, and Chicago, New York and Toledo have begun a legal war for his custody. Two local detectives, guided by Detective Julian, of New York, and two Pinkerton men, arrested Dr. Henry C. W. Meyer at No. 123 Clifford street on suspicion. Julian and the Pinkerton men have been on his track for two years, and finally cornered him in Detroit, collecting in the meantime evidence which, they say, will cause Meyer to suffer the death penalty. Sullivan says that Meyer graduated from the Chicago homeopathic school in 1878 and his operations began a year later, when he poisoned his first wife. Then he poisoned an old man named Gilderman and married the widow, poisoning her son and finally herself. Meyer then moved from Chicago to New York, where he went into a partnership with a man named Baum, their scheme being to beat the insurance companies. Baum was to take out heavy insurance, become sick and apparently die, a corpse being procured from some other source and used to get the insurance. Baum took some medicine to render him unconscious, and then it is charged that Meyer poisoned him, collecting the insurance. In some way Meyer persuaded an Indianapolis girl to accompany him to Toledo, where he also poisoned her. Chemists have analyzed the poison he is accused of using, but have failed to find out what it was. He is said to have collected $7,000, that is known, from insurance companies, and the detectives feel confident there are more cases to hear from.

Mrs. Meyer, who is also under arrest, gave birth to a boy Thursday. Mrs. Meyer is said to have palmed herself off as the wife of Baum upon the death of that individual, and thus aided Meyer in collecting Baum's life insurance. Gov. Rich has signed the extradition papers and Dr. Meyer will be taken back to New York.

MICHIGAN HEALTH LAWS.

Canadian Pacific Road Resists in the Federal Courts Their Enforcement.

MARQUETTE, July 16.—The fight between the Canadian Pacific railroad and the Michigan state board of health over the inspection of immigrants at Sault Ste. Marie was argued in the federal court Saturday and taken under advisement by Judges Severens and Sage. The state aims to make the railroad sustain the expense of the inspection and quarantine of immigrants coming in over its line. The company claims that passengers who have received certificates from the United States authorities at New York should be passed without further inspection. It was also claimed that the rules of the state board of health were a violation the treaty with Norway and Sweden, and that they limited commerce harmfully. These points were combated by the attorney-general of Michigan, who cited similar rules prevailing in Louisiana as having been sustained.

BOTH WERE DROWNED.

A Father and Son Lose Their Lives While Bathing in Detroit River.

DETROIT, July 17.—Several boys were bathing in the river off the head of Belle isle Sunday afternoon when two of them got beyond their depth. One boy named Adams was saved by a playmate and John Vick, father of the other, attempted to rescue his son. The boy grasped his father around the waist and both went down together. Their dead bodies were recovered soon after.

Celebrated Orangeman's Day.

SAGINAW, July 13.—Orangeman's day was observed in an imposing manner here. Thousands of visitors thronged the city's streets. An immense procession, in which local lodges, as well as lodges from all parts of the state and some from Canada, took part, marched through the most thickly settled portions of the city, nearly 2,500 men being in line. Bands were numerous. At Hoyt park addresses were delivered by a number of gentlemen.

Murderer of Mary Marshall Found.

SAGINAW, July 15.—Albert E. Wilson, alias Harry Bradley, has been positively identified as the murderer of Miss Mary Jane Marshall at Warwick, Ont., by the girl's brother. An officer has arrived from Canada for Wilson. Wilson killed Miss Marshall March 10, 1889, she having refused him permission to accompany her home from church. Bradley denies the charge.

Death of a Valuable Horse.

SAGINAW, July 14.—Roife N., brother to the great Nelson, the noted trotter, with a mark of 2:26, valued at $10,000 and owned by the Oakland stock farm, conducted by the Rusts and other Saginaw men, dropped dead Thursday morning. He was being driven by William Mellan, while working his mile.

Wants Her Husband's Commission.

BATTLE CREEK July 14.—A bill in chancery has been filed against the Duplex Printing Press company and Joseph L. Cox, the patentee, by Mrs. Andrew J. Sutherland, widow, claiming $6,000 damages for breach of contract for services of her late husband, for selling a patent and organizing a company.

Fifty-Six Years a Deacon.

JACKSON, July 14.—Deacon Frederick B. Ward, of Sandstone, died recently, aged 85 years. He had held the deaconship of the Sandstone church for fifty-six years and was one of the very first settlers in central Michigan.

SPECIMEN CASES.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg; doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by J. J. Orr.

In view of what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others, is it not reasonable to believe that it will also be of benefit to you?

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

A large manufacturer, whose affairs were very much embarassed, and who was overworked and broken down with nervous exhaustion, went to a celebrated specialist. He was told that the only thing needed was to be relieved of care and worry, and have a change of thought. This doctor was more considerate of his patient's health than of his financial circumstances. He ought to have advised him to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the best remedy for nervous prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, headache, ill effects of spirits, tobacco, coffee, opium, etc. Thousands testify to cures. Book and trial bottle free at Baker & Hall's.

AFTER BREAKFAST

To purify, vitilize and enrich the blood, and give nerve, bodily and digestive strength, take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Continue the medecine after every meal for a month or two and you will feel "like a new man." The merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is proven by its thousands of wonderful cures. Why don't you try it?

This is the season when the mixed drink and the mixed drinker are involved.

TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM

Effectually yet gently, when costive or billious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys or liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds or fevers use Syrup of Figs.

Boggs—Well, Lawyer Sharpe, what do you think of my plan?

Lawyar Sharpe (with an eye to business)—Well, it's fessible.

"Rather lean on inward worth than outward show." If you trust to Pearline you can do both. It will show its worth in washing clothes and cleaning house, with half of the labor and none of the usual troubles. You will only be "tried" if you try to do without it. Nothing can suffer if you use it; everything will suffer if you don't.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. 223 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

The regular meeting of Golden Rod Chapter occurs Wednesday evening, July 26th. It is hoped there will be a large attendance.

E. W. Freese's brother, Mr. John Freese, and his daughter, from New Westminster, B. C. arrived here last Saturday for a few weeks' visit.

We understand that the morning train, which has been twenty minutes earlier this week, will again change time next week, going through here about 4 a. m.

Chauncey Ogden will ride to Detroit Saturday on his wheel, endeavoring to cover the distance, 52 miles, in four hours. There is a bet of ten dollars on the attempt.

C. D. Keyes came down from Sand Lake Friday, returning Saturday evening accompanied by Miss Abbie Chandler, who will spend some time at the cottage.

H. W. Daniels left here Tuesday morning for Olivet, where he will take a four or five weeks' course of study in special branches. Mrs. Daniels leaves Thursday for a visit with her mother at Ogden.

Members of the Hilarity Dramatic Club are requested to meet at the residence of Mrs. E. VanDeMark Monday evening, July 24. Important business is to be transacted, therefore a good attendance is desired.

Miss Louise VanDeMark is expected home next Tuesday from a several months' visit in Ohio. She will be accompanied by her cousin, Ella Bull, of Cleveland, who will visit here a few days before going to the World's Fair.

Mrs. E. VanDeMark is corresponding with different lecture bureaus for the purpose of arranging a course of lectures for Clinton this coming winter. The best of talent will be secured and the benefits, if any, will go to the society of St. Johns.

Miss Mertie Goodykoontz, of Ann Arbor, gave a free lecture on elocution, accompanied by humorous and pathetic readings, at the M. E. Church Monday evening. After the lecture a class in elocution was formed. The young lady is also desirous of forming a class in physical culture.

Saturday bids fair to be a gala day for Clinton. Prof. G. J. Burk, of Blissfield, will give a balloon ascension and parachute drop at 2 p. m. The exhibition will take place on the corner of Jackson and Chicago streets. There will be a ball game between the Ypsilanti and Clinton clubs, which promises to be a very interesting one. We understand that Tecumseh wheelmen have been invited to be present en masse. Everybody come and bring the children.

Mrs. Dell Cairns had a serious accident Tuesday, while driving along the turnpike about three miles west of here. Her little daughter raised an umbrella, frightening the horse so that he commenced to run. Mrs. Cairns soon succeeded in checking him and loosened her hold on the reins slightly to put the umbrella down, when the horse suddenly commenced running again, throwing her out between the box and front wheel. She kept hold of the reins for about half a mile, when she managed to turn the horse to the side of the road, where he fell, overturning the buggy and throwing the little girl out. Help soon arrived and Mrs. Cairns was carried into James Bostedor's and Dr. Tuttle was summoned, who pronounced her not seriously injured, although the horse's hoof had struck her twice in the right side and one elbow was terribly bruised where it had been struck by the spokes of the wheel. She had recovered sufficiently towards evening to ride home. The little girl was unhurt.

Company — Attention!

General Order No. 3 has been received from Col. Tyrrell, relative to the coming camp as follows:

HEADQUARTERS FIRST INFANTRY,
MICHIGAN STATE TROOPS.
Jackson, July 14, 1893.

Order No. 3:

Your attention is called to the provisions of General Orders No. 5, A. G. O., dated Lansing, June 30, 1893, and ... Ypsilanti, July 10, 1893.

1. Headquarters First Infantry will be established at Island Lake, near Brighton, Monday, August 8, 1893. All communications must be addressed to that point on and after Saturday, August 5, 1893.

2. The First Infantry band will report to Capt. Ulrich, Co. B, for transportation, and will be subject to his orders until arrival at camp.

3. Hospital Steward D. T. Hall and Color Sergeant Willard P. Bidwell will report to Capt. Hayden, Co. C, for transportation.

4. Recognizing the fact that more or less disappointment may exist on account of the final location of camp for this year, nevertheless the decision must be accepted in a true soldierly spirit, and commanding officers will use extra efforts to report at camp with full ranks. Under present circumstances it would be a great gratification to have the First Infantry show a large percentage in attendance at the ensuing encampment.

5. Company commanders are requested to pay particular attention to the proper instruction of their command in the duties of sentinels and extended order drill. By order of

JNO. E. TYRRELL,
Col. Commanding 1st Inf'try.

WONDERFUL CURES!

THOMAS MINCHIN. MAJOR W. A. SIMFIELD.

Before Treatment. After Treatment. Before Treatment. After Treatment.

Nervous Debility and Catarrh Cured.

"Thomas Minchin says: "I was reduced to a nervous wreck—only weighed 118 pounds. The result of early abuse was the cause. I had the following symptoms: Miserable mentally and physically, melancholy, nervousness, weakness, specks before the eyes, dizzy, poor memory, palpitation of the heart, flushing, cold hands and feet, weak back, dreams and losses at night, tired in the morning, pimples on the face, loss of ambition, burning sensation, kidneys weak etc. Doctors could not cure me; but Drs. Kennedy & Kergan by their New Method Treatment, cured me in a few weeks. I weigh now 170 pounds. It is three years since I have taken their treatment."

Blood Disease and Dyspepsia Cured.

Major Simfield says: "I had Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach for many years. To make matters worse I contracted a Constitutional Blood Disease. My bones ached. Blotches on the skin looked horrible. I tried sixteen doctors in all. A friend recommended Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. I began their New Method Treatment and in a few weeks was a new man with renewed life and ambition. I cannot say too much for those scientific doctors who have been in Detroit for fourteen years. I conversed with hundreds of patients in their offices who were being cured for different diseases. I recommend them as honest and reliable Physicians."

Mark Pennington lost one of his best work horses last Sunday night from an attack of the colic.

Mrs. John C. Mills returned from Detroit last week, where she had been for medical treatment. We hope she will very soon recover her usual health.

Lewis Coller was the victim of a surprise party last Saturday eve. He took it very good-naturedly, which is customary with Lew, and the young people all report a fine time.

Miss Morden, of Canada, is spending a few weeks with her brother, Dr. W. M. Morden; also Misses Mary and Maud Morden, of Adrian, nieces of the Doctor, spent a few days of last week here.

John Primrose, of Chicago, is spending a few days with friends here.

Miss Ella Mills and her guest, Miss Jennie Dutchie, of St. Louis, Mo., start on a trip to Toledo, and various other lake ports next Wednesday.

Threshing has commenced; wheat is yielding from 33 to 45 bushels per acre. Chas. Collins raised 45 bushels on an acre. It was of the prize variety, for which $100 was offered for the greatest yield on an acre. Mr. Harmon, on the Ridge, raised 38 bushels to the acre.

It is said that the Britton people want Dr. E. E. Hendershot to return to that place to practice. We do not doubt it nor the good reasons for wishing him back. But the same reasons, or nearly all of them, are urged by Macon for his return here. This is the Doctor's home and we want him to be at home to his many callers. Macon has always supported two physicians and supported them well, and it desires to continue to, provided they are the two at present here. The Doctor is giving the very best of satisfaction. His skillful service as a physician and the very high terms in which the Ann Arbor Medical college speaks of him while a student there combine to create implicit confidence in him throughout the community. We move that Dr. Hendershot stay with us, and have spoken affirmatively to the motion: We will give the negative till the next issue in which to reply.

A Day at Niagara for Twenty Cents.

Niagara, "the crown jewel of our continent," centuries old, but ever new in its infinite variety, is the one spot every American should see; and every reader of Demorest's Family Magazine for August may see Niagara in all its different aspects, at every season of the year, without the fatigue and expense of the journey, through the charmingly written and superbly illustrated article, "A Day at Niagara." "Life at White Sulphur Springs" is another outing article. There is plenty of good fiction, some excellent hints for entertaining, the latest society fads, etc. There is something in it of interest to every member of the family, and is a fair sample of what is given twelve times a year for $2. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York.

The Lady Maccabees.

We clip the following from the Ann Arbor Argus. Miss Bower has many acquaintances in old Lenawee who will heartily second the motion made by the Argus and hope that she may secure the position. No better person could be found for the place.

Miss Emma Bower, the talented editor of the Ann Arbor Democrat, is, we understand, a candidate for great record keeper of the Lady Maccabees of the State, and we sincerely hope that her candidacy will be crowned with success. Her business and editorial training peculiarly fit her for the duties of the office to which she aspires, her many personal graces and social qualities will endear her to the members of the order with whom she is brought in contact. It is understood that the present incumbent of the office, Mrs. Ada L. Johnson, of Saginaw, declines a re-election. This should open a clear field for Miss Bower, for we are sure that no better qualified record keeper could be found in the State.

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

Will be of value to the world by illustrating the improvements in the mechanical arts and eminent physicians will tell you that the progress in medicinal agents has been of equal importance, and as a strengthening laxative that Syrup of Figs is far in advance of all others.

This is the season when the mixed drink and the mixed drinker are involved.

ONSTED ODDS.

Oats are ripening quite fast.

Regular Grange meeting last Saturday evening.

Wheat, all cut and about all secured in stacks and barns.

A large yield of hay was secured in this locality this season.

The K. O. T. M. have put up a nice signal light in front of their hall.

Herbert Onsted and wife, of Toledo, have been calling on relatives here.

C. W. Faling and wife, of Leslie, called on M. O. Aldrich and family recently.

Quite an exodus of the young people of this vicinity each Sunday to the lake resorts.

Dan Riley mourns the loss of his better half, as she rigged up and skipped the other day.

Although the price of wool is very low the clip of this vicinity has nearly all been sold.

The L. O. T. M. indulged in an ice cream festival at their hall on Friday evening of last week.

Jerome Snow has moved to Tecumseh after disposing of his village property to Mrs. Pearl Austin.

The huckleberry season is upon us and the women folks hie away to the swamps to gather in that luscious fruit.

The Skinner & Hines store building is nearly completed; also the residence of Mr. Ketcham on North Main street.

Wallace Corwin, of New York State, arrived at his grandparents' the other day to spend the summer. His mother is at Lansing but will arrive here in a few days.

Arthur Onsted had the misfortune to break his carriage last Sunday while out with his best girl. Rather hard on Art, as it was his first attempt at a Sunday pastime.

The village was full of people last Saturday evening, who came to witnes the first race on the new track, which is in fairly good shape but not thoroughly completed.

Onsted's flouring mill has been running for nearly three weeks and first-class flour is being made. The machinery is of modern improvement and has a capacity of 25 barrels per day. The proprietors are gentlemen and ask their share of the people's patronage.

State Teacher's Institute.

The State Teacher's Institute for Lenawee county will be held at Adrian, commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m., Monday, August 14, and closing at 4 p. m., Friday, Sept. 1. Comm'r C. F. Field, Tecumseh, Local committee. There is no doubt as to the value of a good live institute. Experience proves that as a rule the most successful, alert, progressive teachers are those who avail themselves of the work given at such meetings. The persons in charge of the instruction at these institutes are those who have had practical experience in school work, and know how to impart to others a portion of what they have gained in this experience. Effort has been put forth to give the county the best institute ever held. The work will combine professional and academic instruction. The institute will be divided into sections, and the instructors will conduct classes for the purpose of reviewing some studies, and also to illustrate certain methods of instruction. The workers have been urged to arrange for calisthenic exercises, singing, marching and the like, so as to make the work move off cheerily and without fatigue. The time for study at the institute will be necessarily limited, and in order to permit the most profitable of class exercises the following topics are suggested, so that those who purpose attending may make some preparation:

Arithmetic—(1) Fractions, (2) percentage, (3) mensuration, (4) evolution.

Grammar—(1) Relative clauses, (2) infinities, (3) participles, (4) objective complements.

Geography—(1) Michigan, (2) model outline of North America, (3) climate, causes of, (4) commercial geography of the United States.

History—(1) The war of 1812, (2) slavery, (3) Civil War, (4) inventions.

Physiology—(1) The eye, (2) circulation, (3) ventilation, (4) digestion.

Civil Government—(1) Legislative officers of Nation, State, county, city, village, (2) compare duties of Governor and President, (3) how amendments are made to State and National constitutions, (4) taxes.

Pedagogy—The first chapters of Putnam's Primer, or its equivalent.

Reading—Whittier's Snow Bound.

The preceding topics are given to aid in a proper preparation for the work. Bring any text books. Be thinking and studying along the lines of the topics suggested, and even a week's institute may be made very profitable with class work and lectures combined. The institute law allows teachers, whose schools are in session at the time appointed for the County Institute, held under the direction of the State Superintendent, to close their schools during the continuance of such institute without forfeiting their wages for as many half days as they are in attendance at the institute. There will be no enrollment fee, and it would seem as if every wide-awake pedagog, or would-be pedagog, would arrange to attend every session. Full particulars in regard to board, etc., may be obtained upon application to the local committee.

DEATH OF MRS. MARTHA E. STEARNS.

Martha E. Stearns, wife of Willard Stearns, Esq. editor of the Adrian Press, departed this life on Saturday last. She had passed through several weeks of prostration and patient suffering and had sustained a surgical operation which seemed to offer the only hope of recovery, which she endured with heroic fortitude. The best of medical aid, the tender solicitude of husband and children, the constant watchcare of faithful assistants were all unavailing to drive away the dreaded messenger.

Mrs. Stearns was born in Batavia, Branch county, Mich., June 20th, 1843. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philo Porter, her father being a farmer and a citizen of considerable prominence in the community. After exhausting the educational advantages of the home vicinity, she entered the state normal school at Ypsilanti, from which she graduated with the accustomed honors. She was married to Willard Stearns May 5, 1868, and leaves four children, Harry P. Fanny L., Jennie and Virgie. During her residence in Adrian Mrs. Stearns has been a consistent member of the M. E. church, and has also warmly interested herself in the work of the Woman's Relief Corps, of which organization she was recently elected president.

The funeral obsequies were held at the family home on Butler street last Monday afternoon, Rev. J. M. Kerridge officiating, and were attended by a large concourse of sympathizing friends. The deceased was a woman of domestic tastes and habits, whose whole heart was bound up in her home. Her daily life was one of constant devotion to the wants of her husband and children. Though friends will miss her kindly greeting, none can fully realize the depth of sorrow which will darken that family circle. The main stay of that home is gone and its brightest light has been blotted out. The sympathy of all who knew her will go out towards the bereaved husband and motherless children, though sympathy seems almost a mockery in such an affliction. We can simply offer words of condolence and commend them to the care of Him who can alone heal the broken heart.

Pleasant Grove, Devil's Lake, Mich.

We hope the friends will take Miss Judson's advice by patronizing the new camps, and help build them up. Here at Devil's Lake, Mich., is a beautiful location for a permanent camp. It is also well situated geographically, being a long distance from any other camp. The association takes in northeast Ohio, southeast Michigan, and some of northeast Indiana. The lake is reached from north, south, east and west by the C. J. & M. railroad, which runs from Toledo, west, along the north side of the lake, and by the Cincinnati branch running north and south along the west shore. Half-fare on this road weekdays, and excursion trains at less rates Sundays. Steamboats meet all trains at either station. The camp grounds are in Pleasant Grove, on south shore of Devil's Lake, and extend to Round Lake on the east. A good hotel on the grounds furnishes board by the day at 75 cents, single meals 35 cents. Rooms should be engaged in advance. All should bring tents who can. A splendid place for tenting, and the best of water. No entrance fee to the grounds. Now come to this beautiful lake of the evil name, from the 28th of July till the 14th of August, and help us to make another grand telegraph-station between the seen and the unseen worlds.

Moses and Mattie Hull are our principal platform speakers. A number of good mediums from Ohio and Michigan will be in attendance, and all will be welcome.

For any further information address Mrs. B. J. Hoeg, Morenci, Mich.

J. B. ALLEN, Vice-President.

The Romulus Land Syndicate have sold during the last week the following property at Romulus, Mich, Detroit's Future Great Manufacturing Suburb. 1 lot on Harrison ave., for $85 cash sale. 2 lots on First st., for $190 each on time. 3 lots on Romulus ave., 2 for $200 each and 1 for $180. 3 lots on Van Buren ave., for $95 each on time.

AGRICULTURAL SHOW.

An Interesting Exhibit at the World's Fair.

POPCORN LOSING ITS POPULARITY

But Other Articles Are Appearing to Take Its Place—That Agricultural America Leads All the World Is Demonstrated at the Exposition—Display of the Large Packing Houses—Cotton Seed Oil.

World's Fair, July 26.—[Special.]—In a former letter I pointed out some of the interesting features of the great agricultural exhibit of the exposition, and said it would be necessary to recur to the subject again. The exhibit is so vast, covers so much that is interesting and valuable, that it is with reluctance one leaves the doors of the splendid palace and goes to view other departments of the fair. One of the distinguishing features of the agricultural show is the popcorn display. Perhaps you will remember that the man who made the most money at the Philadelphia exposition was the owner of the popcorn right. His profits, I have heard, amounted to the snug sum of $35,000 for the summer, a pretty fortune to make in six months with a capital of two or three thousand dollars. I regret to say that though popcorn sells tolerably well here the owner of the right is not likely to make a fortune. He sells more in this building than any other, but even here, where the popcorn lovers most do congregate, he is not disposing of half as much of his wares as he had a right to expect. All day long the popping of corn over the flames of gas stoves on in two or three different places in the building, and a certain percentage of the visitors buy and eat, with all that abandon and delight with which popcorn usually is accompanied, but the aggregate sales are disappointing.

It seems that popcorn is losing its popularity among the masses of the people. One explanation of this fact is that we are getting farther away from the farm. Twenty years ago only one-sixth of the population lived in cities, and but one-tenth of it was born within the borders thereof. Now one-third of all our population lives in large towns or cities. As we drift away from the farm we escape from its good influences. We lose our love, or partly lose—for I do not think we can wholly do so—for the things which on the farm were our greatest delights. Besides, we are growing proud. Many of us think it would be beneath our dignity to be seen eating popcorn in the corridors of the Agricultural building, or any other building here. Why, I can't explain, for certainly popcorn is a great delicacy, one of the finest of confections, and there is no more reason why we should leave off its consumption than there is why we should stop smoking if we care to smoke.

The decadence of popcorn in America has also been brought about in part by the popularity of other confections. Years ago it was the universal delicacy. Now there are scores of other sweetmeats, cheap and wholesome. Many readers of this letter will be able to remember when about all the confectionery we had in this country was either the home-made variety known as "molasses candy," or imported French goods. Now we beat the French and all other peoples in the fabrication of sweetmeats.

If popcorn is gradually stepping to the rear as great expositions many other articles are appearing to take its place. Here in the Agricultural building one may take his choice of a great variety of articles of food and drinking with a view. For instance, a foreman gives away samples of savory extract of beef soup in the Argentine Republic exhibit, choosing that exhibit, probably, because it is from the Argentine states that it derives most of its raw materials. Many visitors to the fair take a plate of this soup every time they find themselves in the Agricultural building.

AT A POPCORN STAND.

A number of chocolate and cocoa firms have booths at which they give away samples of their wares. One of the exhibits erected here a pavilion of solid cocoa. It is thirty feet high, and contains 2,000 pounds of the sweet stuff. One can't help about with its aroma. The pavilion is surmounted by a statue of Columbia, cut from a big block of chocolate, and weighing 2,000 pounds. Another firm has erected a castle of chocolate. An Arab, from whose gaudy trappings hang many strings of sample packages of breakfast cocoa, stands there and gives away samples to all who happen to pass. Those who like sweets can also get candied fruits, candies, and all kinds of delicacies. For instance, a foreman gives away samples of savory extract of beef soup in the Argentine Republic exhibit, choosing that exhibit, probably, because it is from the Argentine states that it derives most of its raw materials. Many visitors to the fair take a plate of this soup every time they find themselves in the Agricultural building

Ayer's Pills

Are better known and more generally used than any other cathartic. Sugar-coated, purely vegetable, and free from mercury or any other injurious drug, this is the ideal family medicine. Though prompt and energetic in their action, the use of these pills is attended with only the best results. Their effect is strength and regulate the organic functions, being especially beneficial in the various derangements of the stomach, liver, and bowels.

Ayer's Pills

are recommended by all the leading physicians and druggists as the most prompt and effective remedy for biliousness, nausea, costiveness, indigestion, sluggishness of the liver, jaundice, drowsiness, pain in the side, and sick headache; also, to relieve colds, fevers, neuralgia, and rheumatism. They are taken with great benefit in chills and the diseases peculiar to the South. For travelers, whether by land or sea, are the best, and should never be omitted in the outfit. To preserve their medicinal integrity in all climates, they are put up in bottles as well as boxes.

Ayer's Pills

"I have used Ayer's Pills in my family for several years, and always found them to be a mild and excellent purgative, having a good effect on the liver. It is the best pill used." —Frank Spillman, Sulphur, Ky.

FARMERS AT THE FAIR.

A Royal Reception Awaits the Agriculturist.

THEY WILL BE GUESTS OF HONOR.

A World in Itself To Be Seen in the Agricultural Building.

Earth and Our Own States and Territories Represented at the Columbian Exposition.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 21.—[Special.]—Now the harvest is about finished throughout the country. Soon the threshing will be done and marketing of the golden grain begin. Then the farmers will come to the fair. Not only will they be welcome, but a royal reception awaits them. The man who feeds us, the man whose prosperity is the prosperity of all of us, whose ill-fortune hurts us all, has not been neglected in this exposition. On the contrary, he and his contributions to the world's industries—the foundation of all industries and source of all wealth—have a front seat. They will be guests of honor here.

It is the fashion among some of the people one meets here to sneer at the agricultural display, to say it is not worthy their time or attention, that it is dull and commonplace. I pity these people. They are thoughtless. Their horizon is narrow. To my mind the Agricultural building is one of the most interesting of all the great departments of the fair. It is more than interesting—it is fascinating. It takes us nearer to the heart of the people, not only of our own country but of all countries, to the mass of humanity everywhere, than any other feature of the exposition, excepting not even the Fine Arts gallery, which surely is next to it.

The creator of this fair builded wiser than they knew when they gave the Palace of Agriculture the proudest position in their marvelous landscape—running from the lake by the side of the splendid central basin to the canal—and made that palace the most beautiful of all the exposition buildings. There are just five really noble structures in this exposition assemblage. One is the Administration building, a merely ornamental, crown-like structure, a vestibule, its only practical use being for offices; the Manufactures building, noble in proportions, magnificent in dimensions; Machinery hall, cathedral-like, ornate, impressive; the Palace of Fine Arts, which would be a noteworthy structure if taken up bodily and set down in Versailles, Rome or Athens; and the Palace of Agriculture, classical in its form and decorations, perfect in proportions, the most beautiful of all in the opinion of many who are competent to judge.

It will do the hearts of the farmers of this country good when they come here and see that they have not been assigned to the back yard of the fair; that a rude and hastily-constructed shell was not deemed good enough for them; but that they are received in a veritable palace, a structure worthy its uses and too glorious a creation to be suffered to disappear from the face of the earth when the exposition shall have closed its gates.

This Agricultural building is a world in itself. In point of size it is the fourth structure of the exposition. Let the farmer imagine fifteen acres of ground floor under one roof, with several acres more in the galleries. That gives space equal to the average farm in France and England, and larger than the average farm of Belgium and Holland. The space is well used. Not a square foot of it has been wasted. If there were no building in Jackson park but the Palace of Agriculture, no display but that of the products of the soil and the machinery and processes used in their propagation, harvesting and manipulation, the World's fair would still be worth taking a long journey to see.

Shall I tell you what is in this building? I wish I could. I should like to write a book about it. But it would be like writing a book on the world—you would never know where to start or where to end. It would take a pretty big book to do the subject justice. Therefore in the space of a single letter I can hope only to point out to you some of the most interesting things, to give you a few samples from the mighty whole. When you come to the fair set apart at least one whole day for the Agricultural building. Make it two days if you have the time to spare. It will not be time wasted. This applies with even greater force to the city man, to the professional man who comes from his desk or office, than to the farmer himself. The man from the city can learn more here that is worth his knowing than in any other department of the exposition.

Let us now take a rapid run through this world of the farm and briefly mention the most interesting things that fall under our eye. Passing through the great rotunda we arrive at the center of the vast building. It is a wonderful scene that we are in the midst of. Here are most of the nations of the world and states and territories of our Union with little palaces of their own, showing therein their farm products. As far as the vision extends the facades of these little palaces—and some of them not so very small, either—greet the eye. In the broad galleries which run through and around the great structure are thousands more, the property of firms and individuals engaged in the manufacture of foods and preparations. Away to the south is seen a wide vista of mowing machinery, and thence comes a rumbling, a clicking, whirring sound. There tens of thousands of farm machines are in motion.

At the very center of the building two American states, an eastern and a western, Pennsylvania and Iowa, and two foreign nations, Great Britain and Germany, have posts of honor. A single glance suffices to show us they are worthy the distinction. England proper is largely confined to fine food products, such as pickles and tinned goods; but her colonies, each an empire of itself, make wonderful displays. Canada shows in graphic form the results achieved by scientific agriculture, which has been pursued with great energy under government protection. Australia, especially the wonderful development of her farm industries which is making of that Pacific empire a dangerous rival to the United States. In the year '91 the wool product alone of New South Wales was valued at $35,000,000. Cape Colony shows her farming methods, which are highly picturesque.

The largest and most costly structure in the building is that of Spain, in which Cuba joins and where the display of Havana cigars delights the eye of every smoker. South America is well represented. Brazil, Uraguay, Paraguay, the Argentine Republic show their wools, coffees and grains. Mexico has a splendid exhibit, and other Central American states are not far behind. Some of the most interesting features come from Africa. Besides Cape Colony, already mentioned, Liberia, the little republic of the west coast, surrounds her products with a pleasing array of birds, of stuffed animals, of native fancy work. She shows us photographs of her farms and houses, her people and officials.

These are features of nearly all the exhibits. In addition to the agricultural products the natural history of the country is represented. Liberia shows us hippopotami, leopards, and the vampire bat. British Guiana mixes tapirs and jaguars, great birds and giant ant-eaters with her sugars and carved calabashes. The skin of a boa constrictor, thirty feet long, drapes the pavilion of Johore. No better use of photography was ever attempted than that which we find here, for the pictures throughout these foreign exhibits show us more of the world in a day than we could see by travel in a year. The art of photography has conquered the globe, and here the pictures alone form a vast exposition, admirably supplementing the articles and products.

My advice to every fair visitor is to carefully study these foreign displays in the farm palace. See how little Curacoa produces the liquer for which she is famous. See the macaroni and vermicelli products of Italy. See Siam's quaint pickles and funny bread and crackers. See Japan's infinite variety of farm products, all put up like bon-bons; her teas and tea plantations, and her Shinowarata or long-tailed fowl, with feathers touching the ground from a hight of thirteen feet. See France's scientific agriculture, especially its great veterinary college and hospital, with a clinic or operating room as fine as that of any medical college in America. See Germany's exposition of the art of brewing beer, of bottling, of clarifying, and the model brewery. See the model of a horse farm in Great Britain's section, with the green grass growing in the paddock. See France's model of a farm in the suburbs of Paris and learn how the thrifty French tickle the soil quicker and easier than you could learn by a trip across the water. See Russia's magnificent display of grains and read, if you can, some of the Russian agricultural reports.

Of course the American states are here in all their glory. Iowa, proud of her position, gives a notable example of the decorative possibilities of grains and grasses. In this feature Illinois, Pennsylvania, Kansas and other states are not far behind, while New York and Ohio are severely simple, though effective. In Nebraska "corn and sugar wear the crown," and the beet sugar industry, newest thing in the west, is fully illustrated. New Mexico shows growing alfalfa, and Mississippi growing cotton which is picked and made into boutonnieres. Kenfucky "leads in hemp, tobacco and horses," while South Dakota flings out her banner, "We lead all in hogs, pigs, cattle, corn, 1892." Wyoming shows grain grown by irrigation, while California displays a shock of corn thirteen feet high.

Corn seems to be king. Kansas glorifies maize in a huge column, and claims the proud record of 138,000,000 bushels in '92. New Hampshire erects an old-fashioned granary with corn and sheep skins tacked on its outer walls. Connecticut erects a wigwam of corn stalks and labels it, "The Indian's Gift to the World." Michigan, Wisconsin, North Carolina, West Virginia, Florida, Minnesota, Indiana and other states make fine displays. Louisiana's sugar exhibit is very interesting. Even Oklahoma is resplendent. North Dakota claims to be "the bread basket of the world," and astonishes foreigners, who do not understand our system of endowment of public schools from the public domain, with the proud boast that she possesses "three million acres of fertile school lands." Great, indeed, are the stafes and territories of the American union.

As yet we have not been in the galleries at all, where much that is interesting awaits us; nor in the section devoted to agricultural machinery, which is a world in itself—a world in which there would not be much if what the ingenuity and enterprise of the Americans have done was left out of it.

It is clear that if we are to ever touch upon many of the most instructive and valuable features of the agricultural department, within and without this splendid building, we must recur to the subject in a future letter. ROBERT GRAVES.

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermotor. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country."

Much sold we were unable to make the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders were waited weeks to fill. But now our factory capacity is increased four fold and all are promptly filled out of the large stock habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 6th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How it came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 20 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and now has yet seen signs except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before committing ourselves to manufacture extensively we made a thorough investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made to find the different forms of wheels propelled by artificial air therefore uniform wind which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions from the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other points of struction, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, still, Steel Fixed Tower—if you want the tower you don't have to climb—the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one dime, write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

NATURE'S REMEDY FOR LIVER COMPLAINT
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE LIVER PILLS

D. A. FRASER'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years,

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

PICTURESQUE MACKINAC.

A Trip Round the Lakes from Detroit to Chicago and a Day at Mackinac Island.

At 9 o'clock Friday morning, July 7, the members of the Michigan Press Association embarked on the new steamer, City of Alpena, bound for Mackinac Island. The Alpena is a new boat and this was her third regular trip. She is constructed after a pattern similar to that of the Long Island Sound steamers which ply on the Fall River line. She is without a rival on the upper lakes at present both in speed and splendor of equipment, and is a very near approach to the celebrated Atlantic liners.

Her dimensions are as follows:

Length of keel, 264 feet; length over all, 280 feet; breadth of beam over all 70 feet; moulded depth 15 feet. She is fitted with compound beam engines of 3,000 horse power, was built to run 20 miles an hour and has made that time with ease on her first three trips.

There are 150 staterooms, elegantly furnished, lighted with electric lights and provided with electric enunciators. The dining room below deck is in keeping with the rest. It has a paneled ceiling and is lighted by electric globes and headlights. The McCreary ventilating system is used and can be so regulated as to deliver to the passengers either a January thaw or an August blizzard. There is a line of state rooms on the hurricane deck, and the interior saloon is two stories, the upper story being arranged in the form of a balcony, from which entrance is had into the upper staterooms. The lower or main saloon is finished in mahogany, the panels of embossed lincrusta, with pale olive ground picked out with gold. The upper wood work is finished in empire style, the color being ecru and gold. The floors are carpeted in dark blue and gold Wilton, and the cabins are fitted with elegant upholstered furniture. It is appropriately called a floating palace. Her principal officers are: Captain, Matt Lightbody; engineer, John Jones; clerk, J. E. Henderson; steward, Alfred Welfare. All of them have seen many years service on the upper lakes and are well equipped for their respective positions. The Alpena will make two trips a week between Toledo, Detroit and Mackinac. The boat is receiving a liberal patronage, and thus the enterprise of the Detroit and Cleveland Steam Navigation Company, in fitting out this magnificent steamer, is reaping its merited reward. Passenger travel on the great lakes has grown wonderfully during the past few years, and it has been stimulated in no small degree by the efforts of this company to increase the pleasures of lake navigation. No more pleasurable summer outing can be taken than a week's round trip from Cleveland to Detroit and Mackinac Island on the steamers of this company. It is not only a pleasurable but also a very healthful trip, and is distined to be favored with an increasing patronage from year to year, as health and pleasure seekers become more acquainted with it.

Promptly at half past nine o'clock the steamer swung from her moorings and was soon traveling like a duck up the Detroit river. The day's trip was a most delightful one. We passed up the Detroit, through the celebrated canal at St. Clair Flats, along Star Island, up the St. Clair river and into Lake Huron before sunset. We halted at Mt. Clemens and Port Huron, and during the night at Forestville, Sand Beach and Oscoda. At 7 o'clock Saturday morning we swung to the dock at the bustling city of Alpena where we found a big crowd and a brass band awaiting our arrival. We were escorted to the Opera House and formally welcomed in a neat address by the mayor and thence to the Churchill House where a delicious breakfast was served. A hungrier lot of mortals, we venture to say, never invaded the Churchill dining room. The morning meal having been properly disposed of, the entire crowd was loaded into carriges, and given a two hours' drive about the city. The morning was cool and cloudy, with a good breeze from the lake but no sign of rain, which made the ride decidedly invigorating. We visited the big pulp mill located there, and the famous Magnetic Sulphur Springs, which have a large bath house in connection. This establishment has become quite noted as a sanitarium and is open during the entire year. Alpena is the largest town on the eastern shore above Bay City. It has a population of about 13,000, electric lights, a telephone exchange, a good sewerage system and over nine miles of block pavement. It is a "saw dust" city, that is true, but their saw dust means business, and the town is forging right ahead in wealth, population and influence. It will always hold its position as the best town in the northeastern section of the state. Her citizens feel justly proud of the fact that the finest and fleetest steamer ever plying the waters of Lake Huron was named from their city, and they gave the new boat a royal welcome on her trial trip, just one week before our arrival there.

At 10 o'clock we resumed our trip and were soon speeding towards the straits. There was a good stiff breeze on the lake and plenty of white caps were to be seen, but no unusual incident occurred worthy of note and the boat was moored to the dock at Mackinac Island at exactly 7 o'clock that evening. The 108 miles from Alpena were covered in six hours and a half against a strong head wind. The party proceeded in a body to the Grand Hotel, where they found themselves in good condition to enjoy a hearty supper, or dinner, as they call it in that latitude. The association held a business session that evening and made commendable progress in the adoption of a new constitution and by-laws.

That Sunday passed on Mackinac Island will never be forgotten. It was a cloudless day. The thermometer stood at 60 in the morning, reached 70 in the afternoon. A gentle breeze was wafted through the straits from Lake Michigan, imparting its life giving ozone to the visitors on the island. A few days sojourn on the cedar clad bluffs of "Old Mackinac," would invigorate a body worn out with toil, most wonderfully. One can easily eat six meals a day and enjoy a luncheon before bed time. After partaking of a hearty breakfast at the Grand, the crowd scattered. Some took a stroll on foot around the island while others hired a carriage and took a drive. We adopted the latter plan, joining a party of nine, including Editor Field and his wife. As most of our readers are doubtless familiar with the principal features of Mackinac, we refrain from giving a detailed description here. The chief points of interest were all visited, including Fort Holmes, Point Lookout, Arch Rock, Sugar Loaf Rock, the British landing, the battle field, the cemeteries, Fort Mackinac and the Devil's Kitchen, returning to the Grand Hotel. We also visited a few of the cottages which line the bluff on the south shore, of which there are many costly and elegant ones. The Grand Hotel lies in a most picturesque location. It stands on a shelf, just large enough for the hotel and accessory buildings, about midway between the top of the bluff and the water's edge. A broad verandah extends the whole length of the house, from which a magnificent view is obtained. Across the straits can be seen the point where the City of Mackinaw likes nestled, away to the southeast stretches Lake Huron and directly east are the islands which line the shore all the way to the "Soo." It is one of the largest pleasure resorts in the United States and is complete in all its equipments. It is capable of accommodating one thousand guests, and is under the efficient management of J. R. Hayes, of Detroit, proprietor of the Wayne. Fishing and hunting abound upon the surrounding islands, while at the Grand one can enjoy all the conveniences and luxuries of home life at moderate expense. As a summer resort it is destined to continually grow in favor. Dr. Mills, once post surgeon at Mackinac, says: "No better place can be found for sickly girls and puny boys, for wornout men and women. From the hour of entering Lake Huron, your feeling will indicate that you have passed beyond the reign of miasma, fever, dyspepsia, blue devils and duns, and you look back upon the whole of them with gay indifference." At 5 o'clock that afternoon we bade a reluctant farewell to Mackinac, embarked on the new steamer Manitou, and were soon steaming along the straits toward Lake Michigan.

The Manitou is another new steamer, a steel-armored propeller, and this was her second trip up the lakes. Her regular run is from Chicago to Sault Ste. Marie, stopping at Petoskey and Mackinac Island. The Manitou is a magnificent boat, built of steel throughout, 295 feet in length, 42 feet beam, and a depth to the hurricane deck of 32 feet. A broad mahogany stairway leads to the main saloon, a beautiful room 200 feet in length, furnished in gorgeous style flanked on each side by a double row of staterooms, with a gallery on both sides for access to the upper rooms. The dining room is placed forward on the spar deck, being the full width of the ship and forty-three feet long. The usual plan on lake steamers of having the promenade on the spar deck around the state rooms has been entirely abandoned, and the promenade is located on the hurricane deck. This feature is regarded as a great improvement over the old plan. There are 120 staterooms, all of which, as well as the cabins, are finished in mahogany and elegantly furnished with upholstered furniture and Wilton carpets. The officers of the boat are all efficient and gentlemanly men and no pains were spared on their part to render our trip a pleasant one. The day was clear, cool and calm and the trip up Lake Michigan was delightful. The association held two business sessions beneath an awning on the hurricane deck. Interesting papers were read by Emma Bower, of the Ann Arbor Democrat, J. H. Jennings, of the Fenton Independent, F. H. Leavenworth, of the Detroit Indicator and H. M. Oren, of the Sault Ste. Marie News. The following officers were chosen for the coming year:

President, Theo. E. Quinby, Detroit Free Press.

Secretary, Jas. Schemerhorn, Hudson Gazette.

Vice-president, Frank Green, Olivet Optic.

Treasurer, Clark Rowlson, Hillsdale Standard.

Historian, W. P. Nesbitt, Big Rapids Herald.

Great credit is due to Secretary Slocum for the manner in which he handled the excursion, in all its details. At 6 o'clock p. m. the party landed at Chicago and at 7 we had arrived at the Mecca Hotel, where we took supper and passed the night, anticipating a good session at Jackson Park on the following day.

S. C. S.

PICKINGS FROM JACKSON PARK.

CHICAGO, July 17, '93.

The following letter was prepared for insertion in last week's issue, but arrived too late. A newspaper is no respecter of persons, when it comes to enforcing office rules. A communication from "the boss" is accorded the same treatment as though it came from an outsider, if it fails to arrive promptly on time.

Our party arrived Monday afternoon but none of us visited the Fair until Tuesday morning, so I was not a witness of the awful holocaust occasioned by the burning of the cold storage building. It was the talk of the city, however, on Monday afternoon and Tuesday. As usual in such cases "no one was in fault." It is evident that the building was very faulty in both design and construction and there was no adequate provision for escape in case of fire. A searching investigation will be made and the blame will be placed where it rightfully belongs. The fire engines on the grounds are well equipped and every building of any size is provided with hose which can be attached direct to the hydrants. Chemical extinguishers are scattered all over the grounds and every provision made to choke a fire out at once. A failure in this direction would amount to criminal neglect, for most of the buildings are mere tinder boxes.

Old Probs has given us a sample of his choicest torrid weather for the past week. People here who were anxious to put in good time at the fair have been inclined to accept the general theory as true that Chicago is located only just around the corner from Hades. And yet there is always a good breeze blowing from the lake, which makes the temperature in the park quite comfortable compared to what it is down in the business section of the city.

The vexed railroad problem is in a fair way for solution now. The "Big Four" road has opened the ball by offering tickets at just one-half rates from any station on their line to Chicago upon any day and any train with a limit of ten days. Other roads will soon follow suit and the big rush will begin in August. The limit ought to be about four weeks, but with that exception the plan adopted by the Big Four is all that the traveling public can consistently ask. It is safe to predict that a four weeks' limit will finally be adopted. Will a half-fare rate double the travel to Chicago? I believe it will and more too. If that be true then the railroads will help themselves by granting this concession to the public.

The past week was marked by several notable events on Jackson Park. The big fire happened on Monday. Three grand choruses were held on three afternoons at Festival hall, one of them being a chorus of 1,000 children's voices. Thursday evening a Bengal tiger attempted to chew up its trainer at Hagenbeck's arena on the Midway section. Friday, the 14th, was French day, the anniversary of the fall of the Bastile. People of that nationality were out in force and had a big time, the festivities closing with a dinner at the White Horse Inn. The same evening a reception was given to Secretary John G. Carlisle at the Kentucky building.

I am now rooming at the Cottage Grove Inn. It is a two-story flat, arranged for lodging rooms only. Each room has a wardrobe closet and each suite of four has a bath-room in connection. It is located at 3262 Cottage Grove Ave., on the cable line about twenty minutes' run from the fair grounds. There is a good restaurant across the street, where a wholesome meal can be procured at from twenty-five to fifty cents. During the first two days after my arrival I stopped at the Mecca to be with the crowd. That is a fine hotel, well kept, but my lodging room at the Cottage Grove is much more comfortable and commodious, and costs only half as much. A room with one bed can be obtained for fifty cents, and one with two beds, suitable for a man and his wife and child costs only $1.50. The location is a very desirable one and the accommodations could not be bettered for the expense. I expect to remain here during the balance of my stay. This hotel is controlled by the Chicago Entertainment Bureau, which has on its books a large number of very desirable rooms in private houses. People wishing further information can obtain it by calling at the HERALD office. As a matter of precaution all visitors should secure their rooms in advance.

Yesterday was the last "open Sunday" on Jackson Park, as hereafter the gates will be closed on that day. This controversy has been settled at last and everybody seems to be satisfied. Those who favored Sunday closing are pleased for they have gained their point. Those who opposed it are not displeased for the experiment has been faithfully tried and has not proven a success. The exhibitors and employes are certainly pleased, for they need one day in seven for bodily rest. And all must agree that the last open Sunday was put to good use, the entire proceeds (over $42,000) being devoted to the relief fund for the families of the fire victims.

There is no reason why anyone should delay coming here now, except to suit their convenience in leaving home. The Fair is fully complete in all its departments and there is enough to be seen to occupy a man's time three months and consume all the money he cares to squander. In all the vast array of exhibits there is but very little to criticise. About the only thing to find serious fault with is the fact that the means of transportation within the grounds are too few and too expensive. The wheel chairs are a "big thing" both in convenience and price, for they cost seventy-five cents an hour. No vehicles are allowed on the grounds except [illegible] early in the morning. The intramural railway is a great saver of shoe leather and the rate is reasonable, only ten cents, but it runs around the outskirts of the grounds. The electric launches are the best means of travel within the grounds, but they charge with as little compunction as a Chicago hackman. Twenty-five cents is enough for a round trip, and the fare for shorter distances ought to be ten cents. Some plan should be devised to increase the means and reduce the cost of transportation within the park.

July 24, 1893.

The first five days of last week I devoted faithfully to sight-seeing on Jackson Park. There were a number of notable events during the week. The Swedes had their celebration on Thursday. An immense procession marched through the business section of the city, took a boat to the Park, and then took the Park by storm. The parade formed at the peristyle and marched along the lake front and across the lagoon to the Swedish building, where exercises were held. At three p. m. a grand concert was held at Festival Hall, in which Swedish singers only participated. The attendance was the largest during July—except on the 4th—mounting up to 174,228. The grounds and buildings were beautifully illuminated in the evening. On the same evening a reception was tendered to Gov. Rich at the Michigan and the State building swarmed with Wolverines until the hour of closing arrived.

I made it a point to drop into the Michigan building at least once each day and never failed to meet some acquaintance either from Tecumseh or elsewhere. During the first week Editor Kempton of the Addison Courier, and Editor Grandon and wife of the Adrian Messenger joined their newspaper brethren. Among the Tecumseh people whom I met the first week were J. H. Smith and wife, Capt. Lawrence and Geo. Schreder, also T. M. Cooley, Jr., of Ann Arbor, and Judge Howell of Detroit. The second week I had the pleasure of having my ears pulled by Dr. North in the Woman's Building. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter and was absent from home about ten days. Mrs. Taylor and Miss Ida Taylor were found at the Michigan and also Mrs. Hardenburgh and daughter. The two latter started for home last week via Muskegon. S. P. Hosmer, his wife, son and daughter, Mrs. A. W. Mills and daughter Mary, and Mrs. Hettie Brewer, and Mrs. D. A. Dodge of Adrian were all found at the Michigan. I encountered Alva Spayde, his wife and daughter on a cable car one evening going down into the city. When strolling along among thousands of strangers at the big show it is a very pleasant episode to pounce upon some old acquaintances unexpectedly and enjoy a good visit, although brief, with a person you know. It makes one feel more at home and dispels that "tired feeling" which one finds creeping upon him at the close of a day's tramp.

I spent the better portion of one forenoon making a few business calls down-in the city. Found Lord & Thomas in the McCormick block, of which they occupy the entire third floor. They have the largest advertising agency in the West and are doing an immense business. The firm are prompt and gentlemanly in all their business dealings and it is a pleasure to transact business with them. The Chicago Newspaper Union are now located on the West side at 87 and 89 Jefferson St. They have an extensive trade in ready print sheets and plate matter and also carry a large stock of papers of all kinds and materials for printers' use. This house has several branches in the South and West and has grown into one of the big concerns of Chicago. The Chicago Paper Co. occupy an entire five-story building on Franklin St., which is filled from cellar to attic with paper and printers' stock of all kinds. They carry one of the largest and best assorted stocks of any house in the west. Their promptness in filling orders and courteous treatment of their customers is building up a mammoth trade, all of which they deserve and more too. The Owen Electric Belt Co. are located on State St., where they occupy a large part of a six-story block. They manufacture belts and other electric appliances and their trade extends over the entire country. As they are liberal advertisers their business is growing rapidly and promises to develop, within a very few years, into mammoth proportions. Dr. Price's Baking Powder Co. occupy a big five-story block on the North side. This firm needs no introduction to the reading public. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder has become a household word in nearly every household in the Northwest, and a household necessity as well. This House is one of the big concerns of Chicago now and their trade is rapidly augmenting from year to year. They sell a first-class article and advertise it extensively, which are the two secrets of their success.

Bert Corey, of Tecumseh, has charge of the exhibit of the Woonsocket Rubber Co., which is located in the Shoe and Leather building on Jackson Park. It is quite a responsible position, but Bert fills it admirably.

I. C. Wolcott has purchased the stock of furniture, formerly belonging to J. S. Kinney, of Wm. Bresie and will continue the business at the old headquarters. Mr. Wolcott has sold the undertaking department of the business to G. H. Tansley.

Chas. H. Rude is moving his laundry equipments from the store on Chicago street to the building on Pearl street formerly used as a laundry. He has made arrangements so that people so desiring may leave their laundry work at Avery & Co's grocery where it will be called for.

People who design visiting the World's Fair would do well to call at this office and see what accommodations we can offer them. The Chicago Entertainment Bureau have some fine rooms on their list, all at very reasonable prices. Circulars are furnished gratis. Call and get one.

We are in receipt of the State Normal School register for '93. The enrollment shows a total of 1255 students, of which 937 are in the Normal department and 318 in the Training school. We notice the names of Misses Flota Smith and Minnie Barrett of Ridgeway, Misses Fern Temple, Eleanor Meade and Blanche Taylor of this place, and Misses Florence Camburn, Nettie Crittenden, Grace Sage and Franc Richart of Macon.

A man giving his name as Isaac Robinson has been working for some time at El. Gray's. Yesterday morning he went into the house, and put on a new pair of trousers belonging to another man named Custer and started forth. Marshall Stevens was notified and gave chase. The fellow got a ride and kept ahead till he got to Adrian, when Sheriff Wilson dropped like a pall on him and man, pants and all now languish in the county bastile.

Prof. D. A. Hammond, of Charlotte, spent last Sunday in Tecumseh.

Miss Mary Brown, of Adrian, is visiting Tecumseh friends this week.

A new floor is being laid in the middle room of Burridge's law office.

S. P. Hosmer and family got home from the World's Fair last Friday.

The officers and directors of the Hillsdale Farmer's Picnic Association will meet at Beardsell's Landing, Devil's Lake Saturday to make arrangements for this year's forthcoming picnic.

Billy Owen bought John Heesen's steam launch and took it to Marshall. They put it on the river there and were having a great time with it and all of a sudden it went to the bottom of the drink.

P. W. Adams and wife, of Delaware, are spending a few days with Tecumseh friends. They expect to go to Chicago next week to visit the big fair, and will make another short stop here on their way home.

An editor out west who sends his paper out to "time subscribers" sends a bill each year. When a second bill is sent and there is no reponse he takes it for granted that the subscriber is dead, and publishes an "obituary notice" in his columns.

Twenty-one bands have accepted the invitation of the City of Hudson for the band tournament, August 17. It is expected that the number will reach thirty and it promises to be the grandest affair in the history of the Michigan and Ohio Band Association.

S. C. Stacy spent Sunday, July 16th, at Elgin, Ill., with his brother George. Found him in the old position at the News office and prospering. Made David Burger a call also. He and his family are enjoying good health and have a nice home there.

The HERALD job rooms have just turned out a new catalogue for the Library Association. It is a neat pamphlet of 32 pages, containing a full list of the 1279 volumes now in the library. The library is well managed and is becoming quite an institution.

It would help out sanitary measures considerably during this weather if people would be as particular about cleaning up in the rear of their stores as in front. Out of the rear door goes paper, meat, decayed fruit, sweepings and various other refuse matter and no one seems to think that it makes any difference whether it is disposed of or not just so it is out of public sight.

"Old Fan," the faithful family horse belonging to Mrs. Judge Stacy, went the way of all flesh last Friday. She was 34 years old on the 21st day of June last, was broken to the buggy when a three year old colt and has filled the place of a faithful, trusty domestic animal ever since. She was foaled on that very farm within twenty feet of the spot where her bones now lie buried. If "Old Fan" had possessed the power of speech she could have related many an interesting chapter of family history.

Wm. A. Patterson and family, of California, arrived in town last Saturday. They have been doing the World's Fair and visiting James W. Patterson's family in Elkhart, and will visit friends here before returning. This is the first visit Mr. Patterson has made to the old home in twenty years. He has changed but very little during that time, and most people will recognize "Billy Patterson" at once upon seeing him. He will find lots of friends to shake hands with during his stay in Tecumseh.

Garrett Ellis, of Clinton, was in town Tuesday.

W. B. Darling and wife are among the Tecumseh people at Chicago this week.

Gen. Fred B. Wood, of Adrian, was in town last evening to attend the inspection of Co. C.

The Annual Reunion and Picnic of the Lenawee Co. G.A.R. Association will be held Thursday, August 24th, '93, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., on the Fair grounds of the Lenawee Co. Agriculture Society at Adrian.

The quarterly tea meeting of the W. F. M. S. of the M. E. church will be held at the home of Mrs. M. J. Tremaine, on Wednesday, Aug. 2d. Business meeting at 4 o'clock. Tea served from 6 to 7. All are invited.

Harry M. Bailey, a former Macon boy, is a member of the Columbian Guard on Jackson Park. His beat is on the grand plaza near the Administration building. Macon people who visit the Fair should hunt him up.

The Michigan State Teachers' Association have erected a fine building at Hackley Park Assembly, which is located at Lake Harbor, near Muskegon. The building will be dedicated Thursday, August 3d., when a fine literary and musical program will be presented. Reduced rates will be given on all the railroads.

Last Friday afternoon the Adrian Pearls played a game of ball with the High School nine. Our boys as usual declined to take a back seat and at the end of the first half of the ninth inning the score stood 7 to 11 in favor of the High School and the Pearls to go in the field, so the home team magnanimously declined to play the last half as they were satisfied with the score as it stood.

Bro. Stearns, of the Adrian Press, will receive the sincere sympathy and condolence of his journalistic brethren throughout the County in the sad affliction which has befallen him. In his case the bereavement is doubly severe, for his wife was a treasure, such as few men possess. So far as condolence can lighten the burden placed upon him, it will be freely bestowed from sympathetic hearts.

All remember to attend the game of ball on Friday, July 28th, between the "crack" Wolf Creek team and the Tecumseh High School, at Bills Driving Park. All can rest assured that the High School club will do their best to defeat the visitors, and a good game can be expected. If the financial outlook was better the school would go ahead and secure a game with the Detroit High School. Every one come. Admission 10 cents. Ladies free; grand stand free; game called at 3:00 o'clock.

Monday evening a committee met at the Armory and organized the Tecumseh Base Ball Association with the following officers: President, W. Burridge; Vice-President, Jehiel Davidson; Sec. and Treas., B. J. Garlinghouse. Board of Directors: J. L. Anderson, E. N. Satterthwaite, S. W. Bordine, E. C. Kennedy, J. J. Freeman. Finance Committee: Sam R. McClure, Jehiel Davidson. A nine will be organized, good men secured, money raised, and some fine games played during the remainder of the season.

Robert Boyd's horse was hitched in front of Whitenack's hardware store Tuesday when a piece of paper was blown along the street in front of him. The horse jerked back, breaking the tie strap and then started for home on his own hook. Ben Garlinghouse was reclining gracefully against the side of the hotel, and when the horse got that far, Ben stepped into the street and with some impressive gesticulations with his hat and arms prevailed upon the animal to go back to its post and get a new hitch, and a better start next time.

Ohio has decided to send her state troops to the World's Fair.

Another total eclipse of the street lights Tuesday evening between 9 and 10 o'clock.

E. L. Teeple, our photographer, is more than rushed with business, and is turning out some very nice work.

Mrs. Benj. Janssen and little daughter, of New York, are spending the summer with Mrs. Janssen's father, Webster Anderson.

Geo. P. Pardington of Brooklyn, N.Y. is visiting S. W. Anderson and family. Mr. Pardington has been attending school in New York city, graduating from the University there last month.

Company C was inspected last evening by Major Seymour Howell of Adrian. The boys had out a large company and acquitted themselves creditably. Numerous guests were present to show their interest in the welfare of our military organization and congratulate the boys on their good showing. Capt. Hayden says that in spite of the dissatisfaction about the camp location he expects to take fifty men to the annual encampment this year. After inspection an impromptu spread was tendered to the inspecting officers and a party of our business men in the Armory parlors. Anecdotes were told and reminiscences recalled, and at a late hour the group dispersed, having thoroughly enjoyed the evening. Major Howell and Gen. Wood, who accompanied him, drove back to Adrian last night.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Monday, the twenty-sixth day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

Present, Richard B Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of John N. Gordon, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Eugenie H. Gordon, executrix of the last will and testament and upon the estate of said deceased, alleging that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred have been fully paid and that she is now ready to render her final annual account and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed according to the terms of the will, and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper,

It is ordered, that Monday, the 24th day of July next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further Ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendancy of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

WHY ARE WHEELER & WILSON'S "No. 9" SEWING MACHINES POPULAR?

BECAUSE LADIES BUY THEM LIKE THEM AND TELL THEIR FRIENDS.

Many ladies have used our machines twenty to thirty years in their family work, and are still using the original machines we furnished them a generation ago. Many of our machines have run more than twenty years without repairs, other than needles. With proper care they never wear out, and seldom need repair.

We have built sewing machines for more than forty years and have constantly improved them. We build our machines on honor, and they are recognized everywhere as the most accurately fitted and finely finished sewing machines in the world. Our latest, the "No. 9," is the result of our long experience. In competition with the leading machines of the world, it received the Grand Prize at the Paris Exposition of 1889, as the best, other machines receiving only complimentary medals of gold, silver and bronze. The Grand Prize was what all sought for, and our machine was awarded it.

THE FAIR SIDE SHOWS.

An Invaluable Addition to the Exposition.

THE PEOPLE WANT AMUSEMENT.

Something Light and Restful Mixed with the Serious Studies of the Exposition—Fireworks and Music Increase the Attractions—Educational Features—The Foreign Commissioners.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 24.—[Special.]—The Great exposition has some features which are not set down in the guide-books, and which we are likely to overlook unless we sit and think of them and try to understand their significance. A thought which has often come to me is of the wonderful showing of man's activities and efforts we have here aside from the exhibits in the buildings. When you stop to think of it there is nothing in the world that does not find a reflection here in one way or another. In helping to mirror all life and forms of energy and methods of man the Midway plaisance or sideshow feature of the exposition is invaluable. Better still, it is a sort of playground of the fair. When you come here and spend several days wandering about the great park, you will understand what I mean when I say that but for these side shows the exposition would in one sense be a failure.

Looking at the exhibits, trying to get the benefit of the innumerable object-lessons here displayed, is hard work. It is trying upon the eye, the mind, the physical strength. It requires concentration, and in passing from one thing to another, in the unconscious effort to estimate the true value of each of the kaliedoscopic presentations, the brain grows weary. There comes to every visitor a time of the day in which he feels that he must have some rest. He wants recreation. Just as the children in school study all the better and learn the more for the recess or noon hour that awaits them, with its sports and games, so the visitors to the exposition love to steal away from the more serious part of the show and pass a few pleasant hours in the playground of the plaisance. Some of these side shows are eminently worthy a visit, while others are just as well left unseen.

The managers of the fair have discovered that the public needs something besides the exposition itself. Great as the fair is, comprehensive and wonderful as one finds it in all its departments, the people want to be amused, they want something that is light and restful to be mixed with their studies. Hence the introduction of fireworks as a regular feature of certain exposition nights. Twice each week fireworks displays are given on the lake front near the Manufactures building, and though they are not wonderful exhibits of the pyrotechnic art they have a splendid setting and are enjoyed by large throngs of people. One of the best places from which to see them is the surface of the big pier, and there, luckily, is the novel method of transportation, known as the moving sidewalk, on which one may sit and see the fire-show in the heavens and on the surface of the waters of the lake. It is rather odd that with the greatest exposition ever known at their doors the people of Chicago or any considerable part of them should be attracted by such a common-place spectacle as fireworks, but such is the fact. Every night the exposition gives a fire display the attendance is larger by many thousands than on other days, and though the pyrotechnics cost about $2,000 on each occasion the exposition profits largely thereby.

Music helps the attendance at the fair, too, though not nearly as much as it might have helped had a proper provision been made to meet the musical wants of the people. Theodore Thomas has here the finest orchestra ever organized. To maintain it, and to provide halls in which to hold the concerts, the management of the exposition has expended about half a million dollars. Of course the idea was that in music as in everything else this exposition should show the best man was capable of. But it is unfortunate that in expending such a vast sum of money for this creditable purpose better provision was not made for giving the people amusement instead of instruction. That Theodore Thomas is a great musician no one doubts. That his concerts in Music or Festival hall, with his magnificent orchestra and a few high-class soloists, are extremely enjoyable to the lovers of classical music, is beyond question. The trouble is that not one man in a hundred, not one woman in fifty, really cares for this sort of music. I have been at Thomas concerts, in the beautiful Music hall, built by the munificence of the exposition, when there were more people on the stage than in the audience. When the people come to an exposition they want music only as an incident to the principal purpose to their visit. They want it as they want the side shows of the plaisance, for rest and recreation. They cannot find this rest in the class of music which Mr. Thomas gives them. If there was no charge for seats at these concerts, doubtless many people would attend, but with prices varying from 50 cents to $1 the number of visitors who are willing to give up both the time and the money is extremely small.

Many men think the class of music which Thomas plays torture rather than delight. A few days ago I heard a cultured and learned man, one of the national exposition commissioners, say he would not sit through one of Thomas' Wagner concerts for a hundred dollars. Yet in their blind devotion to music and their admiration of the greatest living exponent of the art of orchestration, the managers of the fair have thrown away about half a million dollars without any sort of adequate return in education of the masses or dignifying of the exposition.

At the same time there is general complaint of the amount and quality of the music furnished in the grounds. In this vast exposition there should be at least twenty bands constantly employed. Instead there are two, and some days only one. The only place in which open air concerts may be enjoyed is in front of the Administration building, and since the departure of the Sousa band the concerts there have been rather disappointing. The money that has been spent in the vain endeavor to popularize concerts of the Thomas sort would have filled the grounds with melody every afternoon and evening, and proved a great attraction to the people.

Indeed, plans had been laid for such a musical treat at this fair as the world never heard before. Arrangements were making to hire the noted bands of the world, from England, France, Germany, Italy, Vienna, Mexico, South America, to come here at different times, visit the exposition and furnish concerts in the open air for the amusement of the masses. This plan if executed would have proved immensely popular. It would have given the people just what they want. It would have added much to the revenues of the exposition. But now the pressure of economy has forced a total or almost total abandonment of this plan. Thomas is costing so much money that little is left for popular music.

One thing I like about the fair is the educational features which abound, aside from the lessons which the exhibits themselves convey. For instance, we have every day a lecture on cooking in the Woman's building. It is given by a well-known woman expert, and thousands upon thousands of American women have profited by the course. In the Children's building there are lectures on the science of rearing children, on their care in sickness, on the best methods of educating and training them, all illustrated with appliances and schools in actual operation. The effect of these efforts cannot be anything but beneficial and on a scale never before attempted in this country. It is a delight to watch the eagerness with which the little folks play their part in this work, and it is instructive to note the earnestness with which the mothers of America attend and seek to learn and thus to add to their divine usefulness.

These are only samples of the educational features of the fair. There are lectures on electricity, with the comprehensive Electric building as an object lesson. There are lectures on art, with the Art palace for a world of subjects. There are demonstrations in the science of agriculture, and some of the chemical and scientific tests of soils, fertilizers methods of feeding, of manipulation of milk, and the lessons in veterinary science are calculated to be a great boon to our agricultural population.

A feature of the fair which one is glad to see is the large number of visitors, particularly the young people, who go about with notebooks in hand, industriously jotting down memoranda concerning all the things that they see. Every day I observe hundreds of boys and girls, and young men and women, doing this; morever, they ask questions concerning all the things that interest them, and what they do not understand by looking at they seek an understanding of by means of explanation. How much good will all this do? No one can estimate its value. And when you come to the fair take my advice and bring a notebook with you. Come determined to see as much as you can, but better than seeing a good deal, to understand that which you do see. Do not be afraid to ask questions. Nearly all the exhibitors here employ men to attend your wants, to show you the strong points of their wares and to explain to you the processes of their manufacture and their special points of excellence.

One of the features of the fair which every visitor notes with interest is the large number of foreigners attached to the various headquarters. Officialism is a well established institution abroad, and our friends from across the sea find it impossible to accomplish anything at home or abroad without a formidable array of officers, lieutenants, secretaries, attaches civil and military, messengers and clerks. Their organizations as a rule are much more cumbersome than Americans would employ in order to accomplish the same results, but we shall not complain because the liberality of the foreign governments in this respect has added a picturesqueness to the exposition by which we are all the gainers.

For instance, the official list of foreign commissioners and their staffs fills seven large pages of closely printed type, in the pamphlet published under authority of the foreign affairs department. Japan has no fewer than twenty-one commissioners and secretaries, many of them being young men whose fathers belong to the nobility and who were sent here primarily to take charge of the exhibits of their country and incidentally to study the arts and commerce of America. Brazil is represented by twenty-four delegates, six or eight of them being army and navy officers, one a baron, and several others professors in the colleges. Five men represent the interests of the Argentine Republic, while Canada has as many as thirty men here in charge of her various departments. Four men have come from the Cape Colony, one from Bulgaria, one from British Guiana and one from Bolivia. The United States of Colombia have eleven representatives in Jackson park, Costa Rica eight, Curacoa one, Denmark four, and Ecuador five. Germany has an exhibit of men here which is almost as interesting as its displays of wares and machinery. There must be in all four or five hundred Germans direct from Faderland at Jackson park, though only fifty of them are listed in the official directory. Thirteen of these are the regular staff of commissioners and secretaries, and the remainder are from the council of deputies, skilled men in each of the lines of manufacture or commerce represented by the exhibits. There are civil and mechanical engineers, architects, metallurgists, electricians, educators, chemists, experts in textiles and ceramics. Twenty or thirty of them are professors, and many are men distinguished for their attainments and their achievements.

France has forty official representatives, and each of these has his assignment to one or other of the departments of the exposition. It is a magnificent organization. Besides there is a detachment of sailors acting as guards under command of Count Balincourt, a lieutenant in the French navy. Nearly all the foreign countries have here soldiers or sailors officered by men from the army or navy. Italy is represented by thirteen men, among them several of the nobility and eminent professors. Russia sends about fifty delegates, among them several counts and two women, one of them a princess.

These figures, without going into details as to the other countries, will indicate with sufficient clearness the manner in which foreign nations are represented at the fair.

A LIFE TERM.

Punishment Fixed for the Murderers of Molitor.

Sentence Passed Upon Jacobs, Fuhrmann, Vogler and Repke—Reiger Tried and Acquitted—Enormous Cost of the Trial.

END OF A NOTED CASE.

ALPENA, July 23.—Jacobs, Fuhrmann, Vogler and Repke, who were convicted of the murder of Albert Molitor, received their sentence Saturday. When asked by Judge Kelley if they had anything to say, all of the prisoners expressed themselves as being not guilty. Repke was the only one of the four who broke down. The judge then sentenced them to imprisonment for life at hard labor at Jackson prison. Stephen Reiger, the last of the men to be tried for participation in the crime, was acquitted after a trial lasting three days. The verdict gave general satisfaction to everyone, as there is no doubt that Reiger was forced to go with the murderers. The cases in all have cost about $8,000. This Alpena county will have to stand until Presque Isle is able to pay it back, which may be many years.

ALMOST WIPED OUT.

Great Damage Done by Fire to the Village of Ewen.

ISHPEMING, July 21.—The village of Ewen, 85 miles west of Ishpeming, on the main line of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, was almost wiped out by fire Thursday afternoon. The fire started at 1:30 p. m. and no one seems to know its origin. The town is only four years old, being built on land thrown open to settlement in 1889. It was the largest town in Ontonagon county and had a population of 2,000. The business blocks were of wood and the fire speedily grew beyond the control of the local fire department. The railroad depot, containing the only telegraph office, was one of the first buildings to be burned, and all communication was cut off from 2:15 p. m. till late at night, when a temporary wire was patched up. Every business house but two was burned and a number of residences were destroyed. The loss is variously estimated at from $150,000 to $250,000. The insurance is light and in most cases there is none, as rates were considered too high. The plant of the Ontonagon River Lumber company was saved with great difficulty. The town has waterworks, but the hose could not be used. Several persons were injured and it is reported that one woman is missing.

WILL VISIT BATTLE FIELDS.

The Positions Held by Michigan Regiments to Be Marked.

GRAND RAPIDS, July 21.—The commission appointed by Gov. Rich to mark the positions of Michigan regiments in the battle of Chickamauga, Chattanooga and Mission Ridge, made up of L. L. Church, Howard City; J. M. Whallon, Fitchburg, S. F. Dwight, Hilisdale; E. A. Crane, Kalamazoo, and Charles E. Belknap, Grand Rapids, met here Thursday night and organized by electing Charles E. Belknap president. He will also act as secretary. The commissioners will leave for Chickamauga October 16 and will spend two weeks on the battlefields, locating the position. They will be accompanied by members of each command participating in the battles to aid them in their work. The regiments interested are the Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Twenty-first and Twenty-second infantry, Second and Fourth cavalry, batteries A and D and the First Michigan engineers. The next legislature will be asked for appropriations to erect suitable monuments.

Iron Miners' Wages Must Come Down.

ISHPEMING, July 24.—The depressed iron market has caused many mines to reduce the output fully one-half, and a general reduction in wages has been decided on through the five iron ranges of the Lake Superior district. A general reduction of 10 per cent. was made by some mines, but at most properties day laborers will have only a light cut, while skilled labor will be reduced 10 to 25 per cent. The mine employes make no objections to the cut, considering it inevitable.

Died on Electric Wires.

BAY CITY, July 22.—Harry Rockwell, aged 25 years, was instantly killed Friday evening while working on an electric light pole at Sixth and Washington streets. He had taken hold of a live wire with his left hand and by throwing his right leg over another formed a circuit. His companion on the pole kept his body from falling to the ground until help came. There were no marks excepting a slight burn on the knee.

Drowned on His Wedding Tour.

DETROIT, July 21.—Lieut. Charles C. Ogden, of the Thirteenth United States infantry, was drowned Friday morning near Hamburg, at the home of ex-Gov. Winans. Lieut. Ogden was on his wedding trip, having been married at Fort Supply, I. T., on the 5th inst. He was a graduate of the class of 1891 at West Point academy, having been appointed from Greenville, where his parents now reside.

Expenses of the Industrial School.

LANSING, July 22.—The report of the state industrial school for boys for the year ending June 30 shows the total current expenses of the year were $64,929.54. The appropriation made for the year was $56,000, and the earnings were $10,048.17. An unexpended balance of this fund of $296.25 was covered back into the state treasury.

Broke the 25-Mile Record.

DETROIT, July 24.—In the presence of 25,000 people Saturday afternoon Frank Waller, of Indiana, who had an allowance of thirty seconds won the first prize in the Hilsedegen international road race, 25 miles, in 1 hour 6 minutes and 10 seconds, breaking the world's record of 1 hour 11 minutes and 59 seconds.

GOOD LOOKS.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the Liver be inactive you have a Bilious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a Dyspeptic look, and if your Kidneys be affected you have a Pinched look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and tonic which acts directly on these vital organs. Cures Pimples, Blotches, Boils and gives a good complexion. Sold at J. J. Orr's drug store, 50c. per bottle.

FELL DEAD.

These words are very familiar to our readers, as not a day passes without the report of the sudden death of some prominent citizen. The explanation is "Heart Disease." Therefore beware if you have any of the following symptoms: short breath, pain in side, smothering Spells, swollen ankles, asthmatic breathing, weak and hungry spells Tenderness in shoulder or arm, fluttering of heart or irregular pulse. These symptoms mean heart disease. The most reliable remedy is Dr. Miles' New Heart cure, which has saved thousands of lives. Book of testimonials free at Baker and Halls.

Unmixed evils rarely occur. The fact that money has been tight is said to have resulted in a great deal of sober thought.

WHAT DO YOU TAKE

Medecine for? Because you are sick and want to get well, or because you wish to prevent illness. Then remember that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures all diseases caused by impure blood and debility of the system. It is not what its proprietors say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its meril. Be sure to get Hood's, and only Hood's.

TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM

Effectually yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys or liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds or fevers use Syrup of Figs.

Pedestrians in Boston should beware of three destructive elements: the fire engine, the electric cars and the devil.

The value of a good name was well exemplified the other day, when a man asked one of our druggists for a bottle of Sarsaparilla. "Whose?" inquired the clerk. "Whose? why, Ayer's of course. Ye don't suppose I'm going to run any risks with Hannah, do ye?"

Everybody is asking everybody just now, "Will you attend the World's Fair?" They ought also to ask if you know the quality of Chicago water and are aware that it is "bad medecine" for strangers. Doctors' services are expensive in Chicago. In traveling, especially if visiting Chicago, it will be wise to have a supply of Brant's Extract of Blackberry with you. It may ward off cholera. It excels all other remedies for quick relief and cure of Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Flux, Colic, Summer Complaint and all Bowel Troubles of either children or adults. Only 25 cents of J. J. Floyd Starrett has resigned his position as superintendent of the electric light works here and will go to Chicago Thursday, where he and Laverne Sutfin have secured positions with an electrical company.

The remains of Mrs. Dayton, a former resident of Clinton, were brought here from Chicago for burial last Friday. Will St. John, a son-in-law of Mrs. Dayton, with whom she had made her home for several years, accompanied the remains. The funeral was held Friday evening at half-past six, at the residence of Darius St. John.

Miss Belle Corey, who has been an invalid for over a year and confined to her bed for three months, died Tuesday afternoon at half-past three. She had been a great sufferer during all her sickness, and, as her disease was incurable, death came, not as a grim avenger, but as a kind angel, to bear her away to a land of rest and peace, where her mother preceded her but a few months ago. The funeral will be held Thursday at 4 p. m., the service conducted by Rev. Ramsdell, of the M. E. Church, of which she had been a faithful and consistent member for many years.

Last Saturday every promise of a big day for Clinton was fulfilled to the letter. People began coming into town before noon and midnight had come before all had left. On account of the high wind the balloon ascension was postponed until six o'clock. The ball game between Ypsilanti and Clinton was witnessed by a large crowd of people, the gate receipts being $22.75. The score stood 24 to 6 in favor of Clinton. It was seven o'clock before preparations were fully completed for the balloon ascension, but the crowd was a good-natured one and seemed to enjoy the waiting. Prof. Burk made a very successful trip, going about one thousand feet into the air. The parachute opened when he had made a descent of about 150 feet and he landed near Mr. Perry's barn, about a mile southeast of here. This was his 52d trip. The merchants were more than pleased with their share of the day's business, and the people in general seemed satisfied with the day's pleasure.

Nothing Like It.

"Nothing like it has ever been seen in this country."—That is the opinion of every visitor to Hagenbeck's Zoological Arena on Midway Plaisance, on the World's Fair grounds. Every day, from morning till late in the evening, thousands of World's Fair visitors crowd this wonderful show to witness the performance of the lions on horse back, tigers on velocipedes, trained pigs, the rare monkeys and parrots, and thousands of other wonderful curiosities. Don't fail to see the greatest of all animal shows when visiting the World's Fair grounds. A restaurant with popular prices is in the building.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Miss Mertie Goodykoontz, of Ann Arbor gave an interesting program of readings at the M. E. church, Monday evening, under the auspices of the Epworth League. Her selections were chosen with variety, from the comical passages depicted from Josiah Allen's Political Aspirations to the sterner presentation of the Triumph of Conscience from Geo. Eliots "Mill on the Floss." Miss Goodykoontz is an elocutionist of superior talent and is sure to please those who are fortunate enough to attend one of her recitals. The League was not financially benefited we understand, the weather being so torrid as to prevent as large an attendance as could have been wished.

For some time past celery growers around this section have been troubled by a small black insect which would enter the celery stalk at the first joint and eat its way into the plant, killing the stalks so affected. Sometimes 20 or 25 of the little pests will be found in a single stem. The other day a grist of them were captured, and D. T. Hall sent them to Prof. Cook at Lansing. Geo. C. Davis, advising zoologist of the Agricultural College, was sent down and has been investigating the proclivites of the insect and studying on an exterminator. He thinks he can successfully knock 'em out.

The Progress of Romulus.

Romulus, July 26.—(Special.)—The work on the new manufacturing plants—the furniture factory and the wire works—is progressing rapidly, making the line of factories present a very imposing appearance. One year ago Romulus could not boast of a single industry, now she points with pride at her four substantial enterprises. In addition to the many houses that have been built during the past year, a number are to be started at once to accomomdate the increasing population. Altogether Romulus is one of the liveliest towns in the state. There is also a grand opening for a hustling druggist, hotel man, general store, furniture store and hardware store.

Cheap Excursion to Put-in-Bay.

On August 9, 1893, the C., J. & M. Ry. will run a special low rate excursion Tecumseh to Put-in-Bay via. Toledo and steamer. Special train leaves 8:32 a. m. standard time. Fare $1 50 for the round trip. For further information call on nearest C., J. & M. Agent.

Messrs. R. B. Miller and J. N. Courtney representatives of the Romulus Land Syndicate, who are now at Hotel Edrose, Clinton, Mich., where they are meeting with success, will be here in about a week or ten days to show our readers what they have to offer in the way of a first-class investment. Watch for their large advertisement with reference to Romulus, Mich, setting forth plans and its record for the past year.

World's Fair Complete.

The World's Columbian Exposition is one of the most complete and attractive exhibitions ever given since time began. As the warm, balmy days of summer make a visit to this great show a pleasure, hundreds of thousands of people are feasting their eyes on its beauties. In order to prepare the great mass of humanity to better understand and appreciate the Exposition, the World's Columbian Exposition Illustrated, in its midsummer or July number, has made a new departure in the character and class of its illustrations. In this issue especial attention has been given to illustrations of the exhibits. Beginning with a full page frontispiece of P. de-Gloukhoyskoy, Imperial Commissioner General of Russia to the World's Fair, the other prominent illustrations are full-page reproductions of an exhibit of Japanese Silk Tapestry, Agricultural Building, and others. Besides these are the Lapland Village, Chinese Theatre, Walter M. Lowney Company's Chocolate Pavilion, Reproduction of Farm Scene in Grains in Illinois State Building, View from Wooded Island, Model of St. Peter's at Rome, Illinois and Iowa's Pavilions in Agricultural Building, a beautiful center piece, The Exposition by Night, Hide and Seek, Interior View of Manufactures Building, California Orange Exhibit, Central Fountain and Aquariums in Fisheries Building, Group of Sea Lions in U. S. Government Building, and many others. Among the leading articles are Success of the Exposition, The Opening of World's Congresses, The Exposition and the Youth, The Many Attractions of the Exposition, Realization of Hopes, Best Time to See the Exposition, and others. From every standpoint the present number of this excellent magazine is the strongest yet sent out to its thousands of readers and admirers. In its completed form it will make a valuable history of the great Exposition that no one should fail to have. Back numbers always on hand, and all requests for either back or future issues, sent to the publisher personally, will receive prompt attention. Sample copy sent for 25 cents in stamps. Address, J. B. Campbell, Publisher. 159-161 Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' association of northwestern Michigan will hold their annual reunion at Lake City August 30 and September 1.

The exertion of trying to catch a runaway team was too much for Frank Eaton, a 50-year-old farmer of Branch county. He died from its effects.

The National Wholesale Druggists' association, comprising about 500 of the leading drug firms of the United States and Canada, will hold its annual session in Detroit, September 11 to 14.

A gasoline explosion set fire to a Battle Creek laundry and Eugene and Charles Stewart were badly burned. They were obliged to jump from a window into the river to save their lives.

Cornelius Ryan was convicted in the superior court at Grand Rapids of highway robbery and sentenced to the Jackson prison for ten years. While being led from the courtroom Ryan cursed the judge, jury and detectives in the most vigorous manner.

James Brienson and Arthur Forbes escaped from the Kent county jail at Grand Rapids. They used a saw made from the heel spring of a shoe. They sawed through two cell door staples and two heavy iron bars, and went down from the window by the bedclothes route.

THEIR TRAMP ENDS.

The Plant Sisters Reach Jackson Park in Good Health and Spirits, Walking from Muskegon in Ten Days.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 23.—Two Michigan girls, the Misses Plant, of Nunica, arrived at the fair grounds Saturday morning after walking all the way from Muskegon, 220 miles. They went direct to the Michigan building. While resting for a few hours they told graphic tales of their experiences on their novel trip. The tramps occupied ten days, and each of the sisters wore out three pairs of shoes. They were as brown as berries, and neither would acknowledge any great fatigue. They made the jaunt for the fun of it, they said.

Meeting of Prison Boards Called.

LANSING, July 22.—Gov. Rich has called a joint meeting of the several prison boards to be held August 2. They will consider the matter of employing convicts in the manufacture of articles for state institutions in accordance with a law passed by the last legislature.

Stave Factory Plant Moved.

BATTLE CREEK, July 22.—The Williams Stave and Heading company, of Tekonsha, has been obliged to leave on account of the scarcity of timber. The plant has moved to Farwell, where a bonus of $2,000 was raised for it and a steady run of timber for many years was assured.

What to See in Chicago.

The Problem, what to see in Chicago, is one that will vex every visitor. There is enough to see to keep one busy six months. Of course the great World's Fair will claim the larger part of one's time, but the great city of Chicago is none the less wonderful. Sixty years ago, the site of the city was the haunt of wolves; fifty years ago Chicago was a busy country town. Twenty odd years ago, when a city of 339,000 population, it was nearly swept from existence by the most awful fire ever kindled; to-day it is the home of over a million and a half of people, and is one of the few really great cities of the world.

No one will miss seeing Chicago, and none should fail to visit that most wonderful scene, the Panorama of the great Chicago Fire, as it shows truthfully and upon a scale of grandeur never before attempted, a magnificent bird's eye view of the entire city, while the great fire was at its height.

Before the observers lie nearly two square miles of smoking ruins, five thousand blazing buildings, and ten times as many refugees trying to save themselves from an awful death. No one visiting the World's Fair can afford to pass by this remarkable Exhibition. Its location on Michigan Ave. near Madison St. brings it within easy walking distance of all the principal down-town hotels.

Total Number of Prizes for this County, 226.

CAUTION.—No Tags will be received before January 1st, 1894, nor after February 1st, 1894. Each package containing tags must be marked plainly with Name of Sender, Town, County, State, and Number of Tags in each package. All charges on packages must be prepaid.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

DON'T SEND ANY TAGS BEFORE JANUARY 1, 1894.

WEAK, NERVOUS and DISEASED MEN

Thousands of Young and Middle Aged Men are annually swept to a premature grave through early indiscretion and later excesses. Self abuse and Constitutional Blood Diseases have ruined and wrecked the life of many a promising young man. Have you any of the following Symptoms: Nervous and Despondent; Tired in Morning; No Ambition; Memory Poor; Easily Fatigued; Excitable and Irritable; Eyes Blur; Pimples on the Face; Dreams and Drains at Night; Restless; Haggard Looking; Blotches; Sore Throat; Hair Loose; Pains in Body; Sunken Eyes; Lifeless; Distrustful and Lack of Energy and Strength. Our New Method Treatment will build you up mentally, physically and sexually.

Chas. Patterson. Cured in one month.

Read What DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN Have Done.

"At 14 years of age I learned a bad habit which almost ruined me. I became nervous and weak. My back troubled me. I could stand no exertion. Head and eyes became dull. Dreams and drains at night weakened me. I tried seven Medical Firms, Electric Belts, Patent Medicines and Family Doctors. They gave me no help. A friend advised me to try Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. They sent me one month's treatment and it cured me. I could feel myself gaining every day. Their New Method Treatment cures when all else fails." They have cured many of my friends."

Dr. Monlton. Cured 3 years ago.

CURES GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

"Some 8 years ago I contracted a serious constitutional blood disease. I went to Hot Springs to treat for syphilis. Mercury almost killed me. After a while the symptoms again appeared. Throat became sore, pains in limbs, pimples on face, blotches, eyes red, loss of hair, glands enlarged, etc. A medical friend advised Drs. Kennedy & Kergan's New Method Treatment. It cured me, and I have had no symptoms for five years. I am married and happy. As a doctor, I heartily recomend it to all who have this terrible disease—syphilis." It will eradicate the poison from the blood."

Capt. Townsend. Cured in time.

15 YEARS IN DETROIT. 150,000 CURED.

"I am 33 years of age, and married. When young I led a gay life. Early indiscretions and later excesses made trouble for me. I became weak and nervous. My kidneys became affected and I feared Bright's disease. Married life was unsatisfactory and my home unhappy. I tried everything—all failed till I took treatment from Drs. Kennedy and Kergan. Their New Method built me up mentally, physically and sexually. I feel and act like a man in every respect. Try them."

Ella Hall and May Jones left Thursday for a few days' recreation at Petoskey.

Prof. E. A. Wilson, of Paw Paw, was at the home of his parents the first of the week.

Great care should be taken that no fires get started as long as it continues so dry.

Chris. Farrah and wife, of Adrian, visited at the home of F. J. Temple Sunday.

Grandma Stowell, of Dundee, visited her daughter, Mrs. E. W. Rappleye, last week.

Gertie and Johnnie Woodruff, of Detroit, visited relatives in the village Friday last.

Webb DePuy and a friend from Saline spent Saturday night with his uncle, C. L. Lowe.

Mrs. David Allison, of Stoney Creek, visited her brother, Daniel Linn, the first of the week.

Mrs. Jessie Voorhees, of Adrian, visited her cousins, Rhoba and Lou Arner, Friday and Saturday.

James Pocklington has improved the appearance of his house by the addition of a bay window and stoop.

Fernie Young, of Rea, a student in Leila Sutton's class in music, came up to take a lesson last Friday.

T. S. Vanduser, Emma Miller and Eva Shepard are at Wampler's Lake rusticating a portion of the present week.

Mrs. Horace Brown and her aunt, Mrs. Julia Waldron, of Grand Ledge, visited her sister, Mrs. Ed. Harrison, over Sunday.

F. E. Pocklington, having accepted the contract for the mason work for the new Catholic church at Deerfield, began work last week.

Patrick Curry and wife and niece Katie attended the services at the laying of the corner stone of the new Catholic Church at Deerfield Sunday.

Hattie Rappleye, of Philadelphia, who was visiting her uncle, E. W. Rappleye, on her return from the World's Fair, was called home Sunday by telegram, her mother having been dangerously hurt.

Jefferson Wiley, from Minot, N. D., and his brothers, John Wiley, of Nevasota, Texas, Harrison Wiley, of Marshalltown, Iowa, and Foster Wiley, of Blissfield, visited his daughter, Mrs. May Drake, last week Thursday.

Remember the Epworth League Dist. Convention will be held in our village Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. No pains will be spared to make it a success. Wednesday a basket picnic will be held in Mr. Barlow's orchard. Bishop Ninde will delfver an address to the convention on Wednesday evening, beginning at 7:30.

BRITTON BUDGET.

Mrs. Caroline Minaker spent Sunday here.

MACON MUSIC.

Ed. Miller is the host of Frank Parker, of Clinton.

Ezra Day, of Harvey, is spending a brief vacation at home.

Miss Belle Merritt entertained her aunt, Caroline Haynes, of Fargo, N. D., and other friends at the home of Cassius Mills on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Osborne, of La Mar, Iowa, are welcome guests in the community. They were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Coller on Sunday.

Macon and Lake Ridge played a game of ball on the home ground on Saturday. Lake Ridge led easily all through and closed the game to the tune of 19 to 5.

The young people of the Reformed church gave a spider web social on Mark Pennington's lawn Wednesday evening. Ice cream and accompaniments were one of the features.

Rolfe Mills, Bolt Harvey, Mrs. Sam Harvey, Eliza Hendershot, Harold Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Millie Hatch were among the lake goers on Friday. Huckleberries and fish were the principal attractions.

Do not be alarmed at any strange noise. The air is expected to be kept in motion from now until August 25th. Right vigorous, enthusiastic young ladies and gentlemen are drilling for the Demorest medal contest and all have gone into union.

Rumor now has it, in comformity to our prediction, that the railroad through Macon is assured, that the supervisor and commissioner have given the right of way. It is to come down the Saline road from Tecumseh to Macon, thence east to Edwin Howell's, thence north to Saline road. This east route is to avoid crossing the "Yosemite Valley." Tecumseh, true to her own interests, refuses to have anything to do with the road if it goes to Clinton.

There having been no response from the negative, the vote is unanimous that Dr. Hendershot stay here. The rumor of his contemplated location at Britton does not seem to have been very broadly circulated, since our mention of it in last week's issue furnished a surprise and has provoked many anxious inquiries as to its verity. Could the Doctor see the solicitude manifested by his many friends regarding the matter we are sure he would not entertain the thought longer.

PENTECOST POINTERS.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Seward Mapes is on the sick list.

Frank Rowley, accompanied by a lumber inspector, has been busy shipping lumber from here during the past week.

Mrs. Grant Ogden, of Chicago, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Daniels, and a host of friends in Franklin besides.

Eugene Smith was the first to thresh in this place, we believe, and the yield was over 26 bushels to the acre, of fine, plump red wheat.

Mrs. J. S. McClure, of Chicago, is making an extended visit to her old home and giving grandma Simmons a chance to tend that "blessed baby."

It is reported that Emerson Whicher is about to move onto Dr. Willard Perkins' farm; this arrangement will give the Doctor more time to attend to his large practice.

The product of the Elgin butter factory at Wolf Creek is in such good demand that they find it impossible to keep up with orders and we know the butter is excellent for we sample it every day.

These are the days of dread to the timid horsewoman, whose "skittish" nag no sooner dodges past the frisky bicycle than it is confronted by the terrifying apparition of the traction engine and threshing outfit, lumbering along from one farmstead to another, making racket enough to frighten the staidest old family horse out of its propriety.

"Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in Askelon," but just whisper it to your neighbor, that if he has any business to transact with "sperits" of the other world, he has only to go up to the "Lake of the Evil One," and there he will find a choice gathering of "mejums," claiming to be "en rapport" with the spirit world and ready to operate their invisible telegraph for his benefit. (?)

Matthias Camburn, of St. Louis, Gratiot county, a gentleman between 80 and 90 years of age, is visiting relatives in this vicinity. He is a brother of the late William Camburn, Esq., of this town, also of Joseph Camburn, deceased, and the last surviving member of a large family—large in more senses than one, as they were all men and women of commanding presence and large stature.

RAISIN RACKET.

Mrs. May Scott is visiting at J. H. Green's.

Mrs. Smith, of Toledo, is visiting at Mr. Biddle's.

T. G. Mead reported a pleasant stop in Manistee.

Robert Westgate is making improvements on his house.

Edward Comfort, from Montana, is calling on his friends.

Mr. Bowen was around putting the telegraph in order last week.

The Misses Ollie Mead, Mary Wood and Eva Osgood started for Chicago Monday to be gone a few days.

Two young men from Manchester have been rowing down the river and tenting out nights. They are on their way to Monroe and other points.

This is the season when the mixed drink and the mixed drinker are involved.

HOLLOWAY HASH.

Rothfuss & Brown have got a brand-new awning, which sets off the front of their store and also produces shade to keep the young ladies of Holloway from tanning, as they step on the walk after completing their purchases in the dry goods department.

What do you think of this? A man started from Holloway to Chicago on Friday and returned the following Monday. Nothing strange in that, but when you take into consideration that he saw the World's Fair City and had three cases of good "export," the total bill being 19 cents, it makes a problem for these cut-rate-and-we'll-go people to consider.

Last Saturday evening, after we had sought our repose and had gently glided into the arms of Morpheus, we were rudely awakened by the playing of "dot leedle German band." Arising to note the cause of the disturbance we were informed that the boys were giving Dr. Kishpaugh a farewell reception. The Doctor has moved to Clinton, so we are informed. The citizens of Holloway will miss one who has been so long in their midst.

On Friday evening, July 14th, Laura M. Carpenter departed this life to join those of whom the Lord has said: "Be ye faithful in a few things and I will make ye ruler over many things." The funeral from the house on Monday, the 17th, was largely attended and showed the esteem in which she was held by all who knew her. She was a member of Osgood Hive L. O. T. M., which, with the assistance of the Holloway K. O. T. M, conducted the funeral services, Rev. Humphrey, of Palmyra, officiating.

On Wednesday, the 19th inst., while drawing gravel from the pit south-west of Holloway, James H. Loper, or, as he is more familiarly known, Henry Loper, fell from the front end of the wagon, as the horses took fright at some action of his, and was run over by both wheels of the wagon. The accident happened about 10 a. m. and his injuries were sufficient to cause his death at 2 a. m. Thursday. Henry was a member of the K. O. T. M. here. The funeral was held in the Free Methodist church Friday, at 2 p. m., conducted by one of the pastors. The K. O. T. M. attended in a body and officiated at the grave. Mr. Loper was 40 years of age and leaves a wife and four little children to mourn their loss.

State Teacher's Institute.

The State Teacher's Institute for Lenawee county will be held at Adrian, commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m., Monday, August 14, and closing at 4 p. m., Friday, Sept. 1. Comm'r C. F. Field, Tecumseh, Local committee. There is no doubt as to the value of a good live institute. Experience proves that as a rule the most successful, alert, progressive teachers are those who avail themselves of the work given at such meetings. The persons in charge of the instruction at these institutes are those who have had practical experience in school work, and know how to impart to others a portion of what they have gained in this experience. Effort has been put forth to give the county the best institute ever held. The work will combine professional and academic instruction. The institute will be divided into sections, and the instructors will conduct classes for the purpose of reviewing some studies, and also to illustrate certain methods of instruction. The workers have been urged to arrange for calisthenic exercises, singing, marching and the like, so as to make the work move off cheerily and without fatigue. The time for study at the institute will be necessarily limited, and in order to permit the most profitable of class exercises the following topics are suggested, so that those who purpose attending may make some preparation:

Arithmetic—(1) Fractions, (2) percentage, (3) mensuration, (4) evolution.

Grammar—(1) Relative clauses, (2) infinities, (3) participles, (4) objective complements.

Geography—(1) Michigan, (2) model outline of North America, (3) climate, causes of, (4) commercial geography of the United States.

History—(1) The war of 1812, (2) slavery, (3) Civil War, (4) inventions.

Physiology—(1) The eye, (2) circulation, (3) ventilation, (4) digestion.

Civil Government—(1) Legislative officers of Nation, State, county, city, village, (2) compare duties of Governor and President, (3) how amendments are made to State and National constitutions, (4) taxes.

Pedagogy—The first chapters of Putnam's Primer, or its equivalent.

Reading—Whittier's Snow Bound.

The preceding topics are given to aid in a proper preparation for the work. Bring any text books. Be thinking and studying along the lines of the topics suggested, and even a week's institute may be made very profitable with class work and lectures combined. The institute law allows teachers, whose schools are in session at the time appointed for the County Institute, held under the direction of the State Superintendent, to close their schools during the continuance of such institute without forfeiting their wages for as many half days as they are in attendance at the institute. There will be no enrollment fee, and it would seem as if every wide-awake pedagog, or would-be pedagog, would arrange to attend every session. Full particulars in regard to board, etc., may be obtained upon application to the local committee.

HENRY R. PATTENGILL,
Supt. of Public Instruction.

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

Lenawee Co. G. A. R Association.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Lenawee County G. A. R. Association, held in Adrian, on July 17th, 1893, it was decided to hold the regular annual reunion and picnic on the Fair Grounds of the Lenawee County Agricultural Society, in the city of Adrian, on Thursday, August 24, 1893, commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Post commanders, Presidents of W. R. C. and Captains of S. of V., are requested to be present, and ready to report for their organization as required by the constitution. You are also requested to notify all the members of your respective organizations of the time and place of the reunion, and as one of the Vice-Presidents do what you can to secure a good attendance and make this our Fourth Annual Reunion, one of the most successful and enjoyable yet held.

The Post, Corps and Camp, in each place where there is a Post, are requested to unite in selecting some one from their place to take part in the program (music, recitation or speech as they may desire), not to exceed five minutes in length.

Reunion of the Eighteenth Regiment.

The 36th Annual Re-union of the 18th Mich. Infantry, will be held at Palmyra, Mich. Aug. 25. 1893. The forenoon will be giving up to registering, visiting etc. Business meeting, 1 p. m. Officers are to be elected for the ensuing two years. Gens. Doolittle and Spaulding, our old colonels, are expected to be with us. The Comrades and citizens of Palmyra will give you a cordial welcome. We have assurance that some officers and soldiers of our regiment from distant points, who expect to visit the World's Fair, expect to attend this Reunion. They want to see you who live nearer by; they have not seen you since the war. Don't disappoint them!

POSTPONEMENT.

The manifold ills of life are are never postponed on account of the weather. Whatever the weather may be, the unexpected happens. In our most joyous pleasures and sports evil lurks, and we are sometimes suddenly crippled when we are only conscious of our full health and strength. Nothing is more annoying and more serious than a strain, sprain or an ugly bruise. As there is no postponement of pain in such cases, always persistent and severe, there ought to be no postponement in procuring the best cure for it, which St. Jacobs Oil is known to be. The cure is magical.

AN IMPORTANT WORK.

Jurors of Awards at the Columbian Exposition.

NEW SYSTEM OF MR. THACHER.

A Revolution in the Method of Granting Medals or Awards After a Bitter Battle Fought Single-Handed and Alone—Comparison Between the Old and New Way of Judging.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 28. — [Special.] — For a week or more visitors at the exposition have noticed small squads of men going about among the various exhibits with catalogues and notebooks in hand and attended, usually, by the owners of the wares, or in the case of foreign exhibits often by the royal or imperial commissioners from the country whence they came, with a guard of honor in resplendent military uniform, a secretary and messenger as well. These are the examiners and jurors who are to sift out of the mass of exhibits those which are worthy the medals to be awarded for excellence or advancement. This is important work, and upon these men who go about so quietly, attended with such diligence and eagerness by interested parties, the eyes of the commercial world are now fixed. The result of their labors means a great deal to all the arts and industries represented here, to the sixty thousand or more exhibitors and the vast interests which lie behind them.

It is a tremendous task which these men have undertaken. Their business it is to examine carefully and critically every article here exhibited. They must slight nothing, must deem nothing too trivial for their attention. These are the men upon whom devolves the responsibility of summing up the achievements of the artisans, artists, mechanics, farmers and manufacturers of the whole world as mirrored in this most thorough and comprehensive of universal expositions. They will be weeks at their task, and after they shall have completed their rounds of examination they will have weeks more of labor in reducing their findings to form and in writing out their reports. When these reports are published, as they will be some time during the coming winter, we shall have the best critical judgment on the achievements of man in the world of art and fabrication that was ever formed or set down in words.

It is with a genuine feeling of satisfaction that I record a noteworthy fact in the history of this exposition. It is not only the greatest of all known expositions, but it has marked a distinct step forward in the all-important matter of granting medals or awards to exhibits and exhibitors. It was not enough for the Columbian exposition to follow the beaten track in this matter. Through the genius and the energy of a single individual, John Boyd Thacher, of Albany, N. Y., a revolution has been effected which promises to enable this exposition to accomplish more that is really valuable to civilization and to the arts than all the expositions that have preceded it. Mr. Thacher is entitled to more credit because in order to effect this revolution he has been compelled to fight a bitter battle single handed and alone.

The representatives of foreign nations did not like his new system, for reasons which I will explain. They rebelled, and made so much ado over their dissatisfaction that they alarmed the managers of the fair and Mr. Thacher soon found not only all the representatives of foreign nations and exhibitors but the very men who should have been with him up in arms against him. To add to the difficulty, the press of Chicago maligned and misrepresented him. They lied about his plan, and ridiculed him personally. Without ever understanding what it was that Mr. Thacher was trying to accomplish, without ever taking the trouble to look into his work and ascertain if there was not some good in it, the newspaper men of Chicago hounded him in a manner which was discreditable to their profession and to the city of the exposition. Mr. Thacher was not working for glory or profit. A cultured, broad-minded, progressive man, he had seen an opportunity to mark a distinct advancement in the method of awarding prizes to exhibitors, and like the man of courage and persistency that he is he fought it out on that line with all these allies against him. He won his fight, too, and that is why I am writing this letter. He gave his time and his energies to the cause without a dollar of pay, to the neglect of his private affairs, and amid personal discomforts and annoyances which would have driven almost any man from the field. When the history of the Columbian exposition is written as it deserves to be written I predict that no name will stand higher on its roll of honor than that of John Boyd Thacher.

First let me tell you what the old system was, the system of awards that had been followed at every international exposition up to this time. It was a system in which there were juries of awards. A jury was selected for each line of exhibits, and consisted of three, five or seven men, sometimes more. They went about among the exhibits, attended by a secretary, and each man marked on a card his estimate of the artistic or commercial value of each article. For example, let us suppose we are with the committee on pianos. Mr. A. thinks a certain piano is worth 95, Mr. B. thinks it is worth only 90, while Mr. C. puts the value at 98. An average of these three estimates is made by the clerk with the aid of a lead pencil and a few figures, and the official finding of the valuation of this piano comes out as 94 1-3. Mr. B. is sure that his judgment of 90 was all the instrument was fairly entitled to, while Mr. C. is just as sure that the piano should be marked 98. The only man whose judgment has been supported by the lead pencil method is Mr. A., who has been endorsed because he happened to be about midway between the figures of his colleagues.

This method of ascertaining values or merits goes on through the entire exposition. When all the pianos have been marked the one which has the highest value is adjudged winner of the gold medal. The next highest gets the silver medal, and the third the bronze medal. Now what is the effect of this award? The manufacturer who gets the gold medal (the only one that amounts to much commercially) may be richer by half a million dollars than he was before he got it. This award is worth to him, for the purpose of advertising his instrument and extending his trade, fully that sum. If he could have gotten the award in no other way, and could have done so without being discovered, he might have been willing to pay several hundred thousand dollars in cash for it. The jury of awards has helped him mightily in his endeavor to amass a great fortune. It is a good scheme for him, but how about the other piano makers? How do they fare? Excepting the two who have received consolation awards of silver and bronze medals all are unhappy. They have been handicapped in the race for trade. They have entered a competition only to see their enemy gain an immense advantage over them, which you may be sure he will make the most of.

In other words, the exposition has resolved itself into a huge advertising auxiliary. It presumes to set one man up in fortune-making, and to hold another man down. It presents one man with a piece of metal worth half a million dollars to him, and hurts all his competitors. If this could be done on absolute lines of accuracy and infallible judgment there would not be so much objection to it. It would be still objectionable, but not so grievously so. But it cannot be done and has never been done on any infallible plan. In fact, the selection of a piano justly entitled to grand prize in this exposition would be altogether a work of fancy, of taste, of favoritism or of prejudice. It would take infinite intelligence to do that. One piano excels in tone, perhaps, another in touch, a third in durability, a fourth in some other quality. The differences between them on each of these lines is so slight that not even an expert can estimate them with certainty. His judgment must be more or less arbitrary, dependent upon his education, his tastes, his surroundings. In fact, the making of these awards of first, second and third prizes is largely a lottery, and has always been, as is shown by the granting of first prize at Paris to the pottery of one country in 1878, and first prize to another in 1879, though the same exhibitors with the same class of wares contended on both occasions. This is only one of many examples that could be mentioned of the purely arbitrary or fanciful method of granting first, second and third prizes.

The plain, blunt truth is that these big gold medals, worth fortunes to their possessors, have in the past been struggled for just as men struggle to win lawsuits. Interested exhibitors have employed skilled diplomats to handle their cases for them. They have hired lawyers, counsellors and even detectives. They have schemed and intrigued to pack the juries. The prize was worth struggling for with every art known to human ingenuity, and thus these gold lottery awards have been struggled for at every exposition in the past.

At the Vienna exposition, for instance, an American firm of beer brewers won a gold medal. No one has contended that they had the best beer in the exhibit, but they had the best managers or the best luck. Well, the gold medal the firm has estimated was worth more than a million dollars to them in working up sales in this country. With its aid they have built up the greatest brewery in America.

The most serious objection to the graded prize, competitive method of awards, aside from the scandals which often accompany the juries, the injustice to defeated exhibitors and the extravagant value given the winner on merely fanciful grounds, is that it does not help the consumer. It throws no light upon the questions in which he is interested. On the contrary, it may very easily and often does help to deceive him. To illustrate, suppose you want to buy a piano. Your circumstances are such that you want the best piano made for durability. If it has good tone and touch and other qualities, even if not the best, you will be satisfied. But durability it must have to suit your purposes. For light you turn to the award of the latest exposition. That will surely give you the evidence you want, you think. But it doesn't do anything of the sort. It only deceives you. Noting that a certain piano obtained the grand prize you naturally conclude that must be the best, and though it costs from 30 to 40 per cent. more than other makes on account of the honor awarded it by the exposition, you gladly pay the difference in order to get the best. In a short time you discover that while the piano which you have purchased has as fine a tone as any in the market it does not wear well, and that as a matter of fact for a much smaller sum you could have bought one with as good a tone and greater durability. You have a right to complain that the exposition awarded, which should have been a help to you, has actually been a harm.

This exposition has abandoned all the old methods. There is no competition between exhibitors. There are to be no scandals, no intrigues for the glittering prizes. There are no gold medals, no silver medals, no graded medals of any sort. No man through a fancy or a shade of difference in lead pencil judgment is to be enriched while another is handicapped. The only medals to be awarded are of bronze, and all have the same value, the same inscription, the same significance. They are awarded not for the best, or second best, or third best, according to some one's fancy, but as reward of excellence or of advancement or for general usefulness of a high grade.

Best of all, each of these medals is to be accompanied by a diploma which will set forth in simple, lucid language the grounds on which the award is made. If a piano is given a medal for its touch, that fact will be stated in the diploma. If for durability, that will be set forth. If for tone, the diploma will so state. If for a combination of these qualities, the parchment will explain in what proportion. So with everything in the exposition. Everything that reaches a high stage of excellence, that shows meritorious advancement in that art, will be awarded a medal. And the public, the cause of education, the value of honest methods of advertising, will receive the benefit of this illumination by experts of all the handiworks of the arts and sciences.

When an article gets a medal at this exhibit you will know that it is a fine article of its class, that it has strong points of merit, and you will be able to ascertain just what those points are.

CAUSED HER DEATH.

Peculiar and Fatal Accident to a Young Lady.

Miss Ida Hadel, of Detroit, Tramped Upon by Her Horse—The Calk of One of the Steed's Shoes Pierces Her Heart.

MET A SAD FATE.

DETROIT, July 28.—Miss Ida Hadel, who has a market garden on Rhones avenue, came to the city with some of the products of her garden in a light wagon. She alighted on Macomb street and was tying her horse to a hitching post when the steed became frightened and ran away. Miss Hadel grasped the bridle and endeavored to turn the horse upon the sidewalk. In the struggle she was hurled to the ground with terrible force and the steed seemed to jump upon her prostrate form with all four feet. Persons who picked her up found that a calk on one of the horse's shoes had pierced her heart. Miss Hadel was 27 years old.

MICHIGAN STATE LANDS.

The Report of the Commissioner Shows the Sale of Over 33,000 Acres During the Year.

LANSING, July 31.—The report of the commissioner of the state land office for the year ending June 30, which is now being prepared, will show a largely increased business over the two preceding years. The number of acres of land sold in 1891 was 19,676.84, and the sum received therefor, $69,198.69; in 1892, 20,169.69 acres were sold for $42,251.05. For 1893 the report will show sales of 33,820.89 acres and receipts of $166,718.40. Licenses were issued during the year for 1,551.35 acres of swamp lands, making a total of 21,753.54 acres now standing licensed to settlers. Nearly 1,200 reverted to the state by forfeiture for non-compliance with the terms of sale.

IT MAY PAY.

The Imperial Life Insurance Company May Liquidate Its Policies.

LANSING, July 27.—The supreme court has granted an order permitting the Imperial Life Insurance company, which ceased to do business last year, to withdraw its surplus from the state treasury as it may be necessary to pay claims in the following manner: The legality of each claim to be first certified to by the state insurance commissioner, and when certified to shall be paid by the state treasury directly to the claimant or his authorized attorney or representative upon the surrender of the policy duly receipted.

PASSED AWAY.

Death of Dr. B. B. Ross, Saginaw's Prominent Physician.

SAGINAW, July 27.—Dr. B. B. Ross, aged 55, a physician widely known and respected throughout the state, died Wednesday morning after a week's suffering. Deceased was born near Dublin, Ireland, settled at Belleville, Ont., when 6 years of age, graduated from the University of Buffalo, and has been a resident of Saginaw over thirty years. He leaves one daughter, Miss Maud. His wife died some years ago.

Lumber Ablaze.

LUDINGTON, July 29.—At 4 a. m. Friday Cartier's mill, including a large amount of lumber and shingles, was completely destroyed by fire. The wind from the south spread the fire all over the yard and sent great firebrands clear across the city. Many buildings caught fire and for a time the entire city was threatened. The citizens turned out in force and a heavy rain coming on helped to obtain control over the flames. A large lot of lumber belonging to Ketcham & Co., of Chicago, was destroyed. Loss will aggregate $125.000.

Closed Down.

NEGAUNEE, July 28.—The North Buffalo mine of the Buffalo Mining company has closed down. Railroads refused to haul away the ore until the freight bills were paid.

ISHPEMING, July 28.—The Lake Superior Iron company, which laid off 250 men ten days ago, closed down section 16 mine, throwing 200 more men out, Saturday night. Superintendent Hall stated that it was hoped the suspension would be for sixty days only.

Declared to Be a Lottery.

BATTLE CREEK, July 28.—The postmaster general has withheld the mail of the National Investment company doing business in Tekonsha, this county. It has been decided to be a lottery scheme. Their plan was to sell bonds for $1,000 on a payment of $10 and 60 cents a month. As soon as there was $1,000 in the treasury a drawing was to be held and one of the bondholders received the money. Arrests will follow.

Ten Thousand for the State.

JACKSON, July 28.—The report of State Inspector of Oils John O'Brien for six months ending June 30, shows the balance due the state for that term to be $10,546.47. The surplus for two years Mr. O'Brien has held office is $45,278.20 against $42,287.21 for the preceding four years, an increase of surplus of over 100 per cent. The cash business for the last two years has reached $91,171.21.

A Suspended Bank Resumes.

GRAND RAPIDS, July 28.—Lacy & Burkhead, of Millford, have opened a new private bank in Rockford as successors to the Paris & Nave bank recently suspended. The suspended bank has paid its liabilities in full.

Sons of St. George Meet.

ISHPEMING, July 29.—The Negaunee grand lodge, Sons of St. George, in session here, elected James P. Edwards, of Houghton, worthy grand president to succeed William Andrews, of Ishpeming.

The National Regatta.

DETROIT, July 31.—The annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen will be held in this city August 9 and 10.

GREAT BRITAIN'S SHOW

The Country Dwarfed by France and Germany

AT THE COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

Plain and Almost Insignificant Cases Which Contain the Exhibits in the Great Manufactures Building—Display in the Transportation Building Much More Creditable to the Great Empire.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—People who have paid much attention to the foreign exhibits at the World's fair have been struck after only a cursory examination of the somewhat insignificant showing made by Great Britain as compared with France and Germany, and on the other hand—although this sounds like a paradox—with the might and vastness of the British empire, of how that empire stretches from that little patch of islands rising out of the north Atlantic to a still mightier empire in the far east, and how to north, south and west there are links in that great chain of government which is known as Great Britain. We all know that the sun never sets on the British empire, but one must go to the World's fair and have that empire placed at one's feet to thoroughly understand how much that implies.

Englishmen who have visited the fair and who have noticed how Germany and France overshadow their display have come away rather disappointed and very much tempted to write to the London Times all about it, the never failing resource of your true Englishman when something goes wrong and he does not know just exactly who is responsible. It is not that England has not acquitted herself well, but it is because both France and Germany, and especially the latter, have surprised everyone by the magnitude of their displays and the artistic spirit shown in their installation.

It is not surprising that France has displayed that great artistic taste for which she is famous; one expects it and would be disappointed if it were missing, but it is as pleasing as it is unexpected to find that Germany is not one step behind that of her neighbor and that the works of Germany's manufacturers and artisans are seen everywhere and show a degree of finish and rare excellence which tells of the importance attached to the exposition by the German authorites and her people generally. This is really the explanation. Germany realized that here was a greater opportunity to let the people of the great new world know what she had to sell and exchange than could be reached in any other way. The appropriation made by the German government was very large, $750,000, and it has been judiciously expended. On the other hand, England, perhaps indifferent or perhaps feeling that her wares are too well known to need any more advertising, displayed but little interest in the fair until she discovered too late what her great commercial competitors had done. Her parliamentary grant was less than one-half that of Germany's, which compelled her commissioners to work on an entirely different plan.

On entering the great building devoted to manufactures and the liberal arts one is struck by the plain and almost insignificant cases which contain the English exhibits. Here and there are larger and more imposing pagodas and enclosed spaces with the products of the British workman, but the majority of his goods are exposed to view in a way which suffer by comparison with those of our own exhibitors. But it is when the center of the building is reached, when one stands almost under the great clock tower with its peal of silvery chimes high overhead and contemplates thoroughly the magnitude and noble proportions of the great building, that the way Great Britain is dwarfed by Germany and France is fully comprehended. The clock tower forms the hub to the spokes from which branch out the territory of England, France, Germany and Russia, and of all four the entrance to the German is the most impressive. Germany has erected a magnificent creation of stone and iron, the gateway to her possessions, and which alone is an exhibit of a high order. France has a conspicuous setting for her jewels, and Russia is there to be seen by all men, but England has nothing of the kind and her wares form only a part of the great whole, without dividing line or anything else to rivet attention. Of the goods sent by England it may be said, I think, that with the exception of pottery—and in that she is still preeminent—she shows nothing which we are not able to duplicate on this side of the water. Probably some of her fabrics, more especially cloth for the wear of both men and women, are finer and have a higher finish than those of our looms, but that is a question which must be left to experts and which cannot be decided by a cursory examination.

The same difference between the British and German exhibits is to be found between the headquarters of the commissioners for the two countries. England has contented herself with a substantial but somewhat plain looking reproduction of a half timber house of the sixteenth century, which compared with the pretentious but really beautiful mediaeval structure of Germany is like an ordinary country fair to this greatest of all expositions. The interior of "Victoria House," as the Britishers have called their headquarters, with its handsome oak panelling, wainscoating, elaborate ceilings and rich and artistic hangings, atones for a great deal, but for one person who goes inside hundreds will only look at the exterior and then make the same comparison between England and Germany as I did.

This much having been said in way of criticism of the British exhibit, and especially in comparison with what Germany has done, now for the other side of the picture and which, as I said in the commencement of this article, so impresses the average visitor with the great resources of England and the position which she occupies in the commercial world. Go where you will, in almost any building, there is some space allotted to Great Britain or her colonies, until you are almost tempted to ask what would happen should Great Britain lose her place in the history of nations and become merely a memory. As might naturally be expected in the Transportation building England occupies considerable room. The models of some of the best known of the famous trans-Atlantic liners look beautiful in their glass cases, and side by side with promoters of peace and friendly feeling are the miniature steel clad sentinels of the sea, war ships built for the English and many foreign governments, the most conspicuous of all of them being a magnificent model of Admiral Tryon's ill-fated flagship, the Victoria, and which since the disaster off Tripoli is of greater interest than ever. It is also appropriate that as in England the science of steam was first applied to land propulsion, the British railroad exhibit should be very complete. One of the great English railroad companies has sent over a record breaking locomotive and several very handsome cars, its sleeping car in particular being the acme of beauty and comfort. The car is divided into compartments, which gives not only greater privacy but also more comfort and which may perhaps induce our railroad builders to adopt the same pattern. Not less interesting is it to compare these modern carriages and engines capable of reeling off their sixty miles an hour over a perfect track, with the cumbersome engine which was first employed to supersede horses, and which in its time was regarded as the height of man's ingenuity and audacity.

As you wander about the various buildings you constantly run upon something which is either English or British, and in the latter term I include the empire outside of Britain itself. The ingenuity and enterprise of Australia—or rather New South Wales, as that is the only part of the Pacific colony which has an exhibit—has been the subject of much favorable comment. The fair among a great many other useful things has taught the majority of us a great deal about the geography and customs of the world at large, and this exhibit of New South Wales comes in the nature of a revelation. Most of us associate Australia either with convicts or bushmen and sheep ranges, and to find that Australia is a second America as regards "goaheadedness," and that like this country it has the most wonderful mineral and agricultural resources and only needs a few million more people to be a great manufacturing country, is like going into a desert and finding a blooming garden.

The Australians know how to advertise; they have evidently taken a lesson out of our book in that respect. They are not content with merely placing themselves on exhibition, but they do it in such a way that even the most indifferent visitor has his attention arrested if only for a moment. For instance, in the Mining building in the section devoted to the island continent is a great arch of coal. On the frieze of the arch in large letters are the words: "Total value of minerals raised in New South Wales from 1851 to the end of 1891, $453,353,378," and on the pillars supporting the arch are given the items in detail. In the same building is another very striking object, a pillar of silver, on the top of which is a figure of Atlas supporting the world, and on the base of the column are figures telling of the fabulous value of the silver which has been taken out of the mines of the colony.

For years Australia has been the great wool producing country of the world and because of its peculiar quality we have had to import it in large quantities to mix with our own product. Australia has taken this opportunity to show our farmers just what she can do in the way of raising wool. In her section of the Agricultural building is a pyramid of wool, and on it an inscription to the effect that "the value of the wool clip of New South Wales for the year 1891 was $55,180,090. Number of bales, 838,333; number of pounds, 331,886,720," figures which are of decided interest to farmers from Ohio and Michigan and other states who keep only a few sheep and who consider themselves lucky if they get a few hundred dollars for their wool clip.

Canada is so close to us that we regard it as quite like our own country, and yet there are few people who are not surprised when they see how well the Dominion has acquitted herself and what a great country it is which stretches along our northern border. The Canadian exhibit is no inconsiderable portion of the British collection, and the Dominion authorities showed their appreciation of the importance of the exposition by making a very liberal appropriation which was still further increased by the various provinces. The Canadians while proud of their own country know that they are not of much importance as compared with the United States and they were resolved to make as good a show as possible. They have succeeded in their efforts. And when the stranger has exhausted all that Australia and Canada have to offer him, there are still other portions of the British empire which await his attention. India with her curious customs and articles is there, and the Indian exhibit well repays a visit. Other and more remote British possessions contribute their share.

To return to Germany, whose exhibits are not so scattered as those of Great Britain, one sees much to admire and which is very characteristic of the substantial nature of the Fatherland. Of course the great Krupp gun is one of the features of the fair, and it is perhaps not an exaggeration to say that there have been as many inquiries for it as any single article in the fair. All day long people go to the Krupp pavilion and gaze at the ponderous engine of destruction and involuntarily tremble as they think of the frightful havoc such a monster could do were it ever to be fired. In iron work of all kinds the Germans show their skill, and in machinery of every description they take a very prominent place. It is noticeable that in electrical science America easily leads the world, in fact all the rest of the world put together. For a long time the French were the most scientific electricians, but now we have left them far behind, and while they as well as the English and Germans contribute something to the Electricity building the bulk of the space is occupied by our own people. It is now conceded that for the very latest improvements in electrical devices Europe must come to us.

Within the limits of this article it is impossible to go into the foreign exhibits more at length, but it may be said in general that while the British sections will please the visitor, he will doubtless become more impressed by the display made by Germany than that of any other foreign nation.

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes.

☞ These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermoter. Where one goes others follow, and we Take the Country."

Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 8 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing any manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definite many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, (the work of 4 horses at the cost of one 2100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO. 12th and Rock Well Sts., Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

The Aermotor Pneumatic Water Supply System enables you to supply every part of your houses with water without an Elevated Tank.

D. RANSOM'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

PICKINGS ON JACKSON PARK.

A Few Observations Made at Random, Upon the Sights and Scenes Within the White City.

The letter of last week left the members of the Press Association at the Hotel Mecca on Monday evening, July 10. On the following morning every member reported at the Michigan Building and at ten o'clock President Beal called the meeting to order in the Assembly Room at the State headquarters. Hon. Thos. W. Palmer welcomed the Association in a brief but very appropriate address and an interesting program followed, consisting of addresses interspersed with vocal and instrumental music. A few business matters were rushed through and the session came to a final adjournment at one o'clock.

In the afternoon the members scattered and began the practical business of "doing" the Fair. Nearly all the members remained at Chicago during that week, and many of them through a portion of the second week. It was found impracticable however to visit the different buildings in a body, and after the adjournment of the formal session on Tuesday, the members prosecuted their sight-seeing on their own book and they saw but little of each other after that Tuesday.

During my former visit at Jackson Park in June last, I had made a cursory examination of most of the principal buildings. This time I endeavored to visit the rest of the general buildings and to take in the different state structures and the novelties on the Midway Plaisance. A brief detail of my experience for a couple of days is all that I can attempt in this letter.

One of the most interesting buildings on the entire grounds to the ordinary visitor is the Palace of Machinery. It is one of the largest and, with the exception of Manufacturers and Liberal Arts, the most costly of all the structures. The main building is constructed in three grand roof arches extending the whole length, being 842 by 492 feet in dimensions, with an annex almost as large. The floor area is nearly 24 acres, and the total cost $1,200,000. The steam power plant is the largest one ever constructed, supplying 24,000 horse power; 17,000 is used to drive electrical machinery. The brick boiler house along the south side of the hall, filled with row upon row of arches supporting the most massive steam boilers ever made, which furnish the steam to propel dozens of gigantic engines, is a wonderful sight of itself. The big Allis quadruple expansion engine, the largest one ever built, rated at 2,000 horse power, stands near the center of the building. There is one electric generator of 1200 horse power, besides dozens of smaller ones. The Westinghouse alternating current dynamos grind out the electricity for 20,000 incandescent lights. Stretched along the acres of flooring and attached to the rows of line shafting are massive machines of every kind and character. Here is a genuine paper machine which turns out the print paper from which newspapers are made; there is a nail cutting contrivance, which makes the nails of ordinary use; here are seen without number, wood carving and box nailing machines; there are looms for weaving cotton, silk and other fabrics; here is an electrical carpet sewing machine, which is a great curiosity; along the north side are ranged dozens of printing presses, folding and typesetting machines, and also type founding by which the types are made. All the machinery used in turning out a first-class metropolitan newspaper is to be seen in operation there; the smallest job press and the largest web perfecting machine, capable of printing 40,000 papers an hour. There are four different styles of type setters, all of which have been tested. Two of them, the Mergenthaler and the Rogers, are quite extensively used now in many large offices. The Thorne and the Moneline have lately been introduced but have both done good work and are destined to come into general use. These machines are expensive and are beyond the means of ordinary country newspapers, but I believe the time is coming when they can be furnished cheaply enough to enable offices like the Herald to use them to advantage. Some of the larger presses can be seen doing regular work every day. The Daily Columbian newspaper is gotten up wholly in this building, including the type setting, making up the forms and press work. Here is to be seen samples of the most approved and latest machinery for flour mills. Also sewing machines of various make and size, and a large assortment of book stitching machines. The above will give one a faint idea of what the great Palace of Machinery contains—it is a veritable hive of industry, from the hour of opening in the morning until the electric lights within the park are turned off at night.

The best time to visit the Electricity building is in the evening. Under the glare of hundreds of arc lights and thousands of incandescents, the exhibits can all be seen at their best. Many of them, designed to illustrate the wonderful possibilities of electric lighting can only be seen to advantage at night. Then the marvels of modern science are shown in all their gorgeous splendor. About eight o'clock, the machinery and electrical applianees are put in motion and in an instant the whole building is a blaze of light. From every nook and corner of the vast edifice gleam and glare and quiver, the 450 arc lights and the 35,000 incandescent lamps, contained within its walls. The arc lamps are arranged for illumination and the incandescents are used mostly for scenic and decorative purposes. There has been much rivalry among the exhibitors in arranging the most artistic displays. One of the most unique is the Egyptian temple, illuminated by 1,000 incandescent lights. The French, German and English displays, as well as the American, are all especially attractive. There is a wonderful German clock showing the 24 hours of the day by lights. The most beautiful display is the electric shaft, 85 feet in height, near the center of the building. This shaft alone contains 10,000 incandescents artistically arranged. It represents a column of fire and is surmounted by a large revolving prismatic globe, which gives forth lights of all conceivable colors as it revolves. There are many firm names, wrought in signs of incandescent lamps, which produce a brilliant effect when illuminated. The Bell Telephone Co. have a splendid booth, showing a telephone exchange in operation. The Brush company's motors; the Western Electric Co's underground-wire system, the Westinghouse electric palace; a miniature electric railway in operation are a few of the main features of the brilliant array of curiosities in this building. Here can be seen the first and last phonograph made by Edison, the key which President Cleveland pressed in starting the machinery on opening day, and the process of engraving and electrotyping by electricity.

The Government building is crowded with interesting exhibits. The structure itself has been seriously criticized from the technical stand point of an architect, but it seems to meet all requirements practically. It is nearly as large as the Mining Building, and cost more money. The several departments of the U. S. Government occupy space therein, and there is a large collection of much value from the Smithsonian Institute. This collection contains a large number of Zoological specimens comprising both animals and fowls from every State in the Union. In ethnology there are figures of Esquimaux Indians and Indians of different tribes in the western territories. In the line of antiquities the collection is exceedingly rich and varied. Among these old relics may be found a manuscript copy of the Book of Esther, a silver spice box of the time of Christ, twelve wine glasses used at Passover meal, Jewish prayer books, Hebrew Pentateuch, knife and cup used at the rite of circumcision, embroidery used to cover dish of greens at Passover meal, embroidery representing Elijah fed by the ravens, koran stand inlaid with mother of pearl, and other articles too numerous to mention. This corner of the Government building will compare favorably with the Convent of La-Rabida in its array of relics and antiquities. The State Department contains a fine collection. Among the relics are these: the original manuscript of the Declaration of Independence; original petition of the Colonies to George III, presented by Benj. Franklin in 1774; Gen. Jackson's sword, Lincoln's emancipation proclamation, manuscript letters written by Washington, Franklin, the Adamses, Jefferson, Madison, Jackson, Polk, VanBuren, Monroe, Lincoln, Grant, Arthur and Hayes; treaty with Napoleon for the cession of Louisana; letters written by Napoleon; Alexander of Russia and other European potentates. Upon the walls around the circle under the dome are revolutionary and colonial relics contributed by the ladies of the several states. Among these are Washington's commission as commander-in-chief, Washington's diary and several account books, Benj. Franklin's cane, wampum made before the discovery of America, camp service of pewter used by Washington throughout the revolution, Bible brought over in the Mayflower in 1620. In the center of the ground floor beneath the dome, is a section of one of the California big trees. It is 20 feet in diameter at the top, and 26 feet at the base, has been hollowed out and contains a stairway within. The War Department section contains many interesting curiosities, among which are the following: bronze cannon captured at Yorktown, cannon used in the Mexican war, cartridge making machinery in operation, four pounder gun that fired the first shot in the rebellion, cast iron cannon found in the Hudson river, flag displayed at point nearest the North pole, relics of Sir John Franklin discovered by Schwatka, wagon that was in Sherman's train through all his marches, sacred shirt worn by Sitting Bull in fight where Custer was killed, boot legs from which soup was made by Greely party, when out of provisions, a modern 52 ton, 12 inch gun 47 feet long. The Treasury Department exhibit is well up to the average in interest. It contains a U. S. mint in operation, a large collection of ancient coins and historical medals, a ten thousand dollar gold certificate, a ten thousand dollar silver certificate, a collection of U. S. bonds, colonial bills and old currency. The P. O. Department contains a complete postoffice in running order, a mammoth assortment of dead letters, and a Rocky Mountain mail coach used in 1868. The Patent office section is given up mostly to models of inventions that have been patented. The Interior and Agricultural departments, although not so elaborate as the others, present a large array of quaint and instructive exhibits.

HOTELS AT CHICAGO.

Of Interest to those Contemplating Visiting the Great Columbian Exposition at Chicago, Ill.

Those of our readers who contemplate visiting the World's Fair should arrange for their hotel accomodations in advance of their going, thereby saving a great expense and annoyance in looking up a suitable and reasonable hotel after their arrival. We decided to, and have made inquiry concerning the various hotels at Chicago as to their price, rooms and location, and after careful investigation, have decided to recommend the hotel, "The Syracuse", situated at Windsor Park, at the foot of 75th st., it being near the fair grounds, partially surrounded by a beautiful grove, fronting on the shore of Lake Michigan, which contributes its cool evening breezes to refresh the tired frame, after a day's jaunt, and to make sleeping easy and delightful. "The New York State Educational Journal" endorses the hotel, "The Syracuse", as follows:

Some time ago we promised our readers to visit Chicago and examine the hotel accomodations offered with reference to recommending advance arrangements for the summer. Immediately on our return from Egypt we went to Chicago and looked over the ground carefully. We have decided to recommend "The Syracuse," a building erected by men who know and in whom we have confidence, and which seems to combine more advantages than any other.

These requisites seem to us indispensable:

1. The hotel should be on the Lake. Chicago is a hot place in summer, and only the lake breezes will make sleeping at all comfortable.

2. It should be reached from the Exposition grounds by boat. How annoying it is to crowd into horse-cars and trains on a hot afternoon all our readers know. At Paris nine-tenths of the visitors were carried by the little river-boats.

3. The drainage should be perfect. This will be the great danger at Chicago. Hundreds of cheap buildings have been erected with cheap plumbing and cesspool reservoir. If typhoid fever does not result, it won't be the fault of the builders.

4. There should be the quiet and the privacy of home. This is the objection to the turning of school-houses into dormitories. Sight-seeing is hard work, and when the day is done the visitor should have a room of his own to wash in and to rest in.

5. The price should be reasonable. We are satisfied that the lowest rate at which it will be possible to obtain rooms that are at all suitable is one dollar a day.

"The Syracuse" combines all these advantages.

1. It is on the Lake, fronting the shore, 300 feet from the water, where there are pavilions for bathing, boats fishing, etc. The few rooms fronting the Lake will be as desirable as one could wish, and all will be comfortable.

2. The steamboat pier is directly in front of the hotel. Besides, the hotel itself is only a mile from the grounds, which can thus be reached by easy walking. This will be a great consideration, for the electric display at night, for which a million dollars has been appropriated, will be one of the important features of the fair. It is also two blocks from the electric cars, and three blocks from the station of the Illinois Central, and those wishing to go to the city will be much surer of a seat than from the fair grounds.

3. The rooms are all lathed and plastered, and well furnished, with woven spring mattresses. When you lock the door you are in your own castle, as much as at home. This is different enough from tents and dormitories.

The dining-room is on the European plan and the rates will be reasonable.

TERMS.

The hotel accommodates only 400 persons, and the rooms we have selected and engaged as the best will accomodate only 200. Early application should therefore be made. If you know just when you will go, we can assign you a particular room, and give you a diagram of the hotel showing just where the room is located. If you are not ready to fix on a specific date, we can give you a contract to furnish you as good rooms as are vacant at the time you present yourself. It is better, however, to engage for a fixed date.

For a diagram of rooms, prices and how to reach the hotel quickly, address, WM. M. KNAPP, Windsor Park, Chicago, Ill., care hotel, "The Syracuse."

The Michigan State Troops.

Lieut. F. J. Brown, of Muskegon, this state, has been engaged for some time past in writing a history of the Michigan State troops from a period before the war to the present time. It contains portraits of over one hundred of the field and line officers, besides a number of sketches in field and camp. It is a book which will undoubtedly interest those who are interested in Michigan's military affairs, as there has never been a history of the troops of this state published. With each copy a ballot is given to the purchaser to cast in favor of an officer of the brigade, the most popular officer to receive a fine pair of shoulder straps, and to the companies casting the greatest number of ballots to receive 1st, a fine garrison flag, 2nd, a complete set of French fencing foils and outfit.

Each copy is well worth the price asked and our boys should take advantage of the opportunity of not only securing copies of the history, but to gain a prize and popularity for the company.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

John Edmunds, who is digging the ditch for the drain at Frank Clay's new residence being built, corner of Church and Division streets, came near being buried alive, yesterday noon. He was working seven and a half feet down in the trench, when the dirt above caved in on him, burying him up to the chin. Four men went to work and dug Mr. Edmunds out of his predicament. He is sore and lame to-day, but is thankful it is no worse.—Adrian Telegram.

"Shepp's World's Fair Photographed" is the title of a new work now going through the press, a copy of which ought to find its way into every household. This magnificent volume, containing over 500 massive oblong pages, is illustrated with over 250 full page photographs, size 6 by 8 inches, of the Columbian Exposition, the use of which is authorized by the official management. It is printed on the finest enamelled paper, handsomely bound in one royal oblong volume. The text fills the pages opposite the pictures and presents an unrivalled mass of instructive and descriptive matter beautifully and simply expressed. The book will be sold only on subscription for $3 25 to $7 per copy according to style of binding. The collection contains nearly every building on the park proper and Midway Plaisance and also a large number of interior views. Mrs. Jehiel Davidson has the agency for Tecumseh and vicinity and is now taking names for the book. She will doubtless gather in a large list.

OBITUARY.

Died, on Thursday, July 20, 1893, at his home, situated on a farm between the towns of Lyons and Decatur, in Burt Co., Nebraska, Augustus Broughton Cleveland, youngest son of Giles and Theresa Cleveland and brother of Dr. E. S. Cleveland, of Tecumseh and Detroit, in the 51st year of his age.

The deceased was born at Syracuse, N. Y. The family afterward removed to Illinois, and in 1862, while still a mere boy, he enlisted in Co. I, 15th Illinois Infantry. At the battle of Pittsburg Landing he was wounded by a fragment of a bursting shell, which struck him on the left temple, inflicting a wound from which he never entirely recovered and which ultimately became the cause of his death. He was a member of Gordon Granger Post No. 119, G. A. R., of Decatur. The last sad rites were rendered to his memory by the A. L. Gates Post of Lyons, in the cemetery of which place he was buried. He leaves a widow and four children. His aged mother and one brother also survive him.

Many of our older citizens will remember Mr. Cleveland as having been for a time a clerk in the grocery and provision store of S. James & Son, in which position he made many friends.

Battle of Gettysburg.

When in Chicago during the World's Fair, we would advise our readers not to fail to see one of the grandest sights of that city, the vast and realistic Panorama of the Battle of Gettysburg, which is exhibited on the corner of Wabash Ave. and Panorama Place. Those who have never witnessed a work of the kind can form no conception of the startling effects that are obtained. The Gettysburg Panorama is the work of Paul Phillipoteaux, a French artist of great ability and established reputation as a military painter, whose wonderful "Defence of Paris" has been seen by most Americans who have visited the French capital. Mr. Phillipoteaux has made striking success, where ordinary scenic painters have failed. It is his to complete the pictorial illusion by placing the spectator in the centre of the scene, and completely surrounding him with a broad circumference of earth and sky. The whole battlefield of Gettysburg is reproduced with strictest topographical accuracy, and the details of the great fight are represented with a realism that seems marvelous.

The foreground is actually built out with real fences, earth, trees, guns etc., which are so skillfuly led up to and joined with the painted canvas which is 50 feet high and 475 feet in circumference that it is almost impossible to discover where reality ends and illusion begins.

A descriptive lecture is given by a veteran of the war. The enthusiasm of the old soldier, "and there are thousands of them" who gaze upon this panorama is unbounded. A band of Dakota Indians who were taken to see it, paid an altogether too sincere tribute to the potency of the illusion. Fully convinced that the scene was real, they became wildly excited and wanted to rush down the broad field and take a hand in the fight. The ampitheatre rang with their war whoops, a panic ensued, and it was only by getting the dusky warriors outside of the building that calm was restored.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Henry Lovejoy, of Adrian, was in town last Saturday.

Remember the excursion to Put-in-Bay next Wednesday.

Co. C voted to attend divine service at the Friends' church next Sabbath evening.

M. M. Brewster, of North Adams, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. J. F. N. Bowen.

Mrs. Hurlbut, of Adrian, is spending the present week with Tecumseh friends.

The month of picnics has arrived and from the way August opens, it bids fair to be crowded with them.

P. S. McKinnon left home Monday for Quebec, where he expects to remain for some time with relatives and friends.

Wheat has touched bottom and the price is now on the rise. This is the first indication of a revival of business.

Frank Kennedy who has been for a long time in Merritt's cigar store, will hereafter make cigars for Cotton, at Adrian.

We offer young men a chance to take a course of law lectures free. Read the offer in another column, and get your friends to vote for you.

Abner Wilson, wife and his two daughters, started for Chicago, Tuesday morning to do the World's Fair, expecting to be gone about one week.

L. H. Dewey and wife, of Washington D. C., arrived in town Friday. Prof. Dewey went on to Chicago and Mrs. Dewey will spend the summer here.

Tribon LeBaron, of Toledo, is spending a few days with his acquaintances and haunts. He drove over one day last week with his "one hoss shay."

Hudson is making great preparations to entertain the big band reunion, which occurs on Thursday, Aug. 17th. They have taken the necessary steps to entertain all bands in attendance with open-handed hospitality. Five hundred dollars have been pledged to defray all necessary expenses. Committees have been selected, reduced rates have been secured on the Lake Shore and Mackinaw roads, and all the indications point to a large attendance and a big day.

Wm. C. Heck, proprietor of the Steam Mill has been in poor health for several years. He has always managed to keep about, however, and give his attention to his business. Last Tuesday evening he was seized with an attack of hemorrhage of the lungs and died in a few hours. He was down town during the day and appeared to be in his usual state of health. The remains were taken to South Bend, his former home, for burial. A more extended notice will appear hereafter.

Last Monday morning Avery & Co's delivery team concluded that a little excitement would'nt be out of place, and while Harlow Smith was taking some groceries into Jas. Gilman's house on Maiden Lane, they took a hasty departure, running around by the planing mill and thence back on to Chicago St. Here the fun commenced for everyone got into the street and attempted to stop the race; this left no alternative for the mustangs but to take the sidewalk for it, which they did, going south past the postoffice. After nearly reaching the Mackinaw depot, they concluded to come back up town and have some more fun, but in turning the corner from Kilbuck into Maumee street, the wagon was overturned and as it dragged along on the side it took too much ambition to keep up the motion, so the race was adjourned. First-class groceries were generously distributed along the route and a rear wheel went into dry dock for repairs otherwise nothing hurt but peoples' feelings.

Miss Lena Wyrill left home to-day for a short visit with relatives in Michigan City, Ind.

Miss Grace McNeil left to-day for a few week's visit with relatives in Lansing, Williamston and Detroit.

A special train went over the Mackinaw Tuesday, carrying some of its officials, on a tour of inspection.

Service in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning. An important notice will be given at this service making it desirable that all the members of the congregation should be present.

Hospital Steward D. T. Hall was in Detroit Tuesday in consultation with Dr. J. E Clark, Brigade Surgeon, on matters pertaining to the hospital service of the coming militia encampment.

Miss Fannie L. Stearns, who graduated from this year's university class, has accepted a position as teacher of science and mathematics at Adrian college. It is a complimentary recognition of the young lady's attainments to be entrusted with so important a position.

The water Board wish to call the attention of watertakers to Sec. 17 of Rules and Regulations of waterworks; it is desirable in the interest of all taxpayers that this rule be observed. Parties desiring the use of water at other hours than those specified are entitled to that privilege by paying the extra rate.

Here is a conundrum that a lady asked the other evening: "Why is the wind blind?" And here is the answer she gave after everybody acknowledged their inability to guess it: "The wind is a breeze; a breeze is a zephyr; a zephyr is a yarn; a yarn is a tale; a tale is an attachment; attachment is love and love is blind." Do you wonder no one solved the puzzle?

The reunion of the Swick and Retan family will take place at the residence of Wm. B. Swick, two miles north of Britton, on Wednesday of next week, Aug. 9th. An extended literary and musical program will be presented. The exercises will begin at ten o'clock a. m. and there there will be both forenoon and afternoon programs with a recess for dinner. A large attendance is expected and a good time.

Some of our boys went to Palmyra Monday to play ball. Palmyra thought they were to meet a nine with a big reputation and prepared accordingly. The fact of the matter is, there were but one or two of the T. H. S. club among our players and the club did not go under that name. But, O my, did'nt Palmyra have fun with 'em. The score was forgotten(?) Now come up here and play ball and we'll show you what we have got.

Wm. A. Patterson is putting in about fifteen hours a day this week visiting old acquaintances here. He finds that many changes have taken place in the last twenty years, especially among the residences and in the growth of shade trees. The opera house and several business blocks have been erected during that period, and the Mackinaw railroad has been completed. With electric lights, a system of water works and an electric street railway, our future prosperity seems assured.

The Wolf Creek ball club came down last Friday afternoon and played a game of ball with the High School team, on Bills' Park. The first inning the visitors held the best end of the rope, but after the second inning the local club went steadily away from them with 8 to 19 in favor of the T. H. S. Following is the score by innings. High School first at bat:

Inning	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R
T. H. S	1	1	5	5	0	2	3	2	0	—19
Creek.	3	0	1	1	1	0	0	0	2	—8

Our enterprising druggist, John J. Orr, is making several proprietary medicines of his own. Among them his Anti-constipation pills seem to take the lead and they are giving universal satisfaction whenever used. He is working up a fine trade in these pills in the towns adjacent to Tecumseh, and the prospects favor a very large sale as rapidly as it can be extended. There is a possibility that these pills may pan out into a bonanza in the future.

People who design attending the World's Fair should call at this office and see what accommodations we can offer them. The Chicago Entertainment Bureau have a large number of desirable rooms in their control, in both hotels and private houses. The Cottage Grove Inn is an excellent place for the rates charged, as we know from actual trial. The rooms are neat and tidy, and well ventilated and the location of the Inn could not be improved, as it is situated directly on the Cottage Grove Cable line.

Business called us to Jasper one day last week to assist in preparing a program for the Union Pioneer Meeting to be held Aug. 11th. We took dinner at Rufus Baker's hospitable mansion near Fairfield village. He owns one of the finest farms in Southern Lenawee county, containing 290 acres, with a large complement of barns and other buildings. Mr. Baker came to this county in 1832 and has lived on his present farm since 1856. He keeps 30 milch cows and has for many years engaged extensively in making butter and cheese.

A silver medal contest will be held in the opera house early in Sept. between the young people of Raisin Valley and Tecumseh.

Two important articles on "the Financial Situation" will appear in the August number of the North American Review. The first is by the Comptroller of the Currency, Hon. James H. Eckels, who is to write on "The Present Crisis," and the second, by Governor Pennoyer of Oregon will be entitled "After the Four Hundred Years—What?"

A paper read at the World's Fair press congress bore the title. "Is absolute truth possible in a newspaper?" An answer to the question would be that it is possible, but highly injudicious. If the absolute unvarnished truth concerning people were told in a newspaper, there would be such a ruction in the community that ordinary gossip would sink into insignificance.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly [illegible] products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Monday, the twenty-sixth day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

Present, Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of John N. Gordon, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Eugenie H. Gordon, executrix of the last will and testament and upon the estate of said deceased, allowing that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred have been fully paid and that she is now ready to render her first annual account and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed according to the terms of the will, and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper,

It is ordered, that Monday, the 24th day of July next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendancy of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

To the success of the World-Renowned Swift's Specific
The old-time remedy from the Cotton swamps and Everglades of Georgia, come forth to the astonishment of the world, confounding the theories of those who depend solely on the physician's skill. There is no taint which it does not remove, no cradicate. Poisons outwardly absorbed or result of vile diseases from within all yield to this potent but simple remedy. It is an unequaled tonic, builds up the old and feeble, cures all disease arising from impure blood or weakened vitality. Send for a treatise. Examine the proof.

WHY ARE WHEELER & WILSON'S "No. 9" SEWING MACHINES POPULAR?

BECAUSE LADIES BUY THEM LIKE THEM AND TELL THEIR FRIENDS.

Many ladies have used our machines twenty to thirty years in their family work, and are still using the original machines we furnished them a generation ago. Many of our machines have run more than twenty years without repairs, other than needles. With proper care they never wear out, and seldom need repair. We have built sewing machines for more than forty years and have constantly improved them. We build our machines with honor, and they are recognized everywhere as the most accurately fitted and nicely finished sewing machines in the world. Our latest, the "No. 9," is the result of our long experience. In competition with the leading machines of the world, it received the Grand Prize at the Paris Exposition of 1889, as the best, other machines receiving only complimentary medals of gold, silver and bronze. The Grand Prize was what all sought for, and our machine was awarded it.

Send for our illustrated catalogue. We want dealers in all unoccupied territory,

PRODUCTS OF LEATHER

Competition of Foreign Nations With America

IN SHOE AND LEATHER BUILDING.

Fine Displays Made at the World's Columbian Exposition by a Number of Foreign Countries, but America Leads in Almost Every Line of Leather Work—Making Shoes by Machinery.

WORLD'S FAIR, July 31.—[Special.]—There is no place in the exposition where foreign nations have entered into keener rivalry with America than in the great Shoe and Leather building. But the impartial observer will unhesitatingly aver that in almost every line of leather work the Americans are first best. An old saying has it that "there is nothing like leather," and for the first time in the history of international expositions leather and its products are honored with a building all their own. This structure, large and handsome, is one of the results of that process of specialization and enlargement which have made this fair what it is in points of magnitude and scope. Originally it was intended to show leather and cognate industries in the Manufactures building, and it was believed the building had space enough for their accommodation, and for the department of anthropology and ethnology as well. Now both these departments are quartered in buildings of their own, and the vast tent of steel and glass known as Manufactures building is still crowded from one end to the other.

This building devoted exclusively to the leather interests is not a small one, either. It measures 150x575 feet, and if you will compare these dimensions with some building you know you will readily see that it is a monster. Besides the ground floor space, there is a broad gallery, running entirely around the building, and perhaps the most interesting feature of the exhibit is to be found on this floor.

On the ground floor America has taken a back seat in one respect, and this in the assignment of favorable space. Our foreign friends are courteously given the choicest locations, in the center of the hall, where the light is best. Here fine displays are made by Russia, Spain, Germany, Austria, France, Mexico, Japan, Brazil, Venezuela and the Argentine Republic. These are the great leather countries of the world, though of course the United States must be added to them and put at the top of the list.

These and other countries make displays here which in the aggregate possess far more that is interesting to the man who does not know much about leather than you would think possible. Of course leather is shown in every form known to man and his arts. The exhibitors are not content to show the prepared skins which form the basis of their trade, but they go back to first principles as it were and display for our instruction and amusement the animals which produce the hides of commerce, stuffed and mounted.

That familiar freak, the two-headed calf, is here without any faking of its form. More curious still are the dwarfed cow and calf which have come all the way from St. Paul de Loanda, Africa, and which are always surrounded by groups of admirers. The cow, which is of perfect form, and black as coal, is no larger than a medium-sized dog, while her calf, also as black as night, is the size of a Thomas cat of a year's lusty growth. As you may imagine, the visitors, especially the women and children, think this little cow and her diminutive calf about the cutest thing that ever walked on four legs. Not far away is the largest shoe that was ever manufactured. It is as much a monstrosity in vastness as the black critters are in tinniness. The cow and her calf could both find standing room in the big shoe, for it is 42 inches long and 16 inches wide. The number of jokes one hears in the vicinity of this shoe about the feet of the Chicago girl, etcetera, is so great as to become tiresome after a time.

The alligator exhibit is quite interesting. There are no living saurians in the collection, but an almost endless variety of alligator and crocodile skins. Some of them are beautifully marked, and strongly suggestive of the handsome wares which are now manufactured from these skins. In the collection is another beautiful but rather uncanny specimen—that of the skin of a huge Indian cobra which would make hundreds of elegant purses for our ladies of fashion. An alligator's nest full of eggs is shown here, too, and it naturally attracts a great deal of attention, for not many of us have had a chance to see an alligator's nest before.

Among the foreign displays there is none quite so interesting as that of Russia. With the Russians leather work means furs, and furs means leather work, for they mix the two trades together in a way quite unknown in this country. Besides, Russia has almost unlimited supplies to draw upon. Her empire extends from the region of the seal, the polar bear, the marten, the mink, the walrus, the reindeer in the north, to the wild animal plains in Siberia and the jungles of inner southern Asia. The Russians make a great show of the boots and shoes of their land—those top-boots with soft folds, black and handsome, which we have seen in pictures about the legs of all nobilities, military and civil, for the last fifty years. It is a genuine pleasure to have the accuracy of the pictures in which we have been so much interested thus confirmed by the appearance of the very top-boots themselves with that peculiar glossy fold which the Russians alone seem to know how to produce.

Mexico's exhibit is very good, too. The Mexicans are great saddle-makers, and many of their household uses of leather are ingenious and artistic. A curiosity in their section is the tough, elastic skin of the fish which they call manati, and of which walking sticks are manufactured and sold at fancy prices. Eight dollars is a big price for a little piece of fish skin, and yet many a Mexican scrapes and saves till he has amassed that amount of money and invested it in one of these queer sticks. He does so because of his belief in the tradition that if he strikes his enemy with one of these canes a cancer will appear in the spot struck.

You never knew what leather was till you walked through this building. Leather is shown in all the tints of the rainbow. In fact, one exhibitor has so arranged his wares that the effect is a very good imitation of the colors as well as of the form of the sign which we read in the Bible was set in the heavens as encouragement for Noah. Here is a collection of calves' skins tanned with the hair on and as soft and pliable as silk, with the natural markings in the grain of the hides as beautiful as a picture. Here, also, is an ox hide that was first tanned, then split into four thicknesses, and each of the pieces dyed a different color. The splitting process was not carried out entirely, and the four pieces are left joined at the shoulder to show you conclusively that there is no gammon about the trick.

Even the elephant has not escaped man's search for hides that will serve the purposes of his commerce. On the east side of the building you will find a monster hide which once hung upon the fat body of "Chief," who was a circus elephant in his day and who has delighted several millions of the little folk of the land. In a green state this hide weighed 800 pounds, but it now weighs only 500 pounds. It is twenty feet long, nearly six inches thick in some parts, and is the largest tanned hide in the United States. Two years were required to reduce it to a proper state. The largest horse hide and the largest alligator skin ever tanned are shown here, also. The horse's hide is thirteen and one-half feet long and still has the horse's head on it. The alligator skin is a few inches shorter, and has the head, tongue and palate of the original saurian attached. We see here a walrus hide that is two inches thick, and California, which seems to be a wonderland in a good many ways, sends a hide that has been thirty years in tanning.

SHOE-MAKING MACHINE.

If you like the horns of animals and such curiosities you will be delighted when you visit the Shoe and Leather building, for here is the finest collection of horns in the world. Among other curiosities is a sour milk bag from Jerusalem. It is made by pulling the meat out of the skin of a goat by main strength, instead of by taking the hide off with a knife in the ordinary way. Goat-skin water bags and water-bottles are shown in profusion. We pause for a moment to look at a patchwork table cover made of 6,000 pieces of leather, and the craziest quilt that our grandmothers ever knit had not a more startling array of colors. A curiosity not pleasant to look upon, and yet which is much looked at, is a mummified head of a woman, about four inches in diameter, from the headwaters of the Amazon. South America shows us some fine anaconda skins and the hides of lizards, which have considerable value in commerce, and the skins of chameleons as well.

The carriage leathers alone are worth an hour's inspection, and in this art America is certainly a long ways ahead of all competitors. As tanners we take very high rank. In the making of belting of course no other nation can compete with us. One belting exhibit here is said to be the finest and most costly that was ever shown, and to contain the largest belt that was ever manufactured. By the way, one could write a book about the things to be seen in this exposition which are the largest things of their class the world ever knew. This excelsior belt is twelve feet wide and more than 200 feet long. Its value is $42.50 per foot, and the whole piece is worth more than $8,000. On a reel near by is shown a belt that is more than two miles long. This exhibit, though occupying only a little corner, is worth $50,000. If you have ever bought belting you will know that it is an article which runs into money very rapidly. The most popular form of belting now appears to be that manufactured of myriads of little pieces of leather fastened together with metal links. It was a smart Yankee who saw that tons of scraps from the boot and shoe factories were going to waste, and who designed a belt that would consume these remnants economically. Hence the link belt of commerce, which now drives a large per cent. of the machinery of the United States.

The largest collection of footwear ever brought together is shown in this building. It is in a series of glass cases running along the wall. In scope it runs back four thousand years and shows us how the ancients dressed their feet. It goes into all lands and among all peoples. In all there are 1,500 typical articles of foot-gear in the collection, to which Chief Collier has devoted two years of the hardest kind of work, and which is deserving of mention as one of the most admirable features of the exposition.

Near the north entrance to the main floor you will see, in scores of beautiful cases the products of hundreds of American shoe factories. Here you will be led to an appreciation of the fact which hitherto may have escaped you that in shoemaking America distances the world. No other people have developed a third part the ingenuity of our Yankees in design, materials, combinations, embellishments.

Go to the gallery and see a shoe factory in operation, with fifty or sixty men and women at work, and producing a thousand shoes per day. The machines are ingenious, the processes interesting, the results one of the most important of all the contributions to American wealth.

A FATHER'S DEED.

Joseph Ashley Kills His Babe at Clark's Siding.

While in a Drunken Rage He Dashes Out His Little One's Brains Against a Post—He Is Placed Under Arrest.

A HORRIBLE CRIME.

CADILLAC, July 29.—At Clark's Siding, north of Manton, on Friday night Joseph Ashley, in a drunken rage, snatched his own child from the hands of his brother and dashed its brains out against a post. Ashley was very violent and quarrelsome in the house, and the brother took the child out in the yard to keep it from the father. The father followed him, and, after a struggle, got the child, and before he could be prevented committed his crime. He was arrested and brought here. The victim was only a baby about 1 year and a half old.

DETROIT BANKS ARE SOUND.

A Gratifying Condition of Affairs Shown by Their Report.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—Comptroller of the Currency Eckels is much gratified that the national banks of Detroit show by their official statement, just printed, that they are actually improving their condition in spite of the commercial depression and bank failures throughout the country. Their percentage of reserve, which is a sort of barometer in banking, has now increased to 24.80 per cent., which is a gain of over 2 per cent. since the May report.

The principal features of the present abstract are the two items of loans and deposits. The loans on May 4 last were $17,280,644, but they have now been reduced to $15,046,226. In other words, the Detroit banks have called in loans to the extent of over $2,250,000 in two months. This is an almost unprecedented reduction in loans, and the treasury officials say that while it has the effect of making the banks safer, it must tighten money in business channels at Detroit.

This is offset, however, by the fact that individual deposits are being reduced. On May 4 last, the total of individual deposits in Detroit national banks was $10,002,795, but this is now decreased to $8,491,415. In other words, about $2,000,000 have been taken from bank deposits and put into private pockets.

The present abstract also discloses that the Detroit national banks have been rendering generous assistance to their sister national banks elsewhere and to state banks. Since the May report the Detroit banks have paid to other national banks $700,000, and a like amount to state banks and bankers.

A Big Steamer Launched.

DETROIT, July 31.—To West Bay City belongs the honor of turning out the largest wooden boat ever built. Saturday the big $150,000 wooden steamer, the Thomas Cranage, was successfully launched at the shipyard of Capt. James Davidson, in West Bay City in the presence of a large crowd of people. The Cranage is 324 feet over all, 43 feet 6 inches beam and 26 feet molded depth of hold. Her engines are triple expansion, 20.33 and 54 inches in diameter, with a 42-inch stroke. Her boilers are two in number, and are 14 by 13.

Stricken from the Rolls.

IONIA, July 31.—Samuel Dole, a Grand Rapids man, was before the board of pension examiners in this city. Mr. Dole is 83 years old. He served three years in the war of the rebellion. Since then he has been twice paralyzed and is now in a pitiable condition. Dole has been drawing a pension of $12 a month since July 5, 1890, but in June last it was cut off pending examination. The old man's case excites much sympathy.

Used a Log Chain.

MONROE, July 27.—Peter Althoefer, son of Michael Althoefer, a well-to-do farmer of Monroe township, committed suicide by hanging himself with a log chain. His lifeless body was found dangling from a large tree back of the barn. Althoefer was a single man, about 32 years old, and his deed is attributed to insanity.

Lost Their Cash.

KALAMAZOO, July 28.—M. Craver, to guard against loss by burglary, placed $4,600 worth of notes in the store of his brother George. The store was one of those burned Wednesday, and Mr. Craver lost all his money. Lee Ok, a Chinaman, lost $200 in paper money, but succeeded in recovering $500 in silver from the ruins.

New Place for Prof. Clute.

LANSING, July 29.—Prof. Oscar Clute, who recently resigned the presidency of the Michigan agricultural college, has accepted a like position with the Florida State agricultural college, located at Lake City. He will assume the duties at once.

Caught in a Frog.

LANSING, July 29.—A brakeman named Smith, aged 28 years, whose reported residence is Hastings, caught his foot in a frog at the Michigan Central station here Friday morning while coupling cars and was instantly killed by being run over.

Old Comrades to Meet.

SPARTA, July 29.—The fifth annual reunion of the Northern Kent Association of Soldiers and Sailors will be held at Sparta on the 16th, 17th and 18th of August, on the new and pleasant camp ground of the association.

To Exhibit Fine Poultry.

IONIA, July 29.—The Ionia Poultry association has decided to hold a poultry show this year and has settled on December 5, 6, 7 and 8 as the dates. B. N. Pierce of Indianapolis has been secured as judge.

Green Apples Caused His Death.

THREE RIVERS, July 28.—Guy Bucher, a boy aged 13 years, died suddenly Thursday night from the effects of eating green apples and going in bathing.

STRONG WITNESSES.

Among the thousands of testimonials of cures by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is that of Nathan Allisons, a well known citizen of Glen Rock, Pa., who for ten years had shortness of breath, sleeplessness, pain in left side, shoulders, smothering spells, etc.; one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and one box of Nerve and Liver Pills, cured him. Peter Jaquet, Salem, N. J., is another witness, who for twenty years suffered with Heart Disease, was pronounced incurable by physicians, death stared him in the face, could not lie down for fear of smothering to death. Immediately after using the New Cure he felt better and could lie down and sleep all night, and is now a well man. The New Cure is sold, also free book, by Baker & Hall.

In journeying recently with a traveling man friend, the conversation took such shape that he took a bottle, from his grip, of Brant's Extract of Blackberry, saying: "I never travel without it. I am easily affected by the change of water, Chicago water especially always troubles me, but a dose or two of Brant's Blackberry quickly cures the trouble." He had it right and if the thousands who travel and visit Chicago this summer are "Wise like the drummer" to have Brant's Blackberry with them, they will find it a very useful article. 25 cent bottles of J. W. S. Kimball's cottage at Wampler's Lake was commenced this week.

Dr. G. W. Kishpaugh, of Holloway, was in town the first of the week.

M. F. McClure has been enlarging his bakery and building a wood house.

Mrs. Will Eccles had an old-fashioned quilting party last Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Haynes, who has been visiting Macon friends, returned to E. R. Smith's Saturday.

Fred Wilson, of Hanover, joined his brother and sister last Friday for a few days' visit.

The families of Eph and Art Ogden spent Saturday and Sunday at Wampler's Lake.

Miss Augusta Kirchgessner went to Ann Arbor Tuesday to attend teacher's examination.

E. T. VanDeMark came home from Chicago last Thursday night. He will remain several weeks.

It is reported that Miss Mae Morey has accepted a position in the Brooklyn schools for the coming year.

Quite a party of young people were entertained at the pleasant home of Chas. Davis Tuesday evening.

Miss Mollie Freese, who is a guest at E. W. Freese's, was quite sick with neuralgia several days last week.

E. VanDeMark's family and E. R. Smith's family, with their guest, Mrs. Haynes, spent Tuesday at the lakes.

Aleck Kennedy, Chas. Fabrique, Will Eccles and a few other "boys" spent Saturday and Sunday at the lakes.

Clinton horsemen avail themselves of the opportunity of speeding their horses on J. E. Woodward's fine half mile track.

Mr. and Mrs. Grinnell, of Detroit, came over Monday night to accompany the Kishpaugh party to Wampler's Lake Tuesday.

The pupils of Miss Goodykoontz will give an interesting program, consisting of new selections from leading authors, club swinging and the Technique of Action, at the town hall Monday evening, Aug. 7, beginning at 8 o'clock. Admission ten cents.

Peter Snauble had a tooth extracted by the "Blair painless process" last Saturday afternoon. He left the Edrose House and by the time he had reached Fred Davis' photograph rooms he was almost unconscious. He was carried upstairs and Dr. White was called. He was in a serious condition for some time but at last accounts was improving.

S. W. Demuth and his bicycle had an encounter with a thorn bush one evening last week, in which the wheel, instead of standing by a fellow, took a mean advantage, rolled away, and left Sell to fight his way alone. This proved to be a hard matter as he was lying flat on his back on the bush and held there by a stout limb which had insinuated itself in the back of his coat collar. Chauncey Ogden was near by and helped him to free himself, also with the aid of pins and sticks repaired his trousers sufficiently to enable him to reach home by the back streets.

TO YOUNG MEN!

THE TECUMSEH HERALD MAKES A SPLENDID OFFER.

One Year's Tuition Free of Charge at the Detroit College of Law to the Young Man Who Receives the Highest Number of Votes.

THE HERALD has made arrangements with the officials of the Detroit College of Law, whereby it is enabled to offer to the young man who receives the highest number of votes, a year's tuition free of charge in the above college. This is an excellent opportunity for a deserving young man to acquire a thorough legal education. The only condition is that the young man must be a resident of Michigan and must be voted for with coupons cut from this paper. Cut out the coupon below, fill out the blank spaces, and send it to THE HERALD, Tecumseh, Mich.

Vote as many times as you please, but always on HERALD coupons. No votes will be received after Saturday evening, September 30, 1893.

THE HERALD LAW SCHOOL

SCHOLARSHIP COUPON.

THIS VOTE IS CAST FOR

Name.....

Address.....

.....

Information concerning the school can be had by addressing M. P. McGregor, 20 McGraw building, Detroit.

Here an opportunity is afforded the student to combine the work of the school with that of the office, so that the practical and the scientific elements of his education may progress together. To this end all exercises of the college are held in the evening and students are also encouraged in securing work during the day in suitable law offices in the city. They are also encouraged in attending the various courts, so far as this does not interfere with their other duties.

The city furnishes good opportunities for obtaining employment to those who are obliged to earn money to defray their expenses while attending the college.

World's Fair Complete.

The World's Columbian Exposition is one of the most complete and attractive exhibitions ever given since time began. As the warm, balmy days of summer make a visit to this great show a pleasure, hundreds of thousands of people are feasting their eyes on its beauties. In order to prepare the great mass of humanity to better understand and appreciate the Exposition, the World's Columbian Exposition Illustrated, in its midsummer or July number, has made a new departure in the character and class of its illustrations. In this issue especial attention has been given to illustrations of the exhibits. Beginning with a full page frontispiece of P. de-Gloukhoyskoy, Imperial Commissioner General of Russia to the World's Fair, the other prominent illustrations are full-page reproductions of an exhibit of Japanese Silk Tapestry, Agricultural Building, and others. Besides these are the Lapland Village, Chinese Theatre, Walter M. Lowney Company's Chocolate Pavilion, Reproduction of Farm Scene in Grains in Illinois State Building, View from Wooded Island, Model of St. Peter's at Rome, Illinois and Iowa's Pavilions in Agricultural Building, a beautiful center piece, The Exposition by Night, Hide and Seek, Interior View of Manufactures Building, California Orange Exhibit, Central Fountain and Aquariums in Fisheries Building, Group of Sea Lions in U. S. Government Building, and many others. Among the leading articles are Success of the Exposition, The Opening of World's Congresses, The Exposition and the Youth, The Many Attractions of the Exposition, Realization of Hopes, Best Time to See the Exposition, and others. From every standpoint the present number of this excellent magazine is the strongest yet sent out to its thousands of readers and admirers. In its completed form it will make a valuable history of the great Exposition that no one should fail to have. Back numbers always on hand, and all requests for either back or future issues, sent to the publisher personally, will receive prompt attention. Sample copy sent for 25 cents in stamps. Address, J. B. Campbell, Publisher, 159-161 Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

Lansing Wins the State Trophy.

MUSKEGON, July 27.—The two days' shooting tournament of the Michigan State Trap association concluded Wednesday night. The team trophy was won by the Lansing team for the third time, making the trophy its permanent property. F. E. Marinette, of Mendon, won the champion expert medal for the second time. He was tied twice with Seales, of Mason, making necessary three races of twenty-five birds each. H. W. Holt, of Manchester, won the semi-expert medal, and James Heath, of Muskegon, the amateur medal. The next shoot will be in Jackson, August 22 and 23.

Will Build a New Road.

MANISTEE, July 30. — Buckley & Douglass, proprietors of the Manistee & Northeastern railroad, have decided to open up Leelanaw county for the iron horse, and are making surveys through there with a view to extending their line to open the territory tributary to Glenn Haven, Glenn Arbor, Empire, Leland, Good Harbor, Burdickville and Maple City. Most of these towns have steamboat service in summer but are convenienced only by a semi or tri-weekly stage mail route for a permanency.

Lake Shore After a Michigan Road.

GOSHEN, Ind., July 29.—Confidential employes have let out the rumor that the Lake Shore railway is scheming to absorb the Michigan branch of the Big Four, the old Cincinnati, Wabash & Michigan railway, with terminal points at Benton Harbor, Mich., and Rushville, Ind. The mileage is 204, and under the old management is said to have paid handsomely. Its accession would give the Lake Shore an inlet to Cincinnati and a short line to Louisville.

Superintendent Cheever's New Job.

LANSING, July 28.—Superintendent Walter H. Cheever, of the Lansing schools, has been elected to the chair of history and political economy in the Wisconsin state normal school at Milwaukee. He has asked the Lansing school board to release him so he may accept this position.

Relief for Ewen.

EWEN, July 29.—A carload of food and clothing has been received from Marquette and liberal contributions from Ashland, Bessemer and Ontonagon have come in. The pressing needs of the families burned out have been relieved. Business men will rebuild with brick.

The Michigan Man Won.

DUBUQUE, Ia., July 31.—Nic Jarding and Frank Keller, heavyweights, fought on an island 10 miles above Dubuque Sunday afternoon for $250 a side, Keller winning in the fifth round. He comes from Ypsilanti, Mich., and calls himself champion of that state.

A Bank Suspends.

GRAND RAPIDS, July 29.—Local creditors have been advised of the closing of the C. W. Chapin & Co. private bank at Stanton, Montcalm county, owing to a rush of depositors for their cash. No statement of assets and liabilities has been given out.

Will Abandon the Mine.

NEGAUNEE, July 30.—The Lucy Mining company has sold its ore in stock, 5,000 tons, and is now shipping it. They will dismantle the engine houses and abandon the mines as soon as the ore now on the grounds is shipped.

TO THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Do You Want to Go to the World's Fair at Chicago Without Spending a Small Fortune or Sleeping in the Streets?

Then engage your rooms beforehand, and the sooner the better. We offer you first a suit of three rooms on second floor, a large room and two small bedrooms off from it. The bedrooms furnished with beds, the large room with oil stove, table, set of knives and forks, cups and saucers, spoons, tea-kettle, stewpan, frier, teapot, coffeepot, tin pans, pails, etc., a kind of camping outfit and a cot or two. This will accommodate a family or party of five or six persons. We rent it at $3 per day, if for only a week or two—at $2 50 per day if kept for a month; making it cost 45 to 60 cents a day for each person, with cooking conveniences. Kept in order by party renting.

No. 2.—Same as No. 1.

No. 3.—Two rooms on ground floor, bed in each. Chance for making tea or coffee. For party of four—$2 per day.

No. 4.—Cottage of five rooms; parlor, sitting-room and summer kitchen, with small bed room off each of the two former. Furnished with cooking utensils same as No. 1. Folding bed or lounge in parlor and bedstead with mattress and pillows in each bedroom. You must bring your own bed clothes, sheets and pillow cases. This will accommodate a family or party of six. Price $1 per day, costing less than 17 cents per day to each one. Will not rent for less than one month.

No. 5.—Comfortable cots for gentlemen; only eight or ten in large room—25 cents each per night.

We also have rooms furnished with simply bedsteads with woven wire spring mattress. This with a comforter over it will make a comfortable bed to lie on, and you can bring the comforter and enough bed-clothes for summer use with you in a trunk. We furnish these rooms to parties of four, six or eight, with camping outfit for cooking, at from two to three dollars a week for each person.

We have a shanty or tent, 10x16—weatherboarded, with shingle roof, but unfinished inside, which we furnish with bedstead, cot and cooking arrangements, same as above, for three persons, at $1 25 a week for each person.

Our aim is to furnish comfortable places (without style) at moderate cost, but we can also rent you finely furnished rooms at higher prices up to $10 a day.

We are located directly west of Fair Grounds at what was Chicago Lawn on land twenty feet higher and in plain sight of the buildings. We are a little nearer than the Palmer or any of the principal city hotels. The cost of reaching the grounds will possibly be 5c more than from the down town districts, or those within two or three miles of the ground, but the additional cost of rooms there will be from ten to fifty times this amount, besides you will there be packed into buildings with hundreds of others, and be in the constant dirt and noise of the crowd. Here you have a quiet place, surrounded by sober, intelligent people. If you will enclose four cents in stamps we will send you a good 22x30 inch map of Chicago, showing location, and convenient to keep.

Remember that to secure the above places and prices you must write soon. Address, Eberhart & Co., 420 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., or Dr. Isa A. Eberhart, Chicago Lawn P. O., Chicago, Ill.

Nothing Like It.

"Nothing like it has ever been seen in this country."—That is the opinion of every visitor to Hagenbeck's Zoological Arena on Midway Plaisance, on the World's Fair grounds. Every day, from morning till late in the evening, thousands of World's Fair visitors crowd this wonderful show to witness the performance of the lions on horse back, tigers on velocipedes, trained pigs, the rare monkeys and parrots, and thousands of other wonderful curiosities. Don't fail to see the greatest of all animal shows when visiting the World's Fair grounds. A restaurant with popular prices is in the building.

It pays to be a Kansas poetess. One of them recently received $10,000 damages from a railway company.

Total Number of Prizes for this County, 226.

CAUTION.—No Tags will be received before January 1st, 1894, nor after February 1st, 1894. Each package containing tags must be marked plainly with Name of Sender, Town, County, State, and Number of Tags in each package. All charges on packages must be prepaid.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, O.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

DON'T SEND ANY TAGS BEFORE JANUARY 1, 1894.

WONDERFUL CURES!

THOMAS MINCHIN. MAJOR W. A. SIMFIELD.

Before Treatment. After Treatment. Before Treatment. After Treatment.

Nervous Debility and Catarrh Cured.

Thomas Minchin says: "I was reduced to a nervous wreck—only weighed 118 pounds. The result of early abuse was the cause. I had the following symptoms: Miserable mentally and physically, melancholy, nervousness, weakness, specks before the eyes, dizzy, poor memory, palpitation of the heart, flushing, cold hands and feet, weak back, dreams and losses at night, tired in the morning, pimples on the face, loss of ambition, burning sensation, kidneys weak etc. Doctors could not cure me; but Drs. Kennedy & Kergan by their New Method Treatment, cured me in a few weeks. I weigh now 170 pounds. It is three years since I have taken their treatment."

Blood Disease and Dyspepsia Cured.

Major Simfield says: "I had Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach for many years. To make matters worse I contracted a Constitutional Blood Disease. My bones ached. Blotches on the skin looked horrible. I tried sixteen doctors in all. A friend recommended Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. I began their New Method Treatment and in a few weeks was a new man with renewed life and ambition. I cannot say too much for those scientific doctors who have been in Detroit for fourteen years. I conversed with hundreds of patients in their offices who were being cured for different diseases. I recommend them as honest and reliable Physicians."

Dr. J. Gore Galleher,

EYE SPECIALIST AND ELECTRONIST will be at

LILLEY HOUSE, Tecumseh, Mich.

Thursday and Friday, Aug. 24 and 25.

TWO DAYS ONLY.

CONSULTATION AND EXAMINATIONS FREE

If you are interested in the condition of your eyes, call on the noted Dr. Galleher. He is an expert in his profession. Eyesight is precious—more valuable than any other of the special senses. The Docter has treated in the last 12 months more than 3,500 cases of all forms of eye trouble and errors of refractions, such as Glancoma, Ulceration of the Cornea, Granulation of the lids, Presbyopia, Paralysis of Accomodation, Spasm of Accomodation, Hypermetrobia, Aphakia, Myopia, Astigmatism, Anisometropia, Strabismus, Diplopia, Asthenopia, etc. Have you ever stopped to think how many people in this world are blind from their own negligence and carelessness in not giving their eyes attention at the proper time? You now have the opportunity of consulting one who gives all his time in treating cronic eye trouble. Thousands of persons in this world that do not use glasses that should, then again there are thousands of persons using gasses they think suited to their eyes, but the truth of the matter is, the glasses do not correct the trouble, but aggravate it and produce headache, spots before the eyes, inflamation, granulation, winking, trembling spells, various nerve and brain affections, catracts, burning and smarting of the eyes, etc.; entailing not only positive injury to the sight, but untold misery and blindness. Dr. Galleher makes examinations that few in this country can make. He has instruments with which he can examine every cle and fibre in the inside of the eye. He can tell you in an instant after examining your whether he can benefit you or not, and will truthfully say so. It should be understood that Galleher is well known throughout the Eastern States as a practical and successful electrion- He invented some of the finest electrical appliances ever imported to this country. Remember that Dr Galleher does not give one drop of medicine. He is the only man in America who has exclusive sale of Dr. Edgar Scott's Positive Catarrh Cure. An instrument put up of compressed medicated gasses, which is Dr. S's. own invention. Dr. Galleher also has appliances which remove a tape worm in from two to four hours or no charges made Testimonals of the best le in this country at his room at the hotel. Call early and secure convenient hours for free sultation and examination.

BRITTON BUDGET.

Miss Bertha Britton, after a dangerous illness, is slowly improving.

Mrs. Jas. Haight, who has been quite ill for the past two weeks, is convalescent.

One could go to Chicago and return at one fare on the Wabash, August 10—to-day.

The camp meeting at Milan drew a large delegation from this section last Sunday.

Mrs. J. B. Coller, of Macon, visited her sister, Mrs. E. W. Lenardson, last Thursday.

Work on the Christian church, preparatory to moving the same, was begun last Monday.

On account of illness Wm. Hause was obliged to give up his work on the railroad for a few days.

The last service to be held in the church before removal will be on next Sunday morning and evening.

Quite a number from here attended the Epworth League Convention at Ridgeway Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Swick and Retan family held their annual reunion at the home of Wm. Swick on Wednesday, Aug. 9.

The carpenter work on L. C. Hoagland's new residence is progressing rapidly with Eddie Bachman at the helm.

Willie Coller, of Macon, and his cousin, Willie Hyser, of Ypsilanti, were visiting their young friends here last Thursday.

Mr. Pierce, of Van Doren, and Mr. Pierce, of Adrian, were in town Tuesday, looking up the interests of the Hickory wheel.

Miss Lena Swick and Miss Minnie Sloan, of Milan, visited at O. B. Lenardson's while attending the convention at Ridgeway.

We neglected to mention in this column last week the arrival at Wm. Beasley's of a 3-pound boy. If 'tis not too late, will take a cigar.

The Hoagland family will hold their next annual reunion on the third Saturday in August—the 19th, at the home of Mrs. Louisa Hoagland.

HISTORIC RELICS.

The Guillotine Upon Which Marie Antoinette Was Executed Now on Exhibition at the Fair.

One of the most interesting relics of the world's fair to be seen is on exhibition at the Moorish palace on Midway plaisance. It is the guillotine upon which the lamented and heroic Marie Antoinette was beheaded at Paris, Oct. 16, 1793. That this is a genuine relic there can be no mistake, for its history is authentic.

After the reign of terror had lost itself in blood this guillotine, upon which over 1,800 persons were beheaded, was stowed away until 1871, when, by order of the French republic, all state property of France was sold at auction. This historic relic was purchased by M. Dubois & Co. for 42,500 francs or $8,200. It was resold to Caston Brothers, whose property it still remains. They made an effort to exhibit it in Berlin, but the German government refused them permission, fearing it would increase the horrible feeling then existing against the French. It was then exhibited at Mme. Tussaud's, in London, for some years, and later taken to Paris and can now be seen at the Moorish palace.

The platform and guillotine are genuine beyond a doubt. Upon the platform is an excellent likeness and figure in wax of the beautiful queen as she stood before her executioners with her last words upon her lips, "God be kind to my executioners."

Beside her stands the public prosecutor of the day, and in the distance are thousands of sans-culottes ravenous in their demands for human blood of either great or small degree.

Family Reunion.

Last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday was the time set by the Chambers family for a reunion. The brothers are widely scattered but the sister, Mrs. Edwin Howell, has always resided near the old homestead in Macon. Early in the week they began to congregate and by Wednesday there were four brothers, Samuel from Ypsilanti, Archibald from Vassar, James from Lowell, and John from Fort Wayne, Ind., present. With Samuel came his wife and four children; with Archibald his wife and three children, two of them married and having families. James and John came alone. During the evening the youngest brother, Culver, surprised them all by bursting in upon them with his wife and two boys. All were now present but Seneca, the second brother. The only representative from his family was his daughter, Mrs. Lillian C. Mix. Twenty-five sat down to dinner at the meeting place, Mr. Edwin Howell's. On Friday a family group was taken containing thirty-three persons. Besides the brothers and their families there were present cousins Leonardo Remington and wife and daughter Lorraine; John Moring and Frank Crighton, of Fort Wayne; Will Edgecomb and wife, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Chambers; Charles Filkins and wife and son Guy, of Northville, Mich., son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Chambers; Will Chambers and wife and two children, son of Archibald Chambers; Will, Ben, Alice and Harry, children of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Chambers; Miss May Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Chambers; Mandeville and Keith Chambers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Culver Chambers. Lester Coller and wife, hearing of the reunion, came down and called and were included in the group. Late in the day Mr. James Lindsey and wife called, also Mr. William Biddle, wife and daughter, and Dr. Geo. Howell. Of those who were not present there are one brother, Seneca, wife and three sons; Joseph Chambers and wife and child, of Los Angeles, Cal., son of Samuel Chambers, and Clara Belle, his daughter; Mrs. Delia Scott, of Vassar, daughter of Archibald Chambers, her husband and two children; Mrs. James Chambers and three daughters, of Lowell; Wheeler Chambers, son of Culver Chambers, and Mr. Sumner Collins and wife, of Chicago, son of Mrs. Edwin Howell.

Many friends called during the stay of the brothers and congratulations were showered upon the family. The reunion was a very pleasant occasion and will be remembered long by those who participated.

Teachers of Lenawee.

The State Teachers' Institute for this county opens at the high school building in the city of Adrian, at 10 o'clock a. m., Monday, Aug. 14th, and it is expected to continue in session three weeks.

Able instructors have been assigned us and there is every reason to believe that the institute will be a most profitable one.

Superintendent Pattengill will favor us with his presence Tuesday and Tuesday evening, Aug. 15, and we may expect to hear something good from him. I trust, therefore, that as many as possible will plan to attend the institute at the very beginning and remain until the close.

During the session I hope to give, for the especial benefit of country teachers, a number of talks on grading and classifying district schools, using Welch's "How to Organize, Classify and Teach a Country School" as a text book.

Teachers of Lenawee, let us make the coming institute the most successful one in the history of the county.

C. F. FIELD,
School Commissioner.

Lenawee Co. G. A. R Association.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Lenawee County G. A. R. Association, held in Adrian, on July 17th, 1893, it was decided to hold the regular annual reunion and picnic on the Fair Grounds of the Lenawee County Agricultural Society, in the city of Adrian, on Thursday, August 24, 1893 commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Post commanders, Presidents of W. R. C. and Captains of S. of V., are requested to be present, and ready to report for their organization as required by the constitution. You are also requested to notify all the members of your respective organizations of the time and place of the reunion, and as one of the Vice-Presidents do what you can to secure a good attendance and make this our Fourth Annual Reunion, one of the most successful and enjoyable yet held.

The Post, Corps and Camp, in each place where there is a Post, are requested to unite in selecting some one from their place to take part in the program (music, recitation or speech as they may desire), not to exceed five minutes in length.

POINTERS TO VISITORS.

Twenty-five Things To Be Seen at the Fair

BY THOSE WITH LIMITED TIME.

A List of Exhibits Which One Who Has Been at the Exposition Constantly Since the Opening Thinks Are the Most Note-Worthy—Something Which May Prove of Assistance to You.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Today I met one of my friends from Washington, who had but a few days to spend in the exposition, and he asked me, inasmuch as I had been here some time, to name for him the twenty-five things most worthy his time and attention. "I can see at the first glance," said he, "that this fair is too big for me. I can't take in a tenth part of it. I don't want to waste any time running about aimlessly, and when I start out I want to know just what I am after. So if you will, sit down and tell me about twenty-five of the most interesting things to be seen here you will do me a great favor." I said to my friend this was easier to talk of than to do, and besides, if I were to try to give him such a list it might not suit his tastes at all and in the end he would blame instead of thank me for what I had done.

Again, there was an objection to the plan in that I might name for him too many things that had come from foreign countries, while he might be more interested in American works. To this he replied that he would take his chances on my judgment, and as to the foreign articles and displays, that was just what he cared most to see, and if I had made a study of the imported wares so much the better. In this way I was led to attempt a feat which naturally I should not undertake. Below will be found the list which I gave to my friend, with some of the reasons therefor, and if it shall prove any assistance to the intending visitor to the fair I shall be glad.

To my motion the twenty-five most interesting things which the foreigners have to show here are as follows:

1. The Dore vase in French section of Manufactures building. It is a noteworthy work of art, without doubt the finest bronze to be found in the exposition. It is not only large in size, majestic in proportions and a notable casting judged purely from the mechanical point of view, but it is wonderfully beautiful in its design and in the figures with which its surface is literally covered. Gustav Dore, the artist, is dead, and the great vase is for sale for the benefit of his family. The price is $20,000.

2. The street in Cairo is a splendid example of the art of transplanting an Oriental scene to the midst of western civilization. Though a mere showman's trick, the Cairo street, with its shops, its mosque, its dromedaries, donkeys, theater, temple, savage camps and other accessories is a bit of realism which is not surpassed in the exposition for genuine human interest.

3. The loan galleries in the Fine Arts palace. In these rooms are displayed several score of masterpieces by foreign artists, now owned in America. Here are the best pictures of the exposition. But for their presence several of the foreign schools, notably that of France, would be so poorly represented as to be almost failures.

4. The laces made in Belgium, in France, in Italy, with their artistic value about in the order named. All women love laces and many men after beholding these airy, fairy, film-like creations, wish that fashions might change so as to permit them to wear laces. Fabrics at a thousand dollars a yard are costly, but the beauty is there in a degree which you have never dreamed of.

5. The marble statues and statuettes in the Italian section, Manufactures building. These are not supposed to be the highest types of the art of sculpture—for these you must go to the Fine Arts palace—but they are the works which please the masses. They are expressive, they are pictures in stone, they have life and action rather than lofty ideals. They are in immense variety and of amazing cleverness.

6. The Javanese village as an example of the simple, almost dainty life and peaceful industrial pursuits of an interesting people from the other side of the world. They have here a village with forty or more structures in it, representing all their forms of architecture and all manners of life. A cleanly, industrious, lovable, skillful people they are, and their small stature makes them seem more like children than men and women grown.

7. The gowns and millinery in the French section, Manufactures building. There are no such dressmakers, no such milliners, elsewhere in the world. In Paris these trades approach the fields of high art.

8. Work in silver to be found in Russian and Danish sections, Manufactures building. The Russians excel all other nations in the use of enamel. Some of their wares are surprisingly beautiful and difficult of execution. In repousse silver the Danes appear to lead. Compare these silver works with those in the Tiffany and Gorham exhibits, United States section, and note that America is attaining not only fine workmanship but character in design.

9. The carvings in the Japanese and Italian sections, Manufactures building. These two peoples are the earth's greatest carvers. The Italians are surely ahead of all rivals, with the Japanese a good second.

10. The Gobelin tapestries in the French section, Manufactures building—rare old pictures in fabrics, famous pieces from the last century and the century before. See also the tapestries in the Belgium section.

11. German chemistry, Manufactures building. The Germans excel all other peoples in chemistry, which is the art that stands at the base of all arts and industries. The display of chemicals here is the most comprehensive and important the world ever saw.

12. The Doulton pottery and Royal Worcester ware from England, also the Cauldon china from the same country, in comparison with the delft ware from Belgium, the Royal porcelains from Austria, and Germany, the terra cottas and porcelains from Denmark, and the choisonne and porcelains of the Japanese. These are the ceramic nations of the earth, and the visitor who studies their products will see all in this line that is worthy his attention.

13. The English railway train and locomotive, Transportation building, in comparison with the French locomotives and German cars and American locomotives and trains which stand near by. No such opportunity to study the railway transportation methods of various countries was ever offered before.

14. The Krupp guns, special pavilion, and heavy forgings for other purposes, especially the great steamer screws and steam hammers.

15. Instruments of measurement and precision made by Germans and shown in the first floor and gallery of the Electricity building. The skill that man has attained in this direction, measuring electric currents, temperatures, illuminating the interiors of human bodies and organs, is almost beyond belief.

16. Bohemian glassware as the very finest possible product of the art of glass making. The Austrian empire has no rival in glass, unless it be the Venetians; and in cut glassware the Americans make a specialty and the best works.

17. Hatfield hall, nearly full sized model, British section, Manufactures building, as showing one of the most magnificent interiors and typical British decorations and service of two centuries ago.

18. Swiss watches, hand-made, marvels of ingenuity and workmanship, Swiss section, Manufactures building. Compare these with American made watches, in which machinery plays such an important part, two or three blocks down Columbia avenue.

19. Diamond cutting, from imported diamondiferous earth, Cape Colony, Mines building. Here we see the big Zulu guards, attired in a costume which other men envy on hot days, the manner in which the diamond pebbles are formed in the earth, how they are sifted out, dressed and perfected.

20. The exhibit made by the City of Paris in the French building, lake front, of the manner in which that great metropolis is governed, cleaned, lighted and cared for in all the departments of a model municipal organization—the streets, sewage, gas, hospitals, police, detection of crime by means of photography, even the morgue with its ghastly scenes, the reformatory schools and farms in the suburbs.

21. Models of foreign merchant and naval vessels, Transportation building. There is a great number of these handsome structures, and they form one of the most interesting features of the transportation display, which good judges have declared to be the most thoroughly comprehensive and nearly perfect departmental building of the exposition. The makers of the models have so arranged them as to afford visitors a graphic idea of the rise of the world's shipping, the gradual increase of the size of the great merchant ships, the changes of forms, the growth of the art of marine architecture. Among all these models there is none that attracts more attention than that of the ill-fated battleship Victoria, which sank in a collision in the Mediterranean a few weeks ago. While looking at this model it is hard to realize that such a magnificent craft, equipped with all the most costly and presumably most effective safety appliances, was sent to the bottom of the sea in twenty minutes by an injury to one of its parts.

22. The displays of the world's valuable woods in the Forestry building, particularly the giant redwood trees and cedars of California, our own oaks and walnuts, the bamboos of Asia and the South seas. The biggest tree here is not in the Forestry building, by the way, but may be seen in the Government building, where it occupies a position in the great rotunda. It is a part of the exhibit of the department of the interior.

23. Inasmuch as the greatest thing in life is the home, all visitors will be interested in the furniture exhibit, and the furniture displays most worthy attention may be found in the Italian section, where the carvings are superb, in the German section, where the pieces are rich and massive, in the English section, where oak is made the most of, in the French section, where graceful designs and elaborate ornamentation prevail.

24. La Rabida convent with its treasures of original and reproduced relics of Columbus and the Columbian era, the most admirable and comprehensive historical collection ever presented in a universal exposition.

25. Those greatest of historical relics, the three caravels and the Viking ship from Norway, which are anchored near the convent; and though visitors are not allowed aboard, the strange craft, with their mighty historical associations, may be well seen from the pier near by.

ROBERT GRAVES.

To Give a Corn Banquet.

Charles J. Murphy, a special agent of the agricultural department engaged in introducing corn into Europe, has been in Chicago for some weeks, and through his efforts there are now nine places on the exposition grounds where corn can be had in its different forms as appetizing human nourishment. Mr. Murphy hopes to round off his activities for corn in Chicago by an elaborate corn banquet, to be given in one of the state buildings best adapted for the purpose, probably New York. The foreign commissioners and principal foreign correspondents and commissioners from each state are to be invited guests. Corn is to be served in all its tempting forms, and literature is to be furnished each guest descriptive of the many uses to which the grain is put. Mr. Murphy holds that this is an ideal opportunity for showing the possibilities of corn and he believes that no exhibit in the entire exhibition will so strikingly impress the foreign guests.

Artificial Hens Are Busy.

Incubation in all its varied phases and possibilities is receiving much attention from the World's Columbian exposition. While this art, science, philosophy or pastime has reached its zenith of prominence in the Electrical building, with lightning as the incubating power, an entire building in the back yard is devoted to this department. Around the sides are the artificial-hens, and down the center are stacks of patent food for chickens. A competitive race of the hatchers is being planned as a drawing card for the crowds.

PASSED AWAY.

Death at Grand Rapids of Gen. William P. Innes.

He Was Widely Known in Masonic and Grand Army Circles in Michigan—A Short Sketch of the Dead Man's Career.

GEN INNES IS DEAD.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 3.—Gen. William P. Innes, widely known in masonic and grand army circles, died Wednesday, aged 67. He leaves a wife and three adult children.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 7.—The funeral of Gen. William P. Innes was held Sunday, and was the largest and most imposing in local annals. The officers of the grand lodge of Michigan masons and of the grand commandery Knights Templars attended in a body. The Knights Templar of Detroit, Ionia, Lansing, St. Johns, Muskegon and Grand Rapids, the officers of the grand chapter, all the subordinate masonic lodges of the city and many scattering delegations of masons and Knights Templars were there, besides the grand army posts of the city, the Sons of Veterans, the three state militia companies, the Old Settlers' society, the officers of the Masonic home and Masonic Mutual Benefit association and hundreds of citizens. Brief funeral services were held at the residence of the family at 11 o'clock, and then, escorted by the Innes rifles, the remains were taken to Stark's church to lie in state until 3 o'clock, when the formal services were conducted by Rev. H. H. Johnston, assisted by Rev. Mr. Burgess. The services at the grave were masonic, closing with a military salute by the militia.

William P. Innes was born in New York city January 22, 1826. He entered the employ of the Erie railway as a civil engineer at the age of 16, and remained until the completion of that great work. In 1853 he came to Michigan as a civil engineer in the employ of the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee railway, and has since that time made Grand Rapids his home. In 1857 he made the first preliminary survey for a railroad from Grand Rapids to Mackinaw, the line which afterward became the Grand Rapids & Indiana.

Soon after the first battle of Bull Run he raised a regiment of engineer officers and soldiers, together with a battery of artillery, and September 12, 1861, was commissioned colonel of the Michigan engineers and mechanics. He remained in the service over three years, part of which time he was military superintendent of railroads of the department of the Cumberland under Gen. Rosecrans. He was obliged to return home before the close of the war on account of ill health, and gave up active work as a railroad man. He served as state commissioner of railroads during Gov. Begole's administration, 1883-4.

For the past few years he has devoted himself chiefly to his large real estate interests in this city. Early in life he became a free mason and filled a number of positions in the subordinate and grand lodges of the state, occupying among others the position of grand secretary of the grand lodge and grand chapter and grand recorder of the grand commandery Knights Templar. He was also active in the foundation and one of the managers of the Michigan Masonic home and of the Michigan Mutual Masonic Insurance association.

He held at various times several offices of trust in the city government and was interested in the development of rapid transit in this city, being president of the first cable road company which ran the first line up Lyon street hill. He became a greenbacker with the birth of that party and was one of the original stockholders of the Evening Leader, so long an organ of the fiat money faith. He also took a lively interest in military affairs, and company K, originally Innes rifles, was organized under his patronage and was named in his honor.

Gen Innes built the railroad from Lansing to Owosso, which was for many years known as "Innes Rail's Horn," on account of three somewhat eccentric and seemingly unnecessary curves in a flat and open country.

Fifteen Hundred Men Laid Off.

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—On account of the prevailing financial stringency over 1,500 men have been laid off at the two plants of the Michigan-Peninsular Car company. This week a reduction of the men who are retained became necessary and each of the 700 men now at work has had his pay cut from ten to fifteen cents a day.

Swept Away by Fire.

MONROE, Aug. 6.—The large flouring mill, elevator, stave mill and heading mill of ex-Lieut. Gov. Strong at South Rockwood, this county, were destroyed by fire Saturday, together with 6,000 bushels of wheat and several hundred barrels of flour. Loss about $50,000; insurance, $17,000.

Another Factory Closed.

BENTON HARBOR, Aug. 5.—The Workman furniture factory has closed down, making the third factory to close within the last few days. Other factories are running on half time. A great many skilled machinists have gone into the country to work on farms.

Heavy Loss at Sault Ste. Marie.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Aug. 5.—The damage by fire, smoke and water Friday morning in the Gabriel and Roach blocks, the upper stories of which were burned, will reach from $30,000 to $35,000. The loss is covered by insurance of about half the amount.

Killed Herself.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Clara E. Gee, for fifteen years a practicing dentist, committed suicide here Friday by jumping into a cistern. She had recently moved into a new house, and her mind was deranged by overwork and worry. She was 39 years old.

Fire at White Cloud.

WHITE CLOUD, Aug. 4.—Fire Thursday night destroyed George P. Wyman's planing mill, shingle mill and box factory, together with six railway cars of considerable lumber. Loss, $25,000.

Gentlemen:—I feel it my duty to inform you of the cure your wonderful medecine P. P. P. wrought in my case. I have suffered for two years with dyspepsia and malaria in the worst form, and was a daily sufferer from sick headache. My bowels did not act but twice a week and frequently only once a week. I could not retain half I ate and my stomach was always uncomfortably heavy; I have tried pills, all kinds of medicines but only found temporary relief in them, I was despondent and was hoping to soon find relief in death Seeing your P. P. P. advertisement I decided to try it and requested Dr. Peak to get me a bottle. I have taken two bottles and will soon get another, and I can now eat in peace and enjoy everything, and can sleep like a top. My headaches have ceased and my bowels are regular. I would advise all sufferers like myself to give P. P. P. a trial, and they will write you as I have that P. P. P., beat any medicine on the market. Yours truly,

A REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM AND KIDNEY TROUBLE WHICH WORKED WONDERS, AFTER EVERY OTHER REMEDY, INCLUDING A "SWEAT" TREATMENT WITH THE INDIANS FOR A YEAR, HAD FAILED TO RELIEVE.

A STATEMENT OF THE CASE.

CROOK CITY, S. D., Jan. 22, 189.

The Owen Electric Belt and Appliance Co., Chicago, Ill.:

GENTLEMEN—I have been for some time considering the propriety of writing to you a few lines, relative to my experience with the Owen Electric Belt and Appliance obtained from you about eighteen (18) months ago. Justice to your company, and a desire on my part to make known to others who may be suffering from a similar affliction the relief I obtained from your institution, prompt me to send to you a voluntary statement of my case.

I am a gold miner by occupation, and have been for many years. I crossed the plains to California in 1852, and since then have been in most of the prominent mining camps in the then territories of Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, and at present in Dakota. Leading the rough and exposed life incidental to my occupation, caused me to fall a victim to rheumatism which finally utterly prostrated me in Helena, Mont., in '65." I was under the best medical treatment obtainable in Montana for one year, with but slight improvement, and was finally advised to live among the Indians, and subject myself to their "sweat" treatment. This I did and remained with them about a year, obtaining only temporary relief.

Since that time I have been a chronic sufferer—suffering pain and torture indescribable almost continually. It would be useless to attempt to describe my sufferings. It must be sufficient to state that I suffered from rheumatism in its worst form. I have spent large sums of money, changed climate, visited Hot Springs, lived alternately at high and low altitudes, and employed the best medical advice obtainable, hoping to alleviate, if not cure my complaint. It was all to no purpose, and I had about despaired of ever recovering fully my shattered health, when my attention was called to the Owen Electric Belt by a fellow miner, Mr. J. C. Johnson, of Creek City, who was also suffering from rheumatism, and who claimed to have derived great benefit from a belt obtained from you. I had tried so many remedies that I was fairly discouraged and skeptical about obtaining relief from any source, but finally determined it was my duty to give your appliance a trial. I will also state right here that, since coming to the town, I have also suffered greatly from kidney disease.

At last I sent for one of your belts, and applied it carefully, according to the printed directions accompanying the same, and can now truthfully say, as I now do to you, that I am no longer troubled with my kidneys, that I am entirely free from rheumatism, and I consider my health as perfect. All this I consider is owing to your valuable and priceless Owen Electric Belt, and I feel I am only performing a duty and paying a deserved tribute to Dr. Owen in sending this unsolicited statement of my case for his information.

Sincerely your friend,
JOHN MULVANY.

"Between the ages of five and fifteen, I was troubled with a kind of salt-rheum, or eruption, chiefly confined to the legs, and especially to the bend of the knee above the calf. Here, running sores formed which would scab over, but would break immediately on moving the leg. My mother tried everything she could think of, but all was without avail. Although a child, I read in the papers about the beneficial effects of Ayer's Pills, and persuaded my mother to let me try them. With no great faith in the result, she procured

ART OF WOOD CARVING.

What Is To Be Seen at the World's Fair.

A MANTELPIECE OF REDWOOD,

Which Excites the Admiration of Visitors —Reproduction of a Doorway of the Burmese Throne—The "Plastic Art" of Modeling in Butter Shown in the Agricultural Building.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—"Every visitor to this exposition must have a fad." So said to me a bright lady whose own cherished fad is embroidery. Well, since it is the fashion, I confess at the start that my fad is wood carving. I am dead insane on it, as they say at Wassar. I am not "o'fay" in painting and sculpture but I am up in seasoned timber and familiar from my youth with hard woods; was raised among 'em in fact. Now there may have been somewhere an exhibition of wood carvings equal to the one here, but I have not heard of it. And some of the exhibits are old friends transformed.

For instance, Mr. Bartels, of Carthage, Ills., has taken many relics of the Mormon occupation of his county (Hancock) and wrought them into things of beauty and joys forever. His history is a rural romance. At first glance the little inland town of Carthage would seem unlikely to produce a great designer, but when the genius is born no Medusa can paralyze him. He is a natural artist in wood—was born to carve. His mother is a natural artist in drawing and color. Neither mother nor son ever took a lesson, and the result is that while some of their designs show the originality of untaught genius, others produce a slightly ludicrous effect, as is the way of the self educated. He does all his work with a mallet and six chisels, and when he conceives a design submits it to his mother. If she disapproves that is the end of it.

This is business, you know, and not merely a good boy story. The father was a plain farmer and his last injunction was that the son should remain with his mother as long as she lived. So these two have worked and studied together till Mr. Bartels is 40 years old and has produced some works which move even the most skillful to envy. Out of one rail from the first farm opened by the Mormons in that county he made his wonderful clock. Out of other rails and some beams of the Mormon temple that was at Nauvoo he has carved two sets of furniture which make every lady love the carver. It is upholstered in delicate silk.

The Carving club, of Elgin, Ills., has some splendid work in the Woman's building, and so has the Woman's Columbian club, of McDonough county. One of Mr. Bartels' carvings is a curiosity in the illusion line. It represents a small mirror with a curtain which a woman is drawing aside. The visible portion of the mirror is real, and so delicate is the work that one can see in it the reflection of the woman's finger nails which are not visible in front. A young lady of Oakland, Cal., whose name is not given, has sent some wonderful carvings, and there is also a richly carved piano of redwood from Los Gatos, Cal. By the way, California seems to have but recently discovered the value of the redwood for carved work and fine finishing, and the fact is of national importance since walnut has become so scarce.

That state also exhibits a mantelpiece of redwood which excites much admiration. At the top are two figures, a harper and a woman sitting on books and reading a paper. On each end are small oval mirrors set in and surrounded by the most delicate bits of highly polished woods, with spray of oak leaves, nuts, etc. Below is a large oak tree with beautiful open country on one side, on the other a distant view of the mountain and sea. A shelf holds large bunches of grapes and to the right is a calla lily, every vein and filament of both delicately outlined in the wood. Still another beauty is a carved easel in redwood, with design of the Eucalyptus tree, done by Miss Brier, of Alameda. It strikes me as a suggestive fact that a middle western state and a Pacific coast state should have taken the honors in this line.

In plain and ordinary work, if I may call it so, such as scroll sawing, there is of course a great variety and it has this advantage—we can see the work in progress. In the New South Wales exhibit is one man running a scroll saw and in the German section another who attract a great deal of attention. Now this sort of thing is not called art and some of the cultured speak of it as mere manual trickery in wood, yet it is very interesting to a common man to note the dextrous manipulation. It makes me feel as if my fingers were all thumbs, indeed. In my boyhood I had quite a knack—or the other boys thought so—of whittling "Injun heads" out of walnut bark, and so I am not altogether ignorant of the exultant glow an artist feels in his fair creations. In fact, I may say that I am in with the artist in that particular at least, which may account for wood carving being my fad; and though my productions would have no rank here I felt towards them as Captain R. F. Burton's African friends did towards their ebony god—"We know that he is ugly and we believe that he is great."

In the Forestry building is a carved doorway of teak wood prepared under the direction of and exhibited by the official conservator of forests of eastern and upper Burmah. The design is a reproduction of those used in the Burmese throne and the carved decorations of the Mandalay palace. The triangular space above the door contains designs said to represent scenes in Mandalay, with the king and his court. There is also a wonderfully carved mantelpiece of various woods including teak and black wood found in the ruins of an ancient city near Madras and in dock excavations at Bombay. The teak is at least 600 years old while the black wood is alleged to antedate the Christian era, having grown hard and black like the bog oak of Ireland. This carving was designed by three Sikh carpenters and executed by them under the direction of the conservator of forests at Simla. The two greatest marvels in wood carving I shall not attempt to describe till I have seen and studied them many times.

To go from all this to the Agricultural building to take a final lesson in art seems like a joke, but modeling in butter has had a recognized place in the arts ever since "The Dreaming Iolanthe" attracted so much attention. The great world's contest in butter making is now in progress and will continue till the 28th inst., and after the butter is weighed and has passed inspection and the results are recorded amateurs are free to buy one of the firm's hard rolls and try their hands at modeling. It certainly is a "plastic art," and some very funny results are produced. I was particularly struck with the work of one genius who had made a sort of oval plaque with figures raised barely enough to show the design. It represented, or was supposed to represent, a Jersey calf tethered in a pen and mourning accordingly, and she had very appropriately labeled it "A Bas-relief in Butter." This contest between Jerseys, Guernseys and Alderneys is watched with intense interest. Every bit of feed given to the cows is weighed and its weight and nature recorded, every yield of milk is weighed and so are the butter and the buttermilk before the latter are sold, and when the final decision is rendered there will be as much excitement among the advocates of the various breeds as on any race course in the world. It will continue as aforesaid till the 28th. And this reminds me that if the farmers and the great public, the middle million, are really coming here in the next two and a half months, as managers and landlords fondly hope, it is well that they should take note of some important set days.

September 30, as often advertised, is Ireland's Day and the Orange and the Green, Clan-na-Gael and Conservative, Corkonian, Fardowner and Munster man in Chicago are all working in harmony to make it broadly national. The projectors confidently predict that 300,000 Irishmen will be here. August 19 is British Day, but they don't expect 300,000. August 16 is Dartmouth College Day. August 29 is Poet's Day, and from my experience as editor of a country newspaper I predict an attendance of 700,000—that is, if all come who consider themselves poets. The nation includes 3,500 counties, I believe, and I am sure the average is 200 poets to the county. Provincially speaking, if I may take my own native state as a sample, we are the poeticallist people on earth.

The day will close, however, with an open-air performance of "As You Like It" in the beautiful woodland adjoining the Norway building, and this will not be by poets or amateurs but by the best in the profession. At the matinee in Festival hall there will be selections read by various poets, but not many. August 25 is Colored People's Day. August 18 is Austria's Day. In both these last there will be a great deal of music and much of it of a distinctive or local tone. "The Black Patti" and Madame Seliska will sing for their race and the opera of Uncle Tom's Cabin, written by Mrs. Cook, will be rendered, at least in part. Frederick Douglass will preside and Bob Ingersoll and Albion W. Tourgee will speak, so the entertainment will certainly not be dull, whatever other demerits it may have.

It was suggested that there be a "Crank's Day," but the response was that every day is theirs, and a very appropriate response, too, for this show and the scientific congresses running contemporaneously with it have certainly brought some queer fellows into prominence. I confess that some of the proceedings in the educational conventions and many of the exhibits in school affairs have made me very tired. It looks as if our schools were running to seed, as farmers say, that is, running to fads. In Chicago these frills of education have become so voluminous that a revolt has set in and the people are demanding the old-fashioned district school. It is the American way—from one extreme to another—and there are even chances that the reaction will continue till the Illinois schools are put back on the lines of 1850-'60, teaching only the elementary English branches.

I am surprised that so little is shown and so little promised on behalf of the southern states. Today is Virginia Day, but I see nothing to indicate a difference from other days, and the same may be said for Louisiana Day, which is tomorrow. The 18th is North Carolina's Day, the 23d Delaware's Day, and the 18th Maryland Day, and that seems to end the list. The 22d is Indiana Day, but our state has not yet announced the nature of its special display. I have filed a caveat against the "poetry" on file in our state building, and outside of that they may exhibit what they please. If it were possible to exhibit one of our heated political campaigns it would be the greatest show on earth to foreigners and eastern people, for we take our politics with a mad enthusiasm that must be seen to be appreciated. I suppose, however, that the principal feature of the day will be oratory, and in that Indiana is truly great.

Czar of Russia Sends Horses.

Twenty-one blooded horses from the royal stud of Russia are expected to arrive at the fair grounds shortly. The animals represent the best breeding in Russia, and it is claimed that they excel in point of endurance and fleetness the American horse. They will, on arriving, be quartered in the stock pavilion, and will be attended by native hostlers under the supervision of Captain F. N. Ismailoff, in whose charge the horses were placed by the czar of Russia. The consignment includes eleven trotters and ten riding horses, two of which are full-blooded Arabian chargers.

Grand International Ball.

The grand international ball of all nations will be given in the Natatorium of the Midway plaisance, Aug. 16. A grand march, in which all nations will commingle, is the first thing on the programme, which has been completed, to be followed by a review, a grand ball and an international supper, where foods from every land will be served.

There will be a reunion of the Appleton (N. H.) academy boys at the New Hampshire building on Aug. 15, and of those of Dartmouth college on Aug. 16.

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermotor. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country."

Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 8 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the stickless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, solid, Steel Fixed Tower—or if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one ($100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 2729 Leale St., San Francisco.

D. RANSOM'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such, that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries. KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you. It will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

PICKINGS ON JACKSON PARK.

Something About the Fisheries—A Few Pointers from the South-East Corner—A Neglected but Interesting Section of the Park.

Taking the cable cars one morning I entered the Park at 57th street and proceeded at once to the Michigan building. After reading the Detroit Free Press and shaking hands with three or four acquaintances I took a stroll through the Illinois building to the Fisheries. This building, in architectural design and construction, is the most peculiar edifice on the grounds. The main building is circular in shape, with two polygonal annexes, one on each side, which are connected with the central structure by semi-circular arcades. This building is constantly besieged by a crowd of sight-seers. Its central location and the curious exhibits it contains make it one of the leading attractions on the grounds. The main building contains shells and aquatic specimens and preserved fish from Australia, Canada, Gloucester, San Diego, Minnesota, Holland and other places. The fishing sundries from Japan, Washington state and Norway are very elaborate. The west annex is filled with angling appliances and fishing boats and with glass tanks of live fish furnished by the Pennsylvania and Wisconsin Fish Commissions. In the east annex is the U. S. exhibit. In the center is a large fountain with rare and beautiful fishes swimming in the basin, and the walls are lined with huge glass tanks, holding 140,000 gallons of water, containing live fish of all the principal fresh and salt water varieties.

Stepping across the bridge which spans the lagoon a few rods south of the Fisheries I proceeded to the Intramural station and took the ride over the entire length of the road to the south loop. This lands one in the South-east corner of the grounds. This corner is somewhat isolated and hence is not so much frequented by the crowds as other sections, but it contains many fine buildings and noteworthy features.

The Convent of La Rabida was visited a second time and I spent two hours therein with the keenest satisfaction. As I have already given the readers of the HERALD a recital of my former call at the old Monastery I will not duplicate the story here. A few steps from the Convent lay moored in the South lagoon the three Columbus caravels. These are constantly besieged by a throng of visitors. The largest one of the three—the Santa Maria—is open to all who wish to go on board. Visitors are excluded from the other two, but as they are open boats and are tied to the dock, they can be easily inspected from shore. The Santa Maria, although more solidly built, is much smaller than the steamer City of Hudson which plies on Devils Lake. When one compares these caravels with the gigantic ocean liners that now cross the Atlantic, he can realize the heroism which impelled Columbus to sail thousands of miles over an unnavigated sea in search of an unknown world.

In the line of "big things" the Krupp building deserves more than a passing notice. Krupp, the greatest manufacturer of the greatest guns in the world, has a building and exhibit of his own. The building stands near the lake shore, a few rods South of the La Rabida Convent. In the center of the edifice is stationed "Krupp's Baby," one of the largest guns ever cast for coast defense. This infant is only 48 feet in length, has a 17-inch bore and tips the scales—if there are any scales made which could weigh it—at 140 tons. It will carry a projectile twenty miles and has pierced steel plates two feet thick at a distance of nine miles. Each projectile costs $12,000, weighs 2,500 pounds and is five feet in length. There are a number of smaller guns in the building which would be considered gigantic affairs if they were not stored in the same room with the "Baby." There are 200 projectiles of all kinds and sizes and five massive steel armor plates shot through at a distance of five miles. There is a big propeller screw forty feet in diameter, with a drive shaft attached eighty feet in length, a duplicat of some now in use on Atlantic crew steamships. One cannot inspect the gigantic death-dealing implements in this building without uttering a silent prayer that the last national war has devastated the earth and that the day of arbitration of national disputes has come.

The Shoe and Leather building is a commodious structure and a large one as well, being nearly 600 feet in length by 150 in breadth. It contains floor space in a wide gallery, which extends around the entire building. There is not a foot of vacant space therein, every nook and corner being fully utilized. On the west side there is a wonderful collection of footwear from many foreign lands. In the gallery there is a shoe factory in full operation, with all the latest and most improved machinery used in making shoes, which turns out one thousand pairs of shoes a day. There is also a collection of heavy sewing machines, used for leather stitching in the manufacture of shoes and harness. Among the private exhibits the most conspicuous are those of Swift and Co., Boston Rubber Shoe Co. and the Woonsocket Rubber Co. This last booth is in charge of Bert Corey, a Tecumseh boy, who is always glad to see and entertain people from this section.

The Forestry building is located a few feet south of the Shoe and Leather. It is almost exactly the same size and cost the same amount, $100,000. The two structures, however, are as unlike in architectural finish and design as the Administration building and the Japanese tea house. No iron, except nails, has been used in the construction of the Forestry, wooden pins taking the place of bolts and rods. It is surrounded by a row of tree trunks with the bark on, each State in the Union being represented by three trees, and the whole exterior is built in a rustic style. Many of the states have large and elegant booths, showing all the varieties of wood from each state. Among these the most elaborate are from Oregon, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, West Virginia, Connecticut and California. There is a huge redwood plank from Humboldt Co., California, and a section of mahogany from Texas. New South Wales, Mexico, Brazil, Germany and Paraguay show very extensive exhibits of natural and polished woods. There is a wigwam made of bamboo, and the Michigan booth contains the model of a sugar camp forty years ago.

The Dairy building is located in that vicinity and well repaid a half hour's visit. It contains a cheese factory, showing a new process of making cheese, and the latest devices for making butter. It has cold storage appliances for milk and cream and electric motors for running dairies. Butter and cheese are made every forenoon, so that visitors can witness the process.

The Anthropological building is about the same size as the Forestry and located in the same section. It is a very plain, unpretentious building on the outside and most people would be inclined to remark: "Well, I guess that doesn't amount to much; I'll skip it." Upon entering, however, one becomes interested at once and he is loth to leave until he has traversed every aisle. This building, as its title implies, is devoted to Man and his works. Here are found relics of primitive man from all parts of the world, implements and ornaments used by the human family thousands of years ago. A reproduction of the ruins of Yucatan is located on the open space north of this building and belongs to that Department. The major portion of the Educational exhibit is also to be found here, which was crowded out of the Liberal Arts building for want of room. In the west gallery are several historical collections from foreign countries. The entire South gallery is filled with an exhibit from Wood's Natural Science Establishment of Rochester, N. Y., which is a perfect museum of natural history.

Among the quaint relics of by-gone ages the abode of the Cliff Dwellers carries off the palm. The exterior represents a mountain and canon, with trees and grasses, vines and moss growing thereon. It is built of stone, iron, staff and wood, but is artistically arranged to imitate nature. The entrance is through a cave in the side of the mountain. Caverns open from the sides of the mountain, in which are mummies and various utensils found on the original site. All of them are reproductions, on a reduced scale, of ruins actually discovered in Battle Rock Mountain, Col. Within the mountain are these: ruins of a Cliff Dwellers' palace—an exact reproduction, one-tenth size; balcony house; an exact reproduction, full size, of "Estufa," a cliff dweller's living room, containing cooking utensils and other implements found by explorers. There is a burro trail up the mountain and live burros saddled and climbing the ruins. There is one large room used for a museum, containing the only complete collection of cliff dweller's relics in the world, among which are the following notable things: sandals of willow, knives and drills of stone, bows and arrows, spoons and awls, axes of stone, corn grinders made of stone, mats and leather moccasins. This museum contains samples of corn over 1,500 years old, both in bulk and on cobs, found in a room over which a tree had grown over 1,000 years old—the age of the tree being ascertained by the number of its rings. Scientists have experimented with samples of this corn and made it grow by the aid of electricity. This collection also contains squash and bean seeds, same age as the corn, a bowl of walnuts, just as found, 1,200 years old, forty skulls of extreme antiquity, a six-foot skeleton of a man with flesh on, a mummy in matting showing the mode of embalming, pottery, ladles and spoons, huge fire pots and wooden shovels.

A short distance south of the cliff dwellers' abode is a reproduction of an old Kentucky distillery in full blast. It has a continuously running still with a capacity of 500 gallons a day, and has a bonded warehouse and revenue offices in connection. Outside the walls is a genuine "moonshiner's still," which was captured last March by U. S. officers in eastern Kentucky.

West of the cliff dwellers is the French Bakery. The big ovens and dough room are located in the center with a gallery all round, so that visitors can witness the French methods of baking. And here, by the way, one can obtain a delicious lunch at the most reasonable price that can be procured on the grounds. At least that was my experience.

In Memory of William C. Heck.

William C. Heck, formerly a soldier in the 21st Indiana Light artillery, and later an honored member of the Grand Army of the Republic, died at his home in Tecumseh on Tuesday evening, August 1st, 1893. At a subsequent meeting of Beers Post the following tribute to his memory was adopted by a rising vote:

WHEREAS, In his incomprehensible wisdom the Great Father has removed from the places that once knew him our beloved comrade and brother, William C. Heck, therefore we solemnly

RESOLVE, That in this present affliction, as in all things of Divine order, we bow with reverent submission to the inevitable. It is not our will but Thine, Great Commander, and "Thy will be done on earth, as it is in Heaven."

We sorrowfully close up our ranks with another side step to the right, shortening our line, and placing us all that much nearer the end of all things earthly. We realize that in the departure of Comrade William C. Heck another heroic spirit has gone hence. As a man he was kindly and unassuming, so that he was especially esteemed by his neighbors, loved by his comrades in arms and revered by his family. As a Grand Army Post we not only display the usual insignia of grief but we will in loving remembrance cherish the words and deeds of our departed comrade, and to the stricken wife and children we loyally convey our fraternal sympathy and condolence.

THE GREAT FAIR.

There is probably more information regarding the World's fair concentrated in Mr. George Hersch, who is now visiting friends in this city, than can be boasted of by any other man in town. Mr. Hersch was a clerk in the installation department of the exposition during the placing of the exhibits, and can tell you where to find most anything on the grounds. Practical observation has led Mr. Hersch to believe that there are not 30 per cent. of the people who go to the fair that gain an intelligent conception of the exhibits.

He has an excellent suggestion for those who intend staying only six days which will enable them to get a comprehensive idea of the displays. "Spend the first day in learning the geographical situation of Jackson park, and devote the next three days," says Mr. Hersch, "to sauntering through main isles of the various buildings. Should anything attract your attention which you desire to study, do not go over and examine it then, put a memorandum in a notebook of the article, and its location, by jotting down the number of the nearest supporting column. These column are all numbered. Then the fifth day, come back, consult your note book, and examine the things in which you are especially interested. On the sixth day let yourself loose on Midway, see its many queer sights, and then cool yourself off by a ride on the Ferris wheel."—Adrian Times.

GET THE NEWS.

The oldest editor in this state continually in the harness is H. B. Rowlson, who has published the Hillsdale Standard for forty-seven years. He was only 21 years old when he established the Standard, and when he first peered over the purple hills into Hillsdale, he only had seventy-five cents tied up in the corner of his handkerchief. Things have changed since then. Mr. Rowlson now has one of the finest equipped offices in southern Michigan and a nice bank account. Harve is a jolly good fellow and deserves his success. His son, Clark Rowlson, is one of the hustling young journalists of the state, and to him much credit is due for the good looks of the Standard.—Evening Telegram.

Scribner for August.

Scribner's Magazine for August is, as usual, a fiction number, containing six short stories, five of them illustrated, and instalments of two short serials by Robert Grant and Harold Frederic. This idea of a fiction number was first realized in Midsummer, 1889, and it has proved one of the most popular features of the magazine. In it have appeared an unusual number of short stories which have become famous, several of them having been the beginning of the national reputation of well-known authors. This year the writers of short stories represented are: Thomas Bailey Aldrich, H. C. Bunner, Sarah Orne Jewett, Howard Pyle, W. H. Shelton and Grace Ellery Channing. The artists who illustrate the fiction of this number are equally skillful, including Marchetti, Howard Pyle, C. S. Reinhart, Irving R. Wiles, W. T Smedley and W. L. Metcalf. The readers of this number will be especially pleased with the humorous element which predominates in the stories of Miss Jewett, Mr. Bunner, Mr. Grant and Mr. Shelton.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Satterthwaite, of Portage, Ohio, were called here to attend the funeral of John Margeson, and are remaining a few days with friends.

F. E. Munger, of Dundee, editor of the Monroe County Hustler, was a caller at the HERALD sanctum on Tuesday. Mr. Munger runs a spicy paper and is evidently getting well started in his newspaper venture.

Justice Robertson discharged Wallace Ganhart, this morning, charged with larceny of some clothing from the home of Joseph Gray, near Tecumseh, but held the boy's father, Isaac Ganhart, binding him over to the circuit court. In default of $300 bail, the elder Ganhart is in jail.—Adrian Telegram.

The new work entitled, Shepp's World's Fair Photographed, will contain splendid views of all the foreign buildings on Jackson Park, nineteen in number. All of them are of novel design and will add very materially to the value of the book. Give your name to Mrs. Jehiel Davidson at once, who is canvassing this vicinity for the work.

The large number of financial bills that will be introduced as soon as Congress meets will not be an unmixed evil. Every bill will contain some plan, good, bad or indifferent, and a careful sifting of all these ought to result in a bill which will meet the approval of Congress and the people. If there was ever a time when politics could be laid aside for a while on the financial question, that time is now.

Mrs. Nancy Larwill, a centenarian, the celebration of whose one hundredth birth-day on the 9th of May last was noted in The Times, died a few days ago at her home in Wooster, Ohio, after a very brief illness. Mrs. Larwill retained remarkable vigor to the last. She and her husband were pioneers in Central Ohio, and the family ranks among the first in that part of the state.—Adrian Times.

Deacon John Margeson, or "Uncle John," as he was familiarly known, after a long and tedious illness, passed over the river which divides time and eternity last Friday morning. He was the senior deacon in the Baptist church, which position he had faithfully filled for many years, and was loved and honored by all who knew him. The Baptist church, in which the funeral services were held on Monday afternoon, was too small to contain the concourse of neighbors and friends who gathered to pay their respects to the departed. A formal obituary notice will appear in a future issue.

Young men and young women of the right kind of mettle, or spirit, will not put off attending a Normal or College because of hard times. Put your purse into your head and it is beyond the reach of the panic. The brain can not wait. It must be improved at the right time or it is forever the loser. The present opportunity missed probably means a life of hard times. Expenses are very reasonable at the Fayette Normal University, Fayette, O. Come, and in ten years hence you will be grateful for these words.

J. E. DODDS, Pres. F. N. U.

The man who stops a paper because there is something in it that he does not like should, to be consistent, get up and leave a hotel table if he happens to discover something on the bill of fare that does not suit his taste—he would be just as consistent in one act as the other. A good newspaper is a bill of mental food for as many tastes as possible, and the reader ought to know that the article that does not suit him is, perhaps, just to the taste of every other reader of the paper. The man who insists on having a paper exactly to his individual taste should buy the material, edit and print one for himself and have no one else to read it.—Jackson Patriot.

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 10, 1893.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Will Baker, of Detroit, spent Sunday in Tecumseh.

Chas. Burridge visited Hudson last Monday on business.

John Moring, of the Ft. Wayne News, was a HERALD caller Monday.

The drought is beginning to effect the crops quite seriously in this latitude.

Bert Tribou, of Detroit, took his Sunday dinner in Tecumseh last Sabbath.

Archie Sherrard arrived in town Saturday and will remain here about a week. He is still traveling for a New York wholesale house.

John L. Trann and wife arrived in town Saturday, and are spending the present week with Geo. Heesen's family and other Tecumseh friends.

Mr. R. St. John, traveling Pass. Agt. of the Mackinaw road was in town Monday making final arrangements for the Put-In-Bay excursion yesterday.

Chas. Cramer, of Deerfield, was in town Monday and gave the HERALD a call. He is now living on an eighty acre farm about two miles from that village and is doing well.

Col. Hugh Richards, a prominent citizen of Jackson and for many years a resident of this village died at his home in that city last Thursday after an illness of one week. The funeral obsequies were held on Saturday, and several relatives of the family living in Tecumseh and Raisin attended.

Dr. J. D. Chambers, of Fort Wayne, Ind., was in town Monday and gave the HERALD a call. The Doctor is a former Macon boy and a graduate of the Tecumseh High School. He had been to Macon to attend the Chamber's family reunion, and was on his homeward way, having driven through with a horse and buggy. The reunion at Edwin Howell's last week was a most enjoyable occasion.

Mrs. H. L. Stewart and family returned last week from their Chicago trip, having spent the entire month of July at the Fair. Dr. Stewart is permanently located there in charge of a large exhibit from Ocean Springs, Miss. It is in the gallery of the Horticultural Building. We made two attempts to find the Doctor during our stay in Chicago but failed to connect, much to our regret.

The State buildings form a beautiful village in the Northern part of Jackson Park. Illinois has the largest; Massachusetts has reproduced the old Hancock House; Virginia, Mount Vernon; Florida, the old Spanish Fort at St. Augustine; Pennsylvania, old Independence Hall; and California the replica of an old Spanish Mission. All the State buildings are shown in Shepp's Photograph's of the World's Fair. Mrs. Jeniel Davidson is now canvassing Tecumseh for this great work.

In our notice two weeks ago of our call upon the Chicago Paper Co., we made them occupy a five story building, whereas it should have been a seven story building. Our friend A. T. Hodges takes exception to having their building docked two stories in such an unceremonious manner. We plead guilty and ask the mercy of the court, and whenever we need any paper or card stock to replenish our job room we shall forward an order to the Chicago Paper Co., just the same as before.

Attention Ladies of the W. R. C. The president wishes to announce the 24th of August will be the annual reunion of the Lenawee Co. Association. There are 24 ladies without any conveyance of their own. Providing no other arrangements can be made the corps will bear the expense of a team to carry all who wish a good day of rest and visit at Adrian. Please report by postal or verbally to Mrs Anna S. Hanley, or be sure and come to our next meeting, Aug. 21st. Do not forget it will be a picnic dinner; bring well filled baskets with the staff of life.

Miss Mary Osborn is visiting friends at Weston.

Yesterday was a fine day for the excursion to Put-In-Bay.

Miss Helen Anderson is visiting friends in Battle Creek this week.

Now is the time to buy Curtains and Carpets at a discount. Anderson & Co.

Mrs. Whelan, of Franklin, is spending a few days with Mrs. John McKinney.

Rev. J. O. Heck and wife, of Milan, were in Tecumseh a day or two last week.

C. H. Reed represented the HERALD office at the Put-In-Bay excursion yesterday.

Charles Rude is now fairly settled in his new laundry on Pearl street. Give him a call.

Mrs. Wm. C. Bebee departed Tuesday morning for a week's sojourn at the big exposition.

Don Bowen represents the HERALD at the military camp at Brighton this week and next.

M. J. Tremaine is clerking in Avery's grocery store. A good arrangement for both parties concerned.

Several old timers from this vicinity will attend the County Pioneer meeting at Fairfield to-morrow.

Misses Mary Burridge and Anna Bailey are devoting the present week to the sights on Jackson Park.

The painting and papering having been completed at the Episcopal church, Sabbath services have been resumed there.

Among the Tecumseh visitors at Chicago this week are Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Conkling and Mrs. Lyster. H. Dewey of Washington.

Rev. J. P. Varner has returned from his vacation and will occupy the pulpit at the M. E. church next Sunday, morning and evening.

Mrs. Fleuer, of Palmyra, widow of the brakeman who was killed here last month, has received $1.000 insurance money from the K. O. T. M.

Claude Van Tyne has been taking in the World's Fair during July. He will spend the balance of his vacation in Tecumseh, until the fall semester begins at the State University.

Rea, the little village in Monroe county that was wiped out twice the past spring by cyclones, has had all the wrecked buildings replaced including a fine new brick church.

The Universalists of Mooreville will have a social at the Lake Ridge house in Macon, on Friday evening, Aug. 18. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Good music in attendance. Bill, 50cts. including supper.

C. M. Dickinson is rushing his new building in spite of the hard times. He is "putting a head"; that is a second story, on his meat market, and building a two story brick adjoining. They will make two neat stores, one of which will be rented.

That very common and obnoxious weed we call "Mullen," is, in the southern part of the United States known by the beautiful name of "Michigan velvet plant," and it is pointed out by lovers of rare plants as a very precious treasure in their conservatories.

To prevent any more Art Retan accidents, the Lake Shore railway has laid new walks at the numerous crossings along its line, with a special end piece of timber, that fits under the rail, so that it is impossible for a person to get a foot caught between the rail and walk.

The Toledo Tri-State fair will take place this year, Aug. 21st. to 26th. Mr. A. Austin will have a booth in the center of the main hall where he will exhibit the Wheeler & Wilson sewing machines. Read his card in another column for full particulars.

The Friends church was filled to repletion last Sunday evening, Co. C attending in a body, and a very able discourse was given by Rev. Fistler. The boys of Co. C, as well as the balance of the congregation, were very favorably impressed with the services.

Last Sunday evening when we came out of the Friends church we were surprised. No crowd of rough boys on the streets. No swearing. No smoking. No vile talk. No playing of jewsharps or discord. The services were perfect in every respect, complete order observed in doors and out. Yes, and our old friend Thos. Hanley was seen in his accustomed place, to the satisfaction of all.

Progressive hammock parties are the latest. A young man who attends first is placed in a hammock with his back to the ladies. Next he is placed in a hammock where he can see the fair ones. Hammock number three is so placed that he faces another hammock in which a lady is sitting. Hammock number four allows him to sit in the hammock with the fair one, and in hammock number five she sits on his lap Hammock socials are very popular.

A party of Adrian local optionists went to Sand Lake, loaded with a single loaf of bread and numerous bottles of beer. They were fortunate enough to save the bread, but the beer was stolen. They think a sneak thief stole it. The Hudson Post says the thief evidently came to Hudson, and camped at the Hudson preacher's door, and left the evidence of his depravity to cast reproach on one whose life had in the past been without a blemish.—Adrian Telegram.

Capes Half Price at Anderson & Co's.

Don't miss Anderson & Co's Discount Sale.

Lucius Lilley was an Adrian visitor Saturday.

Clinton is making an effort to run a lecture course next season.

Misses Grace and Lotie Erskine are visiting relatives in Jackson.

Mrs. E. C. Coryell is spending the present week at the World's Fair.

Everybody can have a new Dress at the reduced price at Anderson & Co's.

Our Holloway letter got side-tracked somewhere and arrived too late for today's issue.

Addie and Roy Miller, of Oberlin, are visiting their aunt, Mrs. John Johnson, a few weeks.

Mrs. Emma Vedder and son Floyd, are guests of Mrs. Grant Miller of Jasper this week.

Ten candidates received the rite of baptism last Sunday evening at the Baptist church.

Mrs. E. B. Wood and daughter, left yesterday morning for a few days sojourn at Jackson Park.

Mrs. H. M. Vail, of Rock Rapids, Iowa, is spending a few weeks at her father's, N. S. Burrows.

Squire Harvey Baldwin has retired from office, after being Justice of the Peace in Palmyra for 41 years.

The big farmers picnic, or rather the farmers' big picnic will occur at Devils Lake, on Wednesday, Aug. 23d.

Britton and Macon each have Dr. Hendershot by the corner of his coat, and want him to locate there. Where? In both places?—Adrian Press.

The school buildings are all being thoroughly cleaned and renovated preparatory to the opening of the fall term of school.

V. B. Crane of St. Louis, Mo., arrived in town Tuesday, returning yesterday. His visit was much too brief to satisfy his friends.

People who intend going to the World's Fair should call at this office and see what accommodations we can furnish them.

Dr. W. A. Patterson and family left for their California home this morning. They will stop a few days at Elkhart and then proceed direct to San Francisco. They have enjoyed their visit in Tecumseh wonderfully.

For many miles the banks of the river Raisin, through Monroe and Lenawee counties, are lined with wild grapes. Seventy years ago the wild grapes were far more abundant than now, which fact gave the river its name.

President Cleveland's message was transmitted to Congress on Tuesday. It is brief, but hits the nail on the head exactly. His advice is to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act and Congress ought to heed the advice without any unnecessary delay.

Roy Conklin, Jennie McCoy, Grace Bryant and Mary Eaton were the delegates from Tecumseh to the Epworth League Convention at Ridgeway. About forty Tecumseh people went down yesterday to attend the afternoon session and hear Bishop Ninde in the evening.

Although Tecumseh is suffering from financial stringency, we are in a very healthy condition compared with many other towns and ought to consider ourselves fortunate that business here is reasonably good and that there has been no collapse of any large establishment.

We call attention to the advertisement elsewhere of the Monarch bicycle. The Monarch is one of the best wheels now on the market, and always gives satisfaction to the purchaser. Young men who intend purchasing a wheel had better look up the merits of the Monarch.

Prof. and Mrs. Fred J. Boyd arrived in town last week and they will spend the remainder of August with their Tecumseh acquaintances. They have been taking in the World's Fair and stop here on their return home to Michigamme when Prof. Boyd will teach school the coming season.

The work of improving the base ball grounds goes on apace. The diamond and outgoing grounds have been graded down and enlarged, a back stop has been built and the fence enclosing the track will be repaired. The club is being organized and some good games arranged for. The necessary sum required—$150—has been nearly all pledged.

A correspondent favors us with a brief item containing these truthful words: "Did not your heart overflow with joy at the discourse given by Rev. Frank Fistler last Sunday evening. He is evidently the right man in the right place. He preached a square Quaker sermon. Some of the members wondered if it was too plain, but truth and honesty are the characteristics of true Quakerism and the truth cannot be proclaimed too strongly."

About five o'clock yesterday morning the beautiful home of Mr. Samuel Wilson, of Franklin, was destroyed by fire. Upon getting up at that hour, the fire was discovered in a two story wing, used as a summer kitchen and woodshed, and it had already gained such headway that the whole house was soon in flames. Some furniture was saved from the front rooms, but most of the contents were destroyed. The origin of the fire is a mystery. The loss will aggregate about $4,000 on which there was an insurance of $2,000 in the Farmer's Mutual.

Co. C started for camp Monday morning and an installment left each morning for three days. Sergt. Wescott, quartermaster, Sergt. Farley and Lynn Hardenburgh left on Monday morning with the baggage. Hospital Steward, D. T. Hall, and Corps. T. S. VanDuser and Geo. Chidester, followed on Tuesday morning. The remainder of the company, forty-two men and officers, took a special car yesterday morning via the Lake Shore. They went to Dundee over the Lake Shore and thence via the Ann Arbor road to Island Lake. Any member who was unable to go with the boys yesterday can secure transportation by reporting to Harry Tansley before next Saturday forenoon.

Rev. J. M. Getchell, of Marshall, has been secured by W. F. King, to preach the sermon to Adrian Commandery, K. T., on Sunday, August 27th, while in camp at Sand Lake. The Knights are anticipating a great time there. A section of the First Infantry band will be with them all the time, and on Sunday the full band will be in attendance.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

WITHOUT THE Non-pull-out
BOW (RING)

it is easy to steal or ring watches from the pocket. The thief gets the watch in one hand, the chain in the other and gives a short, quick jerk—the ring slips off the watch stem, and away goes the watch, leaving the victim only the chain.

This idea stopped that little game:

The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

THE MINIATURE WORLD

Apparently All Mankind's Best Is in the World's Fair.

The Exhibit of Wood Carving Alone Is Worth a Journey to Chicago—Unique Exhibits of Colombia and Costa Rica—Indiana's Social Hall and "Poetry" Exhibit.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—I sat for hours the other evening on the south porch of the Indiana building, talking occasionally with Commissioner Havens, but mostly enjoying in silence the marvelous beauty of the White City in the clear starlight. To the left the stately Illinois building seemed to take on a new and romantic beauty. To the right the immense California building looked in every detail what it was meant to represent—an old Spanish mission—and in that quiet time when the odor of its many flowers floated faintly in the still air, it was easy to imagine one's self in the old Spanish garden and among the riotous semi-tropical growths which embowered the old California missions. Directly to the south was the Woman's building, and to the right and left of it the vistas seemed to stretch away in the soft light even to the meeting of earth and sky. Even from here one can see that architectural talent has exhausted its resources to give glory to the Columbian quadrocentennial. But from the lagoon at this hour the White City seems a divine rather than a human creation. The Scripture lessons of childhood are vividly reproduced in memory and the old man unconsciously repeats St. John's wonderful portrayal of that city he saw in the apocalyptic vision. But even as I gazed a sad thought impressed me. In three months more all this fair creation of genius must fall into nothingness. All the people will have returned to their homes, all the wonders of art will have been removed, and even before the last visitors leave Chicago the White City will have passed away like the baseless fabric of a vision, leaving, however, considerable wreck behind.

Like the enchanted palace of the Arabian Nights story it rose suddenly on the bosom of the marsh and sand plain; like that enchanted palace it will vanish, but much more suddenly than it rose. Of all the structures only the Japanese building on the wooded island is certain to remain, though it is possible that permission may yet be granted for one other. The Japanese expended $75,000 on their structure and made it a present to the park commissioners. Pursuant to the terms on which this ground was obtained for the people's use as a park, the law transferring it for fair purposes provided that none of these buildings should remain, but the legislature of Illinois passed a special act allowing the Art hall to remain if the Chicago people should vote for it. Indiana's first proposition was to erect a permanent building and present it to the Sons of Indiana resident in Chicago, but under the law it could not be done.

In truth it is already too evident that the buildings are of a very transient character and some of them show signs of age and hard usage. I saw where an awkward teamster had knocked three or four square yards of surface beauty from the corner of one building; discoloration had proceeded rapidly and the results were ludicrous. Elsewhere the structure looked like marble with an average finish; there it showed the common laths and staff. I am sorry to add that the Indiana building shows rather the most wear, as it is but a social hall and lunch room. Very appropriate, too, for sociability is Indiana's best and most noted product. The only state exhibit there, if exhibit it may be called, is a case full of books by native authors. And as an Indiana man I feel bound in common honesty to say that the exhibit afforded me the best laugh I have had at the fair.

Possibly one-third of the authors of the state are represented, those who sent, or whose friends for them sent, copies of their works. There are two or three good novels (Lew Wallace's), a few good dialectical poems (Riley's), one good history (Ridpath's) and then a lot of compilations, "digests," law cases, old speeches, arguments on obsolete religious issues, a mass of "reports" of one sort or another and then vast piles of the most dreadful poetry that an afflictive providence ever sent on a sinful state.

It is an odd fact in literary history that whenever an old lawyer whose whole life has been passed in pursuits from which sentiment is rigidly excluded (of course I do not mean a jury lawyer), whose very brain would seem to have grown dusty and his heart overloaded with the debris of complaint, answer and rebutter, rejoinder and surrejoinder, with the various artifices, expedients and dodges of legal acumen; when, I say, such a one turns to light literature for the recreation of his leisurely age he always writes the most gorgeous gush of which the language is capable. We have several specimens in Indiana. The author of one "collection" in particular which I saw in this "exhibit" need never fear the Horatian judgment, "Middling verses gods and men despise." Whatever his poetry may be much of it is not "middling." It is so bad that it's good.

The twenty nations and colonies which have special buildings on the grounds are France, Germany, Great Britain, Spain, Australia, Sweden, Brazil, Japan, Costa Rica, Colombia, Guatemala, Turkey, Ceylon, Canada, Hayti, Venezuela, Nicaragua, New South Wales and India, and of course this does not include the side shows of the plaisance. Several others have in the general exhibits such elaborate structures that they may be called special buildings. For a delightful surprise among the minor nations I was indebted to a long felt want, one evidently suffered by many, for the commonest request on the grounds and in all southern Chicago is, "Do tell me where I can get a good cup of coffee."

"Go to the Costa Rica building," said my mentor and friend. I went, got the good coffee, though a painfully small cup is served, and saw with astonishment that this little commonwealth has a very good building and a really remarkable display of hard woods, medicinal plants, minerals and hand-made articles of delicate finish. It really seems as if the dark races of mankind have more patience in working out those very fine details in finger-work, and here I saw a small feather picture equal to the finest painting, on which, said the attendant, the artist had expended the labor of years. Even the delicately tinted sky of the picture proved on close examination to be composed of red, white and blue feathers, or rather filaments of feathers so minute that one square inch contained hundreds.

Near by is the Colombia building, containing a much greater variety of minerals and plants, and these two buildings are almost hidden in a natural grove near the northeast corner of the park. The lake shore is but a few rods away, the breeze is nearly always fine, the shade is dense and this is one of the nicest places on the ground to rest. In addition to the regular products Colombia has on exhibit many interesting aboriginal curiosities, some fine gold ornaments among them, and a startling array of mummies. These last are far from pretty, but they will "keep." In truth they are horrible looking objects and ought not to be come on suddenly by nervous people. They look so very dry and hard and ghastly that I readily believe the statement that they are 3,000 years old. They might be 30,000, it looks prove anything.

I have said that the dark races seem to have most patience in delicate hand work, but there are some pieces of wood carving here, done by men of all races, that every American ought to see. In truth a complete study of them would amount, to a liberal education in that line. Probably the finest piece is in the British East India section of the Forestry building, in the northwest corner. In fact in all the East India exhibits in nearly all the buildings there is some fine wood carving. In the Woman's building are some very fine carvings from the Pitman home. This is in what is called the Cincinnati room. As to the much advertised Century clock in the Manufactures building the exhibitor says I must not think of writing a line on it till I have devoted a week to the study of it. He's a considerate gentleman and has the bump of caution well developed.

Of course everybody knows that in many exhibits this fair outdoes any previous exposition, for as the world is rapidly advancing that is true of every world's fair. Equally, of course, it is known that the greatest genie is in electricity, for the application of that is so very new a science that nearly all we now think wonderful has been achieved since 1873. For similar reasons the departments of transportation, machinery and all those which show forth the principles of pure science exhibit a marvelous advance. Of all these we have no great call to boast. It is not so well known, however, that all this beautiful White City is underlaid with many miles of pipes and wires, that these all center in the brain of one man, to use a violent figure, in the Electrical building, and that all this ponderous machinery runs without the show of a puff of smoke and so noiselessly that one may even lean against most of the buildings without hearing it.

It is also not so well known that 100,000 people make no show at all in these grounds, that three days out of four there is no jam or crowding anywhere and that even on days of special processions, with nearly 200,000 people in the enclosure, there are still vast sections where one may walk in shaded solitude by still waters and lie down on green grass and enjoy the quiet of a country churchyard. Even on the main walks and most pleasant promenades, when 100,000 people are in the place, the crowd seems less than in New York's central park on any pleasant afternoon. But we are promised some displays ere long which will crowd the main walks and if the hotel men tell us the truth about the letters they are getting, the farmers will begin to come in force this week.

Day after tomorrow Great Britain proposes to spread herself all over the ground. As no continuous avenue there is big enough for the purpose the great procession will be down town in the afternoon. Every county of Great Britain and Ireland and every province of every British dependency will have its representatives in that parade, and it is quite wonderful to observe how far this will draw upon the people of the plaisance. The Soudanese, Egyptians, Bedouins and several sorts of people from India will be in it. The much talked of Rajah Rajagan, of Kapurthala, will ride in the line as marshal of the Indian division and will be the Great Mogul of the show. It will undoubtedly be a great, glorious and comprehensively British affair.

Today the Scotch have their parade on the grounds and this will be a very Scotch week throughout. Today also begins the great congress of jurisprudence and law reform, which is to sit five days, in which all the great and fundamental questions of law will be discussed by the world's greatest jurists. Among those who are to deliver important addresses are the Right Hon. Sir Richard Webster, of London; the Right Hon. Sir Charles Pearson, of Edinburgh; Professor Michael Revon, of Tokio, Japan; Dr. Emily Kempen, of Switzerland; Professor Torres Campas, of Granada, Spain; Miss Cornelia Sorabji, of Bombay, and many other law writers from all parts of the world.

Intending visitors may now feel sure that the published programme will be followed strictly from this on, the few previous failures having been due to causes now removed. A few other facts should be noted for their guidance: First, that life, limb and property are probably safer in Chicago now than they ever were before and that although charges are a little higher than the average in American cities, the difference is but trifling. Incidentally I may add that there is no prejudice on account of race, location or anything else on the fair ground, though I grieve to observe that there is some in the city on account of locality. I will not say what it is, but will merely hint that in my talks down town I always refer to myself as "an Indiana man," ignoring my recent residence in Gotham, and as to the New York Sun,

"O, no, I never mention it!
That name is never heard."

Sanger Defeats Zimmerman.

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—Sanger, the Milwaukee bicyclist, lowered the colors of Zimmerman in an emphatic manner at the Michigan L. A. W. division races at the Detroit driving park Wednesday afternoon. The event was the mile open, which was participated in by a dozen of the fastest men in the country. After a hot contest Sanger started into the home stretch at a killing pace and won at top speed, with the New Jersey man but a length behind him. Sanger's time was 2:20 4-5.

Many Persons Drowned at Detroit.

DETROIT, Aug. 7.—Two Italians, Charley Tirro, aged 25, and Clovanni di Scenza, aged 21, were drowned while bathing near the head of Belle Isle Sunday morning. James Smith, a 13-year-old boy, was drowned at Des-Chree-Shos-Ka Saturday evening by falling from the landing. This makes thirty-two persons drowned in the river thus far this summer.

Michigan Bar Delegates.

FLINT, Aug. 6.—G. H. Durand, of this city, president of the Michigan State Bar association, announces the appointment of Edwin T. Uhl, of Grand Rapids; O'Brien J. Atkinson, of Port Huron, and Alfred Russell, of Detroit, as delegates to the sixteenth annual meeting of the National Bar association, which convenes at Milwaukee on August 30.

Forest Fires Devastate Farms.

ALPENA, Aug. 5.—Forest fires spread over fourteen farms in this county, consuming houses, barns and grain and hay and damaging growing crops. The farmers and families fled into Ossineke for safety. The fires are still raging and other farms are threatened. No lives were lost, but some stock was burned.

Aid from the Vanderbilts.

ISHPEMING, Aug. 6.—It is rumored that the Vanderbilts, who have joined Schlesinger in reorganizing the Chapin Mining company at Iron Mountain, will aid the Buffalo Mining company and that the men discharged will be paid at once. The company will make no attempt to operate the mine.

Dropped Dead.

MOSCOW, Aug. 7.—Giles Williams, an old and well-known resident of Moscow, dropped dead the other evening while on his way from the house to the barn.

Stabbed Her Father.

PONTIAC, Aug. 6.—During a dispute which John Hill had with one of his daughters he was badly stabbed in the side. The girl says she stabbed him in self-defense.

Do mothers realize that the tables of mortality show that one-third of all the children born, die before the age of five years. Of these, fully one-half die of Stomach and Bowel Troubles. These troubles prevail worse during hot weather, caused by unripe fruit, change of water or food, improper action of the digestive organs, etc. They are liable and frequent during the whole period of infancy, often very quick in fatality. Every mother should have the remedy, Brant's Extract of Blackberry, at hand for prompt use. Warranted reliable. Directions simple. 25 cents of J. J. Orr, Tecumseh.

Address.....

Information concerning the school can be had by addressing M. P. McGregor, 20 McGraw building, Detroit.

Here an opportunity is afforded the student to combine the work of the school with that of the office, so that the practical and the scientific elements of his education may progress together. To this end all exercises of the college are held in the evening and students are also encouraged in securing work during the day in suitable law offices in the city. They are also encouraged in attending the various courts, so far as this does not interfere with their other duties.

The city furnishes good opportunities for obtaining employment to those who are obliged to earn money to defray their expenses while attending the college.

THE LANSING RACES.

A Week of Great Sport at the Capital City.

Beginning Tuesday, August 15th and continuing four days, the Lansing Driving Club will give its second annual trotting and pacing meeting on the new mile track at Lansing, Mich. The association was organized two years ago and includes among its members the leading business men and capitalists of the city. A new mile track had long been contemplated to take the place of the old half mile affair, located on the fair grounds at the capitol city and the result was the locating of the present handsome grounds and buildings, of the elegant mile track that is pronounced by horsemen to be second to none in the state. The soil is peculiarly adapted to a race track and an experience of two seasons proves that the association "builded well."

The first meeting, given last August, was an unqualified success, bringing together some of the fleetest footed record makers and record breakers o the day, as well as some of the veteran drivers, who did not hesitate to say that the track was destined to become a speeding ground for all the crackerjacks that are now before the public.

The association has all the accessories of a first-class racing course in the shape of fire-proof stalls, with accommodations for 300 horses, grand stand capable of seating 3,000 people, fire protection, etc., etc.

For this year's meeting $10,000 in cash purses have been hung up with a liberal amount for specials, and for the four days' events some 200 horses have qualified, thus assuring a successful meet and some excellent sport.

Tuesday, August 15th, has been designated as "reception day" and everybody and their friends will be admitted to the grounds free of charge. This invitation is open to the world.

The track is located but a short distance from the heart of the capitol city and is accessable by both electric and steam cars.

Besides the events chronicled on the regular program Guy, 2:06 3-4, who holds the world's gelding and buggy record, Nelson, 2:10 1-4, who holds the stallion record for regulation track and Lord Clinton, 2:10 1-2, will go against their records for special purses.

C. G. Dempsey of Pittsburg, Pa., the veteran pool seller, has all pool privileges and the association has secured the services of Frank B. Walker, of Indianapolis, to act as starter.

The admission to the grounds has been placed at 50 cents.

For any information regarding the meeting, address

CHAS. P. DOWNEY,
Secretary.

THE MESSAGE.

President Cleveland Discusses the Financial Problem.

Attributes Panic to Congressional Silver Legislation—Recommends Repeal of Purchasing Clause.

THE PRESIDENT'S VIEWS.

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

The existence of an alarming and extraordinary business situation, involving the welfare and prosperity of all our people, has constrained me to call together in extra session the people's representatives in congress, to the end that, through wise and patriotic exercise of the legislative duty with which they solely are charged, present evils may be mitigated and dangers threatening the future may be averted.

The Unfortunate Financial Plight.

Our unfortunate financial plight is not the result of untoward events nor of conditions related to our natural resources; nor is it traceable to any of the afflictions which frequently check national growth and prosperity. With plenteous crops, with abundant promise of remunerative production and manufacture, with unusual invitation to safe investment and with satisfactory assurance to business enterprise, suddenly financial distrust and fear have sprung up on every side. Numerous moneyed institutions have suspended because abundant assets were not immediately available to meet the demands of frightened depositors. Surviving corporations and individuals are content to keep in hand the money they are usually anxious to loan, and those engaged in legitimate business are surprised to find that the securities they offer for loans, though heretofore satisfactory, are no longer accepted. Values supposed to be fixed are fast becoming conjectural, and loss and failure have invaded every branch of business.

Attributed to Congressional Legislation.

I believe these things are principally chargeable to congressional legislation touching the purchase and coinage of silver by the general government. This legislation is embodied in a statute passed on the 14th day of July, 1890, which was the culmination of much agitation on the subject involved, and which may be considered a truce, after a long struggle, between the advocates of free silver coinage and those intending to be more conservative.

Silver Depreciation.

Undoubtedly the monthly purchases by the government of 4,500,000 ounces of silver, enforced under that statute, were regarded by those interested in silver production as a certain guaranty of its increase in price. The result, however, has been entirely different, for, immediately following a spasmodic and slight rise, the price of silver began to fall after the passage of the act and has since reached the lowest point ever known. This disappointing result has led to renewed and persistent effort in the direction of free silver coinage.

Future Results.

Meanwhile, not only are the evil effects of the operation of the present law constantly accumulating, but the result to which its execution must inevitably lead is becoming palpable to all who give the least heed to financial subjects. This law provides that in payment for the 4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion, which the secretary of the treasury is commanded to purchase monthly, there shall be issued treasury notes redeemable on demand in gold or silver coin, at the discretion of the secretary of the treasury, and that said notes may be reissued.

Parity Between Gold and Silver.

It is, however, declared in the act to be "the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio, or such ratio as may be provided by law." This declaration so controls the action of the secretary of the treasury as to prevent his exercising the discretion nominally vested in him, if by such action the parity between gold and silver may be disturbed. Manifestly a refusal by the secretary to pay these treasury notes in gold, if demanded, would necessarily result in their discredit and depreciation as obligations payable only in silver, and would destroy the parity between the two metals by establishing a discrimination in favor of gold.

Redemption in Gold.

Up to the fifteenth day of July, 1893, these notes had been issued in payment of silver bullion purchases, to the amount of more than one hundred and forty-seven millions of dollars. While all but a very small quantity of this bullion remains uncoined and without usefulness in the treasury, many of the notes given in its purchase have been paid in gold. This is illustrated by the statement that between the first day of May, 1892, and the fifteenth day of July, 1893, the notes of this kind issued in payment for silver bullion, amounted to a little more than fifty-four millions of dollars, and that during the same period about forty-nine millions of dollars were paid by the treasury in gold for the redemption of such notes.

Gold Depletion.

The policy necessarily adopted of paying these notes in gold has not spared the gold reserve of $100,000,000 long ago set aside by the government for the redemption of other notes, for this fund has already been subjected to the payment of new obligations amounting to about $150,000,000 on account of silver purchases, and has, as a consequence, for the first time since its creation been encroached upon.

We have thus made the depletion of our gold easy and have tempted other and more appreciative nations to add it to their stock. That the opportunity we have offered has not been neglected is shown by the large amounts of gold which have been recently drawn from our treasury and exported to increase the financial strength of foreign nations. The excess of exports of gold over its imports for the year ending June 30, 1893, amounted to more than $87,500,000.

Between the 1st day of July, 1890, and the 15th day of July, 1893, the gold coin and bullion in our treasury decreased more than $130,000,000, while during the same period the silver coin and bullion in the treasury increased more than $147,000,000. Unless government bonds are to be constantly issued and sold to replenish our exhausted gold, only to be again exhausted, it is apparent that the operation of the silver purchase law now in force leads in the direction of the entire substitution of silver for the gold in the government treasury, and that this must be followed by the payment of all government obligations in depreciated silver.

Must Part Company.

At this stage gold and silver must part company and the government must fail in its established policy to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other. Given over to the exclusive use of a currency greatly depreciated according to the standard of the commercial world, we could no longer claim a place among nations of the first class, nor could our government claim a performance of its obligation, so far as such an obligation has been imposed upon it, to provide for the use of the people the best and safest money.

The Fiat Question.

If, as many of its friends claim, silver ought to occupy a larger place in our currency and the currency of the world through general international cooperation and agreement, it is obvious that the United States will not be in a position to gain a hearing in favor of such an arrangement so long as we are willing to continue our attempt to accomplish the result single handed. The knowledge in business circles among our own people that our government cannot make its fiat equivalent to intrinsic value, nor keep inferior money on a parity with superior money by its own independent efforts, has resulted in such a lack of confidence at home in the stability of currency values that capital refuses its aid to new enterprises, while millions are actually withdrawn from the channels of trade and commerce to become idle and unproductive in the hands of timid owners. Foreign investors, equally alert, not only decline to purchase American securities, but make haste to sacrifice those which they already have.

A Menace Not to Be Disregarded.

It does not meet the situation to say that apprehension in regard to the future of our finances is groundless and that there is no reason for lack of confidence in the purposes or power of the government in the premises. The very existence of this apprehension and lack of confidence, however caused, is a menace which ought not for a moment to be disregarded. Possibly, if the undertaking we have in hand were the maintenance of a specific known quantity of silver at a parity with gold, our ability to do so might be estimated and gauged, and perhaps, in view of our unparalleled growth and resources, might be favorably passed upon. But when our avowed endeavor is to maintain such parity in regard to an amount of silver increasing at the rate of $50,000,000 yearly, with no fixed termination to such increase, it can hardly be said that a problem is presented whose solution is free from doubt.

Above Party Politics.

This matter rises above the plane of party politics. It vitally concerns every business and calling and enters every household in the land. There is one important aspect of the subject which especially should never be overlooked. At times like the present, when the evils of unsound finance threaten us, the speculator may anticipate a harvest gathered from the misfortune of others, the capitalist may protect himself by hoarding or may even find profit in the fluctuation of values; but the wage-earner—the first to be injured by a depreciated currency and to receive the benefit of its correction—is practically defenseless. He relies for work upon the ventures of confident and contented capital. This failing him, his condition is without alleviation, for he can neither prey on the misfortunes of others, nor hoard his labor.

The Greatest Sufferer.

One of the greatest statesmen our country has known, speaking more than fifty years ago when a derangement of the currency had caused commercial distress, said: "The very man of all others who has the deepest interest in a sound currency, and who suffers most by mischievous legislation in money matters, is the man who earns his daily bread by his daily toil." These words are as pertinent now as on the day they were uttered, and ought to impressively remind us that a failure in the discharge of our duty at this time must especially injure those of our countrymen who labor, and who because of their number and condition are entitled to the most watchful care of their government.

Importance of Immediate Relief.

It is of the utmost importance that such relief as congress can afford in the existing situation be afforded at once. The maxim: "He gives twice who gives quickly," is directly applicable. It may be true that the embarrassments from which the business of the country is suffering arise as much from evils apprehended as from those actually existing. We may hope, too, that calm counsels will prevail and that neither the capitalists nor the wage-earners will give way to unreasoning panic and sacrifice their property or their interest under the influence of exaggerated fears. Nevertheless, every day's delay in removing one of the plain and principal causes of the present state of things enlarges the mischief already done and increases the responsibility of the government for its existence. Whatever else the people have a right to expect from congress they may certainly demand that legislation condemned by the ordeal of three years' disastrous experience shall be removed from the statute books as soon as their representatives can legitimately deal with it.

Tariff Reform in the Near Future.

It was my purpose to summon congress in special session early in the coming September that we might enter promptly upon the work of tariff reform, which the true interests of the country clearly demand, which so large a majority of the people, as shown by their suffrages, desire and expect, and to the accomplishment of which every effort of the present administration is pledged. But while tariff reform has lost nothing of its immediate and permanent importance, and must in the near future engage the attention of congress, it has seemed to me that the financial condition of the country should at once, and before all other subjects, be considered by your honorable body.

Prompt Repeal Recommended.

I earnestly recommend the prompt repeal of the provisions of the act passed July 14, 1890, authorizing the purchase of silver bullion, and that other legislative action may put beyond all doubt or mistake the intention and ability of the government to fulfill its pecuniary obligations in money universally recognized by all civilized countries.

One of the swiftest games of ball we have had in Adrian since the time of Springer and Yaike, was played yesterday afternoon on the Y. M. C. A. ground between Tecumseh High School nine and the team selected by the Y. M. C. A. It was a game for blood from the start, and each nine was on its mettle. The batteries on either side found hitters at the home plate all the way through, and grand stand display was the result. The crowd assembled around the diamond gave vent to their feelings in a series of yells and shouts that were deafening. The Tecumseh boys were physically much weaker than the home team, but were well disciplined and made our boys play ball every minute. The score ended in a victory for Adrian, 8 to 14.—Telegram of Saturday.

There are 1279 volumes in the Tecumseh library. Almost every adult in Tecumseh can read, and also write, except the editors there, whose ability to do the latter is doubted by their compositors.—Adrian Press.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

Dr. J. Gore Galleher,

EYE SPECIALIST AND ELECTRIONIST will be at

LILLEY HOUSE, Tecumseh, Mich.

Thursday and Friday, Aug. 24 and 25.

TWO DAYS ONLY.

CONSULTATION AND EXAMINATIONS FREE

If you are interested in the condition of your eyes, call on the noted Dr. Galleher. He is an expert in his profession. Eyesight is precious—more valuable than any other of the special senses. The Docter has treated in the last 12 months more than 3,500 cases of all forms of eye trouble and errors of refraction, such as Glaucoma, Ulceration of the Cornea, Granulation of the lids, Presbyopia, Paralysis of Accomodation, Spasm of Accomodation, Hypermetrobia, Aphakia, Myopia, Astigmatism, Anisometropia, Strabismus, Diplopia, Asthenopia, etc. Have you ever stopped to think how many people in this world are blind from their own negligence and carelessness in not giving their eyes attention at the proper time? You now have the opportunity of consulting one who gives all his time in treating cronic eye trouble. Thousands of persons in this world that do not use glasses that should, then again there are thousands of persons using gasses they think suited to their eyes, but the truth of the matter is, the glasses do not correct the trouble, but aggravate it and produce headache, spots before the eyes, inflamation, granulation, winking, trembling spells, various nerve and brain affections, catracts, burning and smarting of the eyes, etc.; entailing not only positive injury to the sight, but untold misery and blindness. Dr. Galleher makes examinations that few in this country can make. He has instruments with which he can examine every muscle and fibre in the inside of the eye. He can tell you in an instant after examining your eyes whether he can benefit you or not, and will truthfully say so. It should be understood that Dr. Galleher is well known throughout the Eastern States as a practical and successful electrionist. He invented some of the finest electrical appliances ever imported to this country. Remember that Dr Galleher does not give one drop of medicine. He is the only man in America who has the exclusive sale of Dr. Edgar Scott's Positive Catarrh Cure. An instrument put up of compressed and medicated gasses, which is Dr. S's. own invention. Dr. Galleher also has appliances which will remove a tape worm in from two to four hours or no charges made Testimonals of the best people in this country at his room at the hotel. Call early and secure convenient hours for free consultation and examination.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

Miss Goodykoontz Friday evening.

Mrs. John Bauchman is under the doctor's care.

Clara Temple is on the sick list at present writing.

A fine shower visited this section Friday afternoon last.

Charley Richards, of Dundee, visited Leila Sutton Tuesday.

Bear in mind that the time to pay your library dues draws near.

Lena Swick, of Milan, is visiting friends in the village this week.

Fred Gorton, of Ypsilanti, is enjoying country life at the home of the Osgood sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. S. McClure, of Tecumseh, called on friends in the village Sunday.

Dewitt Wilkerson, of Dundee, called at the home of E. W. Rappleye Sunday afternoon.

C. A. Sharp, of Adrian, was in the village the first of the week calling on old friends.

Prof. E. A. Wilson and wife vi at the home of W. R. Wilson the of the week.

Alfred Lucking, wife and children, of Detroit, spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of Dr. Loree.

Mrs. D. W. Loree is improving the appearance of her house on Church street with a coat of paint.

Mrs. Dr. O. Manley and children, of Davisburgh, visited at J. O. Shepard's from Saturday until Tuesday.

Marshal Henry Stevens and Fred Rosacrans, of Tecumseh, were in attendance at church Sunday morning.

Duputy sheriff Harrington, wife and daughter Blanche, of Blissfield, spent Sunday with their son Willie Harrington.

Remember Miss Goodykoontz will give an elocutionary entertainment in the church on Friday evening of this week.

Lou Arner and Kittie Clark left Wednesday morning for a few days' visit with relatives and friends at Hudson, Pittsford and Hillsdale.

Kittie Clark entertained the students of her class in music Tuesday afternoon. A program of music was carried out and refreshments served and a pleasant afternoon spent by all.

Rev. Yokom, of Blissfield, lost his coat on his way to the convention here last week. It is a double-breasted wool coat, nearly new. Anvone finding it will please leave it at Elder Yager's.

Keep it in your mind that the C. J. & M. will sell round trip tickets to the Farmers' Picnic, to be held at Devil's Lake next week Wednesday, August 23. One fare—70c.—pays the bill from here.

The home missionary society will hold a parlor meeting at the parsonage Friday evening, August 25. Dr. Davis, of Adrian, is expected to be present and give a talk on "Frontier Work." A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Under the auspices of the Epworth League Miss Mertie Goodykoontz, a talented elocutionist, will give one of her fine entertainments at the church Friday evening. She comes to us very highly recommeuded. The admission has been placed at the small sum of 10c so that all who enjoy an entertainment of the kind need not stay away. Following is the program as it will be presented, beginning at 7:30 o'clock:

Vocal solo—J. D. Arner.

1. Magdalena, or the Spanish Duet—Anon.
2. Fritz's Courtship—E. J. Hall.

PENTECOST POINTERS.

The universal salutation now is: "Have you read the President's message?"

This section was blessed with a welcome and much needed shower Friday last, the only fault to be found with it being that there was not enough of it.

Passing trains set fire to the dry grass along the railroad recently, burning some fence, partially destroying a bridge near Onsted, and creating quite a scare.

While attending to the unloading of grain in his granary by threshers a few days ago, Smith German fell and received quite a severe injury, but is now on the gain.

W. B. German killed a large rattlesnake in his door-yard the other day. It was the first one seen there in over 30 years and made Will's hair rise to think what might have been if little Roy had found it first.

The grasshoppers are getting quite the start of the farmers in cutting up corn and they are also quite partial to beans, turnips, binder twine, etc.,—everything, in fact, except a wire fence, and the farmer can only look on and sigh.

"Aunty Simmons," who lives with her son William at Dundee, fell down recently and crushed one hip. It that she feels no pain whatever it, being paralyzed no doubt. She the sympathy of many friends in her misfortune.

As Eugene Case was driving a spirited colt last Saturday it became unmanageable and reared up and fell, demolishing the sulky. It was at first thought the colt's neck was broken but it soon rallied and got up, but walked away very soberly, evidently much disgusted with the outcome of its dash for freedom.

A couple of blooming youths from Adrian drove to Sand Lake on a recent Sunday, but when they were ready for the return trip their high-spirited horse decided it would not go home till morning. The driver contested the point until nearly midnight, making about three miles in as many hours, but gave in at last, put his horse in a farmer's barn, and rode into town Monday morning with some friends, leading his obstinate equine. The friend who accompanied him, and who had an "engagement" in town, pluckily started to walk in Sunday night. The boys will remember that trip some time, for various reasons.

BRITTON BUDGET.

Mrs. R. Hardy, of Andover, N. Y., is visiting her son, Dr Hardy, for a few weeks.

Miss Daisy Hoagland, of Kalamazoo, visited her aunt, Mrs. Edmund Smith, last week.

A. J. Wood is again able to be about after his attack of sunstroke one day last week.

Elliott Acres, of Sylvania, Ohio, visited at W. and O. B. Lenardson's Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Carrie Holden is passing a few days at Joseph Thack 's.

All parties implicated in Saturday night's jamboree will settle with Justice Doitsomemore at his office.

Mrs. Jane L. Phelps, of Camden, N. Y., after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Fred Morrell, returned Monday.

When an Adrian boy goes to call on a Lake Ridge girl he wants to hang onto the 'tangs or else go on his wheel.

At present writing—Monday afternoon—the infant son of Mrs. Fred Boyd, of Detroit, is very low. Mrs. Boyd is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Russell.

Burton Nichols threshed 1103 bushels of grain for Henry Barnes in one afternoon with G. C. Pocklington's machine—552 bushels of oats and 551 of wheat. If that don't beat the record what does?

One and one-half square inches of skin taken from under the wing of a chicken was grafted on the limb of Wm. Cornell by Dr. Hardy last Monday. The ulcer to cure which the operation was performed was of fourteen years' standing and should it prove successful Uncle Billy will almost feel as though he had been born again.

HOLLOWAY HASH.

Joe Hartman is the pa of an 8 1-2 pound girl, born the 5th inst. Mother and child doing well.

Wm. Cox's colts ran away from the hired man in the lane one day last week and broke the tongue out of the wagon and busted the harness some, but nothing serious.

Ed. Dixon had a narrow escape Tuesday. In some manner he was caught under the hand car and rolled along some distance, but aside from a few bruises from the piston-rod and bull-wheel he escaped serious damage.

Little did the correspondent for the Adrian Press dream of the outcome of an article written for the Press not long since, else it never had been written. We refer to the article accusing three of our young men of making beasts of themselves in another town by imbibing liquid fire, etc. Two of these young men, who, our correspondent claims, are "on the road to debauchery and crime," have left the country.

One day last week one of our townsmen had occasion to draw some water. The only available place was a well near by which had a windmill attached. As the wind did not prove sufficient to keep the mill in motion the young man set down his jug under the spout and proceeded to climb the derrick for the purpose of getting the old thing in motion, when the lady of the house came out and told him she thought it much easier to unjoint the mill and use the hand pump, instead of wasting his breath on that big wheel.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION.

The Fourth Annual Convention of the Adrian District Epworth League, that was held in the M. E. Church, Ridgeway, last week Tuesday and Wednesday, was very largely attended throughout and a good interest taken by all present.

Refreshments were served by the citizens of the village and vicinity in the lecture room for the delegates and friends during the convention and their homes were thrown open and a cordial welcome extended to all, for which the friends are deserving of many thanks. All pronounce the convention a success in every respect.

Bishop Ninde's address on Wednesday evening was listened to by a large and appreciative audience and is spoken of in the highest terms.

The convention was called to order by the President of the district, S. Milo Dole, of Adrian, on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30.

Opened by singing No. 4 in the "Finest of the Wheat," led by Rev. George E. Sloan, of Milan. Scripture read by the President, followed by a season of prayer.

Singing No. 7 and repeating of the Lord's Prayer by the convention.

Rev. D. H. Ramsdell, of Clinton, was elected reporter for the Christian Advocate and Epworth Herald.

Reading of the minutes of last year's meeting, held at Rollin Center, by the Secretary, Miss Sarah M. Green, of Rollin Center.

Paper, "Why this Convention"—Walter E. Burnett, Tecumseh.

Paper, "Work of Leaguers in the Sunday School"—Nora Newell, Monroe.

Singing of No. 90.

Paper, "Business Meetings, etc."—Rev. E. P. Pierce, Tipton.

Discussion, led by David Haggart of Clinton.

Singing No. 129.

The following were appointed committee on resolutions—Rev. Wm. B. Pope, Walter Burnett and Miss Cutting.

Committee on enrollment—Secretary of the Dexter League and Mattie Rappleye of Ridgeway.

Afternoon session closed by singing No. 84.

EVENING SESSION.

Called to order by the President and opened by half-hour praise service, conducted by Rev. D. H. Yokom of Blissfield, after which the Ridgeway Chapter presented the following program:

Voluntary—Leila Sutton.

Anthem—"Praise ye the Father"—Choir.

Prayer—Rev. Michael H. McMahon, Clayton.

Singing No. 17 by the League.

Address of Welcome—President of the League, Eldredge Lowe.

Response by District President, S. Milo Dole of Adrian.

Vocal solo, "The Raft"—Miss Flota Smith.

Select reading, "The Old Man's Story"—David Gibson.

Cornet solo, "Victor"—Emma Miller.

Recitation, "Where was Moses when the light went out?"—Sylvia Pilbeam.

Singing No. 73—Glad Refrain, by the League.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

At six o'clock a prayer meeting was held for one hour.

The convention was called to order at 9 o'clock by the President and the exercises began by singing No. 39.

Devotional exercises conducted by Rev. J. Kerridge, of Adrian, followed by singing No. 22.

Paper, "Thorough Bible Study"—Howard Field, Rollin Center, after which a discussion of some length followed.

Paper, "Our Juniors"—Lena Swick, Milan.

It was a grand production and presented in an earnest, telling manner.

Sermon—Rev. D. H. Ramsdell, Clinton.

Singing No. 9.

Paper, "Personal Work"—F. L. L. Hiller, Hudson.

President S. Milo Dole and Presiding Elder Lewis P. Davis, of Adrian, were elected delegates to the general conference.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Session called to order at 1:30 by the President and the exercises opened by singing No. 22.

Devotional exercises.

Department Symposium.

Presidents—Conducted by A. J. Kempton, Addison.

1st Department—Conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Robbins, Adrian.

Singing No. 98.

Question Drawer—Conducted by Rev. C. W. Baldwin, Addison.

2d Department—Conducted by Rev. R. L. Cope, Manchester.

3d Department—Conducted by B. R. Kessler, Clayton.

4th Department—Conducted by H. C. Pearce, Dexter.

5th and 6th Departments—Conducted by Hattie Montgomery, Tecumseh.

Roll call, with two-minute answers in response. 21 Leagues were represented by nearly 150 delegates.

Miss Mertie Goodykoontz, an elocutionist late of Ann Arbor, gave a very pleasing selection, after which the Treasurer gave her report.

The committee on resolutions reported the following, which were adopted by the convention:

RESOLVED—That we tender to the Ridgeway League and people our thanks for the kindly cordiality which they have shown us and express most heartily our appreciation, not only of the care we have received but of the interest shown in the work by so large an attendance at the sessions of the convention.

RESOLVED—That we, as representatives of the League of the Adrian District, express our loyal admiration of the action of the whole League in regard to the closing of the World's Fair on the Sabbath, and that we also

RESOLVE—That as a League we put our influence strongly on the side of the right observance of the Lord's Day, and recommend, 1st—The strengthening of a sentiment against Sunday newspapers.

2d—The transaction of the business of the League on some other day than the Sabbath. Committee—Hattie E. B. Crippens, Ann Arbor; Rev. W. B. Pope, Monroe; W. E. Burnett, Tecumseh.

The election of officers resulted in the following:

President—S. Milo Dole, Adrian.

1st Vice Pres.—E. Lowe, Ridgeway.

2d " " —Addis Leeson, Manchester.

Secretary—Nora Newell, Monroe.

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

Will be of value to the world by illustrating the improvements in the mechanical arts and eminent physicians will tell you that the progress in medicinal agents has been of equal importance, and as a strengthening laxative that Syrup of Figs is far in advance of all others.

Lenawee Co. G. A. R Association.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Lenawee County G. A. R. Association, held in Adrian, on July 17th, 1893, it was decided to hold the regular annual reunion and picnic on the Fair Grounds of the Lenawee County Agricultural Society, in the city of Adrian, on Thursday, August 24, 1893, commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Post commanders, Presidents of W. R. C. and Captains of S. of V., are requested to be present, and ready to report for their organization as required by the constitution. You are also requested to notify all the members of your respective organizations of the time and place of the reunion, and as one of the Vice-Presidents do what you can to secure a good attendance and make this our Fourth Annual Reunion, one of the most successful and enjoyable yet held.

The Post, Corps and Camp, in each place where there is a Post, are requested to unite in selecting some one from their place to take part in the program (music, recitation or speech as they may desire), not to exceed five minutes in length.

A. P. CODDINGTON, Pres't.
J. B. KESSLER, Sec'y.

GET THE NEWS.

Every occupation in the country is anxiously looking to the extra Session of Congress for relief. Every citizen is directly and personally interested in every measure to be discussed, and will want the news promptly and fully. It is during a time like this, that the great advantage of The "Twice-a-week" St. Louis Republic is conclusively demonstrated. Its readers get all the news each Tuesday and Friday—just twice as often and fully as it could be had from any weekly paper—and yet it costs no more than the weeklies—only one dollar a year. It will be indispensable during the next few months. Send in your subscription at once. Extra copy free for one year to the sender of Club of four new names with four dollars. Write for free sample copies, and raise a club. Address The Republic, St. Louis, Mo.

ABSENCE OF A CROWD.

Plenty of Room in the Exposition Grounds.

ONE FEATURE OF THE BIG FAIR.

A Lavish Abundance of Elbow Room in All Parts of the Magnificent Grounds—The Indiana Building the Most Crowded of the State Buildings—How Women Visitors Are Dressed.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—There is one feature of this exposition which strikes me with ever increasing astonishment. Every day and night I am in the grounds I notice it and every morning when I read the record of the previous day's attendance I feel sure it is too large. The feature is the utter absence of a crowd, so to speak. Go where I may I find a lavish abundance of elbow room. In all the avenues one sees about such a crowd as he would in any public garden on a pleasant Saturday, but in the side paths and among the groves, on the wooded island, in the shaded places between some of the buildings and the fence there is solitude save for a few lovers or pensive promenaders who are weary of the display.

I have seen just three crowds. When the Maharajah of Kapurthala and his wife came rolling down the avenue between the Indiana and California buildings, in elegant wheeled chairs, with that very tall Englishman who acts as their guardian walking beside them, there must have been at least 10,000 people gathered. In fact, the crowd was almost as thick as that on the north end of the Brooklyn bridge at 5 p. m. In the Midway plaisance there is sometimes a jam about the open air shows and in the Indiana building there is often a crowd from noon till 2 p. m., as they go there to rest and eat lunch. It really does take a good many peope to fill 633 acres, and the water surface should not be deducted as in the busy part of the day there are nearly as many people on that as on any equal area of the land.

In the Michigan and Ohio buildings it is like walking through the quiet parlors of a first-class hotel, both for elegance and room; the New York building is a little more crowded and that of Indiana most so, of course, for it was made for that and for nothing else. Another fact forced upon my notice is that, as any traveled American can see at a glance, a large majority of the visitors at present are from districts near Chicago. Of course I do not know everybody within four hours ride of Chicago, but I do know all the types and I confidentially make this statement: Take Chicago as a center and a radius of 150 miles, and over half the visitors of the past week have been from towns and country places within that area. If I did not know this by observation I should know it by conversation. From Terre Haute and north of that I have met at least fifty Indiana acquaintances, from Evansville, New Albany and thereabouts I have not met one. In the course of much talking and inquiring I have met one man from Mississippi and one from South Carolina—both hotel clerks.

Another fact proves the general assertion. A surprisingly large part of the crowd consists of entire families, that is, one sees the husband and wife doing the buildings with all their children about them down to the baby in arms. It is very nice, indeed, but it shows that they have not come far, and when I speak to such people their words and tones show me at once what section they live in. A much more pleasing fact is that personal libefty is here carried to its maximum. Many gentlemen, after prolonged sight-seeing, stretch out on the grass or benches or even the lounges in the state buildings or the easy chairs on the porches and snooze the snooze of the just and the weary, and no man troubles them. It is Liberty hall and go-as-you-please all over the grounds, but if the attendance doubles late in the month, ("Grant it, supernal powers!"), they certainly will have to be a little more strict.

As to the emancipation of women, of which we have heard so much, if it isn't carried out here, it never will be in this world. Than the social freedom of the White City there can be no greater till the fair sex reach their fitting environment in that one whiter and more glorious city which the apostle in Patmos saw by the eye of faith, a city wherein no evil could enter and consequently there could be no fear of being misunderstood and where transparent purity of motive was adorned but not concealed by shining robes and crowns of amaranth and gold. In this White City there are of course a few who would take advantage of the prevailing freedom, but their ready discomfiture affords much amusement and when the social record is written up the retort of the American girl to the "masher" will add materially to the humorous literature of the day. Said girl certainly has learned how to take care of herself.

Along with the foregoing facts goes another worth noting, the absence of attempts at style. Among 1,000 women one will not see three that are richly, not to say fashionably, dressed. Plain picnic costumes are the rule and some of the ladies of my acquaintance laughingly tell me they came here to wear out their old clothes. Making a man's guess at materials I should say that one-half the dresses are of stout calico or some equally plain substance. As to a man, well he can wear anything that covers him, and no one will look at him twice. Indeed, he can go barefooted if he likes and a few seem to be near it. This place reminds me of the old country, "husking bee," of which it was said, in our part at least, that nobody need stay away on account of his clothes. Freedom in clothing and freedom of talk go with other forms of innocent freedom and on the grassy plots and among the groves one sees groups of ladies who have slumped down without regard to valuation or appraisement laws. The enthusiasm of the sex makes them overdo the sight-seeing; they are led on from beauty to beauty and are exhausted before they realize that they are tired.

My walk home from the gate near Fifty-eighth street leads me through the newest and presumably the wildest part of that queer pinewood and staff town which suddenly sprang up in this section of Hyde Park. Every third door opens into a saloon and likewise are rude and temporary hotels with here and there the wide open doors of a half theater, half concert hall from which issues the jiggy music of violin and piano or the resonant tones of the touter assuring everybody that the entertainment is free. About 9 p. m. everything in this region is humming. It is the Bowery and Central park, Coney Island and a county fair, a Bohemian picnic, rural excursion party and the outside of a circus show in a village, all in one. And all through that region at that hour one sees groups of the very nicest kind of people sauntering along as leisurely as if in a village street.

They sit on the broad walk in front of the hotels and chaffer with the peddlers of curios, listen to the gutter bands and laugh at the street Arabs, they wander among the resorts, and groups of matrons and big girls from the country regions occasionally drop into the concert halls, listen awhile and go away with an expression which plainly says, "Well, we've seen it anyhow, and now we'll know what it is when we read about it in the newspapers." It is much the same in the plaisance, but I observe many of the ladies there look around carefully before venturing into the doubtful places. The authorities have "reformed" the plaisance, however, till most of its far-foreign fun is banished, but the Turkish theater still does a little posture dancing and I was amazed at a group I saw there the other evening. The old lady at the head of it sat up like a nail stuck in a board and if "Presbyterian" had been stamped all over her in blue letters her standing at home couldn't have been plainer. Two young ladies of twenty or thereabouts sat by her and the three looked neither to the right nor the left, but kept a steady unwinking gaze upon the dancers from first to last. As they passed me in going out the old lady was talking in low but earnest tones, to which one of the younger ones replied in short, snapping phrases, "Well—they said so much about it—I wanted to see it—and I have seen it—anyhow!" And what had she seen? Why nothing to compare with what she might see in any leading theater in the United States.

I am often called upon to note, and so far I see nothing to contradict it, that Chicago is a remarkably safe city for ladies to go about in without escorts, and even those papers which frantically denounce Mayor Carter Harrison in their editorial columns, assure intending visitors to the fair that the present peace of the city is truly Biblical in that it passeth all understanding. All that I can personally say is that in all this part of the city, fair ground included, I have not yet seen a man who was troublesomely drunk, though I have seen many who were very much "discouraged." In referring to the daily attendance Chicago men habitually speak of "the 1,500,000 or so who live here and the 300,000 or more whose business brings them into the city every day or so," and affect a sort of pity for the distant people who do not come. In the latter part of that I certainly agree with them. Here and now one may see a triumphant democracy indeed. Here one may see the grandest lesson of this age in voluntary self government. This is indeed the people's show, and the pity is that more of them are not here to see it.

ON THE PIAZZA OF MICHIGAN BUILDING.

I had a curiosity to know which department attracted the largest number of people and held them the longest and after some study and comparison I give the palm to the Manufactures and Liberal Arts building. It is indeed a wonder. Its enormous area, 1,687 feet long and 787 feet wide with a height in the central pavilions of 152 feet and of the roof over the central hall of 245½ feet, saving the space not needed for visitors, is absolutely packed with the wonders of the world's best workers in wood, wool, silk, ivory, silver, gold, coral and I cannot say how many other materials for the fair creations genius. It is the world's fair in miniature. There are the Spanish pavilion, the French pavilion, the American pavilion, the great clock tower, the Japanese pavilion, the Polish, the Australian and the Waterbury clocks and last but far from the least the exquisite little "Palace of King Ludwig" in the German section. And no sooner do I conclude that "This beats all the world ever saw before," than a companion calls me to look at something which in his opinion "completely takes the shine out of that."

Of course there are very many things in the White City which one does not appreciate at first view, many which one does not get the good of until the third or fourth view and quite as many which gain in interest every time they are examined. If it were not so, this would not be the greatest show on earth; for the true test of greatness in all lines is that it grows upon one. The book which reveals new beauties at each reading (Job and Homer, for instance), the natural phenomenon which it takes time to enjoy, the man whom one likes better the longer he knows him and the picture which ever grows in interest, these are truly great. When the average man first looks upon these buildings he sees them crowned with beautiful figures and adorned with minute carvings and cornices which seem to him mere frills, as it were. But in time he discovers that every crowning figure has a deep meaning, every cornice is a suggestion and every panel, carving and window picture is symbolic of some idea in the general design of the building.

On the Agricultural building, for instance, the banners bear the signs of Zodiac and on the stock pavilion they show the stages of development in domestic animals, every carved figure on the Administration building is a condensed history, at least a score of great inventions are sculptured on the Transportation building, the dome and panelling of the Government building pictures America from Lief Ericsson to President Cleveland, and in the Palace of Horticulture the beautiful symbols seem almost endless. In short, the outside ornaments alone deserve many months of study and to master their meaning and beauty would amount to a liberal education.

SHUT DOWN.

Grand Rapids Furniture Factories Feel the General Depression.

Some Have Suspended Operations But Expect to Start Up with Full Forces September 1—Copper and Iron Mines Close—Lumber Mills to Run.

WORK STOPPED FOR A TIME.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 13.—Berkey & Gay, the most extensive furniture manufacturing concern in the world, closed down their immense plant Saturday for three weeks. The Royal Furniture company also suspended operation. Leonards Sons' refrigerator works are closed indefinitely and wages have been reduced 25 per cent. in their retail and wholesale crockery houses. The Nelson-Matter company has given notice that its employes must submit to a temporary reduction in working hours. The Oriel Cabinet company has ordered a reduction of 20 per cent. in wages and the men have accepted. The Widdlecines company has laid off 10 per. cent. of its employes and reduced the wages of the remainder. The Phœnix has closed its machinery department and ordered a 10 per cent. reduction in wages in other departments. It is the general opinion that all the factories will be running on full time by September 1. The western trade this fall is almost completely lacking and the demand from the east is light, and a curtailment of the product is necessary.

Lumber Mills Will Run.

MENOMINEE, Aug. 13.—At a meeting of the lumbermen of the Menominee river Saturday afternoon relative to the closing down of the mills on account of the depressed condition of the lumber business, a joint resolution was passed to the effect that the mills would continue to run, but in order to do so would be necessary to pay for all labor in sixty-day drafts or time checks on monthly pay days. Copies of the resolution have been posted and circulated among all mill men. This action has had a tendency to restore confidence. The time checks can be used among all mercantile establishments and the drafts are negotiable at slight discount.

Chapin Mine Shuts Down.

IRON MOUNTAIN, Aug. 12.—The Chapin mine, employing 950 men, closed down at noon Saturday in obedience to orders received from Milwaukee. In an address to the miners, Superintendent McNaughton counseled moderation and gave assurance that work would be resumed in thirty or sixty days. R. C. Flanagan, attorney for the company, offered, as the best the company could do, to pay 50 per cent. of the wages due the men, about $49,000, at once and give bonds of the company due in six months at 6 per cent. interest and secured by first mortgage of all the company's property for the balance. This offer was accepted.

Workmen Get Their Wages.

ISHPEMING, Aug. 14.—The miners of the Arragon property, at Norway, have received nearly all the wages due them out of money advanced on ore. They attached the mine, which was one of the Schlesinger group. The prospects of the other creditors ever receiving any money are considered dubious. The managers of the mine offer to set the married men at work again at a reduction of wages of about one-third from the former scale.

Shipyards Closed.

DETROIT, Aug. 11.—The Wyandotte steel shipyards, located at Wyandotte, have closed, throwing 500 men out of work. The dull season on the lakes has stopped ship building and the "118," a sister ship of the Selwyn Eddy, the largest vessel on the lakes, is left unfinished in the yards because her owners do not want her until next spring.

Copper Mine Suspends Operations.

CALUMET, Aug. 12.—The Copper Falls mine, which has been worked for nearly forty years, and is one of only two mines left in Keweenaw county, closed down permanently Friday, throwing 200 men out of employment. The low price of copper is the chief cause.

Honor for a Michigan Club.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 12.—The bureau of music has announced the list of diplomas of honor awarded for excellence in the musical performances given at the national convention of women's amateur musical clubs at the world's fair last June. The list of those recommended for diplomas of highest honor contains the name of the Tuesday club, of Detroit.

La Blanche Defeated.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 12.—Tom. O'Donnell, champion heavyweight of Michigan, and La Blanche, the Marine, had a four-round set-to Saturday night. La Blanche underestimated O'Donnell, who is a slow, heavy fighter, and was defeated in the middle of the fourth round with a left-hand blow in the neck. La Blanche was so dazed his hands hang by his side, and time was called to stop a knockout.

Fire at Port Huron.

PORT HURON, Aug. 12.—Fire early Friday morning destroyed the Opaline fiber works and four wooden buildings on Quay street. The fiber works manufactured celluloid collars and cuffs and had just laid in $3,000 worth of celluloid. Total loss, $15,000; no insurance

To Locate a State Institution.

LANSING, Aug. 11.—Ex-Gov. Luce, of Coldwater, L. A. Sherman, of Port Huron, and John Sharp, of Jackson, have been appointed by Gov. Rich as members of the commission to select a location and site for the projected home for feeble-minded children.

Burned to Death.

MULTONVILLE, Aug. 14.—Mrs. George Ballard, of this place, was burned to death Sunday. She was demented and, it is supposed, set her clothing on fire while an attendant was temporarily absent.

Young Woman Drowned.

BENTON HARBOR, Aug. 11.—Miss Lena Burton, aged 21 years, was drowned in the St. Joseph river Thursday evening while bathing.

Gentlemen:—For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial to the efficacy of your P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium) as a positive cure for all their distressing complaints. My system was so full of malaria, my condition was growing very serious, I had no appetite, was losing strength and completely broken down in health, but now my health is fully restored and I can eat like a field laborer without the slightest fear of any serious result. I really feel like a new man. I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health.

Yours truly,

Cures Others

Will cure You, is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend, and try to impose upon you, as "just as good as Ayer's." Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's only, if you need a blood-purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation, and made a record for cures, that has never been equaled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this, my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and, in a short time, the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jarmann, 33 William st., New York City.

Street of All Nations at the World's Fair.

THE ORIENTAL DANCING GIRLS.

Alleged Delicious Wickedness Which Is Not Wicked at All Upon Investigation—Reformation in the Dress of the Dancers—Fun and Fakes—Some Special Attractions of the Plaisance.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Before coming here I had heard so much of the delicious wickedness of the Midway plaisance that I felt it my duty to see and describe it . . . that the young might take warning. Like those good ladies who raised the recent disturbance about it in the board of lady managers I was determined to know if anything really bad was going on there. So those ladies went anyhow, and expressed themselves as dreadfully shocked. I am not so far along that the "top of my head is above the timber line," as we used to say in Colorado, but I am old enough to qualify me for a front seat at the ballet and sedate enough to endure a Persian dance.

Well, I have come, I have seen and I am not conquered, for there isn't much wickedness on the Midway plaisance and what there is isn't delicious. There is a good deal of fun, however, and some "fakes" that for pure impudence have attained a perfectly Himalayan attitude. First it is to be noted that the "lovely odalisques" and all that sort who attend the fancy bazaars speak excellent English with a fine Chicago accent, though I must say that the managers have shown excellent judgment in selecting dark and muddy brunettes. With their red caps, natty jackets and semi-oriental skirts they make good imitation Algeriennes. As to the men they are mixed. To the boss of one bazaar I ventured a French salutation and promptly received the classical retort:

"Aw, what are y' givin' us?"

The real foreigners are here, of course, but local managers and cashiers are mostly mild imitations. In the Turkish quarter, however, there are some real Turkish shops with the genuine Seljnkians sitting cross legged behind their little stocks of curios. The Turkish theater presents a comical illustration of the all pervading disappointment. At first the admission fee was set at 50 cents and the sly hint was sent around that the dances were piquant, jolie, merveillense, delightfully suggestive of something naughty, and so forth and so forth. Soon, however, the standard of admission all over the plaisance was put at 25 cents, and the other evening I found it reduced to 15 cents. Sic transeunt the hopes of a big crowd, as it were. The "touter" of this show is a perennial source of amusement to the crowds on the plaisance. Once in ten minutes or so he rushes frantically out on the upper platform and roars away in a wonderful voice:

"A-hah, a-hah! Wale cohm, lades un' zhentilmen, wale cohm, wale cohm! Gude zhow, gude zhow; bes' zhow on ze bliz-zance. All ze Toorkeesh in iz nateevy costoom. All ze bootiful Toork ladee in iz nateevy dance. You nevaire be zorry wale cohm!"

By this time a thousand or two of people are gathered below, for the crowd is thickest there, and all the wild fellows begin to guy him. He flies into a furious passion, or pretends to, rushes down the steps as if he would annihilate the jokers, beats his breast frantically and breaks forth in furious imprecations in his native tongue. Out of 2,000 people who have laughed at him two go in. I went and there were just nineteen persons in the audience, eight of them ladies and five of these school ma'ams, I am very positive.

On the stage with the male musicians sat three fat girls, with those retreating foreheads and projecting noses on a line therewith, which are said to mark the lower class Turks. When the music has reached the proper acme of horror each girl rises in turn and sidles this way and that along the stage, swinging her arms, shaking her shoulders so as to make the front of the body quiver and occasionally kicking out one foot for six or eight inches. Towards the last comes the so-called "danse du ventre" which is nothing but a rapid shaking of the hips and quivering of the abdominal muscles. It is said to be "very suggestive." Maybe it is, to some folks, but it does not suggest anything to me. I am sure there is nothing like it in nature.

In the Algerian theater the dancing was more piquant and most so in the Persian, but the latter has been suppressed and the former reformed. It was charged in the session of the board of lady managers that at these theaters there were performances "for gentlemen only" at which truly dreadful things were done, but charges of all the dreadful sorts have been made in that board, the quarrels of which have made it the standing joke of the fair. The names of the concessionaires on the plaisance indicate that most of these shows are managed by men of European races, and while one visit is enough, often more than enough, to such theaters as those I have described there are other places well worthy of prolonged study.

Chief among these is the Irish village and the display of Irish industries organized by the Countess of Aberdeen. Everything is thoroughly Irish. Even the turf is the genuine article imported for this purpose, and from the top of Blarney castle one has a fine view of the entire grounds. Another place of real attraction is the Bernese Alps cyclorama with songs by Swiss mountaineers. The Dutch have 300 natives of their South Sea possessions with all their dress, dwellings and furniture complete, the Javanese village being the largest exhibit. And in the midst of it all are the sedate Chinese with that calm, supercilious look they seem always to wear when in the presence of other races. The Vienna cafe and vaudeville theater attached are nice enough for anybody.

Since I was last among the Oriental peoples I hear that the alleged reform has been carried to its ultimate and a gentleman who was at the Algerian theater last night tells me that the fat girls are now practicing on the "Last Rose of Summer" and the Minuet du Cour and are not even allowed to sing Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay. "As to the Persian maids," he adds, "they represent the deformed transformed. No more plaited and puffed trousers, no more spangled jackets open in front to reveal the gauzy materials of inner vestments. The odalisques wear their hair pompadour, their bodices are in the latest Chicago style with high collars and their dresses are the regulation evening party affair with trains. In truth, the girls are so ashamed of themselves in their new togs that they put in their spare time crying to go home."

I regret to add that the instinct for bedrock truth which is the natural heritage of the born journalist, made me set this gentleman down as inclined to exaggeration. Of my own knowledge I can make a statement or two. First, the Midway plaisance offends two classes, the prude and the prurient—the first because they see something improper, and the second because they don't. Of course everybody knows that I belong to neither class and so I feel free to say as aforesaid that there is nothing in all this kicking and wiggling and rounding up and wriggling more than anybody can see at home by giving a big feed of August apples to a lot of big and greedy boys and girls. It may be considered graceful and suggestive in Persia, Turkey and Algiers, but really I can't see anything exciting in a bad case of colic.

Now suppose, mind I say only suppose, that the development of Africa should go on as rapidly as the most enthusiastic projectors of the Congo Free state expect, and they should have a world's fair over there in 1903 or thereabouts. Of course there would be an American village on their plaisance and equally, of course, the ladies of Congo would have a board and that board would petition for the suppression for the abatement or suppression of the ballet and the report might or might not contain sentences like these: "The voluptuous indecency of the dance in the American village can no longer be tolerated. We are reliably informed and verily believe that the performers there are clad in skin tights which reveal every outline of the female form, and that in the ecstatic climax of the danse du legge the leading danseuse kicks off the hat of a male performer. In those performances where the American females appear in the alleged costume of their country, the dress is finished in the rear with a drag which is shockingly suggestive of a street sweeping. We insist that the dancers be clad in puffed trousers and that their tergiversations be confined to motions at least within the bounds of nature."

The Sunday opening is now nothing more in effect than the opening of the Midway plaisance. In the exposition proper most of the buildings are closed, the gondoliers are off for a rest, there are no restaurants open, no fountains running, no bands playing, and in short there is nothing to see but the buildings. And as a natural result no one is there. In a mile's walking, from the Indiana building to the peristyle and down to the southeast corner I saw only five persons, and every one of the few thousand visitors of that day were in the plaisance. Even there very little was going on. The Dahomeyans alone maintained their cheerful racket, for they are so very much in love with their performance that they keep it up right along regardless of the presence or absence of spectators. Queer people, these Danomeyans. Snake worshippers and all that sort of thing. According to Captain Burton they have one temple, a vast open shed, where every beam and rafter is coiled about with monstrous serpents who know the priests so well that they squirm and writhe and hiss in happy excitement when the latter bring in their daily supply of fresh milk, and in their joy emit an odor which makes all the environment smell snaky. I am pleased to add that they left their snakes at home, for though we can endure their almost naked amazons and barbarous music, we could not abide their obscene temple and its slimy gods.

The Esquimaux in the northwestern part of the fair proper I was at first inclined to set down as humbugs, but I guess they are the real thing or very near it. I have seen the Esquimaux as near their native habitat as Lake Winnipeg, for parties of them sometimes come down there to spend the winter. The circumstances were not favorable, from my standpoint, as the brandy (no mention is made of the mercury there) marked 45 degrees below zero, but the hyperboreans looked natural and those here certainly have the same shape and general features. The change in them must be the result of this climate and their new mode of life. They don't worship snakes, for they have none at home, they don't wear airy trousers, they don't sing and they don't dance, their only performance consists in running their queer little boats around on the pond in their village, and they don't ask a visitor to buy anything, so I conclude they must be real Esquimaux.

Of course the whole country has by this time had its laugh about the Sunday opening fiasco, and equally, of course, everybody now knows that the fair is financially a failure. Few now expect a big crowd in the near future and Chicago good naturedly considers her $11,000,000 or so in it as an absolutely dead investment. Many reasons are offered and many persons are blamed, but I guess the real reasons are those for which no one is to be blamed. Farm produce is so low that farmers can't afford to come and other people have similar and equally good reasons.

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermotor. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country."

Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 8 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How it came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—or if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood, and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one ($100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO. 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

The Aermotor Pneumatic Water Supply System enables you to supply every part of your house with water without an Elevated Tank.

D. D. T. PRESCRIPTION MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold [illegible] dealers in medicine.

PIONEERS IN COUNCIL.

THE FIRST UNION MEETING OF THE LENAWEE COUNTY AND SOUTH EASTERN PIONEER SOCIETIES.

An Immense Outpouring of the Silver Grays, and Two Lengthy Programs Presented—The Joint Meeting A Grand Success.

The sun shown on the largest number of people, last Friday, that have ever assembled to participate in a meeting of the Lenawee County Pioneers, in Fairfield, in Baker's Grove. They came from the four points of the compass; old and young, big and little, in all kinds of conveyances, some of two wheels, and some on four, and some on bicycles; and were supplied with well filled baskets to supply the cravings of the inner man. The occasion was a joint meeting of the local Pioneer Society covering the townships of Fairfield, Madison, Ogden and Palmyra and the Lenawee County Pioneer Society. It was the first meeting of that character that has ever convened in the county and the double attraction served to draw out an immense crowd.

At 10 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Rufus Baker, president of the society, after which a selection was rendered by the Y. M. C. A. Band of Adrian, in a manner that showed that the organization was progressing finely for one so young.

Rev. G. A. Jackson then led in prayer and vocal music followed by the Glee Club.

Cornelius Quick then gave the address of welcome, a synopsis of which we append:

It is my pleasant duty to welcome the Pioneers here to-day; we meet, not to discuss science, education, politics, or to forecast the future, but to discuss the past, to consider the history and incidents of the past; we meet this year as a joint organization. The Pioneer came here as a youth, brought a young wife to help bear the burdens and hardships of the wilderness. They entered upon the duties with a sturdy hope. The organization of this county began when the ax of the pioneer first met the giant monarch of the forest; sometimes the pioneers brought their friends with them. To speak of and celebrate these things is the motive that brings us here to-day.

Minutes of last meeting were read by Mrs. N. J. Strong, Sec'y., and the same were approved.

Prest. T. F. Moore responded to address of welcome as follows:

As a representative of the Pioneers of Lenawee County, I cordially respond to address of welcome. As has been said, we meet to discuss the past; of a civilization that is without parallel; the county of Lenawee is without equal, regarding agricultural products, not alone in Michigan, but of the United States and we may well indulge in proud reflection of it. We come to-day to talk over what men and women have done and evidence of which may be found here to-day, and to talk over victorious acts; and say a good word for those who laid the foundation of this county. The success of this county is due to the pioneers. They built the roads, and followed trees blazed by the government surveyors, to speak of those homes and home comforts, of the boys and girls, the best stock ever raised by the pioneers, and today they are here to show for themselves; of those gone before and whom we expect to meet on the other shore. We meet to bring together the legends of the past to the sons and daughters who know but little of hardship and privations of the pioneer. The early history of Lenawee county is an interesting one. We should venerate the memory of these people. So let every one enjoy themselves here to-day.

The Y. M. C. A. band then rendered another selection.

Mr Sturdevant recited a poem containing the history of his early life as a pioneer. Mr. Sturdevant is 88 years of age and was born in Vermont and came to Michigan in 1832.

John I. Knapp was called upon and made a few brief but very interesting remarks.

Miss Mary Allis gave a recitation, which was well received.

The committee on memorials reported members of the Local Society who had passed away in the past year:

John H. Cole reported the deaths of twelve pioneers of Fairfield during the year. C. E. Mitchell gave the names of four who had died in Madison; Miner T. Cole, of Palmyra, and Mr. Bly, of Ogden, knew of only one death in his township.

The Presidents of the two organizations then appointed committees on nominations to report officers at the afternoon session. A song by the Fruit Ridge Glee Club followed with a selection by the band.

This closed the morning exercises and the people scattered about the beautiful grove and made preparations for satisfying the "inner man." About the time people were progressing nicely with their repast the clouds, which had been rolling up during the past hour, began to let out the forerunners of the summer shower; and people began to scatter to every available sheltering place. Some very ludicrous sights were presented; a large crowd took possession of the shelters of a lunch stand, benches, tables, speakers stand and carriages, while many stood under the scant protection of umbrellas and shady sides of trees. Many people took places under the tables and their dinners with them and proceeded as if nothing had happened. The shower lasted but a few moments and people soon were back to the tables. During the rest of the afternoon local showers were prevalent, and people stood and listened to the speakers under umbrellas. But in spite of the rain the program was completed in good shape.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Promptly at two o'clock the gathering was called to order by President T. F. Moore of the County Society, who presided during the afternoon session.

After a quartette by the Glee Club, the committees on nominations made their reports which were duly ratified by vote.

Following are the officers elected by the local society:

President—Cornelius Quick.

Vice Presidents—Fred Bay, Ogden; Nathan Shumway, Fairfield; LaGrange Dewey, Palmyra; Norman Bradish, Madison.

Historians—N. J. Strong, Madison; Cullen Porter, Ogden; John H. Cole, Fairfield; Miner T. Cole, Palmyra.

Secretary—Mrs. N. J. Strong.

The following were chosen officers of the County Society:

President—Thos. F. Moore.

Vice Pres.—Rufus Baker.

Secretary—S. C. Stacy.

Treasurer—John I. Knapp.

Ex. Com.—O. Lamb, Edson Walker, Wm. E. Doty, D. D. Sinclair.

Judge Geddes was then introduced and began the reading of his address. It was a carefully collated sketch of the French Missionary Father Marquette. Before proceeding far, the drizzle increased and all the umbrellas and water proofs on the grounds were hastily called into requisition. His request to be excused was granted coupled with a motion that the address be published. As our limited space prevents its publication this week without seriously trimming it, we hold the manuscript which will appear in a future issue.

Mrs. Eliza Russell was then introduced and gave a very pleasing paper on the "Women of Pioneer Days," which we herewith present in full:

MRS. RUSSELL'S PAPER.

Whenever we speak of the women of pioneer days, we think of them as a class of young women who in the early morning of womanhood bade farewell to the scenes of their childhood, and the dear ones at home, and turned them westward to held to build for themselves a home in the wilds of Michigan and to recount the obstacles they had to overcome. The dangers they braved, the privations they endured, would make a paper too long for an occasion like this. How quickly they were transformed in their new surroundings from laughing, light-hearted care-free girls into mature women. Little did the hardy pioneer realize that the woman who cooked his meals and mended his socks with her firm determination of purpose, her patience in overcoming obstacles, her quick woman's intuitive instinct as a counselor, was the power behind the throne, that was often greater than the throne itself in transforming these forests into homes that were fit dwelling places for the children of men. But along with these young women came an older class who were already grandmothers, many of them giving up homes of comfort and plenty, that they might assist their children and be near them and enjoy their company, and whenever I think of these women I always see one dear face that was a constant companion in childhood, and who by her precept and example, had more influence in forming my character than any other person.

These hardy pioneers had their social gatherings and merry pastimes, mingled in their hard life of toil. When one of their number who could furnish a conveyance that possessed the only requisite necessary, strength, would gather together as many of his neighbors as he could conveniently, and make a visit to some neighbor whose one room cabin must serve as drawing-room, dining-room, kitchen, bed-room, attic and cellar, but it had a broad fireplace upon whose hearth the log-fire crackled and burned, furnishing light and heat and giving to the room a bright and cheerful look; that and the hearty welcome they were sure to receive, made every one feel in a good humor and like chatting with his neighbor. What did it matter if the refreshments were served upon a rough board table covered with a cloth of the hostess own spinning and weaving; the bill of fare did not extend beyond the first course; there was a sweetness and a flavor that gave to it a relish that a connoisseur in the art of cooking of to-day could not impart to it. There was in their social gatherings a pleasure, a keen delight that the fashionable belle sparkling with diamonds, who receives her guest in a drawing-room made beautiful with the finest productions of art and science that wealth can procure, whose refreshments are prepared by an expert, and served upon silver trays covered with finest of damask, knows nothing of. So equally does our Heavenly Father distribute his blessings among his children.

Nearly all of our women of pioneer days have crossed the river, only a few are left with us now; but we see upon every hand the evidence that they were and women of courage, that their lives were spent in useful employment for there we, or was a time in the world's history when our homes were presided over by women who were so well trained, so well prepared to take charge of every department and perform all the duties so intelligently as they are to-day.

When was there such a demand for woman's services, when they were employed in so many and varied occupations, or so well paid as they are now; our girls are out-stripping our boys. A girl's chance for getting to the front, if she is ambitious, is better than our boys. The advent of a baby girl into the family is no longer a bit of ill fortune to be regretted. Victor Hugo says the nineteenth century is the woman's century.

Miss Mary Allis gave "Aunt Milissa's Opinion of Boys" in a manner that was highly creditable to Miss Allis and was highly appreciated by the audience, and to which she was obliged to respond to an encore.

Little Miss Wilson recited a poem very nicely.

Short talks were then made by Cornelius Quick, Orsamus Lamb, G. W. Moore, Mr. Russell and Jacob Baker, giving their early experience in the county.

During these impromptu remarks the Glee Club gave some of their selections which kept the audience in good humor. Miss Allis was again called out and responded with a recitation, "The Frenchman's Flea Powder," which brought down the house.

A letter was read from Joe Bennett expressing his sincere regret at his inability to be present and wishing the crowd a jolly good time.

The question of revising the Constitution of the County Society was introduced and upon motion, a committee of three was appointed by the chair, consisting of S. C. Stacy, C. Quick and J. I. Knapp, to draft a new set of By-Laws and report the same at the next meeting of the Society.

After another selection by the band President Moore declared the meeting formally adjourned.

By this time the rain had entirely ceased, and people were prepared to enjoy themselves. Notwithstanding the rain, it was one of the best pioneer gatherings ever held in the county. The grove, which is located on Mr. Rufus Baker's farm, is an admirable place for such a gathering, large and densely shaded, with a clean sod beneath. The old timers of the four towns were out in force and other sections of the county were liberally represented. At noon the number of teams that had entered the grounds were 938 by actual count. A very safe estimate would be 4 to each team. Counting those who came during the afternoon, the total attendance must have come very near to four thousand. People departed for home delighted with the entertainment which had been given them and delighted with the rain. Thus closed the third meeting of the local organization and the twenty-first reunion of the County Society.

NOTES FROM THE WHITE CITY.

A Little Personal Experience from a Daily Visitor at Jackson Park.

JACKSON PARK, Chicago.
Aug. 10, 1893.

It is a long time since I started on a trip through the White City and when I think that I have only gotten through one of the great buildings and that even here I have had only a passing glance at a very few of the many interesting exhibits, it almost discourages me from continuing.

Many readers of the HERALD have already seen the wonders of the Exposition, but I know that there are many others anxious to know of all that is going on in Jackson Park, and the thought encourages me to try once more in my poor way to tell something of the Fair which so many have pronounced indescribable.

Continuing my route north from the Transportation building I came first to Festival Hall. This building has been used for orchestral and choral entertainments, but now that music has ceased to be regarded as an exhibit it will be of little use. It is settled that the grand band and orchestra concerts shall be dispensed with. These concerts were one of the features of the Exposition and were well worth the price of admission. It seems that everything else is forgotten now by the management except the desire for gain.

Next to Festival Hall is the Horticultural building. The south end is devoted to Vitriculture and contains a large and varied exhibit of foreign and domestic fruits. The great dome in the center is devoted to Floriculture and here is a fine display of tropical plants. The department is not confined to the building but extends to all parts of the Park.

The North end of the building and the two wings on the west side contain the Horticultural exhibit. Most people are greatly pleased with California's display and it is perhaps the best of all. I am disappointed with our own state, not only in this but in some other departments. It may be because I expected too much, but at any rate I would not like to have Michigan judged by her exhibits at the World's Fair.

Next is the Children's building. It has come to be known as the place where they check babies. There are cool, airy rooms, with all the modern appliances for putting babies to sleep and skilled attendants to look after their wants. People who for any reason bring babies to the Fair will do well to leave them here. There is a fully equipped gymnasium for larger children and an expert in physical culture has a large class of boys and girls every day who go through a course of training for their physical development and the edification of the crowd outside of the railing.

Just east of the Children's building is Puck, one of the prettiest little buildings on the grounds. It is occupied by the Ottman Lithographing Co. World's Fair editions of Puck are run off here and the process of lithographing in full detail is open for public inspection.

The White Star Steamship Co. has a neat little building further east, containing models of some of their finest ships and some berths and staterooms furnished just as they are to be found on board the vessels of their line.

The Woman's building is the next one but I am not going to say anything about that this time. It is quite a handsome structure and contains nearly everything pertaining to feminine fancy. The board of lady managers seems to be furnishing more amusement nowadays than anything else off the Midway Plaisance. I am strongly inclined to think, however, that some of the newspapers are just a little too hard on the ladies.

Speaking of amusement reminds me of a thought. It has struck me that the people visiting the Fair are entirely too sober. I am tired of seeing crowds of solemn-faced individuals. Nearly every one I meet has a tired, worn-out expression and looks as if his or her life depended on getting through a certain number of buildings in a given time. At the risk of being ridiculed I say that the advantages of the fair as an educator for the masses have been over-estimated. Most people have only a few days at their disposal and they all want to see as much as possible. The exposition is too extensive for one to make a comprehensive study of in one or two weeks. It seems to me, therefore, that people who have no special aim in view should come with minds made up to thoroughly enjoy their few days of recreation and incidentally to see as much as they can of those things which interest them most, without tiring themselves out in the effort.

If people are too sober and dignified in Jackson Park those who frequent the resorts of Midway Plaisance will notice quite the other extreme. During the first weeks of the fair the proprietors of the several beer gardons waited quietly for customers and held prices up to 15 cents for beer, 25 cents for ice cream and other refreshments in proportion. Then first one, then another, added free attractions to their places in the effort to bring in trade; finally prices took a tumble, as customers were still slow. Now signs like the following meet the eye of the pleasure seeker at many of these resorts:

FREE CONCERT AND DANCE
ON THE ROOF GARDEN TO-NIGHT.
Beer 5 cents.

The crowds that leave these places after 10:30 p. m. are usually hilariously happy. Sundays are not excepted and the liquor dealers on Midway Plaisance have worked hard for an open fair.

Our one closed Sunday was a complete success. Everyone enjoyed it and it was a pleasant sight to see the little Indians out playing ball and shooting with bows and arrows in unrestrained freedom. The Egyptian children were free also, as well as the grown people from all the nations represented here, and their actions as they were playing out on the green grass showed plainly how well they appreciated a day of liberty and rest.

Yesterday was Pythian day. The Knights had a fine parade and exercises in Festival Hall.

The 4th Battalion, Louisiana State National Guard, is in camp on the west end of the Plaisance. To-day is Louisiana day and the boys parade and take part in the dedicatory exercises at their state building. This evening there will be a bicyclists' parade and it is expected they will make a fine showing.

I see by the register at the Michigan building that Tecumseh and vicinity keep well represented at the fair and I have had the pleasure of meeting personally quite a number from that locality.

Several things which I wished to mention must, on account of time and space, be delayed till next time.

Young men and young women of the right kind of mettle, or spirit, will not put off attending a Normal or College because of hard times. Put your purse into your head and it is beyond the reach of the panic. The brain can not wait. It must be improved at the right time or it is forever the loser. The present opportunity missed probably means a life of hard times. Expenses are very reasonable at the Fayette Normal University, Fayette, O. Come, and in ten years hence you will be grateful for these words.

Teachers' Institute at Tecumseh.

To the Teachers of Lenawee County—I am pleased to announce that arrangements have been made to hold a one week's institute at the high school building in Tecumseh, beginning at 9 o'clock Monday morning, Aug. 28th.

The State Teachers' Institute, now holding a two week's session at Adrian, will virtually be transferred to Tecumseh at the above named date. The conductor is Prof. Thompson, superintendent of Saginaw Schools, and he is assisted by Prof. Rankin, of Lapeer, and Prof. Cook, of the Detroit high school. These gentlemen are institute workers of well-known ability and the instruction which they give is of the highest practical value to teachers.

The institute is being conducted on the modern, improved method of actual school-room work, in which the teacher is called upon to take a practical part in the work, the institute being divided into sections for that purpose.

The corps of instructors will be the same at Tecumseh as at Adrian and every effort will be put forth to make it a week of great value to all its members.

Teachers of Northern Lenawee, this institute has been arranged especially for your benefit. Will you not show your appreciation by attending every day of the session?

The special examination, originally fixed for August 26th, will be postponed one week and be held at Tecumseh on Saturday, Sept. 2d.

Further particulars will be published next week.

C. F. FIELD,

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

If some men knew proportionately as much when threescore and ten as they do when the hair begins to dawn on their upper lip the world would not hold enough knowledge to go around.

NATURE'S REMEDY FOR LIVER COMPLAINT

THE ANIMAL KINGDOM.

Smithsonian Institute Exhibit at the Fair.

AN EIGHT-FOOT RATTLESNAKE.

All Other Snakes Comparatively Imperfect Creatures Beside Him—Every Style of Animal Evolution Shown in This Interesting Exhibit in the Government Building—Collection of Ceramics.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 11. — [Special.] — The rattlesnake is the supreme triumph of nature. This fact I demonstrated today by four hours' study in the Smithsonian institution end of the Government building. In all the animal kingdom there is no such complete specialization of functions and machinery suited to perform those functions. As an automatic machine of mischief the rattlesnake is simply perfect and beside him there is none other. True, this snake has not much to do, but for what he does in this world he is emphatically well heeled. It is no wonder these Smithsonian gentlemen have nicknamed him the Crotalus Horridus. All the other snakes in the exhibit seem comparatively imperfect creatures. The non-poisonous, tree-climbing snakes are beautifully mounted on saplings, the little ring snakes are artistically arranged after their natural habit and there are a great many other snakes which the exhibitors call Typhlopidae, Leptotyphlophidae, Hysiidae, Nothopsidae, Amblycephalidae and even worse names; but the snakes don't mind it at all. There is also a cast of a Jamacia boa, and a lot of turtles and lizards of every size, style and color from the little green and blue swift of the Wabash valley and the chameleon of Louisiana to reckless looking monsters apparently but one remove from the primeval iguanodon, but none of these draw the crowd and hold it with a sort of horrid fascination as does the lovely 8-foot rattlesnake.

Think what a tribute it is to this creature that animals who never even saw one in life will snort with terror at sight of his stuffed skin, and women looking at him through glass, while the cold reason assures them there is no danger, feel that thrill of dread and nerve repulsion which their Simian ancesters felt in the woods so long ago. This snake holds over all other creatures an inherited power, and as Americans we ought to be proud of him. His skeleton as exhibited here shows his superiority with scientific exactness. There is, first, the flexibility of his backbone which enables him to turn any way to get at a fellow. No other animal can compare with him.

Then consider the double ball-and-socket arrangement of his numerous ribs and compare it with the human shoulder, especially the female human. The latter easily miscalculates the circular swing of his, especially her, shoulder, but a rattlesnake's ribs never go back on him. And then the jaws, so adjustible that he can swallow creatures twice his thickness, and the fang which rises just at the right time to do the most good (from a snaky point of view). If either missed it by a second there would be a bite thrown away, but invariably the drop of dirty, yellow oil goes into the wound and then—what? Serum and red corpsucle fall apart, the blood clots and the bitten one howls for whisky regardless of temperance principles.

To this digression I was led by listening to the conversation going on all around the snakes. Go there at any hour of the day one may be as sure to find a lot of folks swapping snake stories. There is generally a man from Pennsylvania or West Virginia or some other mountainous section of the east and nearly always a man or two from the plains, and surrounded by all this world of wonders, this greatest show on earth, these men stand for long periods telling stories and contrasting the snakes of their respective localities. This particular 8-foot specimen is from Indian Territory. The exhibitor says that on Darwinian principles it took at least 700,000 generations of selection, survival and slow improvement to produce such a snake. I haven't a doubt of it. I don't see how it could be done in that time. Why, it has taken 800 generations to produce a Jersey cow, though man has absolute control of the selection and a good cow to start with. I tell you nature works slow, but she gets there.

In the leather exhibit are some lovely snake skins, tanned, from South America, and in the collection of ancient relics are a few sections of similar skins from Asia Minor, on which the ancients have written leading articles, snake stories probably, though no one here can read them. Far more interesting, to my mind, are those little fragments of drawings in the Smithsonian exhibit, drawings made long before writing was invented, in which the primitive man tried to picture the animal he had killed. Apparently he made the drawing, or scratching, with a pointed stone and generally pictured the dead animal on one of its own bones. Along with those are a few bushels of stone weapons and tools, polished stone ornaments and curiously shaped things in horn, bone and stone for which we can imagine no use, but it is supposed they had some religious significance. Next to these come really fine implements of polished stone and then copper and so on down, so one can trace the progress of man from the beginning.

The ladies are most deeply interested in the Smithsonian ceramics and I was surprised to learn, in the Japanese collection, that every one of the twenty-four provinces represented shows local peculiarities, and in some of the larger provinces, each town does the same, so a Japanese expert can tell at a glance what part of the island empire a piece comes from. And it is so all over the fair. There are such immense quantities of pottery that one would expect the thing to grow monotonous, but every country has its marked specialties and generally its minor variations by locality. The oldest Japanese ware in this particular exhibit is of the year 1000.

In the Smithsonian room also are specimens of every kind of printing and engraving from Faust to the colored daily paper, every sort of musical instrument to illustrate the progress from Pan to Paderewski, pictures showing every sort of American Indian in every sort of fix they ever got into, carving and modelings of all stages from the mud god of the wild Malays to marble busts and ivory medallions, and finally a wonderful array of bas-reliefs and other figures representing all the religions of all the races around the Mediterranean in all times. And if this seems a small thing, consider that six of the world's ten great religions are here shown in details of every rite from circumcision to cremation. In short, this room shows every stage of animal evolution from the lizard to the philosopher, every step in man's progress from the cave and hollow tree to the Waldorf hotel, and every event in a single life, and there are a few hints as to what comes after cremation. But there poetic fancy has room to soar.

Although this is the greatest show on earth and everybody says so, yet there is the usual number of "fakes" and it is safest to ask the price before purchasing. In several parts of the ground I note amusing cases of taking advantage of man's natural desire to get something for nothing. In one place a free pancake is offered on certain conditions. It is just the circumference of a silver dollar and about half as thick. In another a free cup of chocolate is promised from 2 to 4 p. m. The cup is a beauty—for a child's toy house. It contains one swallow for a very small man. In truth, nearly all the cups and glasses used on the ground are remarkably small. When I examined the bills of fare I concluded that the cost of living was not very high inside the fair, but when it took two cups of coffee, three sandwiches, a pie and a glass of milk to make me a "light lunch," I suddenly changed my mind, especially as they were 10 cents each. Down in the city one can get a passable dinner for 50 cents and a really generous one for $1.

Now consider that to walk through all the avenues around the grounds inside, and along the Midway, without entering a building, requires a journey of thirteen miles and it will be evident that the matter of refreshments and their cost is quite important. And I really cannot see why living should be any higher in Chicago than in Indianapolis or St. Louis, and it ought to be cheaper than in New York. Transportation, however, is really quite cheap and abundant. Five cents on a cable car for the eight mile ride is "dog cheap" and 10 cents for coming in one-third of the time from the heart of the city by the Illinois Central is little enough. But the prettiest ride to the fair, if one is in no hurry, is by boat from the foot of Van Buren street. The steamer goes in a great semi-circle far out in the lake and back to the water front of Jackson park, and as it moves one passes the whole southern half of the city in review. And as he comes in at the pier he sees that the water front of the White City is by far the most handsome.

Nobody has figured out the exact cost of "extras" in the fair, but it is big. The unwary visitor will find himself paying out a dime here and a quarter there all day and at the end of a week will wonder what became of his money. There are many buildings it simply isn't worth while to try to go through without a catalogue, and each is a quarter. There are many villages of far foreigners and some other places to which the admission is a quarter and then one is almost compelled for his own self respect to buy a few souvenirs, pictures, books, etc., and so it goes. And after all there is such a very large part of this fair that no one person can see.

I do not refer to lack of time. One might stay the five months through and still not really see many a wonderful thing simply from want of knowledge or capacity to enjoy it. There, for instance, is all the brilliant array of silks and laces and fine fabrics in many colors which is mostly ancient Greek to me, and there is the wonderful Fine Arts building with over 7,000 pieces, many by world's masters, and yet not a hundred that deeply interest me. And there especially is the classical music for which, I am told, they are paying Mr. Thomas $1,700 a day, and two-thirds of the people on the ground, myself included, never go near it. I can tell a discord from a bedcord and on a fiddle or brass instrument can recognize a tune I am familiar with, and that is my limit in the science and art of music.

Now it is only fair, I take it, to conclude that other folks are just as ignorant on some other subjects and when exhibitors complain, as some of them do, that the masses go by the finest exhibits with a mere glance, they should console themselves with the fact that they have done too well—got the thing too fine for the public taste. But it is a wonder how little people care about some things. Sensible people, too. Why, I met an old acquaintance in the Smithsonian this morning who took no sort of interest in the big snake and sneered at the lizards, and when I asked his opinion about the uses of those queer old bone and stone things he replied that he didn't know and didn't care a ——. What does a man like that come to a world's fair for, anyhow? I reckon it must be the Midway plaisance.

J. B. PARKE.

Friday, Aug. 25, has been decided upon as the day for the colored men at the World's fair. On that day fully 100,000 colored men and women from all over the country will assemble in this city. Special excursions will be run from all parts of the north, east, south and west, and the most prominent men of the race will be here.

EVENTS IN THE STATE.

Brief Mention Made of Numerous Interesting Occurrences.

An electric road now connects Ironwood, Jessieville, Hurley and Gile.

For self-protection Bay City bankers will hereafter demand thirty, sixty and ninety days notice from depositors.

Bay City labor unions threaten to boycott merchants who do not comply with the request of clerks to close at 6 p. m.

James Higgins has sued the Union Street Railway company, of Saginaw, for $25,000 damages for injuries received in being run over by a car.

Benjamin Hart, a farmer living near Williamston, mourns the theft of $2,000 which he had drawn from the bank, through fear of failure, and hid about his house.

Forest fires totally destroyed the Phelps Lumber company's sawmill near Keno, on the Chicago & West Michigan railroad branch from Woodville. The loss is $5,000.

A poplar leaf flew down the throat of an infant in the arms of Mrs. George Shappe, living near Ludington, and before it could be extracted the babe choked to death.

The body of John Cook, a woodchopper known to have had money in his possession when he disappeared two months ago, has been found in the woods near East Lake. His pockets had been rifled, and there were other evidences of foul play.

Several years ago Henry Feeley, of Linden, collected a claim in favor of his daughter, Mrs. Scranton, now of Bancroft, against a railroad company. The lady says the money was never turned over to her, and has brought suit against her father to recover $1,000.

PARCELL WILL NOT QUIT.

Refuses to Surrender His Position as Warden at Ionia to His Successor.

IONIA, Aug. 13.—Warden Parcell will not surrender his position as warden of the state house of correction. The new board of control recently appointed Otis Fuller, of St. Johns, to succeed Mr. Parcell, and office seekers have been numerous for some time now. Warden Parcell has taken legal advice, and Attorney George E. Nichols says it is his opinion that he has an undoubted right to hold the wardenship until the end of his unexpired term, which would run out in October, 1895. Mr. Nichols says he has thoroughly examined the law and thinks that Warden Parcell has good reason to believe himself the legally appointed warden for four years. What action Mr. Fuller will take is not known, but he will probably apply for a quo warranto or mandamus through the supreme court, where the merits of the case can be gone into.

ECHO OF ANN ARBOR STRIKE.

Federal Court at Toledo to Hear a Suit Against Arthur and Sargent.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 11.—A session of the western district of the United States circuit court for Ohio will be held in this city commencing September 13. This is for the purpose of hearing the case of the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan Railroad company against Peter M. Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Frank M. Sargent, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen. The suit is for $300,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained because the organizations of which these men are heads boycotted the Ann Arbor during the famous strike last spring. The Ann Arbor says the strike and boycotts were ordered by Arthur and Sargent. Frank Hurd, James H. Southard, and Thomas L. Harper will defend the case.

MUCH SUFFERING.

Destitution Reported from Villages in the Mesaba Iron Range.

ISHPEMING, Aug. 14.—Miners and others returning here from the Mesaba range report great destitution and suffering in the villages of Virginia, Biwabik and Mountain Iron. All but six mines have closed and nearly all are in arrears in wages. The bulk of the people are idle and many are destitute. All who can are leaving, but many cannot get away. The towns were burned this spring and as the insurance was principally wildcat the business men are also badly pinched.

Met an Awful Death.

NEWAYGO, Aug. 11.—Farmer Anderson, of Sheridan township, undertook to cross over a threshing machine while it was in motion and his foot slipping was caught and drawn into the cylinder. The limb was stripped of its flesh, the bones broken into a thousand pieces, and the tendons drawn out and wound around the cylinder so closely that it was impossible to extricate the man until the bolts were taken and the cylinder of the machine lifted out. He died in twenty minutes.

Two New Pension Boards.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—Commissioner of Pensions Lochren has appointed Drs. D. E. Welsh, W. H. Catlin and Reuben Peterson, of Grand Rapids, members of the new board of pension examiners at Grand Rapids. Drs. Henry Kremers, of Holland, J. B. McNitt, of Grand Haven, and B. B. Godfrey, of Hudsonville, are the new members of the examining board at Holland.

Incendiarism Suspected.

STURGIS, Aug. 14.—The farm barns of John McKerlie, 1 mile east of here on the Chicago road, were burned at an early hour Sunday morning. The loss is about $5,000, partly insured. The fire is thought to have been the work of an incendiary, as four of the five horses in the barn had been taken out and tied to the fence.

Gone to the Fair.

HOLLAND, Aug. 13.—The steamer Bon Voyage left here Saturday night at 10 o'clock with a large excursion party for the world's fair. The steamer was chartered by the Knights of Maccabees of Grand Rapids, who will board and sleep on the boat while they take in the fair. The Bon Voyage will be in Chicago a week.

DESERVING PRAISE.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Jno. J. Orr, Druggist.

The potency of decayed eggs is remarkable. Even the silver question has failed to rouse General Weaver from his lethargy.

GUARANTEED CURE.

We authorize our advertised druggist to sell Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, upon this condition: If you are afflicted with a Cough, Cold, or any Lung, Throat or Chest trouble, and will use this remedy as directed, giving it a fair trial, and experience no benefit, you may return the bottle and have your money refunded. We could not make this offer did we not know that Dr. King's New Discovery could be relied on. It never disappoints. Trial bottles free at J. J. Orr's Drug Store. Large size 50c and $1.00.

WHAT DO YOU TAKE

Medecine for? Because you are sick and want to get well, or becouse you wish to prevent illness. Then remember that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures all diseases caused by impure blood and debility of the system. It is not what its proprietors say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its meril. Be sure to get Hood's, and only Hood's.

One great trouble with Governor Waite is that he won't wait.

Ely's Cream Balm is especially adapted as a remedy for catarrh which is aggravated by alkaline dust and day winds.—W. A. Hover, Druggist, Denver.

My catarrh was very bad. For thirty years I have been troubled with it—have tried a number of remedies without relief. A druggist advised Ely's Cream Balm. I have used only one bottle and I can say I feel like a new man. I make this voluntary statement that others may know of the Balm.—J. W. Mathewson, (Lawyer), Pawtucket, R. I.

The burning of Cabinet officers in effigy is not calculated to cause the American people to admire the dishonest pensioner.

May we be kindly permitted to ask, is the Sherman law keeping gold out?

The discharge of the big Krupp gun could not be heard at Chicago because of the noise made by the Silver Convention.

The many truthful testimonials in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla prove that Hood's Cures, even when all others fail. Try it now.

Texas is suffering from a drouth. In Kansas we sometimes go two hundred feet for water—perpendicularly, but in Texas they go fourteen miles—horizontally.

The Chinese pay their doctor only so long as he keeps them in health. They believe in preventing rather than curing disease. This is sound sence, and one of the strongest recommendations of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, a medecine which not only cures diseases but prevents them.

What a shame Dick Croker is to live in such a modest house. He ought to be janitor in the City Hall, bedad.

A washout without the help of Pearline, is a wash that has been done with hard work. The clothes have been wrenched and twisted; the woman who washed them is tired out. Pearline does it better, and does it safely. It takes the dirt away too easily to call it work. It gets twice as much done; it gives half as much to do.

CLINTON, MICH., AUGUST 17, 1893.

[illegible] Hinsdale has closed his market.

Dow Draper left here Tuesday for Ishpeming.

Miss Eva Shimman went to Petersburg Tuesday.

John Tuttle returned from Whitmore Lake Tuesday.

E. F. Muir and wife drove home from Eaton Rapids Monday.

Mrs. J. E. White and Mary returned from Ypsilanti Monday.

C. S. Burroughs was in Ann Arbor Tuesday and Wednesday.

James Hogan has bought the ice house of Matt. Lancaster.

Frank Scoville is making extensive repairs on the Corey house.

B. O. Randall is having a new windmill put up at his residence.

Neil Williams returned Monday from a few days' visit in Grass Lake.

The Blissfield nine will play Clinton on the home grounds Saturday, Aug. 19.

St. Dominic's Society cleared about $20 at their festival Saturday evening.

The Congregational Sunday School go to Wampler's Lake this week Saturday.

Mrs. Lewis Smith and three daughters, of Charlotte, are guests at E. R. Smith's.

Col. Fenn's daughters, Mrs. Dodd and Miss Josie Fenn, left here Tuesday for Chicago.

Mrs. J. S. Kies and Miss Eva Kelly spent Friday with Mrs. C. F. Field at Tecumseh.

Miss Minnie Perry came home from Detroit last week and remained until Wednesday.

The Episcopal society have postponed their picnic to Wampler's Lake until next week.

The proprietors of the merry-go-round pulled up stakes and left for Silver Lake Monday.

Mrs. Matt. Lancaster spent several days last week with Mrs. Henry Mensing at Tecumseh.

Miss Eva Kelly, who has been here about two weeks, returned to her home in Bay City Saturday.

Alfred Hulett and Mrs. Will Thieke are both sick with typhoid fever at Mrs. David Monroe's.

We understand that Mr. Embler has purchased of E. R. Smith the house occupied by James Farrell.

Rev. J. A. Barnes, a former pastor of the Congregational church here, was with Clinton friends over Sunday.

Mrs. W. S. Whittelsey and cousin, Miss Mollie Freese, visited Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor and Jackson, returning Tuesday.

Rev. Pardington, a son of a former Methodist minister at Tecumseh, will occupy the Congregational pulpit next Sunday morning.

The employees of the woolen mill were paid off Tuesday, the scarcity of currency making the usual payment on the 10th impossible.

J. R. Blanchard hurt his foot quite badly Monday night by making a misstep in the dark. He has been obliged to walk with a crutch since.

Rev. E. W. Miller and family, of Eaton Rapids, visited friends here from Friday until Tuesday. Rev. Miller occupied the Congregational pulpit Sunday morning.

Miss Ella Bull, who has been the guest of Mrs. E. VanDeMark, left here Tuesday for Chicago. She will return here for a few days before going to her home in Cleveland.

The Maccabee ladies were unfortunate again in having a stormy evening for their social. They sold their cream, however, to Lyle Gibson, thus more than paying their expenses.

Prof. Hogan made a very successful balloon ascension and parachute drop here Saturday. He landed near C. F. Clark's barns. The various attractions called out an immense crowd Saturday.

The ball game between Jackson and Clinton Saturday resulted in a sad defeat for the home team, the score standing 10 to 1 in favor of Jackson. The boys bore their defeat philosophically, however. The receipts were nearly $27.

Walter Smith, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Smith, living five miles east of here, was drowned Sunday while bathing with some others in a small lake near home. He was a good swimmer but it is thought that he went beyond his depth unexpectedly and strangled. He came to the surface three times and one of his companions made every effort to save him and succeeded in getting within six feet of where they could have touched bottom, but the drowning boy struggled so hard that he was obliged to let him go to save his own life. It was nearly two hours before the body was recovered. The parents are nearly heart-broken and they have the sympathy of the entire community. The boy was about 13 years of age. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon.

OBITUARY.

In the death of John Margeson, which occurred Friday morning, August 4, 93, this community has lost one of its best, most upright and commendable men. The world is the better for the living of such men as he, and the loss seems the greater when they are gone. The Christianity he professed and lived had one of its best exponents in Deacon Margeson. Of retiring and diffident disposition he yet made many friends and retained all those he made. Born November 24, 1819, in the town of Wayne, Steuben County, N. Y., he had attained the age of nearly 74 years. The third of a family of ten children, he had outlived them all with the exception of a brother living in New York, and a sister resident in Belleville, Michigan. From New York he came to Lenawee County in December 1857 and has continuously resided here since that time; making his home for a time in Raisin, later upon the farm on which he died. February 12, 1846, he was united in marriage with Paulina Perry. His wife dying July 6, 1863, and leaving no children, his home for a time was broken. March 14, 1865 he was married to Hannah Treat. Domestic and loving in disposition this union of peace and happiness was sundered by his death, and in her loneliness the widow is left to walk life's darkened pathway. Converted in early manhood he was baptized into the fellowship of the Baptist church of North Urbana, N. Y. Upon his removal to Michigan, he became a member of the Tecumseh Baptist church. Elected by his fellow members to position of responsibility, he had for some years been the senior deacon of the church, and honored the office he so well filled. For more than fifty years he had served the Master whom he loved, and had been a living epistle known and read of all men. Confidently he walked down into the valley of the shadow of death, supported by his rod and his staff. The funeral services were held at the church on Monday p. m., August 6, and were conducted by the Pastor, H. A. Smith. The large gathering, filling the church, testified to the esteem in which he was held by the people of his acquaintance.

We clip the following obituary mention from the Evening Telegram. The deceased had many acquaintances in this vicinity, who will deeply sympathise with the afflicted family in their misfortune.

The death of Joseph S. Rynd occured at eleven o'clock Thursday a. m., at his home in Madison, where he has been suffering from cancer for a long time, and was for over 13 weeks confined to his bed. The immediate cause of death was the severing of an artery, caused by the eating of the cancer under his right arm, and he bled to death. Jos. Rynd was a man of strong convictions, deep love for his friends, and an uncompromising enemy. His convictions were with the Republicans, and he was widely known in the councils of the party. His home had been the shrine at which politicians sought knowledge of the affairs in Lenawee, and his confidants extended to many, widely known in state and national affairs. He lost no opportunity to work for his political friends, without pay, and took pleasure in seeing them prosper. He leaves no children, but a loving wife, one who has been true in every vicissitude, is left to mourn his demise. Mr. Rynd had been guardian for the children of the late Dr. Chas. Rynd, his brother, and they will miss in him the fatherly love that has always been theirs. Mr. Rynd was 50 years of age, was born in County Donegal, Ireland, and came to this country when 15 years of age, with an elder brother. He was the sixth of a family of ten children, four of whom are now living, namely, Mrs. Richard Hinkle, of this city, Wm. and N. J. Rynd, of Royalton, Ohio, and John Rynd, of Chicago. He was employed for the Lake Shore road for some time and had an extended acquaintance up and down the road. October 9, 1887, he was married to Miss Alice Gray, of Tecumseh, and she is left to grieve his demise.

What Shall We Drink?

When the rays of old Sol are broiling down at ninety degree rate, the air like the breath of a furnace and everything hot, dry and dusty, the natual desire of the average human is to drink. But, what to drink? there's the question.

The serious effect of an over indulgence in ice water is well known. The thousand and one cheap gassy beverages are known to be more or less injurious to the health, while the mineral waters of known purity and healthfulness are a luxury beyond the reach of but few. What shall we drink?

A beverage to meet the requirements, must, first of all, be absolutely pure and non-alcoholic. It should possess a medicinal element to counteract the effect of the heat and keep the blood pure and the stomach healthful. In order to be palatable and refreshing, it should be sparkling and effervescent. Last but not least, it must be economical and within the reach of all. A beverage that fully meets all of the above requirements and one that is entitled to more than passing mention is Hires' Root beer, manufactured by the Chas. E. Hires Co. of Philadelphia. This preparation has been analyzed by the highest authorities and pronounced by them free from any deleterious substance and absolutely non-alcoholic; while all physicians acknowledge its health giving qualities. It has a delicious, appetizing flavor, is full of snap, sparkle and effervescence, and is without a peer as a refreshment.

A package, costing 25 cents at the grocer's or druggist's, will make five gallons of this great temperance drink. Truly it answers the question—what shall we drink? There are many substitutes and imitations of Hires' Root beer offered for sale which should be carefully avoided.

TO YOUNG MEN!

THE TECUMSEH HERALD MAKES A SPLENDID OFFER.

One Year's Tuition Free of Charge at the Detroit College of Law to the Young Man Who Receives the Highest Number of Votes.

THE HERALD has made arrangements with the officials of the Detroit College of Law, whereby it is enabled to offer to the young man who receives the highest number of votes, a year's tuition free of charge in the above college. This is an excellent opportunity for a deserving young man to acquire a thorough legal education. The only condition is that the young man must be a resident of Michigan and must be voted for with coupons cut from this paper. Cut out the coupon below, fill out the blank spaces, and send it to THE HERALD, Tecumseh, Mich.

Vote as many times as you please, but always on HERALD coupons. No votes will be received after Saturday evening, September 30, 1893.

THE HERALD LAW SCHOOL

SCHOLARSHIP COUPON.

.....

Information concerning the school can be had by addressing M. P. McGregor, 20 McGraw building, Detroit.

Here an opportunity is afforded the student to combine the work of the school with that of the office, so that the practical and the scientific elements of his education may progress together. To this end all exercises of the college are held in the evening and students are also encouraged in securing work during the day in suitable law offices in the city. They are also encouraged in attending the various courts, so far as this does not interfere with their other duties.

The city furnishes good opportunities for obtaining employment to those who are obliged to earn money to defray their expenses while attending the college.

Wonderful Jerusalem.

JERUSALEM! What a world of thought is awakened by a single word spoken. Jerusalem—the loved, the hated, the idolized, the despised; destroyed and rebuilded again and again; the scene of the Saviors's triumph and tragic death. The cradle of the Christian faith; the inspiration of humanity. How wonderful is thy history! What a theme for the poet and the painter. Every hill and valley so rich in tender associations, the very nerve center of religious history. Fortunately, the ancient city and all the surrounding country has been reproduced by the painters' art in a great Cyclorama, showing the city in its glory under Herod, and at the time of the Crucifixion of the Savior. The view upon Calvary is a triumph of religious conception and artistic painting. The whole scene is bathed in a wierd twilight atmosphere that adds greatly to the intense realism of the whole. In connection with this great Cyclorama is the famous painting, Christ's Triumphal Entry into Jerusalem. These two superb historic works are on exhibition at the corner of Wabash Ave. and Hubbard Court, Chicago, just two blocks south of the Auditorium. No advance of price, we are informed, will be made during the World's Fair and one ticket admits to both exhibitions. Intending visitors to Chicago should make a note of them.

HOTELS AT CHICAGO.

Of Interest to those Contemplating Visiting the Great Columbian Exposition at Chicago, Ill.

Those of our readers who contemplate visiting the World's Fair should arrange for their hotel accomodations in advance of their going, thereby saving a great expense and annoyance in looking up a suitable and reasonable hotel after their arrival. We decided to, and have made inquiry concerning the various hotels at Chicago as to their price, rooms and location, and after careful investigation, have decided to recommend the hotel "The Syracuse", situated at Windsor Park, at the foot of 75th st., it being near the fair grounds, partially surrounded by a beautiful grove, fronting on the shore of Lake Michigan, which contributes its cool evening breezes to refresh the tired frame after a day's jaunt, and to make sleeping easy and delightful. "The New York State Educational Journal" endorses the hotel, "The Syracuse", as follows:

Some time ago we promised our readers to visit Chicago and examine the hotel accomodations offered with reference to recommending advance arrangements for the summer. Immediately on our return from Egypt we went to Chicago and looked over the ground carefully. We have decided to recommend "The Syracuse," a building erected by men who know and in whom we have confidence, and which seems to combine more advantages than any other.

These requisites seem to us indispensable:

1. The hotel should be on the Lake. Chicago is a hot place in summer, and only the lake breezes will make sleeping at all comfortable.

2. It should be reached from the Exposition grounds by boat. How annoying it is to crowd into horse-cars and trains on a hot afternoon all our readers know. At Paris nine-tenths of the visitors were carried by the little riverboats.

3. The drainage should be perfect. This will be the great danger at Chicago. Hundreds of cheap buildings have been erected with cheap plumbing and cesspool reservoir. If typhoid fever does not result, it won't be the fault of the builders.

4. There should be the quiet and the privacy of home. This is the objection to the turning of school-houses into dormitories. Sight-seeing is hard work, and when the day is done the visitor should have a room of his own to wash in and to rest in.

5. The price should be reasonable. We are satisfied that the lowest rate at which it will be possible to obtain rooms that are at all suitable is one dollar a day.

"The Syracuse" combines all these advantages.

1. It is on the Lake, fronting the shore, 300 feet from the water, where there are pavilions for bathing, boats, fishing, etc. The few rooms fronting the Lake will be as desirable as one could wish, and all will be comfortable.

2. The steamboat pier is directly in front of the hotel. Besides, the hotel itself is only a mile from the grounds, which can thus be reached by easy walking. This will be a great consideration, for the electric display at night, for which a million dollars has been appropriated, will be one of the important features of the fair. It is also two blocks from the electric cars, and three blocks from the station of the Illinois Central, and those wishing to go to the city will be much surer of a seat than from the fair grounds.

3. The rooms are all lathed and plastered, and well furnished, with woven spring mattresses. When you lock the door you are in your own castle, as much as at home. This is different enough from tents and dormitories.

The dining-room is on the European plan and the rates will be reasonable.

TERMS.

The hotel accommodates only 400 persons, and the rooms we have selected and engaged as the best will accomodate only 200. Early application should therefore be made. If you know just when you will go, we can assign you a particular room, and give you a diagram of the hotel showing just where the room is located. If you are not ready to fix on a specific date, we can give you a contract to furnish you as good rooms as are vacant at the time you present yourself. It is better, however, to engage for a fixed date.

For a diagram of rooms, prices and how to reach the hotel quickly, address, WM. M. KNAPP, Windsor Park, Chicago, Ill., care hotel, "The Syracuse."

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday, the 16th day of August, in the year one thousand, eight hundred and ninety-three.

Present Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of George Griswold, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Helen M. Griswold, widow of said deceased, praying for the probate of an instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased and that administration of said estate may be granted to Petitioner and William J. Waldron, the executrix and executor in said instrument named or to some other suitable person.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 11th day of September next at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

WONDERFUL CURES!

THOMAS MINCHIN. MAJOR W. A. SIMFIELD.

Before Treatment. After Treatment. Before Treatment. After Treatment.

Nervous Debility and Catarrh Cured.

Thomas Minchin says: "I was reduced to a nervous wreck—only weighed 118 pounds. The result of early abuse was the cause. I had the following symptoms: Miserable mentally and physically, melancholy, nervousness, weakness, specks before the eyes, dizzy, poor memory, palpitation of the heart, flushing, cold hands and feet, weak back, dreams and losses at night, tired in the morning, pimples on the face, loss of ambition, burning sensation, kidneys weak etc. Doctors could not cure me; but Drs. Kennedy & Kergan by their New Method Treatment, cured me in a few weeks. I weigh now 170 pounds. It is three years since I have taken their treatment."

Blood Disease and Dyspepsia Cured.

Major Simfield says: "I had Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach for many years. To make matters worse I contracted a Constitutional Blood Disease. My bones ached. Blotches on the skin looked horrible. I tried sixteen doctors in all. A friend recommended Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. I began their New Method Treatment and in a few weeks was a new man with renewed life and ambition. I cannot say too much for those scientific doctors who have been in Detroit for fourteen years. I conversed with hundreds of patients in their offices who were being cured for different diseases. I recommend them as honest and reliable Physicians."

Joint Farmers' Club Picnic.

The farmers' clubs of Cambridge and Woodstock planned and executed a picnic which came off Saturday, Aug. 12th, at Devil's Lake, at that now very popular watering place, "Lake Rest," once known as Brazee's Landing, which, in the hands of Jerome Truax, has changed to a resort of much popular favor. The joint clubs numbered about 300 and a day of recreation, pleasure and profit was spent. The program here given discloses the intellectual bill of fare:

Singing by clubs.
Prayer—Albert Dewey.
Opening address—H. Wilcox.
Inst. music—Stella Dewey.
Recitation—Chauncey Smith.
Remarks—W. J. Neeley, C. J. Cooper.
Song—Sadie and Ethel Parsons.
Recitatson—Lee Alderdyce.
Singing—T. Beal and family.
Recitation—Verda Groger, Anna White, Mrs. Julia Reed.
Music by the band.

After the program the following organization was made, which is to be known as the Cambridge and Woodstock Farmers' Club Picnic Association. The following officers were elected: President, G. W. Bartlett; vice pres., A. J. Case; sec., Samuel White; treas., J. W. Stafford; ex. com., Cambridge—C. J. Cooper, A. T. Graves, B. A. Blackman; Woodstock—T. Beal, W. H. Harris, W. J. Neeley.

The annual meetings are to be held the 2nd Saturday in August of each year.

OBITUARY.

The following obituary notice of the late Wm. C. Heck, is taken from the South Bend Tribune of Aug. 3. The deceased came to Tecumseh with his family about eighteen years ago, and in partnership with his two brothers embarked in the milling business. After the burning of the Brownville mill, he purchased the Steam mill on Maumee street and for the past three years, he has managed that property with his [illegible]

Although his health had been feeble for several months, his wonderful will power sustained him, and he was at the mill, attending to his usual duties, on the very day of his death. During his residence here, he had gained the reputation of being one of our foremost and most enterprising business men. He possessed the happy faculty of making a friend of every man with whom he formed an acquaintance, and his demise brought sorrow and mourning to an extended social circle. He was an active member of our G. A. R. Post, and a faithful attendant of the M. E. church. He leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters, to mourn the loss of a kind husband and loving father.

A former resident of South Bend who will be pleasantly remembered by many residents of this city, passed away in the death of William C. Heck, which occured at his home in Tecumseh, Mich., at 9:30 o'clock last evening. The cause of his death was hemorrhage of the lungs. He had been around as usual during the day and evening and was preparing to retire when the hemorrhage occured. He lay down on the bed and passed away in a few minutes. Mr. Heck has been in poor health ever since an accident about five years ago by which he was wound around a shaft in the mill at Tecumseh, and during the past year was very feeble. The remains will be brought to South Bend for burial, arriving to-morrow forenoon. They will be taken to the residence of his son, Walter Heck, 909 Vistula avenue, where the funeral will be held at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon under the auspices of South Bend Lodge, No. 29, I. O. O. F., of which the deceased was a charter member. Rev. N. D. Williamson will officiate.

William C. Heck was the youngest son of Daniel Heck, a veteran of the war of 1812, who lies in the city cemetery, and was born in Cumberland county, Pa., in 1835. He came with his parents to this city in 1852 and learned the milling trade here. He was engaged in the ice business. Fifteen years ago he engaged with his brothers, John and James, in the milling business at Tecumseh and resided there until his death. Mr. Heck served in the 21st Indiana battery during the war and was a member of the Tecumseh G. A. R. post. His wife, who with two sons and two daughters survives him, is a daughter of Daniel Roof, of this city. When residents of South Bend they occupied the property on Scott street that they sold to Mr. Aaron Jones on their departure.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Rosetta M. Knapp died peacefully at her home in Tecumseh, Aug. 18, 1893, aged sixty years. She was born in Carlton, New York, and at the age of ten years came to Michigan with her parents. Her mother still lives and is eighty years old. Her father died in 1855. August 23, 1854, she was married to Bronson C. Knapp. They had born to them two children, Mr Geo. W. Knapp of this place, and Mrs. Emma J. Witherell, of Franklin. Mrs. Knapp was universally loved by all who knew her. For thirty-five years she lived a consistent Christian life. Her life was such that made her a blessing in her home. She will be greatly missed by her husband and children, who feel that a dutiful wife and a kind and loving mother has gone from them. But when they remember how she exemplified the Christian religion in her life, they believe she has gone to a resting place in a better world than this.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The school is located in the city of Ann Arbor, Michigan, the seat of the University of Michigan, and one of the great educational centres of the world. Ann Arbor enjoys many advantages by reason of its healthful situation and its admirable railroad facilities. The city is built upon hills which rise abruptly from the valley of the Huron River, and is singularly exempt from the malarial conditions which ex[illegible] several localities. The climate is mild and equable, and the surrounding country contains some of the most attractive scenery to be found in the State.

Ann Arbor is easily accessible from the east and the west by the Michigan Central system, and from the north and south by the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan Railroad, which connects at Toledo with the Pennsylvania system and other roads south and west.

ORGANIZATION OF THE SCHOOL.

The School has been established, and is conducted by the University Musical Society of the University of Michigan. The Society is a corporation, organized under the laws of the State of Michigan which has for its object "the advancement of musical culture in the University of Michigan and the city of Ann Arbor." Membership in the Society is restricted to officers, graduates, and students of the University of Michigan. Its Board of Directors includes the President of the University, several professors, and other prominent citizens, whose standing in business circles is such as to give absolute confidence in the success of the School. The University Professor of Music is the Musical Director of the School.

COURSES OF STUDY.

The work is organized in three distinct departments of study: I, Introductory Course of General Musical Instruction; II, High School Course; III, Course Leading to Diploma. Special attention is invited to the High School Course, as it offers a reasonable solution of a vexed problem in education.

I. INTRODUCTORY COURSE.

This Course is open to any person wishing to pursue elementary musical study, or to prepare for either of the more advanced courses offered. No previous knowledge of music is required. The student may choose any one, or as many studies as desired, but may not register for less than one semester. No diploma will be given in this Course, but students of merit who have been connected with the School for one year or more, will be given a certificate stating progress made. Students who have attained the required proficiency will be admitted to Courses II and III on certificate from teachers.

II. HIGH SCHOOL COURSE.

This course, offered in connection with the Ann Arbor High School, embraces two distinct lines of musical work: Vocal and Instrumental.

For the conditions on which these Courses may be taken in connection with the Ann Arbor High School, apply to the Principal of the High School or the Director of the School of Music.

III. DIPLOMA COURSE.

Course III is open to any person who is qualified to pursue more advanced studies. A knowledge of the principles of technique, familiarity with scales, arpeggios, etc., together with the ability to perform music of the difficulty of the Sonata in F Minor, Op. 2, No. 1, Beethoven, is required of piano students and a fair equivalent for the same on the part of vocal and violin students. On entering this course, some one special instrument must be chosen, and only in exceptional cases, and by consent of the Director, can two instrumental courses be pursued. Vocal and instrumental work may, however, be carried on simultaneously, as experience has shown that this may be done to advantage.

Band Reunion day at Hudson, was a big affair. Lots of bands and music, and an immense crowd of people. The city did herself proud at entertainment the day being thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. We sport no band this year, but several of our boys went over. W. C. Burridge, Will Ross, Don Bowen, Guy Belding, Will Westcott, and Jack Hoy, being Hudson visitors that day.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS.

To Draw Crowds to the Great World's Fair.

A BOOM ON AT THE EXPOSITION.

Some Great Specialty Almost Every Day of the Week—Central American Nations to Celebrate on Sept. 15—Guatemala's Creditable Exhibit—What Is To Be Seen at the Ceylon Building.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—There is a boom on. Not a great swelling boom as yet, but the wave is rising daily, a week ago the wèrst was passed, the daily attendance is gaining fast enough to indicate that the grounds will at least be comers are once more talking of getting back 25 per cent. of their money. And there is likewise a great boom in amusements. The super-clessical music is discontinued and instead thereof various bands located in different parts of the grounds give popular airs, and they render them well. We have swimming matches and boating races by the Indians and other uncivilized peoples and we are to have a continuous variety of even livelier amusements.

At the same time the cost of seeing and hearing has been somewhat reduced. Last Monday was a great day for music. There was an old folks concert in Music hall by the Stoughton (Mass.) Musical society, and a free concert at Festival hall in which the bands of all nations took part in their turns, with native instruments and costumes. On the next day the Ancient Order of Foresters had their grand display. There was an international regatta on the lagoon and a variety of free concerts. On Wednesday there was no special programme for the day, but great fireworks at night. Thursday evening all the savage tribes on the ground gave their religious and ceremonial war dances on the south pond. Friday was Austria's day, and the birth date of her emperor was celebrated with wild enthusiasm. Saturday was British day, so long advertised, and yesterday being Sunday was nobody's day as usual.

Hereafter there will be some great specialty almost every day and much attention will be paid to race and national achievements. Every Monday there will be typical concerts, every Tuesday boating carnivals, every Wednesday evenings fireworks of new and special designs, every Thursday some war, ceremonial or religious demonstration by the non-Aryan races, every Friday swimming contests and other aquatic sports and every Saturday some social exhibition or festival on the wooded island, with a splendid illumination thereof at night. And this calls my attention again to the fact that I am "stuck for a word." I have spoken of those far-foreign people as savage, pagan, half-civilized and so on, but neither word describes them all, so hereafter I will call them non-Aryans. True, that phrase would include the Jews and Magyar Huns, but they are not in this combination. Their music is, however.

Some of the plaisance people have evidently advanced far enough to appreciate better music than their own, and the other evening in the theater in Cairo street I made a prolonged, I might say desperate, attempt to get an explanation from a very intelligent Egyptian on their ideas of music. The musicians on the stage, tum-tumming away, are a curious sight, and the movement, scenery, etc., is show enough, but the whole matter of music is such a mystery to me that I was eager to get at the idea of a man who could really enjoy that sort of racket. I wanted to get at the radical germ, so to speak, and thought I might do it here. He talked at length and with great animation, but out of it all I got but one clear idea—perhaps because his English was poor. That idea was substantially the same that I got from lovers of cultivated music. He said that all that pounding and blowing made him see [illegible] again. I suppose there is a "theme" in it, as they say of a classical piece. I never know what it is about, but I take the word of the enthusiastic that there is a "theme."

On Sept. 15 all the Central American nations will combine in social and ceremonial methods of glorifying their common independence day, as it was on that day in 1821 that Guatemala declared herself a free and independent republic and so the day is honored by all. I have had no pleasanter afternoon in a social way at the fair than that I passed in the Guatemala building and its annexed grove, the latter chiefly for coffee drinking. As there is just now an epidemic of bad coffee in these United States (so the traveling men say), and as I have swallowed more mean stuff under that name since coming to Chicago than for years before, I was all the more cheered by the delicious drink served there, and interested in examining the sample sack.

Sr. Manuel Lemus, president of the commission, does not speak English very well, but Secretary Leon H. Rosenthal is not only fluent in both tongues but retains his native German. Dr. Gustavo E. Guzman is another active commissioner and with them are some extensive coffee planters who say that their specialty is to make money. All these talked with contagious enthusiasm of the wonderful capacities and present rapid development of Guatemala and were warm in their praises of President Jare Maria Reyna Barrios, "the most progressive and gentlemanly executive, senor, which our republic has ever had. And, observe, senor, do not fail to observe, that all this notion about such and so many revolutions in Central America, is not true of Guatemala. O, no, very much not true, senor."

That Guatemala is a little larger than Ohio, covering about 42,000 square miles, and that it contains 200,000 people of pure Spanish blood and some 1,000,000 of every shade from that to pure Indian, are facts any one can learn from the cyclo.; but many other interesting things were mentioned in the conversation. One was that every product of the two Americas is produced at some elevation, even to the Siberian crab apple. Northern grapes and regular Vermont apples have recently proved successful, and pumpkins, potatoes and pineapples, like the mixed races, each find their level. The finest coffee in the world is grown on the middle lands and last year the republic produced 750,000 sacks of 100 pounds each. The berry is beautifully clear and firm.

The exhibit contains so many varieties of rock and minerals that I did not seek to classify them, and out of the old ruins they have brought a queer assortment of mummies, ornaments, weapons and bas-reliefs in stone. As, however, the most interesting remains of that strange civilization of long ago are the immense stones the various nations have combined and with the aid of the most noted explorers have constructed an exact imitation of part of one of the towns, and with it the rock carvings of Uxmal and Palenque. This curious and interesting structure stands near the southeast corner of the grounds, and as one sits among the great monoliths and looks on the mystic carvings his longing to solve the mystery of that vanished race grows intense. Del Rio, Du Bourbourg, Stephens, Dupaix and Le Plongeon in turn have explored sections of the great forest covering much of Guatemala, Salvador and the adjacent Mexican states, and have shown that it was once the seat of a somewhat advanced civilization and contained at least 10,000,000 people. All the rest is yet conjecture.

Not far away is the quaint Ceylon building in which every pillar, doorway and of something from a temple or palace in the island. Three hours there is a tour of Ceylon. Visitors gaze in silent wonder on the colossal figure of Vishun, and look with a sort of repulsion on the inferior deities, while the Cingalese explain the meaning of every symbol with as little religious sensitiveness, I should say, as Bob Ingersoll would show in analyzing Dr. Briggs. In truth, it seems to me, from what I see here, that a great skepticism is spreading among the Orientals, though late news from Bombay indicates that Moslems and Hindoos there still take things to heart. All the attendants in this Ceylon building are pure Cingalese, men a little under the average American height and slender in figure, very dark with delicate faces and hair so very black and straight that it is a show in itself. None of the Veddahs, wild people of the interior, could be induced to come.

Iowa has the finest site on the ground for a state building. The north and east porch face upon the lake, and there at almost any hour after noon one may find one or more groups discussing silver and the tariff; the physical condition of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland; Crisp, McKinley and other exciting topics. The interior is a marvel. Ceiling, dado, frieze, panels and pillars are ornamented in elaborate and appropriate designs of grain and grasses, and in the center is a beautiful model of the state house front in corn, enclosed in glass cylinders and boxes. Some one has perpetrated an ingenious joke on visitors not familiar with corn. In the exhibit of that grain hang three ears 18 inches in length, with large grains and cob complete, all looking as natural as if just from the stalk. By looking closely, however, one will see under them in small letters: "Ideal size of Iowa corn at the next Columbian exposition." Iowa's day is Sept. 21. Governor Boies will be here, of course. There will be one oration and some short speeches, with plenty of music and various social doings.

There has been a good deal of official intermeddling of one sort and another which puzzles most visitors and enrages a few exhibitors. The restriction on the dancers of the plaisance was quite Puritanical for awhile, but has been relaxed again. In the British section of the Woman's building a loom was seen for three months, showing how British wool is woven into cloth and incidentally how a buxom British maid may be a very vigorous worker and remain ruddy and handsome. Of course the yarn and cloth manufactured there was not sold, and there are cards lying everywhere on the exhibits in all buildings giving notice that the United States will not permit any purchased article to be delivered till the fair closes and the customs duties are paid. Nevertheless the collector of customs, Mr. Clark, decided that raw material from abroad could not be turned into a manufactured article here. The loom's owner must pay $100 duty or stop it. He stopped it.

About the same time another small section of the British exhibit through which visitors had passed freely, was shut off by stretching red ropes across each end. The observer can now walk around but not near the articles because, said Mrs. Cope in charge, visitors had carelessly picked up and carried away specimens of the fine yarns and other little trifles. Thereupon the collector decided that the difference between allowing an exhibit to lie there in skeins and in a manufactured form, merely to lie there, you observe, amounted to $100; but the law of it no common fellow can find out. There are some exquisitely painted fans there which the same collector now says must go to the Fine Arts building under this same mysterious customs law.

I am told, but have no conclusive evidence of it, that there is also some sort of legal hitch about the marvelous Japanese collection in the Manufactures and Liberal Arts building. If that exhibit remains in this country and the duties are paid, it will aid materially in strengthening the bridges for 1894, for there are hundreds of articles there worth more than their weight in gold. When I want to be overwhelmed and dazzled I go there. On every side I see marvels of handiwork, from the vase worth $7,000 down to the minute flowers and grain heads glittering in gold and silver, in delicately wrought iron, bronze and copper. There are flocks of birds and swarms of bees, showers of falling leaves, clusters of roses, flowing streams, evening skies, gorgeous sunsets and picture after picture in mythology and history, all wrought in shades as delicate as the finest paintings in the Art palace and yet in materials more enduring than granite or flint. No lapse of time can dim the brilliancy of one of these damascened pictures so much that a very slight polishing will not bring it out again, and withal nothing in that line is so fragile but that reasonable care might preserve it till the end of the world. No one can give a satisfactory description. One can but gaze and wonder.

HIS CAREER ENDS.

Death at Detroit of Congressman John L. Chipman

The Well-Known Jurist and Legislator Succumbs to an Attack of Pneumonia —Talk of His Successor— His Life.

JUDGE CHIPMAN IS DEAD.

DETROIT, Aug. 18.—Congressman John Logan Chipman, of the First Michigan district, died at 7 a. m. Thursday. The deceased had been troubled with general debility all summer. He was attacked by hypostatic pneumonia a few weeks ago, and was then taken to the hospital a very sick man. He rallied, however, and for the past ten days was thought to be improving. The attack of Wednesday was unexpected.

Already there is talk of a successor to the dead congressman. Among those mentioned by the democrats as likely to receive the nomination are William C. Maybury, Elliot G. Stevenson, C. W. Casgrain and Judge Hasmer.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 18.—The announcement of the death of Representative Chipman was received with genuine sorrow by his associates in the house. In the last house Mr. Chipman was a member of the committee on foreign affairs and of the committee on election of president and vice president, being chairman of the latter. He took an active part in the debates on the tariff bills, being one of the foremost tariff reformers on the floor.

DETROIT, Aug. 20.—The remains of Congressman Chipman were taken to the city hall Saturday afternoon and placed in state at the intersection of the corridors on the main floor, where they remained until 10 o'clock at night. Thousands of people passed by the casket viewing the remains. A guard of honor from the Fourth regiment was in attendance.

Followed by a large concourse of citizens, the remains were placed in the tomb this (Sunday) afternoon after impressive funeral services both at the residence of the deceased congressman and at the church.

[John Logan Chipman was born in Detroit June 5, 1830. He was educated in the schools of this city and at the University of Michigan, and in 1846 was engaged in the Lake Superior region as an explorer for the Montreal Mining company. He was admitted to the bar in 1854 and in that year aided in the payment of the Chippewas of Michigan. In 1856 he was elected city attorney of Detroit and held that position until 1861. Two years later he was elected to the Michigan legislature. In 1865 he was appointed attorney of the police board of Detroit. He ran for congress on the democratic ticket in 1866, but was defeated. He then held the attorneyship of the police board from 1867 to 1879, when he was elected judge of the superior court of Detroit, to which position he was reelected at the end of six years. He was elected to the Fiftieth, Fifty-first and Fifty-second congresses, and was last fall reelected to the Fifty-third congress as a democrat. In the last house Judge Chipman was a leading member of the committee on foreign affairs and proved himself one of the best extemporaneous speakers in congress. He paid special attention to all legislation touching Canadian affairs in the house.]

Caught a Murderous Swain.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 21.—J. Frank Hickey, who made a murderous assault with a knife upon Miss Idella Davenport in Chicago last week, was arrested here Sunday night and is held for the Chicago officers. He has relatives here, but had not found them when he was arrested. He admits the stabbing, but says it was accidental and that after placing her on a bed he went in search of a doctor. The fact is that he was insanely jealous of another's attentions to Miss Davenport, and receiving an unsatisfactory reply to his demand that she devote all of her love to him he endeavored to kill her.

Troubles of the Buffalo Mine.

NEGAUNEE, Aug. 20.—One hundred and fifty miners of the Buffalo Mining company obtained judgments against the company for wages due for the months of May, June and July. The total amount is $20,000. Executions for the various claims will be placed in the hands of the sheriff, when an attachment will be levied on the machinery and stockpiles. About 300 of the miners have had no part in the suit. Manager Cole paid these men Saturday.

Colored Knights Templar.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 20.—The grand commandery of Colored Knights Templar of Michigan in session here elected Henry Weaver, of Chatham, to be grand commander; J. J. Adams, of Grand Rapids, deputy; H. D. Veney, of Detroit, grand generalissimo; John A. Bell, of Grand Rapids, grand captain-general; John H. Cole, of Detroit, grand treasurer; J. W. Montgomery, of Chatham, grand receiver.

Will Do Its Best.

TRADE MARK. DR. A. OWEN.

A STATEMENT UNDER OATH.

MOUNT PLEASANT, MICH., August 15, 1892.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT AND APPLIANCE CO.:

Dear Sirs:—I now am able to say, after having purchased one of your No. 4 Electric Belts with Spinal Appliance about one year ago, that I thank God I have found relief from my terrible suffering through the wonderful healing influence of your wonderful Body Belt. August 29, 1891, at which time I was a great sufferer, and had been for more than four years, from extreme nervous prostration, so much so that, on the least excitement, my whole nervous system would be all of a tremble from head to foot, and unable to control myself in the least, and would affect me to tears like a little child. I am a farmer by profession; in the fields, or at work on the farm, or at any excitement, it had the same effect. I could not lift the weight of five pounds. It so continued with increased suffering, until I was unable to help myself, and for eight long months my suffering was intense. My stomach was so weak that I could not take any food but crackers and warm water for the above time. My kidneys were so weak that I could not retain my urine, it would pass from me continually, and I was under the necessity of leaving my couch from six to eight times of a night to void my urine, which was very painful. I was also troubled with severe constipation and piles, so that I was obliged to use injections to produce evacuations of the bowels, it was very distressing, so much so that I had to be lifted in and out of my bed for several months. The doctors could do me no good whatever, and I had made up my mind that there was no help for me this side of the grave. My limbs would become numb and cold, seemingly as ice, and I would try with hot bricks, rubbing and all other methods to restore the circulation and natural feeling, but all to no effect, and then it would pass off. Then again another attack would occur which would leave me helpless, and so continued periodically, and I could get no relief. The doctors told me that I must not do any work, and that it would be three years at least before I would be able to work. I agreed with them, for I could not, nor did I ever expect to again. The whole world seemed to me a blank, and my vital forces all had left me, and my life was fast ebbing away from me through the loss of my life fluids, which doctors were unable even to check. I had given up all hope of ever getting help, and death in all its terrible forms stared me in the face, from which there seemed to be no avenue of escape from this living horror, of which no living person is able to know or feel, except his sufferings be as mine has been. In this state of suffering and agony I continued until about one year ago now I met a friend who, on seeing my helpless condition, advised me to try one of the Owen Electric Belts. For several weeks I doubted his statements about what it [illegible] told me of the wonderful healing [illegible] it, but he was so earnest and persuasive [illegible] finally consented to send for one. He [illegible] me to send for a No. 4 with spinal appliance [illegible] which I did, at a cost of $30.00, [illegible] price for No. 4 and spinal appliance [illegible] here that it is the best $30.00 investment that [illegible] ever made in my life in the way of doctor [illegible] remedies or anything else, as I had spent [illegible] up into the hundreds, but could get no relief [illegible] whatever. As soon as I received the Belt and Appliance, I had it charged and adjusted [illegible] put it on, and in a short time after putting it [illegible] I began to feel wonderful soothing and [illegible] currents of its healing power passing all through [illegible] me, clear to the end of my toes and fingers [illegible] prickling sensation like thousands of needles [illegible] Many were the sleepless nights I had passed [illegible] unable to sleep but from one to two hours [illegible] through the whole night for months. On the third night after wearing the Belt I slept [illegible] morning and awoke greatly refreshed, [illegible] not disturbed, nor had I to void my urine [illegible] through the night, and I have not been troubled in that way since. All the drains upon the system have ceased, and constipation and piles all have left me as if by magic. My nerves have regained their former strength, my eyesight [illegible] mind have become clear, and I have gained [illegible] weight about 15 pounds, and I feel like a new man. My stomach has got back its power of digestion, and I can eat almost any kind of food that my appetite craves, without pain or distress. I am gaining daily and I feel better and stronger than I have for the past ten years, and it seems I have a new lease of life. I cannot say enough in favor of your wonderful Electric Body Belt. It is far superior to all medicines compounded for the relief and cure of chronic and complicated diseases and broken down constitutions. I would not take $2,000 for my Belt if I could not get another like it. There is nothing like it for relief and cure where all other remedies fail. I can not praise your Belt enough, for what it has done for me would be [illegible] not express. I will say here that I recommend the Owen Electric Belt to all suffering humanity who fail to find relief from other remedies, as it is the messenger of quick relief and certain cure of all nervous debility and other nerve troubles. I know it will cure all diseases which you advertise it to cure.

To Preserve

The richness, color, and beauty of the hair, the greatest care is necessary, much harm being done by the use of worthless dressings. To be sure of having a first-class article, ask your druggist or perfumer for Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is absolutely superior to any other preparation of the kind. It restores the original color and fullness to hair which has become thin, faded, or gray. It keeps the scalp cool, moist, and free from dandruff. It heals itching humors, prevents baldness, and imparts to

ILLINOIS' GREAT DAY.

Programme of Her Celebration at the Fair.

GRAND ILLUMINATION AT NIGHT.

The Day Opens With a Parade of Non-Aryan Races, Rough Riders and Gorgeous Soldiers—The Fun To Be Had in the Fisheries Building—The Attendance on the Increase.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Tomorrow Illinois will own the grounds and that will be emphatically her day, for if the performance comes anyways near the programme, it will by far exceed that of any other state day. At 9:30 a. m. all the non-Aryan races will parade, from Esquimaux to Siamese, the great procession beginning with the (alleged) beauty show and ending with the Bedouin riders. Next will come Buffalo Bill's wild west riders and a miscellaneous troupe of cowboys and broncho-breakers from the far southwest, and then the gorgeous Britons of Tattersall's tournament will traverse the broad avenues showing military evolutions as they proceed. Exactly at noon the state guard, 500 strong, will pass in review before Governor Altgeld and staff. At 2 p. m. his reception and the social feature will begin, and at night the grandest illumination of the grounds down to that time will be shown.

The state authorities put the attendance for the day at 500,000. They are extravagant, of course, but the crowd will undoubtedly be large, for the railroads have made extremely favorable rates for ten days and already one can notice a great increase. Indeed, the attendance has been gaining rapidly for the past fortnight. It is quite appropriate that Illinois should have the grandest display, for she is right here, as it were. Indeed, a little over one-half of the state's entire population lives in an area from any part of which the fare at regular rates is a dollar or less. Chicago, however, declares her intention to beat the state when her own day comes and that will be on the twenty-second anniversary of the great fire. And all this brings me to some reminiscenses on the basis of the old "chestnut"—how great the changes in this country in one short life

GETTING READY FOR BUSINESS.

Thirty-seven years ago I crossed the Wabash river on horseback and as one of a party of stock drivers traveled across east central Illinois. A little west of Danville we struck the open prairie and for a hundred miles found the country thickly settled only along the streams and groves. Almost every day we would journey for hours without coming near a house and crossed many tracts seven or eight miles wide where there was not a rod of fence or a sod turned. But even then Chicago was a wonder. People in that middle section told us the city contained some 80,000 people and had three theaters. Two years before the first through train from New York had entered the city. Now all that region to which our folks drove their cattle for free grazing is a blooming garden thick set with cities and villages, a region crisscrossed by wire and rail and dotted with artificial groves, where from any commanding point one may see scores of churches and school houses rising from a vast expanse of emerald meadow and waving grain. And for free pasture the stock men must go 1,200 miles farther west.

Of course some backwoods people are still found even in Illinois and though none of them have "blowed out the gas" as that congressman of Texas did, they occasionally do some queer things. All the gossips are laughing at an old gentleman who entered the grounds at the Fifty-eighth street gate the other day, with his wife and five children, and confidentially informed the first man he saw that he and his folks were going to see all there is to see if it took every cent he had. The party turned sharply to the right, passed around the little wooden building there and were attracted by the exit gate, a turnstile with many arms. "Let's see what's in here first," said the old man. So the whole family pushed through the turnstile and to their amazement and dismay found themselves out in the street. It only cost them $2.75 to get in again as three of the children were young.

For genuine fun the great circular building in which are the live fish is an exception among the rooms. Everywhere else a decorous reserve is maintained, and in the Fine Arts, Woman's building and some others a profound silence. But among the fish all restraint is by common consent laid aside. All the family parties go there and all the children go wild with delight. There is one great central tank given up chiefly to marine monsters, and around the walls a succession of tanks, all these rising above the spectator's head, and the glass sides are so very clear and transparent, the glass being without a flaw, that it is just the same as if one were walking on the bottom of lake or ocean while the inhabitants thereof move around him. Everybody talks and laughs, everybody comments aloud with exchange of jokes on the queer creatures, all the little ones held up to see the big fish yell with delight and there is a most enlivening racket all around.

The back of the wall tanks is generally built up in stone to represent the ocean caves or rocky banks of lake or stream, as is the central part of the center tank. There one may see the monster turtles rolling in awkward gambols from the rocks to the sandy bottom. There are the inhabitants of the deep sea grottoes in thousands—the coral, the sea anemone, devil fish, marine shell fish, even the shark and the gymnotus, the aquaemtaur and the hippocampus. In one fresh water tank 16 feet long and rising almost to the roof are found perch of every variety known to American waters. In another are all known species of catfish and suckers. One enormous tank, into which a strong light is thrown from the back, contains hundreds of gold fish of every line, and as they dash through the crystal fluid in incessant motion the staidest grown people break into exclamations of delight and even the babies clap their little hands in ecstacy over the glittering spectacle.

Everything that science has rescued from ocean depths is there and where the nature of the creature is such that it can live only with a great pressure of the salt water above it, an attempt has been made to accommodate it with artificial pressure. There are fishes without eyes, as in their unlighted habitat in the mammoth cave or elsewhere no eye could develop. There are others without fins and still others apparently without mouths, as they suck nourishment through the ends of their arms. Of the total tank capacity, 40,000 gallons are given to the marine creatures and 100,000 gallons to the fresh water ones. The largest tanks contain 27,000 gallons each and the smallest 750 gallons, but nearly all range from 3,000 to 8,000. The total water capacity is 18,725 cubic feet or nearly 600 tons. Yet all this fills but one end and makes but a small part of the fisheries exhibit.

It appears that each day of late has brought its own little trouble. As it was absolutely necessary to economize Theodore Thomas resigned and the highly classical music was cut off, but the musicians want their salaries for the fair and have appealed to the law. The board of lady managers has dissolved itself after many pointed hints from the higher authorities and a "financial suggestion" from Secretary Carlisle. Major Handy agrees to close his bureau of publicity and promotion and the transportation force is cut down to the lowest working limits. But when it was announced to the chair pushers that they must accept a reduction of 25 per cent. on their pay they promptly organized a strike. Now the chair pushers are not mere laborers. Each one is expected to be a sort of guide and exhibitor as he goes along, especially for the ladies who patronize them. Each one has to "tone up" and care for his own chair, and many of them are college boys earning a little money in this way during their vacation. Furthermore they have now been at the work long enough to master all the details of the fair. So the managers simply could not supply their places.

The French exhibitors of bronzes in the Manufactures building have also had trouble with the collector of customs and thirteen cases containing the exhibits of sixteen different firms have been closed and sealed by the officials. The charge is that the exhibitors have been selling and delivering at once, contrary to the rule that no articles sold can be delivered till the close of the fair. There is certainly bronze enough still to be seen and the exhibitors tell me that the peculiar characteristics of each nation come out even more strongly in their bronzes than in their paintings. Taking either as a guide I must say that some of these Europeans have characteristics that I do not like. Among the Russian paintings, for instance, are some in which the magnificence of czar and nobles is brought into striking and painful contrast with the rising of the common people. True, perhaps, but only a Russian, I fancy, would have advertised it in such a brutally realistic way.

Among the Spanish paintings is one which holds the crowd, but makes them shudder. It shows a line of African slaves chained together and fastened to posts firmly set in the ground at intervals. The idea is that the Moors have fixed the negroes in that way to break the charge of the Christian cavalry. But the latter with waving banners and spears fixed are galloping on and just beginning to trample down the living breastwork. Over the cavalry the standard of the cross is raised, and this picture is called—of all things in the world!—"The Triumph of the Cross." It is the concentration of cruelty, blasphemy, and the whole bloody history of Spain in those dark days. Possibly the artist meant it for that.

I was much surprised to find in the Convent of La Rabida (as reproduced here) a bell which is claimed to be the original given by Queen Isabella to Columbus and yet belongs to the congregation of a little negro church in Haleyville, Cumberland county, N. J. It sounds "fishy," but the history is pretty straight. In 1445 this bell, which is of fine metal and weighs but sixty-four pounds, was in the Alhambra. The Spanish soldiers who captured Granada presented it to the queen, who gave it to Columbus, who dedicated it to the cathedral at Carthagena in New Granada. When the buccaneers looted that city in 1697 they carried off the bell and after a century or more in the West Indies it was purchased by Captain Newall, an American, who presented it to this colored congregation.

Strange as this story is, it is but a parallel to many known to be true; for when the workmanship is worth much more than the material in an article, even freebooters will preserve it while all monuments and curios of which the chief value is in the material are soon destroyed. The famous golden candlestick or lamp frame of Solomon's temple escaped all the sieges and plunderings of seven centuries and was taken to Rome by Titus after the last siege of Jerusalem. Four centuries it remained in Rome till that city was plundered in its turn. The rest is uncertain, but the best evidence indicates that the relic was taken to Africa by the Vandals and broken up for division. So the story of this bell is a probable one.

In this La Rabida are also the first map of the new world ever made, relics of the first Christian church in America, coins from the first American gold, the oldest known picture of a Norse ship, facsimiles of all the curious inscriptions attributed to Norsemen and other pre-Columbian discoverers, original of the contract between Columbus and the Spanish monarch, originals or facsimiles of the most noted letters relating to Columbus and many hundred curious pictures, manuscripts, maps and relics of those times. In short the quaint little convent is a miniature world's fair in itself and a materialization of early American history.

The life-saving station and the exhibits at the fair are under the supervision of Lieutenant Charles H. McClellan of the revenue-marine service, assistant inspector of the life-saving service. He is the author of several books relating to scientific life-saving and is the inventor of most of the apparatus used in the service. He represented the service at the Cincinnati exposition in 1887, the New Orleans exposition in 1884 and 1885 and the London exhibition of 1883.

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermoter. Where one goes others follow, and we "take the Country."

Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 6 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to place our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and, in which there seemed no fair or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, properly set in artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the rancher's mill, and many other abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory, which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for, for '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—or if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (the Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one ($100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

The Aermotor Pneumatic Water Supply System enables you to supply every part of your house with water without an Elevated Tank.

D. RANSOM'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it cures readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the results. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

SKETCH OF FATHER MARQUETTE.

We present herewith the paper read by Judge Geddes at the recent Pioneer meeting held at Fairfield in Baker's Grove. After a few remarks of an introductory and personal character, the Judge launched out into his subject, which was a sketch of the celebrated French Missionary Father Marquette.

tion was passed to have the article published, and we take pleasure in complying with that request;

Farther Marquette was born in 1637, and was descended from the most notable family in the small but ancient and stately city of Leon, in the North of of France,

At an early age, through the instructions of a pious mother, he became embued with an earnest desire to devote himself to a religious life; and at the age of 17, he renounced the allurements of the world, and entered the society of Jesus, or, as it is familiarly known, "the order of the Jesuits." As required by the rules of the order, he spent two years in those spiritual exercises, prescribed by their great founder. Then for ten long years, he remained under the remarkable training and teaching of the order and acquired that wonderful control, that quiet repose, that power of calm endurance, that unquestioning obedience to his superiors, that thirst for trial, suffering and death that marked the Jesuits, in this golden age of their power.

Panting for a missionary life, he sailed, at the age of 29, for New France, comprising a vast territory, of which the Canada's, Michigan and Wisconsin formed a part. He reached the Mission at Three Rivers, on the river St. Lawrence, Sept. 26, 1666, where he spent a year and a half in additional preparation, in acquiring a knowledge of the Indian language and character, and then continuing his journey to Sault Ste Marie, he planted the first permanent mission and settlement within the bounds of our State.

There were then about 2000 Indians at this point, the facility with which they could live, by hunting and fishing making it one of the most popular places in the Indian territory.

It would be impracticable, in the brief time assigned me, even if it were desirable, to trace in detail the work of this devoted missionary of the cross. I can conceive of nothing more heroic, nothing more sublime, than the faith of a man like Marquette, educated, refined cultured, with a love, growing out of habitual use of books, and of the elegancies of life, and of the highest culture of which the world at that time, had any knowledge, leaving that most men value, behind him, crossing the Atlantic, in the comparatively crude sailing vessel of that period, at a time when it required 4 to 8 weeks to make the voyage, and then making that long journey of near 1000 miles, through forests, rivers and lakes, and finally isolating himself among savages with whom he could have nothing in common, in order that they might be saved from the punishment in the world to come, which it was believed awaited all outside the fold of mother church.

Mistaken as I believe all such missionary efforts to have been, and having no faith in the permanent efficacy of the religious teaching of the Indians, or the degraded of our cities, whether by Catholics or Protestants, which leaves out, or is not broad enough to enforce cleanliness, industry, sobriety, thrift, and better care of the body, as well as spirituality: I can but bow reverently before such nobility of character as was possessed by this remarkable man.

Nor were his labors confined entirely to mission work. From the Indians, he hears of a great river, the Mississippi, whose course is southward, and he is sized with a desire for its discovery; and on the 17th of May 1673, accompanied by Joliet, a courtier of France, started from Mackinaw. His course lay through lake Michigan to Green Bay, thence up the Fox River through Lake Winnebago, thence by river and portage into the Wisconsin River.

On their arrival at Green Bay the Indians did all in their power to prevent the further progress of the expedition. They pictured to the explorers the fierce Dakotas, with their long black hair, their eyes of fire and their terrible tomahawks of stone, who never spared the stranger: they told of the wars then raging, of the war parties on every trail, they described the damages of navigation, of freightful rapids and sunken rocks, of fearful monsters that swallowed up men and canoes together, of a cruel demon who stops the progress and engulfs the navigator who dares to invade his dominions, of excessive heat that would infallibly cause their death.

To these ominous warnings the good Father replied that the salvation of souls was concerned, and that in such a cause he would gladly lay down his life.

From Green Bay they ascended the Fox River, dragging their canoes up the rapids over sharp stones that lacerated their bleeding and unprotected feet. In ten days after leaving Mackinaw, they carried their canoe across the portage and launched it upon the Wisconsin and commenced their descent toward the Mississippi. For 7 days they floated down its crystal waters and on the 17th of June, 1673, "with joy," which said the good father, "I cannot express," they entered the great river, and the voyage for discovery is made, and the father of waters given to the civilized world. For seven days more the joyous adventurers floated down its broad bosom, before they saw a single human being. The solitude became almost insupportable; and they longed to see other human faces besides their own, yet they move with caution.

Finally on the 12th of June, they discover foot prints by the water edge, and a well beaten trail leading off through a beautiful prairie on the west bank. They are in the region of the wild and dreaded Dakotas, and they conclude that a village is at hand.

Cooly braving the danger they leave their canoes, and follow the trail until they come in sight of an Indian village. Having committed themselves to God and implored his help they approached so near they heard the conversation without being discovered, and then stop and announce their presence by a loud out-cry.

The Indians rushed from their cabins and seeing the unarmed travelers, they, after a while deputized four old men to approach them which they do very slowly.

Marquette asks who they are, and is rejoiced to learn that they are of the tribe of the Illinois. He can speak to them in their own language. They offer here the pipe of peace. They are most graciously received at the village. An old man, perfectly naked, stands at a cabin door, with his hand raised toward the sun and exclaims: "How beautiful is the sun, Oh Frenchman, when thou comest to visit us(!) Our town awaitest thee and thou shall enter all our cabins in peace."

Was embassador, or conquering hero ever more hospitably, more dramatically, more poetically welcomed even in the palmy days of Greece and Rome? Surely the genius of eloquence is confined to no race or condition.

After spending a few days with these hospitable Indians, by whom they were with them, they pursued their journey down the river as far as the Arkansas, but finding the Indians hostile and having accomplished the object of their journey, they turn back toward the starting point, Mackinaw, and late in the season reached Chicago, by the way of the Illinois river.

Joliet hastened to Quebec to announce the result of their wonderful discoveries, while Marquette, ever mindful of his great aim in life, the conversion of the savages to Christianity, remained to plant the standard of the cross among the Miamis. But failing health and disease, brought by exhausting toils and his many exposures, warned him that if he would reach his beloved mission at Mackinaw, or St. Ignace, he must leave the Illinois and continue his journey. His then great desire and constant prayer was that he might reach the flock to whom he had ministered, before starting on his voyage of discovery; but the prayer was denied him. The place and manner of his death is thus related by Bancroft:

"In sailing from Chicago to Mackinaw, during the following Spring, he entered a little river in Michigan. Erecting an altar, he said mass, after the rites of the Catholic church, then begging the man who conducted his canoe to leave him alone for half an hour,

"In the darkling wood
Amid the cool and silence he knelt down,
And offered to the Mightiest solemn thanks
And supplication."

At the end of half an hour they went to seek him and he was no more. The good missionary, discoverer of a world, had fallen asleep on the margin of a stream that bears his name. His surviving companions, although aware of his feeble condition and his liability to be called away at any moment, were greatly shocked. By his uniform courtesy, his kindness and gentleness, and his solicitude for their comfort and spiritual welfare, he had endeared himself to them, as if they were brothers. Death, although expected, almost always seems sudden.

After shedding many tears over his inanimate body, they reverently carried it to the grave and erected a large cross near it to serve as a mark to passers by.

In Mr. Tuttle's account of the life and death of Father Marquette, note this passage, in relation to the cross of which Mr. Bancroft speaks:

Did the savages respect that cross? They did. We can pronounce no higher eulogy on Father James Marquette than the fact that the Indians, to whom he had preached the gospel, returning from hunting on the banks of the lake, repaired to the missionary's grave and, after mature deliberation, resolved to act with their spiritual father as they usually did with the best beloved of their own tribe. They reverently disinterred the remains and putting them into a neatly constructed box of birch bark removed them from the wilderness to the nearest Catholic church, where they were solemnly buried with appropriate services. He died on the 18th of May, 1675, at the age of 38 years, after nine years of faithful service as a missionary among the Indians of Michigan.

Mr. Sheldon, in his history of Michigan, speaking upon this subject, says:

"There is something impressive in the rites of the Catholic church,—something in its mysteries calculated to impress and overawe the wild man of the woods."

So long as the missionary was in their midst and superintended their labors they yielded to his guidance and adopted his recommendations, so far at least as conduced to their comfort, but when he withdrew, with equal facility they glided into their former habits. The superstructure raised with so much care fell to the ground the moment the sustaining hand was withdrawn.

I am strongly tempted to encroach upon the quarter of an hour suggested by my friend, Mr. Baker, by making a quotation from Mr. Walker's admirable lecture, relative to a contest between the Jesuit missionaries and the local authorities as to the sale of liquors,—a contest which to many seems almost as far from being settled as in the days of the early missions of which I have spoken. The quotation is as follows:

"There was one cause of difficulty between the Jesuits and the local authorities that did much to bring upon them the wrath of the governing power, but which redounds greatly to their credit. They, at an early date, boldly, earnestly and persistently opposed and denounced the sale of brandy to the Indians. The pious Lavalle was made Bishop of Quebec, or, as was his title, of Petra, in 1659. As early as 1665 he had, in concert with the Jesuits, forbidden the sale of brandy to the Indians on pain of excommunication, because it led them into mortal sin. So effectual was this order that no one dared to sell or give a glass of liquor to Huron or Algonquin. Complaint seems to have been made to the King, for the Minister of Marine, in writing to the governor of Canada in 1655, disapproves of the order in a course of reasoning quite Jesuitical. He acknowledges the principle to be good but contends that it is hurtful to trade, and as it will drive the Indians to trade with the Dutch they will be taught heresy, a greater evil than drunkeness; and he bitterly complains that notwithstanding the force of this reasoning the bishops and the Jesuits still persist,—"not reflecting," says he, "that prudence and even Christian charity requires us to shut our eyes to one evil to avoid another." For more than a quarter of a century the brandy war raged between the traders and the priests. Most of the secular officers were interested in Indian trade, and, as now, nothing paid so good a profit as brandy,—consequently they took sides in favor of the traffic.

Perhaps those who have so recently fought the battle of prohibition on one side or the other in this State, were not aware that the same battle was fought upon our own soil more than 200 years ago. Mackinaw and Detroit were both battle fields and the arguments on both sides were perhaps as full and forcible as any that have been used by the recent combatants.

TENTING ON THE OLD CAMP GROUND.

Some Truths about Military Encampments.

Co. C. 1st Infantry M. N. G.

at Camp Robinson.

The State Military Encampment at Island Lake this year differed but little from the camps of former years, inasmuch as the general attendance was just as good and duties and discipline up to the usual notch. Many predicted that on account of the disappointment in regard to attending the Exposition the boys would not turn out in as large numbers, nor feel the usual amount of interest in the encampment. These predictions, it has been proven, were not well founded, as Camp Robinson was far from a failure.

People in general are inclined to look askance at the militia and their doings, and no one is so much responsible for this feeling as our city dailies. All the city papers have their representatives on the ground day and night, delving into all sorts of unheard of things, noting incidents, jumping at conclusions, and making mice appear as large as elephants. Nothing escapes their notice and under the influence of their imaginative pencil the people of Michigan are led to believe that a state encampment of the militia is nothing more than a hot-bed of lawlessness. Of course there is the rough element in the troops, just as there is in any department of society; no town without its boisterous inhabitants, no fraternity without its questionable members, and is it plausible to expect a perfect moral military organization of 2,000 men? If a person considers in this wise, that there are a couple of hundred militia men up town having a regular blow-out and making things generally unhealthy, and do not seem to care for public peace nor property, then you have the general impression which most people labor under in regard to the troops as a whole. Now take into consideration for a moment the fact that while those two hundred men are into all sorts of deviltry there are at least eighteen hundred more men at the camp ground quiet, orderly and attending to their own business. It is this very fact, which the newspaper man fails to report, which throws the militia under the ban of public censure. The quiet nine-tenths are never heard of and the hilarious one-tenth give the whole state organization its reputation, which, even in its least pleasing presentation, is hugely exaggerated. Another fact, which is generally understood by those who attend camp, of which outsiders are in blissful ignorance, is that at least two-thirds of the depredations and distasteful events which are credited to the militia are in reality the work of camp hangers-on, who, coming from the worst elements in the cities, delight in committing cowardly tricks and shielding themselves behind the boys in blue. This year especially was this class of people well represented, and they did not hesitate to hold up and relieve of his valuables any unwary individual with whom they might chance to come in contact.

The burning of the hay and straw stacks on the last night of camp, for which the state will of course have to pay and the militia get the credit of doing, was without doubt the work of toughs who, having been fired from the camp grounds, had used the stacks as shelter and after having no further use for them concluded to revenge themselves on the military. It is probable that no enlisted man knew the origin of the fire, and it was by the efforts of the enlisted men that the two largest haystacks were saved. This much for camp and its happenings as a brigade gathering.

On Tuesday morning, the 9th of August, as Co. C were about ready to take the train for Island Lake, word was received by them that Captain Hayden had been taken ill and was unable to accompany them. The Company marched to the Captain's home and extended their sympathies; then, under Lieutenants McClure and Ross, boarded the train for Lenawee Junction. Arriving there our car and Co. B's, of Adrian, were coupled to a train on the Dundee branch and hauled into Dundee, where, after a short wait, we were transferred to the Toledo & Ann Arbor road and ran without further change to Island Lake, the D. L. & N. road not requiring a change of cars. On the way from Dundee we were joined by Co. A of Ann Arbor, by Co. G. of Ypsilanti at Howell Junction, and by Cos. D and H of Jackson at Hamburg. At camp we found the arrangement similar to that of '92, except that we now being junior regiment were the furthest one to the left or east of the grounds. Co. C is senior company of the 1st Infantry and so took its place at the right of the regiment, facing the Adrian company.

We got into camp and were mustered before 2 o'clock p. m. A short time after Quartermaster Westcott served dinner and the company messes got themselves organized as follows:

1st mess—Sergt. Farley, clerks Heidenrich and Boland, private Brown.

2nd—Sergt. Chase, Corp'l Purdy, privates Burridge, Hardenburgh and Westcott.

3rd—Corp'l Gray, privates Fitzsimmons, Burlingame, Hall, Hughes and Crossman.

4th—Sergt. Walker, Corp'ls Spalding, Tiffany and Lowry, private Hicks.

5th—Privates Riley, McCollum, Liddle and Cook.

6th—Privates Boyd brothers and Lowry brothers.

7th—Corp'ls Crossman and Lee, musicians Gray and Smallidge, private Hubbard.

8th—Privates Gregg, Smith, Harris and Titus.

9th—Privates George and Vincent Beneway, Hastings, Kerr and Reed.

10th—Sergts. Howard and Bewen, hospital Corp'l McClure, privates Rude, Howell, Dickinson and Albaugh.

Capt. Hayden arrived in camp Friday morning and at headquarters were Capt. Hayden and Orderly Hoy, Lieuts. McClure and Ross, and guests Coe and Crowell of Cleveland, Ohio.

Duties at camp were somewhat lighter this year, drills having been reduced [illegible] one-half to one and one-half hours, both in the forenoon and afternoon. Co. C made the best individual scores on the rifle range and was also credited with the best sentinel. Our company, together with the rest, enjoyed the extended order drill given by the 19th infantry for the purpose of instruction, also their exhibition guard mount. We were fortunate enough not to be obliged to report a single case of sickness at the hospital, every one enjoying good health compared with the companies around us.

Sunday was a large day, it being estimated that 7,000 visitors were on the grounds. The attraction for visitors is greatly reduced since the adoption of the new regulations, there not being so much to catch the eye. This year for the first time the color line was established and civilian and soldier obliged to raise his hat as he neared the colors.

Monday's event was the Governor's Review and Gov. Rich beheld for the first time in a body the little army of which he is Commander-in-Chief.

Tuesday morning saw Camp Robinson in a state of chaos, baggage being carried in every direction and everyone falling over someone else in the rush. Co. C started for home at 7:30 a. m. over the route by which we came. At Dundee we were delayed several hours and indulged in a lunch at the expense of Major Howell. Arriving at Lenawee Junction, no one knew whether we would be taken to Adrian and then back on the night train or pack up our effects and walk. This was settled by the Fayette train transferring its passengers to the 4 o'clock train into Adrian and then pulling our car home, where we arrived at about 5 o'clock p. m. and after some lusty cheering for our officers we broke ranks, each with the idea that the camp of '93 had been "something choice."

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

John I. Knapp, of Adrian, was in town last Friday.

Geo W. Stacy, of East Buffalo, was at home two or three days last week.

Russell Adkins is back in his old place in the post office for a few days.

Miss Helen Anderson returned last week from a lengthy visit at Battle Creek.

Herman E. Sullivan, of Whitehall, N. Y. is visiting at his uncle's, J. M. Ingersoll's.

O. B. Finch and Will Fisher took the Lake Shore special to Chicago yesterday morning.

The early celery crop is coming into market lively now. It is yielding abundantly and the quality is prime.

The Clerk of the weather has been exceedingly gracious this week, considering the number of picnics on the carpet.

A. B. Park, of Adrian, is having a special sale, which will continue until Sept. 1st. For particulars see his card elsewhere.

Florence and Minnie Thompson, of Denver, who have been visiting their cousin, Eda Ingersoll, left for home Monday night.

I. P. Keyser was home from Jackson Sunday and Monday. His celery patch contains seventeen acres, and promises an abundant yield.

Next Sunday evening Rev. J. P. Varner of the Methodist church will have for his subject: "The Intermediate State of the Dead."

Remember the Teacher's Institute to be held here next week. The State Institute now holding at Adrian will be transferred to this village.

Mrs. Gilluly, of Lawrence, Kan., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. D. W. Clark for some time past, will return home the first of next week.

The juvenile members of the Presbyterian Sunday School enjoyed a little picnic of their own last Saturday afternoon on the lawn near the church.

Remember the game next Saturday afternoon between the Clinton and Tecumseh clubs. This will be the first of a series of three games and a hot contest is expected.

The Lake Shore and Mich. Sou. R'y., will run another special excursion to Chicago on Aug. 30th, for one fare for round trip, tickets good for ten days from date of sale.

The Baptist church organ has been thoroughly overhauled and is now in first-class condition. Mr. J. W. Wilson did the work, and he has the reputation of being an expert at that business.

People who visit the World's Fair and have time to spend one day down in the city should take a trip to the Masonic Temple observatory. This building is 21 stories high and the roof furnishes the highest point of observation in the whole city, from which one can get a beautiful bird's eye view of Chicago and its suburbs.

The T. B. B. A. is getting finely started. The new organization has already had two good games, one with Milan and one with Ypsilanti. Their third game will be played with the Clinton club next Saturday afternoon, on Bills' race track. The Clintons are a strong team and a close contest may be expected. Game called at 3:30, sharp.

The distress prevailing among the people of the mining states is fearful. Nothing like it has ever been known in this country. Thousands of miners are on the verge of starvation, and the railroad trains coming east are loaded down with tramps. If there be any remedy for this state of affairs in legislation, Congress owes it to the people to apply the remedy as speedily as possible.

Will Arnold is on the sick list.

E. J. Hollister went to Napoleon Monday.

Jay St. John and Fred Sheldon are in Chicago this week.

Geo. Pardington preached in the Baptist church Sunday morning.

Frank Page has removed his upholstering and repair shop from Pearl street to the rear of Erskine's barber shop.

H. D. Reed and wife were in town Monday. Herb is selling peaches for Sherrard, the fruit man of Cambridge.

Leo. Bresie, who has been for some time past in Milwaukee, Wis., returned Saturday and is working for Frank Bryan.

H. V. C. Hart, of Adrian, was a Tecumseh visitor Tuesday. He got over here early enough to see the picnic rain pull out.

Prof. and Mrs. L. M. Kellogg arrived home Monday. They spent five weeks at Bad Axe and eight days at the World's Fair.

Any young man who desires a course in short hand should read the ad. of the Ann Arbor Stenographic Institute in another column.

The office Devil is running the Tecumseh News this week—Editor Field and Geo. Field both being absent—and he is buckling down to business like a major.

Stephen Whittier [illegible] broken ground for a new residence on Logan street. The material is on the ground and Mr. Whittier says he will put up a fancy cottage.

Rev. Dr. R. S. Pardington and wife, of Brooklyn, N. Y., have been visiting friends in town for a few days this week. They have been the guests of Mr. S. W. Anderson.

Geo. Vedder, of Adrian, has a pneumatic Columbia wheel on exhibition at Kirchgessner's, which he proposes to give to the man holding the lucky number. Chance for some one.

We are indebted to Jos. Oliver for several late copies of the Rocky Mountain News. If the News could have a general circulation east of the Alleghanies, we should have different legislation on the financial question.

The Chicago Entertainment Bureau have a large number of rooms at their disposal in hotels and private houses. They offer superior advantages to parties visiting the World's Fair; call at this office and get circulars with a map of Jackson Park.

A new soft drink has appeared called Wild Cherry Phosphate. It is sold in small bottles in the form of a condensed extract from which the drink is made by adding sugar and water. It is a healthful and delicious summer drink. John J. Orr keeps it for sale.

All wishing to take examinations to enter the Tecumseh High School are requested to be present at the Central building on Friday and Saturday, September 1st. and 2d. Also all who desire classification for the coming school year are requested to come on either of the above mentioned dates.

L. M. KELLOGG, Supt.

Some six weeks ago Wm. Sloan of Palmyra was injured by a stroke of lightning while riding home from town. He never recovered from the shock, and died Wednesday August 16th, Undertaker Merrill had charge of the funeral which was held at Palmyra, Friday the 18th. The remains were interred in the Tecumseh cemetery.

We are in receipt of the premium list of the Dundee Fair. The fair will be held four days this year, Sept. 19th to 22nd, inclusive. Many additions have been made to the premium list and a fine lot of prizes are offered. The Dundee folks propose to go right along with their fair, notwithstanding the show at Chicago.

Miss Florence Burlingame left Thursday for Cadillac.

Ernest Albaugh returned yesterday from a week's sojourn at Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Bert Blood, of Toledo, is visiting Tecumseh friends for a few days.

Regular communication of the Masonic Blue Lodge to-morrow evening.

Frank Jenkins is the new postmaster at Tipton. A better selection could not have been made.

We look for a large attendance and a very successful meeting at the Teachers' Institute here next week.

T. S. VanDuser has gone to Morenci for a few days to work up his music business.

A large number of Tecumseh people are attending the G. A. R. reunion at Adrian to-day.

Cleo Hall, Fred Rector and Ernest Kemp started for the World's Fair yesterday morning.

Miss Jessamine Ring returned to her home in Chicago, last Saturday, after six weeks vacation at Geo. Spafford's.

People who are willing to entertain teachers during the institute are requested to report to C. F. Field, local committee.

J. F. Brooks will soon handle Uncle Sam's mail at Onsted. Mr. Gibbs will retire after a faithful term of service through no fault of his own.

There will be two or three evening lectures during the Teachers' Institute next week, by Prof. Thompson and others, and perhaps a social one evening.

The Teachers' Institute next week will hold its sessions in the Central school building, and will begin work promptly at nine o'clock a. m., on Monday next, Aug. 28th.

Rev. Mr. Brown, of Negaunee, who preached in the Presbyterian church last Sabbath, is spending the present week here, and will occupy the same pulpit again next Sunday.

C. A. Slayton got a car load of water melons yesterday from St. Louis, Mo., which will supply this market for several days. The HERALD boys sampled one of the biggest ones and pronounced it prime.

The Misses Crowell, after a visit of some length with their grandmother Mrs. Wm. Bresie, returned to their home in Cleveland last Saturday. Maggie Spafford accompanied them, to visit her cousin, Mrs. Frank Kirk.

Philip Kehoe has the largest yield reported yet from the No. 6 wheat put out by C. A. Slayton, 51 1-2 bushels by weight, from one acre. Archie Boyd had 43 and E. G. Price 44 bushels by thresher's measure. This is the wheat to sow when price is low. You can see it at Slayton's warehouse.

There was an immense crowd as usual at the big Devils Lake picnic yesterday. Everybody seemed to be there with their uncles, cousins and aunts. The attendance must have exceeded twenty thousand, a big crowd going from this section via the Mackinaw. Our report is necessarily deferred till next week.

The marriage of Mr. Hugh Ladd, of Adrian, and Miss Tina VanValkenburg, took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents in Franklin. The happy couple will spend their honeymoon at the World's Fair. The HERALD joins their numerous friends in extending congratulations.

The Brooklyn Exponent is just twelve years old, and issued the first number of the thirteenth volume last week. Mrs. Clough is giving the citizens of Brooklyn an excellent newspaper, which deserves their undivided patronage. We wish the Exponent a dozen years more of unexampled prosperity.

The Teachers' Institute which will begin here on Monday next should be attended by every teacher residing in Northern Lenawee county. The change of location next week was made for their accommodation and benefit and they will doubtless return the compliment by attending in good numbers. For full particulars see the official notice in another column.

Some sneak thief stole a quantity of fine white lillies from a lawn on Logan street recently. They not only took the beautiful flowers but broke off the large flower stalk that would have blossomed a month. The persons are suspected and watched; should the offence be repeated in any way they may pay dear for such lawlessness.

The ladies of the Womans H. M. Society of the M. E. church will hold an all day meeting at the church parlors on Wednesday next Aug. 30th. Business meeting at three o'clock. All holding mite boxes will please bring them in. Tea will be served from five until seven o'clock. A very cordial invitation is extended to all. By order of committee.

The Ypsilanti ball club came over Tuesday and contested with the Association nine. The game was late in being called and interest lagged some. Loose playing on both sides made the score card look like a bulletin board shot with grape and canister. In the third inning Jewett of Ypsilanti, either carelessly or intentionally, smashed into the baseman Palmer, while stealing second, disabling him so that he was compelled to withdraw from the game. Rogers, of Clinton, was supplied. At the end of the 7th inning the game was called, the score standing 26 to 19 in favor of Tecumseh. Batteries: Tecumseh, King and Dixon; Ypsilanti, Mahaney, Wilson and Jewett. Umpires, Beebe and Crossman.

Teachers' Institute at Tecumseh.

To the Teachers of Lenawee County—I am pleased to announce that arrangements have been made to hold a one week's institute at the high school building in Tecumseh, beginning at 9 o'clock Monday morning, Aug. 28th.

The State Teachers' Institute, now holding a two week's session at Adrian, will virtually be transferred to Tecumseh at the above named date. The conductor is Prof. Thompson, superintendent of Saginaw Schools, and he is assisted by Prof. Rankin, of Lapeer, and Prof. Cook, of the Detroit high school. These gentlemen are institute workers of well-known ability and the instruction which they give to [illegible] practical value to teachers.

The institute is being conducted on the modern, improved method of actual school-room work, in which the teacher is called upon to take a practical part in the work, the institute being divided into sections for that purpose.

The corps of instructors will be the same at Tecumseh as at Adrian and every effort will be put forth to make it a week of great value to [illegible] members.

Teachers of Northern Lenawee, this institute has been arranged especially for your benefit. Will you not show your appreciation by attending every day of the session?

The special examination, originally fixed for August 26th, will be postponed one week and be held at Tecumseh on Saturday, Sept. 2d.

C. F. FIELD,
School Commissioner.

Last Thursday afternoon the Milan ball club played with the T. H. S. nine on our ground and were victorious by a score of 18 to 22. The next afternoon they crossed bats with the Tecumseh Association nine. Unable to cope with our new battery, King and Dixon, their victory of the day before dwindled into nothingness, when the score showed 1 run to their credit and 36 to the home club.

The Sunday School picnic Tuesday was an unqualified success. Six coaches left the Mackinaw depot at eight a. m. crowded to the gun wales with old and young. It was a beautiful day for such a gathering. The time was passed at Devils Lake to the intense delight of the little ones and even the older ones entered into the days sport with all the vivacity of youth. Not an accident occurred to mar the pleasures of the day.

The funeral of the late Mrs. B. C. Knapp, was held at the family residence on Sunday afternoon, at which time a large gathering of neighbors and friends assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to a noble woman. Rev. J. P. Varner spoke words of consolation to the mourners and the Presbyterian choir sang some beautiful hymns. A fond wife and loving mother has gone to her final reward.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

S. S. S. CURES MALARIAL POISON

Nature should be assisted to throw off impurities of the blood. Nothing does it so well, so promptly, or so safely as Swift's Specific.

LIFE HAD NO CHARMS.

For three years I was troubled with malarial poison, which caused my appetite to fail, and I was greatly reduced in flesh, and life lost all its charms. I tried mercurial and potash remedies, but to no effect. I could get no relief. I then decided to try S. S. S. A few bottles of this wonderful medicine made a complete and permanent cure, and I now enjoy better health than ever.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION. A large manufacturer, whose affairs were very much embarassed, and who was overworked and broken down with nervous exhaustion, went to a celebrated specialist. He was told that the only thing needed was to be relieved of care and worry, and have a change of thought. This doctor was more considerate of his patient's health than of his financial circumstances. He ought to have advised him to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the best remedy for nervous prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, headache, ill effects of spirits, tobacco, coffee, opium, etc. Thousands testify to cures. THE STATE BUILDINGS.

New York's Is the Handsomest at the Fair.

PENNSYLVANIA'S IS ALSO FINE.

Great Preparations Being Made for the Keystone State's Day at the Exposition on Sept. 7—Virginia's Building a Reproduction of Washington's Home at Mount Vernon—Some Other Buildings.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 18.—[Special.] New York, as a matter of course, has finest state building on the ground. It has been described in print, I suppose, about 800 times. I only mention it here to note the care with which everything about it is kept up and the general tidiness, comfort and elegance of the place. All the fountains are running, and when they make the air seem cooler their gentle murmur gives a restful effect. All the flowers are blooming freshly, all the palms are cool and green all the parlors are neat and elegant, there is plenty of room and the arrangements for correspondence are a little better than in an average newspaper office I have recently worked in. Sept. 5 is set as the state day, when Governor Flower and many other great men will be here, but no formal programme has yet been agreed on.

Pennsylvania occupies an equal space just west of New York, and her building is almost equal to the latter's, these two fronting the Art galleries on the south, constituting the central nucleus of state buildings. Thursday, Sept. 7, is to be Pennsylvania's day and a most elaborate programme has been prepared. All residents of the state and all sons and daughters of Pennsylvania, wherever resident, are urged to meet at the building about 10 a. m. and dedicating exercises will be held. Possibly the later exercises will be in one of the large halls. The state's thirty commissioners for this fair are all to be present. There will be prayer by Bishop Cyrus D. Foss and brief addresses by Governor Pattison, Lieutenant Governor Watres, Chief Justice Sterrett, Attorney General Hensel and Colonel A. K. McClure.

But this is only the official and smallest part of the proceedings. All the afternoon and evening will be filled with festivities, fireworks and fun, receptions and Pennsylvania reunions. The governor is to issue a proclamation calling the clans to Chicago and as he and his suite come across the country all the sons and daughters of the Keystone commonwealth are expected to fall in the rear so long as there are cars to haul them. At least so the enthusiastic natives say. Of course business will not be neglected, however, for that isn't the way of that state. More than one native there of her's said that no other commonwealth in the world is so little influenced by mere sentiment as Pennsylvania, and a veteran politician thereof once made this reply to a youth who inquired as to party management, "My son, go and study Pennsylvania."

A socio-politico-financial question which sets all Massachusetts to talking and writing and makes a campaign in Indiana a pretty fair imitation of civil war, which makes Iowa roar as if a prairie fire swept it and sets Kansas wild, raises scarce a ripple on the broad and placid bosom of Pennsylvania. It is said that the state has never had a fad or an ism or a great religious excitement outside of Philadelphia. Even her labor riots are on a strictly business basis. So it will be a delightful novelty to see her go wild and take the White City for one night. After much parading and music there will be Pennsylvania fireworks on the lake front and the wooded island. Four set pieces are being prepared for the lake front, from original designs in pyrotechnic art, which are expected to excel anything previously shown in America. They will represent "The Keystone," "The Pennsylvania Coat of Arms," "William Penn" and the word "Pennsylvania."

Virginia, by odd contrast with her neighbor, is probably the most sentimental state in the Union, and her building and all its belongings show it. It is, as all the world knows, a model or reproduction of the home of Washington at Mount Vernon, and it is filled with relics of colonial and revolutionary times. It is not designed for an exhibit or even a place of popular resort, except so far as the porches and open grove in the rear give ample room for the weary. Everything about the whole structure seems calculated to excite the softer and more tender emotions of patriotism, everything seems to say, remember the glorious past, respect the patriots and sages who are gone and strive to emulate their virtues. The Buckle who is to explain the curious differences between the Americans of various sections, will, when he comes, have one delightful task; it will be to explain how a region not quite 100 miles square, between the Blue Ridge and low tide water, has produced more presidents, generals and senators, more able orators in law, religion and politics, more state governors and more adventurous pioneers than any equal area in the same time since the golden age of Athens.

My first visit to Virginia's building was on the evening of her state day. General Fitzhugh Lee and Senator Daniel had held forth at Music hall and the evening reception was just beginning. Everybody and everything American was duly honored except the letter "r." The soft southern accent dispenses with that liquid consonant, and nowhere is that accent used with a greater charm than among the cultivated people of Virginia. The fact the state building is a reproduction of Washington's home makes it look small beside its neighbors. Iowa is to its right, as one looks north, and to the west and southwest are the territories. Crossing the avenue west of Utah's building (Brigham Young stands there in good likeness, but I do not see his wife about) and turning to the southwest with the winding walk one passes in succession the buildings of Texas, Kansas, North Dakota, Nebraska, South Dakota, Washington, Colorado and California to the right and those of various older states to the left.

All these, be it noted, are in the extreme north end of the park, and Illinois alone has her state building south of the north pond, as she is the only state to make an attempt at a complete exhibit in her state building. Washington and California have some truly wonderful exhibits of big timber, and Michigan has what she calls an outside exhibit in the lumber line, her state building being for social purposes. Michigan shows her lumber in all sorts of shapes, and just south of Machinery hall has a regular logging camp, an exact reproduction of one in the northern woods. It is the old fashioned double cabin of unhewn logs, the two cabins connected by a covered open way, and about it are the adjuncts of the camp including a "load."

Now it is alleged by the north Michiganders that all this pile of logs was hauled into camp last winter by a single team of horses over a road where the snow was so nicely beaten down that it was like ice, but as it contains fifty logs 18 feet long and weighing 144 tons, one naturally hankers for a sight of the sled and the figures as to the weight and pedigree of the team. However, these fellows say that on the smooth ice of those northern woods, when sleet and freezing and wearing have done their work, a child can shove along the heaviest two-horse sled. The logs make a sort of pyramid about 90 feet high and the lumberman's estimate is that they will work into 36,000 feet of lumber.

This camp and its adjuncts may be set down as a sort of second Michigan state building, for in it is shown the common life of a class which even yet is large, though growing smaller and destined to rapidly grow much smaller as the timber area is exhausted. It shows that the logger's life is not all labor and privation, for the cabin contains many comforts and the walls are thick set with photographs in rustic frames showing the wild and romantic scenery of the woods. They present pretty openings in the primeval forests, vistas among the tall pines and lovely dells to be found here and there along the streams. Log "booms" are pictured in the same streams which resemble the financial and real estate "booms" in this, that they often give way as suddenly as the latter do, and sometimes with fatal results to the loggers.

Another exhibit which may be called a state adjunct is that of Mr. F. G. Logan, of Chicago, in the Anthropological building, which consists of stone implements and weapons of every stage represented in America. It might be called an adjunct of three states, for Mr. Horatio N. Rust began to make the collection while a boy in New Hampshire, continued it while a business man in Chicago and made immense additions to it while a resident of Pasadena, Cal. He finally sold it to Mr. Logan, who is a member of the board of trade of Chicago, and he has arranged it here in an order which illustrates the progress of the aborigine from his first choice of stones suitable to crack nuts or crush bones to get at the marrow, down to the polished flints at which, apparently, the native American stopped, unless one counts the Mound builders, who certainly used copper.

Primeval man, says the speculative scientist, came naked and bare into a world of toil and terror. On every side he saw dread phenomena, but had no idea of their cause. With him there could be no distinction between the natural and the supernatural, for he was as ignorant of the one as of the other. Of the reign of law he had no conception, but he did have clear ideas of one subject—the feelings of himself and his fellowmen. To him every motion had a motive. There was to him but one possible solution of what he saw going on about him—it was all the work of beings influenced by pleasure and anger and spurred on by hunger and love, like himself and his fellows. These beings must be propitiated at any cost, and so along with the rude pestle and mortar and flint arrowhead we find rude attempts to make something to please the gods. And as the dead chief was liable to turn into a god, or to need what he had needed in life, they buried all these things with him, and sometimes added a few dogs and wives and other slaves to be on the safe side.

Very poor judgment, indeed, in the savages, but very fortunate for our anthropologists. It was just the same as when a party of travelers in the wilderness leave at every camp part of their worn out materials and bits of bone indicating what they ate and how they cooked it. As we can track the travelers from camp to camp, so we can track the journey of man as a species from the day when he first selected a slightly hollowed stone in which to crack a cocoanut down to the time when steel first came into use. Mr. Logan's collection indicates that the "mitata" or grinding stone of the Indians was gradually hollowed out on top by long usage, that the savage then got a round pointed stone and pounded his acorns or grass seeds or bones in the cavity thus formed and so by a happy accident, as it were, the pestle and mortar was invented. That was brought to perfection and then another step was taken

One specimen from southern California shows a bottomless basket fastened on to the rim of the mortar by a sort of tough plaster. This made a very complete affair, indeed, and doubtless marked a great advance for those days. There are some very nice cooking vessels cut from solid stone, and the system employed probably was that of heating small white stones and dropping them into the mess often enough to keep it at a cooking heat. There are several stove lamps from northern California which the aborigines doubtless used with fish or animal oils and a piece of fibrous bark for a wick. Tomahawks and arrowheads, of course, are innumerable, as the condition was one of chronic war, and not only are there stone axes but stone spades and what seem to be plow points.

In my boyhood stone arrowheads were so plentiful on the Wabash hills that every boy had a store of them. Later they became valuable, but a few years ago a strip was discovered across a sand ridge near the river, along which the ground was thick set with them and with stone hatchets. It must have been the battle line for a long time. Mr. Logan's specimens were in like manner found in groups or along ancient battle lines. There are over 8,000 pieces in his exhibit and they represent every detail of aboriginal life, war and worship. Yet large as this collection is it occupies but a small corner of the Anthropological building and that in turn is but an insignificant section of the fair. Verily, five months is but scant time to see this show.

Guy Geoway, aged 61, one of the best known of the older residents of the West side, Grand Rapids, committed suicide in the Union Benevolent Association home by swallowing a large dose of carbolic acid. Despondency over continued poor health was the cause.

MAY CLOSE THE EXHIBIT.

Michigan Commissioners Disgusted at the Apathy of Fruit Growers.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 19.—Unless fruit growers respond more liberally to the request of the Michigan world's fair commission for fruit, the state exhibit will be closed September 1. The commission appropriated $6,000 to pay the expenses of collecting and shipping, but such is the want of public spirit of the fruit growers that they demand pay for their products. It has been necessary for the commission to buy Michigan fruit in the Chicago market in order to fill the shelves. Disgusted at last, they threaten to close the doors unless the exhibit is strengthened.

Grand Rapids Prisoners Escape.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 18.—Five prisoners escaped from the county jail Thursday night and are still at large. They were in the west corridor of the third floor, and sometime during the afternoon they cut a hole through the sheet iron covering of the corridor. After dark they cut through the roof of the jail and made their escape. George H. Wilson, Tony Pulaski, Ernest French, Phillip White and Clarence Hall are the men that made their escape.

Lambs Dying by Hundreds.

IONIA, Aug. 19.—A serious epidemic has broken out among the sheep in Ionia county. Three prominent farmers have already lost over 400 lambs that were recently imported from Kentucky and three-fourths of another large flock of home bred lambs have died. The State Live Stock Sanitary association has sent a representative here to investigate the cause of the mortality.

To Improve the Detroit River.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 21.—The dominion government has granted permission to the United States authorities to proceed with their work of improving the Detroit river channel at Lime Kiln crossing, in Canadian waters, irrespective of the boundary line, stipulating, however, that such permission is without prejudice to Canada's rights of possession as defined by treaty.

Death of Frank Millis.

PORT HURON, Aug. 18.—Hon. Frank Millis, one of the most prominent men in this section of the state and well known all over Michigan, died Tuesday night of nervous prostration. Mr. Millis was head of the Order of Foresters in this state, ex-grand regent of the Royal Arcanum, editor of a Royal Arcanum paper and ex-collector of customs from this port.

Arrested at Kalamazoo for Forgery.

KALAMAZOO, Aug. 20.—Detective Carew, of Toledo, arrested Fred Stoddard at Hunt's tavern early Saturday morning on a charge of forgery. Stoddard is charged with indorsing a draft belonging to another Stoddard for $352. Uncle Sam wants him also for taking a letter belonging to another person.

A LEADER.

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. J. J. Orr, druggist.

The potency of decayed eggs is remarkable. Even the silver question has failed to rouse General Weaver from his lethargy.

It takes the President weeks to make up his mind as to what he shall say. A woman would have said her say at once and made up her mind after it was over.

WHAT DO YOU TAKE

Medecine for? Because you are sick and want to get well, or because you wish to prevent illness. Then remember that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures all diseases caused by impure blood and debility of the system. It is not what its proprietors say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit. Be sure to get Hood's, and only Hood's.

One great trouble with Governor Waite is that he won't wait.

I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. —Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

Being a sufferer from chronic catarrh, and having derived great benefit from the use of Ely's Cream Balm, I can highly recommend it. Its sales are far in excess of all other catarrh remedies. —B. Franken, Druggist, Sigourney, Iowa

Address .....

Information concerning the school can be had by addressing M. P. McGregor, 20 McGraw building, Detroit.

Here an opportunity is afforded the student to combine the work of the school with that of the office, so that the practical and the scientific elements of his education may progress together. To this end all exercises of the college are held in the evening and students are also encouraged in securing work during the day in suitable law offices in the city. They are also encouraged in attending the various courts, so far as this does not interfere with their other duties.

The city furnishes good opportunities for obtaining employment to those who are obliged to earn money to defray their expenses while attending the college.

Death of Col. Hugh Richard.

The following obituary mention is clipped from the Jackson Patriot of Aug. 9th. The deceased was for many years a resident of Tecumseh, and while he lived here, he took rank among our foremost citizens. His original trade was that of a brick mason and he afterwards became an extensive contractor and builder. The central school, the Lilley House block and many of our older business blocks and houses were constructed under his supervision. He has always kept up his acquaintance here, and many of our citizens will deeply sympathise with the family in their bereavement.

Col. Hugh Richard, one of the best known men in Jackson, died at his residence, 135 Wildwood avenue, at 5 o'clock Thursday morning, aged 69 years.

Col. Richard had been suffering for some time past with liver trouble, but up to last Saturday his familiar figure was daily seen on the streets, and the news of his demise came in the nature of a shock to his many friends.

Deceased came to America when a young man and settled, with a brother, at Tecumseh where he married Miss Anna Weeks. Twenty-four years ago he came to Jackson and for many years was a prominent contractor and builder, having constructed many of the business blocks of the city. He also became a large owner of Jackson property as well as in mining lands in Ashland, Wis., and Hurley, Mich., from which he acquired a goodly competence.

Politically Mr. Richard was a staunch democrat and in 1888 was a delegate to the democratic national convention which nominated Grover Cleveland for president.

Deceased was one of the charter members of Edward Pomeroy Post, G. A. R. having served for a year as captain of a Tecumseh company in the Seventh Michigan Infantry, resigning on account of ill health.

He leaves a widow and three children—W. Archie Richard, Mrs. Frances D. Bennett and Mrs. Fanny Wetmore—all of whom live in the city.

The funeral was held at the residence at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

PRIZES ON PATENTS.

How to Get Twenty-five Hundred Dollars For Nothing.

Would you like to make twenty-five hundred dollars? If you would, read carefully what follows and you may see a way to do it.

The Press Claims Company devotes much attention to patents. It has handled thousands of applications for inventions, but it would like to handle thousands more. There is plenty of inventive talent at large in this country needing nothing but encouragement to produce good results. That encouragement the Press Claims Company proposes to to give.

NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

A patent strikes most people as an appalling formidable thing. The idea is that an inventor must be a natural genius, like Edison or Bell; that he must devote years to delving in complicated mechanical problems and that he must spend a fortune on duplicate experiments before he can get a new device to a patentable degree of perfection. This delusion the company desires to dispel. It desires to get into the mind of the public a clear comprehension of the fact that it is not the great, complex, and expensive inventions that bring the best returns to their authors, but the little, simple, cheap ones—the things that seem so absurdly trivial that the average citizen would feel somewhat ashamed of bringing them to the attention of the Patent Office.

Edison says that the profits he has received from the patents on all his marvelous inventions have not been sufficient to pay the cost of his experiments. But the man who conceived the idea of fastening a bit of rubber cord to a child's ball so that it would come back to hand when thrown, made a fortune out of his scheme. The modern sewing machine is a miracle of ingenuity—the product of the toil of hundreds of busy brains through a hundred and fifty years, but the whole brillant result rests upon the simple device of putting the eye of the needle at the point instead of at the other end.

THE LITTLE THINGS ARE MOST VALUABLE.

Comparatively few people regard themselves as inventors, but almost everybody has been struck, at one time or another, with ideas that seemed calculated to reduce some of the little frictions of life. Usually such ideas are dismissed without further thought.

"Why don't the railway company make its car windows so that they can be slid up and down without breaking the passengers' backs?" exclaims the traveler. "If I were running the road I would make them in such a way."

"What was the man that made the saucepan thinking of?" grumbles the cook. "He never had to work over a stove, or he would have known how it ought to have been fixed."

"Hang such a collar button!" growls the man who is late for breakfast. "If I were in the business I'd make buttons that wouldn't slip out, or break off, or gouge out the back of my neck."

And then the various sufferers forget about their grievances and begin to think of something else. If they would sit down at the next convenient opportunity, put their ideas about car windows, saucepans, and collar buttons into practical shape, and then apply for patents, they might find themselves as independently wealthy as the man who invented the iron umbrella ring, or the one who patented the fifteen puzzle.

A TEMPTING OFFER.

To induce people to keep track of their bright ideas and see what there is in them, the Press Claims Company has resolved to offer a prize.

To the person who submits to it the simplest and most promising invention, from a commercial point of view, the company will give twenty-five hundred dollars in cash, in addition to refunding the fees for securing the patent.

It will also advertise the invention free of charge.

This offer is subject to the following conditions:

Every competitor must obtain a patent for his invention through the company. He must first apply for a preliminary search, the cost of which will be five dollars. Should this search show his invention to be unpatentable, he can withdraw without further expense. Otherwise he will be expected to complete his application and take out a patent in the regular way. The total expense, including Government and Bureau fees, will be seventy dollars. For this, whether he secures the prize or not, the inventor will have a patent that ought to be a valuable property to him. The prize will be awarded by a jury consisting of three reputable patent attorneys of Washington. Intending competitors should fill out the following blank, and forward it with their application:

———, ——. 1893.

"I submit the within described invention in competition for the Twenty-five hundred Dollar Prize offered by the Press Claims Company.

NO BLANKS IN THIS COMPETITION.

This is a competition of rather an unusual nature. It is common to offer prizes for the best story, or picture, or architectural plan, all the competitors risking the loss of their labor and the successful one merely selling his for the amount of the prize. But the Press Claims Company's offer is something entirely different. Each person is asked merely to help himself, and the one who helps himself to the best advantage is to be rewarded for doing it. The prize is only a stimulus to do something that would be well worth doing without it. The architect whose competitive plan for a club house on a certain corner is not accepted has spent his labor on something of very little use to him. But the person who patents a simple and useful device in the Press Claims Company's competition, need not worry if he fail to secure the prize. He has a substantial result to show for his work—one that will command its value in the market at any time.

The plain man who uses any article in his daily work ought to know better how to improve it than the mechanical expert who studies it only from the theoretical point of view. Get rid of the idea that an improvement can be too simple to be worth patenting. The simpler the better. The person who best succeeds in combining simplicity and popularity will get the Press Claims Company's twenty-five hundred dollars.

The responsibility of this company may be judged from the fact that its stock is held by about three hundred of the leading newspapers of the United States.

Address the Press Claims Company, John Wedderburn, managing attorney, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

LAPE HAD BEEN INSANE.

When a Boy in New York State He Shot a Doctor Who Was His Rival in Love.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The arrest and incarceration of Jonathan J. Lape, formerly of South Sodus, Wayne county, in the jail at St. John's, Clinton county, Mich., upon the charge of assisting his sister, Mrs. Henry Lyvere, of Ovid, Mich., to murder her husband on the night of August 6 last, recalls the fact that Lape was born and bred in this vicinity. The young man had a good common school education, was especially bright and taught school for a number of years in the towns of Rose, Sodus and Lyons. When he was about 21 years of age he became partially deranged. About that time a German family by the name of Nico, a widow and two daughters, were living near. Lape became infatuated with the youngest girl of the family, Miss Emily, but apparently was displaced in her affections by young Dr. William A. Wheoden. Wheoden taunted Lape occasionally by saying that he had been to visit the Nico girls, and this galled Lape's pride exceedingly. On the night of September 30, 1863, Lape took his shotgun, hid behind the road fence, and when Dr. Wheoden came driving along shot him dead. The murderer was declared to be insane and was committed to the Utica insane asylum, from which he escaped within a year and fled to the west.

Read What DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN Have Done.

"At 14 years of age I learned a bad habit which almost ruined me. I became nervous and weak. My back troubled me. I could stand no exertion. Head and eyes became dull. Dreams and drains at night weakened me. I tried seven Medical Firms, Electric Belts, Patent Medicines and Family Doctors. They gave me no help. A friend advised me to try Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. They sent me one month's treatment and it cured me. I could feel myself gaining every day. Their New Method Treatment cures when all else fails." They have cured many of my friends."

Dr. Moulton. Cured 3 years ago. Capt. Townsend.

CURES GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

"Some 8 years ago I contracted a serious constitutional blood disease. I went to Hot Springs to treat for syphilis. Mercury almost killed me. After a while the symptoms again appeared. Throat became sore, pains in limbs, pimples on face, blotches, eyes red, loss of hair, glands enlarged, etc. A medical friend advised Drs. Kennedy & Kergan's New Method Treatment. It cured me, and I have had no symptoms for five years. I am married and happy. As a doctor, I heartily recomend it to all who have this terrible disease—syphilis." It will eradicate the poison from the blood."

15 YEARS IN DETROIT. 150,000 CURED.

"I am 33 years of age, and married. When young I led a gay life. Early indiscretions and later excesses made trouble for me. I became weak and nervous. My kidneys became affected and I feared Bright's disease. Married life was unsatisfactory and my home unhappy. I tried everything—all failed till I took treatment from Drs. Kennedy and Kergan. Their New Method built me up mentally, physically and sexually. I feel and act like a man in every respect. Try them."

Still very dry and dusty.

Sim Aten and wife visited friends at Napoleon lately.

Elder Robinson and wife are taking a vacation at present.

More races on the new track Saturday afternoon of this week.

Grasshoppers have destroyed some gardens in this locality.

J. O. Maxwell was with the Knights at Sand Lake last week.

Mrs. Julia Reed is taking in the sights at the Windy City.

Annual school meeting September 4th, so don't forget to attend.

Some farmers are foddering their stock, as their pastures are drying up.

Charlie Reed has had quite a quantity of fence burned by railroad fires lately.

Mrs. Smyth, of St. Louis, Mich., visited friends in this vicinity last week.

Some of our citizens attended the band reunion at Hudson and report a good time.

Hand & Howard are building a tile shed at their yard, the dimensions being 112x30 feet.

Nearly everyone attended the Farmers' picnic at Devil's Lake but report a very dusty time.

A few from around here attended the county officers' picnic at Sand Lake on Friday of last week.

Eureka! A new, full-blooded, eight-pound girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Aldrich August 22nd.

Quite an exodus from this vicinity last Sunday to visit the Knights Templar encampment at Sand Lake.

The postoffice plum has fallen into the lap of John F. Brooks and we congratulate Frank on his good luck.

Will Shultis carried off one of the first blankets at the Brooklyn matinee, which makes him feel right jolly.

The majority of the farmers in this vicinity are patiently waiting for rain in order to do their fall plowing.

Mrs. Christina Desermia and daughter Bessie, of Gratiot county, are the guests of friends here at present.

The Woodstock and Cambridge farmers' club picnic at Truax grove, Devil's Lake, was a success throughout.

A bee was held recently to haul stone and dig a cellar for a parsonage, which will be erected on the lot just north of Grange hall.

The horse, George S, owned by Geo. Shugars, of this place, was somewhat injured at the Adrian races, which will probably lay him off the track for this season.

On Monday evening of last week the F. and A. M. fraternity, with friends, indulged in an ice cream supper at their pleasant hall. About 150 took supper.

Rev. George R. Holt, of North Parma, N. Y., formerly pastor of the church here, called on old-time friends while on his way home from the World's fair.

Miss Phœbe Brooks, after living in single blessedness for over sixty years, has taken unto herself a husband by the name of Milton Sutton, of Osseo, Hillsdale county, and will reside hereafter at that place.

MACON MUSIC.

Mrs. Jennie Burg, of Ann Arbor, spent last week among relatives and friends.

B. S. Scudder's new brick store is being rapidly built and will be quite an addition to our town.

Mrs. Mark Barns, of Horton, is spending a few weeks with Mrs. Isaiah Hendershot and Mrs. Isaac Mills.

Miss Satie Jackson is suffering with the hay fever; we also notice that Dr. Morden sneezes occasionally.

Mrs. Lyman Ames and daughter, Cora, of Ypsilanti, spent Friday and Saturday, as guests of Mrs. Rose Crittenden.

Mrs. Nellie Gillis, of Nebraska, woh has been visiting her father, Mark Hendershot and other friends, returned last week.

Miss Franc Richart left Tuesday morning to visit the World's Fair a few days and will then go to Republic, U. P. where she will teach the coming year.

Mr. Thomas Liddle and daughter, Misses Maude Howell, Elva and Mary Richart, Mrs. Wm. Morgan, John Howell and Gamble Kuder are in Chicago, taking in the big fair.

The Demorest Silver Medal Contest held in the M. E. church, last Friday evening, was a grand success. The contestants were Misses Grace Sage, Edith Cotton, Ida Hendershot and Grace Collins, Messrs Bert Osborne, Joe Howell, Lee Pennington and Gabie Mills. They all deserve great praise, as also does the Clinton glee club and Miss Emma Bailey for the excellent music they furnished. The judges were Prof. White, of the Raisin Valley Seminary, Mrs. Hill and Miss May Cornelius, also from Raisin Valley; they awarded the silver medal to Ida Hendershot, which seemed to be satisfactory to all. Every one pronounce it the best entertainment ever given in Macon and we look for another in the near future.

Will Allshouse had the misfortune to lose his handsome gray horse last Sunday night. He was sick but a few hours.

The evening dress parade of the Knights Templar, at Sand Lake, and the excellent music discoursed by the band, drew an admiring crowd every day. The memorial exercises, in honor of Gen. Innez, Friday evening, were very impressive.

On Saturday the various members of the Hendryx family, and several invited friends met for a picnic, at Sand Lake, in honor of Mr. Dwight Hendryx, of New York, who is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hendryx, of this place. A very pleasant party.

A farmer living near Pentecost counted 115 teams that passed his home returning from the Sand Lake encampment, Sunday evening. Then he went to bed, and he says they kept going all night, but he was too sleepy to keep the count. Those who were there, say the crowd was immense.

It is reported that when he went to get his team to go home from the Lake, Sunday evening, one man found his fine new set of double harness missing, it having been stolen from the carriage, by some sneak. We have not been able to learn particulars, or the name of the owner of the harness.

Sneak thieves stole a lot of chickens from one of our merchants at the Crossing, and Sunday night they took some wheat, he had bought for chicken feed, bags and all. The thieves are "marked" and are being watched for developements. The thief who would steal fifty cent wheat, ought to go to Jackson for his vacation.

Will Camburn, whose life was despaired of by his friends for a long time, and who has suffered intensely from a very bad case of blood poisoning, is now said to be recovering, and it is believed his arm will be all right in time. Dr. Rice, his physician has reason to feel proud of such an achievement, and hosts of friends will rejoice at Will's recovery.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

A good many Franklin people were at Sand lake, Sunday.

James and George Allen are down with asthma.

Arthur Bradley has gone to the World's Fair.

Mrs. Ed Wisner is much worse. Miss Alma Whelan is with her.

Clarence Wisner has been blasting stones with festive dynamite.

Frank Youngs and wife, of near West Liberty, were visiting here last week.

Ed Wisner lost a healthy, three months old calf, Monday night. While drinking its milk it choked to death.

At the center school, Blanche Hampton again wields the rod of state; Clarence Burtless at the Bradley and Jennie Van Tuyle at the stone school house.

Remember the Lyceum and the election of officers at Lorenzo Billington's, one week from Saturday night. Everyone interested in the Lyceum should be there.

It is the unanimous belief of the community including Mr. Wells and family that the burning of his barns was the work of an incendiary. At 2 a. m. the son, Wyman, was awakened by the crowing of a cock, the fire was then well under way, then followed the rousing of the family, the ringing of the bell, the opening of the barn yard gate to save the poor cattle, the sending of the hired man to rouse the neighbors and then the brave but unequal fight of the few who could be roused at that hour. Eight buildings were burned, the well and wind mill pretty well in the midst of them, the burning derrick fell soon after fire was discovered, another well at the house was dry, the cistern contained the only available supply of water, with this by a hairs breath they saved the house and two or three small buildings near it, every thing in it being removed of course in haste. Two buggies, a cutter and fanning mill were gotten out; everything else burned including nearly 2,000 bushels wheat, 1,000 bushels oats, large quantity of hay, farm tools, some hens and chickens and even some cats; happily no other live stock burned. The yard and road fence were licked up clean and Wm. Bradley's fence quite a distance away caught fire. The insurance is a trifle above $1,600.

FAIRFIELD FACTS.

Fire broke out in R. C. Fuller's sawmill about one o'clock Friday morning and soon destroyed it. There was no insurance and Mr. Fuller's loss is estimated at five thousand dollars. It destroys, for a time at least, one of Fairfield's best business enterprises and throws quite a number of men out of work. If a shower Thursday evening had not wet the lumber and surrounding buildings the destruction must have been much greater. We have heard no explanation as to how the fire started.

Lou Arner and Kittie Clark returned Tuesday evening from a two weeks' visit with friends at Hudson and Pittsford.

Quite a number went to Tecumseh Saturday to see the ball game between the Jackson and Clinton clubs on Bills' park.

Chas. Underwood, wife and daughter Jennie and Montie Florence left for a weeks' visit at the World's Fair last week Thursday.

D. W. Smith and Lulu and Mollie Rappleye were among friends who spent several days at Wampler's and Sand Lakes last week.

Dispatcher Frank Allen and family, of Toledo, arrived in the village Tuesday morning for a few days' visit with their parents during their vacation.

Mrs. C. W. Culbertson, who has been at Ceresco for the past two weeks during the sickness of Mrs. Culbertson, returned to her home Friday morning.

The last quarterly meeting for the present conference year will be held next Sunday evening. Love feast at 6:30 and sacrament of the Lord's supper after the close of the evening service, conducted by Presiding Elder Davis.

Prof. and Mrs. Martin Palmer, of Wyandotte, are visiting at the Doctor's this week. The Professor is making preparations to move to Jackson, where he will superintend the East side schools the coming year. We congratulate the Professor on his success.

C. W. Culbertson, who has been in Dakota for the past two months, was called home last week by the sickness and death of his mother, who was at her daughter's, Mrs. Fannie Weed's, at Ceresco. The remains were laid to rest in the family lot in the Tecumseh cemetery on Saturday afternoon.

That young man from Tecumseh who is paying considerable attention to one of the young ladies near our village, should make some arrangement with the dear one's mamma, so he would not be obliged to tramp up and down our streets so early in the morning as to break the quiet slumbers of the citizens.

COUNTY OFFICERS' REUNION.

Last Friday was a beautiful day for a picnic gathering or a reunion at the lakes. The past and present county officials of old Lenawee assembled at Putnam's grove and hotel, Sand Lake, on that day to enjoy their annual reunion. As the members arrived during the forenoon, the time was passed at the hotel in rehearsing reminisences and anecdotes, and when the dinner hour had come a goodly number was present to partake of landlord Putnam's cuisine.

Immediately after dinner the company assembled in Putnam's dance hall and listened to the literary feast which had been prepared for them.

In calling the meeting to order President Lamb made a stirring address and Rev. Robert Wooden followed in prayer. J. C. Winne of Adrian, gave a very appropriate address of welcome which was eloquently responded to by Harry Larwill. The Rev. Wilson Whitney followed with an able address which was received with marked approbation. Chas. H. Dewey of Cambridge, gave an historical sketch, containing many points of much value in the early history of the county. These exercises were interspersed with music by the First Infantry band in camp at Sand Lake with the Knight Templars. The election of officers followed with this result:

President—O. Lamb, Adrian.
Vice Pres.—J. E. Gibbs, Cambridge.
Secretary—L. A. Porter, Madison.
Treasurer—L. C. Baker, Adrian township.

Committee on arrangements—J. R. Bennett and D. D. Sinclair, Adrian, Samuel Morey, Cambridge.

The active supervisors of the various townships were elected directors, and the business part of the meeting was closed.

Several volunteer speeches were made by old officers and suervisors, after which, with a benediction pronounced by the Rev. Robert Wooden, the formal meeting adjourned.

September Excursions.

To the World's Fair, over the Lake Shore R'y. Sept. 6th and 13th. One fare for round trip, good ten days. Other excursions will be announced later.

FARMERS 21st. ANNUAL PICNIC.

A Dusty Day, an Immense Crowd and the Usual Feast.

The 21st annual Farmers Picnic at Beardsell's Landing, Devil's Lake, on Wednesday the 23d, was marked by the largest crowd and the most dust of any yet held. It is estimated that 20,000 people were in attendance. Trains on the Mackinaw from all directions were crowded to overflowing, while the groves and adjoining fields were a solid mass of vehicles of every shape and pattern.

The weather was nice, but the dust was awful. Every one probably consumed their allotted peck of dirt, and the crowd of people appeared like an army out on a forced march. The festive fakir was also numerous and bobbed up with as much serenity as though a financial stringency were unknown.

The crowd in general walked, first from Manitou to Beardsell's, then from Beardsell's to Manitou; varying the exercise by a detour through the grove at stated times. Some got away off in the grove and took things cool; others enjoyed themselves by kicking about the dust, the day, the crowd and themselves. Everybody ate, when it came to that, and took it mixed—with dust.

After dinner the literary program was listened to by such as could get near the vicinity of the speaker's stand. The minutes of the last meeting were read by W. P. Hathaway, Rev. Davis of Hillsdale, offered prayer, and F. Hart Smith as president, gave the address of welcome. During this speech the Wheatland Band, which had hitherto failed to materialize, put in an appearance and drowned the speaker's words. After the band ceased, Mr. Smith continued, and after a splendid speech introduced the speaker of the day, Hon. Will Frankhauser, of Hillsdale, who talked to the farmers in a plain and business-like manner, touching the topics of the day and taking an encouraging view of the present monetary difficulties.

Miss Retta Kempton gave a humorous recitation which brought down the camp. She responded happily to an encore. After more band music the following officers were elected;:

President—Frank Church, Church's Corners.
Vice Prest.—Chas. Klingensmith, Jefferson.
Secretary—W. P. Hathaway, Rollin.
Treasurer—Geo. Bump, Wheatland.

DIRECTORS.

Adams—Norman Sharp.
Adrian—C. G. Wilcox.
Cambridge—Granville Lyman.
Dover—Charles Pratt.
Hudson—I. S. Phelps.
Jefferson—Chas J. Boley.
Madison—Calvin H. Crane.
Medina—Charles F. Morse.
Moscow—D. B. Pierce.
Palmyra—G. C. Randall.
Pittsford—Carl Rumsey.
Ransom—George Burt.
Rollin—L. N. Chase.
Rome—Silas Raymond.
Seneca—A. Manchester.
Somerset—David Mercer.
Tecumseh—D. T. Hall.
Wheatland—James Dillon.
Woodstock—Howard Chapman.
Wright—Isaac Gibbs.
Fairfield—Henry C. Pratt.

The crowd now moved toward Manitou in a body, where Osseo Phillips made a very successful baloon ascension and parachute drop, landing in the lake a little to the north of the village.

But one serious accident was reported. Alfred Howard, of Rome, and his family came to the picnic in a lumber wagon. On entering the grounds he collided with another wagon throwing himself and family out. His wife was picked up unconscious, his son terribly bruised and little baby seriously injured.

Young men and young women of the right kind of mettle, or spirit, will not put off attending a Normal or College because of hard times. Put your purse into your head and it is beyond the reach of the panic. The brain can not wait. It must be improved at the right time or it is forever the loser. The present opportunity missed probably means a life of hard times. Expenses are very reasonable at the Fayette Normal University, Fayette, O. Come, and in ten years hence you will be grateful for these words.

MANITOBA'S EXHIBIT.

It Is Located Outside the Fair Grounds,

AND THE CONCERN RUNS ITSELF.

Not One Visitor in Fifty to the Exposition Knows Where the Building Is Located—Manitoba a Great Wheat Country—Canada's Interest in Educating the Indian and Agricultural Pursuits.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Manitoba is in hard luck, as we used to say in the wild and woolly west. By getting her name in late she lost her site in [illegible] and by desiring to get as near as possible on the outside she located her exhibit in the wildest part of that tangled wilderness of pine hotels, cheap stores and 5-cent restaurants which I have often compared to an unholy combination of Coney Island, a circus show and a new railroad town in the pineries. The result is that not one visitor in fifty knows where it is, and when I asked a policeman but two blocks away to direct me he stared and replied: "Manitoby buildin', is it? Sure an' there's none out here; but the Manitoby hotel is just there beyant on Stony Island avenoo."

This is altogether too heavy a joke for a serious letter and should be put under the head of "Police Intelligence." There is a Manitoba hotel in one end of the building, and as wide doors open from it directly into the exhibition hall the mistake was natural. Another trouble is that the first commissioner, Hon. James Smart, was suddenly removed; the new one is generally busy inside the grounds, and so the concern runs itself, as it were. Nevertheless the exhibit is very creditable, showing 500 samples of grain, a great variety of grasses, some elegant fish, more kinds of good hard timber than I thought could be found in that prairie country, and a lovely collection of birds and beasts, including some live cranes, apparently designed to wade in mighty deep water and pick up fish from the bottom of the same.

By a happy coincidence the provincial department of agriculture has just sent in its bulletin which declares that Manitoba has unsurpassed harvest weather and is reaping the finest crop in her history. The official estimate (with half the crop secured and samples threshed out) is of wheat 21, oats 40 and barley 31 bushels per acre. Total of wheat 21,768,000 bushels, as owing to the low prices only 1,003,640 acres were sown last spring. As the population in 1891 was 152,506 and had increased 144.95 per cent. in ten years, and as the area of land brought under cultivation has since increased 28 per cent., it is now estimated at 175,000 or more, and so the surplus wheat for export will certainly reach 19,000,000 bushels. And herein is a hint at facts the American farmer should study. The day of high priced wheat is passed, as it is now grown in every zone but the frigid, and on almost every degree of latitude from 63 degrees north to 38 degrees south, and let the seasons go as they may the grain in one belt supplies the deficiency of another. Wheat is sown somewhere every week in the year, and the sickle is never idle in the fields from which England draws her supply. As her morning drum beat follows the sun around the world, so as the sun sweeps through all the signs of the zodiac, successive millions of farmers take the place of the millions a month before and pour their surplus into her storehouses.

Early in 1887 I passed five weeks in Manitoba, and during that time the mercury never rose to zero. Only twice did it sink below 40 degrees, but that was a "mild winter," as it usually goes below 50 degrees at least once in each January. For ten days at a time there was not a cloud in the sky, and only once in the five weeks was the wind strong enough to make the snow fly. It should be noted that the province is beyond the region of blizzards as they come from the "chinook winds" region and sweep to the southeast down the great Missouri valley. The general comfort and abundance struck me as remarkable, and away up on Lake Winnipeg I found the people living almost in affluence, with a generous diet of white fish, meat of various kinds, potatoes, good bread and the common luxuries.

Be it noted also that the name of the province is now accented on the third syllable—by authority. At first they called it Manito bah, because such is the rule in the Indian languages, especially in names beginning with that of the Manitou or Great Spirit; but as custom had fixed it otherwise in Manitowoc, Manitouline, etc., the educational authorities decided it for Manitow-ba. And the educational exhibit of Canada is one of the very finest in the fair. Ideal school classes are shown in part of the Manitoba building; there is religious service every Sunday and on various nights in the week, and altogether the religious and intellectual characteristics of the people are very prominent. Among the Indians especially has Canada done wonders in education, and in the liberal arts department is an exhibit in that line well worth seeing.

Long before the United States tried it Canada had established industrial schools among the Indians and made them highly successful, by to show the system in its early stages seven boys and girls were selected from the Crees, Satteus and Muskegons of the northwest territory, those being the most prominent of the few "blanket Indians" remaining. These seven represent the newest classes in St. Albert's school, Edmonton, San Boniface, near Winnipeg, and the school at Battleford, on the Saskatchewan. The children sit with their Indian gravity working away at their trades, as if the staring visitors were ten thousand miles away, and making a very creditable showing at mantau making, harness making, boot and shoe making, and typesetting. All around them are samples of pure Indian work in barbaric magnificence, and the whole is an admirable exposition of what Canada is doing with the 8,000 Indian children in her schools.

It was a wearisome task to follow the details of Canada's exhibits in all the buildings through which I have recently walked and noted the work of our northern neighbors. Suffice to say that while she is represented in every department of the fair Canada is especially and honorably prominent in the agricultural, manufacturers, fisheries and fine arts departments. In the last named 116 oil paintings and seventy-nine pictures in water colors attest her progress in art, and among these are many of the noted pictures. That one entitled "The Foreclosure of the Mortgage," which attracts so much attention and is so often is dicussed, is by Mr. G. A. Reid of Toronto, who has three others, entitled, "The Visit of the Clockmaker," "Lullaby," and "A Mountain Village." Several other paintings by Canadian artists are highly praised, but my education in art is not yet up to standard pitch so that I can point out why they are beautiful.

In agriculture, however, I am right where I live, and Canada's portion is almost if not quite the best in the Agricultural building. Every province is well represented there and grains, grasses and fruits are arranged in ever varying and effective designs of art. On the top are deer, wild geese, the black bear, polar bear, antelope, wild turkey, and many creatures I do not recognize, all stuffed, mounted and glass-eyed, as natural as life. Ontario has sent a little temple in which every kind of grain grown in the province is represented, and the official statistics just received show that away up [illegible] of the Montreal line the wheat fields have this year yielded abundantly and the hay crop averages a fraction over two tons per acre. In the Horticultural building Canada has the only complete exhibit of vegetables in the fair and an array of fruits that is surprising, and in the manufactures department she actually seems to have outdone England.

How very strange the recent history of that north land seems to one who learned his geography in 1852 or thereabouts. To nearly all Americans living any distance from the border (to all in our section) the name of Canada suggested only a bleak region of snow and wind, inhabited chiefly by French, Indians and fugitive slaves. In 1856 I heard Governor Ashbee P. Willard in a political speech draw a pathetic picture of the poor negroes "seduced from their sunny southern homes to starve and freeze amid the almost eternal snows of Canada." The war came, and the draft came, and thousands of our lightfooted citizens suddenly acquired a better knowledge of that land. Even from my own patriotic county seventeen good conscripts departed between sun and sun, presumably singing,

"We are skipping, Father Abraham,
To Canada's free shore."

The letters "G. T. T." chalked or red keeled on many an absconding debtor's door in my early years, when Texas was the land of refuge, were changed to "G. T. C., Gone to Canada." No more fugitive slaves on the by ways of Indiana then. The boot was on the other leg, and said leg was white. A year or so later Canada had notice enough in the newspapers. She was in everybody's mouth, to use a poetical figure. Dreadful stories were rife of dreadful plots by the fugitives from the north and south, but if there ever was a plot nothing came of it. Peace came suddenly. The fugitives came home and told us wonderful stories of Canada. Then the Fenians went over, but did not stay long enough to learn much, and soon after came confederation and the Dominion, and we saw with surprise a nation of some five million people come into existence on our northern border. Then took place the last flight of fugitives from Indiana, school trustees and such, as celebrated in the popular song,

"There is a country called Canada not far away,
It is English, y' know, quite English, y' know!
Our trustees and cashiers often go there to stay,
For that's really quite English, y' know."

The extradition treaty ended all that, and so here we are again. In the old days of "G. T. T." the fugitives used to say there was no Sunday west of the Sabine, no law west of Trinity and no God west of the Brazos. Well, if the private letters written by our exiles in Canada during the war and the later exodus could be collected and published they would form one of the most unique and amusing books in the world. They were doubtless the most homesick set of men on earth, for the consciousness that one cannot return is a most powerful aggravater of that complaint. The reaction from our civil war carried Canada much farther toward consolidation than she had at first meant to go. As in our constitution the rule is that all powers not granted to the general government are reserved to the state, in hers it is that all powers not granted to the provinces belong to the Dominion government. The general liberality which prevails is a fresh illustration of how little mere forms of government prevail against the natural spirit of a people.

The attendance at the fair continues to increase at an almost uniform rate and each succeeding day of special performances draws a bigger crowd. British day was great and Illinois day was greater, and Chicago intends to have more than both had on her day, Oct. 9. There is some new and refreshing popular amusement every day and the great stock show is running like forty county fairs in one. Today 243 Jersey cows are on hoof for award of merits, and they are as pretty as pet deer. Tomorrow they will make their final showing. On Wednesday sixty-seven Holstein-Lusians enter the contest, on Thursday forty-nine Guernseys and the Lemour and Ayrshires close the week. There are religious, scientific and social congresses in session every day, and we are promised an analysis of the univercoelum from the first integration of atoms to that far future when the dissolution of the heterogenized cosmos shall restore the original homogeneousness of chaos. And to crown all Professor W. F. Black, of the Central Church of Christ, Chicago, announces that he has converted and baptized two of the Japanese royal commissioners and has several more heathens on inquiry. If he has, let him be no longer Professor but Saint Black. He shall be canonized. The man who lives in Brooklyn and does business in New York has long been recognized as about the toughest subject an evangelist could tackle, but he is a spring chicken compared with a high caste Jap.

WANT TO GO TO CONGRESS.

A Great Many Candidates for the Seat of the Late Judge Chipman.

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—Candidates are already in the field in large numbers for the vacancy which Mr. Chipman's death creates in the congressional delegation. On the republican side are mentioned Judge Moore, Capt. William A. Gavitt, Washington I. Robinson, law partner of Judge-elect Donovan, Albert J. Chapman, Col. Sellers and several others. On the democratic side the relative strength and merits of Judge Hosmer, Samuel J. Smith and George H. Barbour are spoken of and the suggestion is made that it would be a graceful act to nominate Harry F. Chipman, a son of the dead congressman, for the place. The news comes from Lansing that Gov. Rich will not be in any haste to call a special election.

NAVIGATION ENDS.

The Last of the Boats Taken from Grand River, Which Was Once an Important Factor in the Trade of That District.

GRAND HAVEN, Aug. 26.—Navigation on Grand river, which was once an important factor in these parts, has been lessening yearly until at last it has come to an end. Notice is hereby given that by virtue of two writs of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee in favor of Isaac H. Mosher and Moses Smiert, as administrators of the estate of Thomas Mosher, deceased, against the goods and chattels and real estate of Benjamin Kelly, in said County, to me directed and delivered, I did, on the 16th day of July, A. D. 1893, levy upon and take all the right, title and interest of the said Benjamin Kelly in and to the following described real estate, that is to say all those certain pieces or parcels of land situate and being in the Townships of Raisin and Ridgeway, County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as follows, to wit: The East one half (E. ½) of the South-west quarter (S. W. ¼) of Section four, South west quarter (S. W. ¼) of Section four, South six (6) in Town six (6) South Range four (4) East, containing eighty (80) acres of land more or less. Also the East one half (E. ½) of the North-west one quarter (N. W. ¼) of section fourteen (14), and the West one-half (W. ½) of the West one-half (W. ½) of the North-east one-quarter (N. E. ¼) of said section fourteen (14) all in town six (6) South Range four (4) East, and containing one hundred acres of the two parcels last above described, be the same more or less.

Also all of that parcel of land situate in the Township of Ridgeway, in said County of Lenawee, and described as follows, to-wit: The South-west one-quarter (S. W. ¼) of section eighteen (18) town six (6) South Range five (5) East, containing one hundred and twenty-nine (129) acres of land, excepting therefrom Forty (40) acres of land sold by Benjamin Kelly to one Morgan M. Florence, and described as beginning at the North-east corner of the south-west one-quarter (S. W. ¼) of section eighteen (18); thence West along the quarter line of said section to the West line of the same thirty one (31) chains and fifty (50) links; thence South to the West line of said section eight (8) chains and twenty-five (25) links; thence East parallel with the North line of said section twenty-one (21) chains and eighty-eight (88) links to the West line of the Wabash Railroad; thence along the West line of the said Railroad to a stake five (5) chains and seventy (70) links South of the center of said section eighteen (18); thence North along the East line of the said South-west quarter (S. W. ¼) of said section five (5) chains and seventy (70) links to the place of beginning.

All of which I shall expose for sale at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder, at the East front door of the Court House, in the city of Adrian, in said County, on the fourth day of September next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated this 11th day of July A. D. 1893.

Best Cure For

All disorders of the Throat and Lungs is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has no equal as a cough-cure.

Bronchitis

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."—J. C. Woodson, P. M., Forest Hill, W. Va.

Cough

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured."—Franz Hoffman, Clay Centre, Kans.

La Grippe

"Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

MODELING IN BUTTER.

Artistic Work of Mrs. Caroline Shank Brooks.

QUEEN ISABELLA IN A REVERIE

Made Out of Butter with a Little Wooden Paddle—A Sight in the Arkansas Building at the World's Fair Which Excites the Wonder and Admiration of Visitors—North Dakota's Building.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—I dropped into the Arkansas building yesterday and passed a more than pleasant hour talking with Mrs. Caroline Shank Brooks, the butter sculptress of the Centennial, who has removed there from the Florida building. On one side of the little reception room was an alto-relievo entitled "Queen Isabella in a Reverie," and at first sight every visitor either stood in admiring silence or broke out in exclamations of astonishment that such a product as butter could be made into such a form of delicate beauty. On the other side Mrs. Brooks, with a little maple wood paddle or knife in hand was moulding the manly features of Columbus, and as she worked she talked with all the enthusiasm of a young art student.

"Now do tell the people I am not dead, though as high an authority as Harpers has published a news and art item to the effect that the Centennial butter sculptress died recently. O, no, I am very much alive." And truly she looks it, for when one sees her fresh and youthful looking face and hears her soft, clear tones, it is hard to believe that she was a woman and celebrated seventeen years ago. She is a native of Cincinnati and a schoolmate of General Goshorn of the Centennial, and was first persuaded to attempt something for public exhibition by Mrs. Lucy Webb Hayes. She had been a modeler in almost every material used for the purpose since girlhood, but had not studied art, and found butter the best material. The result, with Mrs. Hayes' encouragement, was "The Dreaming Iolanthe."

"And everybody liked it so much," continued the artist, naively, "that Mrs. Hayes said I must go on, so I made a full length 'Iolanthe' which was taken to Paris for the exposition of 1878 and was very highly praised."

"Isn't this Columbus rather yellow—much more so than that Isabella?"

"O, if it weren't yellow, they'd say it wasn't butter, and some folks think that Isabella isn't, but you see I can change the drapery by a single stroke of this bunch of straws, and I will whiten this Columbus a little after I get it to my notion. * * * Now as to your idea about the many different types of the Virgin in the Art palace and the one general type of Christ, why it is very simple. I think there was an original picture or statue of Christ made at the time and so the artists have all along had a good general idea of how He looked. O, there must have been some representation of a person who attracted so much attention and, who, as we are bound to believe, was the very picture and incarnation of nobleness and manly sweetness. O, there certainly was."

"It would be a pity, ma'am, to quote history against so pleasant a belief as that."

"You ought to go to Italy, where there are thousands and thousands of images of Christ, in the churches, on the roads and everywhere, and you will see that although many of them are very rude and others weatherbeaten—why, I have seen many that had moss on the north side of them—yet among the best there is a general resemblance. Now about the Virgin, there was no picture of her, and as the painters wanted to make her a handsome young woman, each one painted after a woman of his own nation, and so it went. You say that picture of a fat Dutch Virgin looks ridiculous to you, but it wouldn't if you were a Dutchman. It's just your taste that has run down to this slim American pattern of women."

And as she spoke she gave Columbus a final swipe across the left cheek, and therewith that side of him was finished. And when I examined the Isabella again I saw that Mrs. Brooks, like other artists, was subject to the limitations of race and nation, for this Isabella is anything but a Spanish woman. It is a side view, high-relief on an oval ground (or, in common language, only half of a bust) and the profile is singularly delicate. The nose is ideally Greek, the chin firmly dimpled and the lips seem to quiver with a sort of childish sensitiveness. All this, as everybody knows, does not strictly agree with history or the alleged portraits of Isabella; but it is beautiful, oh, so exquisitely beautiful. And the drapery, especially the lace, exceeds anything I have ever seen in marble. The tools used by Mrs. Brooks are a common butter paddle, somewhat sharpened, two or three hardwood pointers, a bunch of broom straws bound tightly and squared at the end for finishing work, and a few more pieces of wood splinters or flattened sticks, I might say.

And since we are upon the subject of high art and race limitations in picturing, and other high and lofty themes, it might be well to ask—why did no one ever picture or carve a black angel or a white devil? Maybe they do in China, but in all the literature of all the Aryan nations from the Puranas to Paradise Lost, black is invariably the representative of evil and white is invariably the representative of good. John Bunyan probably never saw a black man. In his immortal allegory all the supernal powers are "fair and shining ones," all the infernal ones are dark, and Madame Bubble, who is only tolerably bad is "swarthy." It is worth while to inquire if the prejudice against color is inherent in the constitution of man. The Bible everywhere uses white as the symbol of purity, and when the religious poet would describe the felicity of the redeemed he says they

"All are robed in spotless white
And conquering palms they bear."

Arkansas, in the language of one of the exhibitors, "went cold nose on this fair from the very start of the hunt, and if it had not been for some six or eight of us the old bluntheads would have queered the whole derned shootin' match." By "bluntheads," I regret to add, he meant some men rather distinguished in the politics of the country. The state only appropriated $15,000, and subscriptions to the amount of $12,000 more were hastily secured, and with the total a very handsome building has been erected and a pretty fair exhibit made in it. The state's day was June 15, the fifty-seventh anniversary of her admission to the Union. Her building is only incidentally a headquarters for sociability, as all the state's exhibit is there except for her space in the department of Liberal Arts and Horticulture.

The style of the building is Old French or Rococo, as the French were the first to settle in the state, and their first pretentious structures are believed to have been in this style. There is a large central rotunda, and on two sides of it are parlors or reception rooms which were fitted up by the Ladies' Columbian clubs of Fort Smith, Helena and Van Buren. And they are very handsomely fitted up, with many paintings and other adornments by native artists. Upstairs are sixty one panels of forty different native woods, and all very finely finished and polished. There is also a Bankers' room, fitted up by the bankers of the state; also a fair agricultural exhibit in the rear of the building, and a really surprising mineral exhibit. In front of the main door stands the "Big Chunk"—carbonate of zinc, weighing 12,750 pounds, from the Morning Star mines in Marion county, and the largest piece of that mineral in the exposition. And here endeth the too short record of what Arkansas has done at this fair.

Beautifully located among the native trees in the northwest corner of Jackson park, like a common gentleman's residence in a natural grove, is North Dakota's building. And the illusion is somewhat heightened by the exterior features through which the visitor passes from the grand boulevard which encircles the park and at the north end runs between the state buildings. First is an old Red river ox and cart—the former "stuffed" in death a good deal more than he ever was in life, I suspect. Thirty-four years ago I saw many a long train of those all-wooden carts come down through Minnesota, and the cattle looked as if a sheaf of oats would start a bread riot among them. Near by is a pile of those "cannon balls" found in many rivers of the northwest. Wherever there is a striking natural phenomenon there is always a local legend to account for it, and there is a very interesting one about these "cannon balls."

Many, many years ago, says the legend, the brave Dakotas left their first home in the far north and moved southward driving all other Indians before them. The Upsaroka (Crows) withstood them long and bravely and the decisive battle was fought on the banks of the Cannonball river—a clear and sparkling affluent of the Missouri. The Great Spirit was angry with the Sioux and decided that they should go no farther west. So he thundered from the heavens and sent a shower of these balls which slew many of the Sioux (Dakotas). The survivors fled and the Cannonball remained thereafter the boundary of the two tribes. The Sioux, like most of the now dominant tribes of the high plains, did come from the far north—the Athabasca basin probably—but these balls are natural formations worn smooth and round by rolling in the running water and ice of the immediately post-glacial period.

Many have been taken to ornament the front yards of the whites and these were brought here by Hon. H. S. Parkins who lives on the Cannonball river and owns the Sitting Bull cabin and other trophies shown on the Midway plaisance. Around the entrance are other Dakota mementoes and within the building is beautifully decorated with grains and grasses. On the south wall is a curiosity, indeed. Two bucks of the white tailed deer kind fought till their horns became locked beyond their power to separate as occasionally happened with those animals. One succeeded in twisting the other around a tree and breaking his neck, and then was so exhausted that he was at the point of death by starvation when a hunter chanced that way and put him out of his misery. The heads, with horns interlocked as the hunter found them, are stuffed and well preserved. At the head of the stairs is Carl Guthrez's painting of a "North Dakota Wheat Farm." It is now the property of the United States, being one of the four prize pictures bought at the close of the Paris exposition of 1889. All around the walls the animal industries of the state are pictured life size in grains and grasses and in the same materials are shown the native genus birds, so natural that they look as if stuffed and mounted Activity in the Stock Pavilion.

The livestock pavilion is the center of lively interest. The tidy apartments built under the slope of the amphitheater seats take on the general activity of a farmhouse at threshing time. One month ago one could seldom find any one in the rooms of the Farmers' alliance. The register was seldom opened and the custodian had nothing to do except to sit in a willow chair reading editorials on the silver question. With the increasing rush of farmers and stock breeders the alliance rooms are getting more visitors.

Now that the thoroughbred animals are coming in, the publishers of livestock papers have established offices around the pavilion circle. They have agents who know all about pedigrees and breeding. Every man who has an inquiring look is likely to get a sample copy and be invited to look at the pictures.

Choruses That Will Compete for Prizes.

Four choruses of 250 voices each will enter the competition for the $5,000 prize at the World's fair Sept. 8. Fifteen or twenty choruses of sixty have entered for the smaller prize of $1,000 in the competition which will take place Sept. 5. The four choruses which will struggle for the big prize are the Mormon Tabernacle choir, from Salt Lake City; two Welsh choirs from Scranton, Pa., and the Western Reserve choir, from Cleveland, O.

Major R. H. Hendershot and his son, the original drummer boy of the Rappahannock, will attend the G. A. R. campfire at Festival hall on the afternoon of Sept. 9 and give his wonderful imitation of a battle and the Columbian quickstep

GALVANIZED it is not enough to make portable or stationary power, which can be depended upon to run for years without expense for repairs, but it must be self-regulating, so that the Steel Wheel is insured against being wrecked by the Governor, as is the case with the Solid Wheel. In the year 1892 alone the Aermotor Co. has experienced more trouble with its governors than in any previous year of its existence, while the loss of time and inconvenience has frequently been serious.

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermoter. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country." Though sold we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermoters in '91. Order often waited 8 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our windmills in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years and in which there seemed no talent or ambition and no change had been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the influence of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower, and if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one ($100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and we will make it to the interest of the AERMOTOR CO. to sell you. Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

DR. TRASK'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years,

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends, if but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

THE SESSIONS THIS WEEK AT THE TECUMSEH HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

A Large Attendance and Some Interesting Topics Discussed—Evening Socials and Lectures.

The Teachers' Institute at the Union School building opened Monday morning with a large attendance and deep interest is being taken in the proceedings. The gentlemen under whose management the Institute is being held are doing all in their power to interest and instruct their hearers.

First on the program Monday morning was singing by the Institute. Next devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. J. Phelps; singing, "America;" address of welcome, Prof. E. C. Thompson.

After the address the teachers were divided into two classes, those who had attended the Adrian Institute being placed in the A division; all others in division B.

The A division listened to a lesson in psychology by Prof. Thompson, and the B division was talked to about history by Prof. Cook, who advocated the teaching of history by practical and mythical stories for pupils in the first eight grades. The stories should not be continued ones but each complete in itself. Take different characters in history and make the stories amusing and striking. In illustration Prof. Cook told a very amusing story of Patrick Henry. Further on he took up the subject of Secession and discussed the reasonableness of South Carolina's secession and the real causes which led up to the Civil War.

At 10:15 Prof. Rankin spoke on the subject of grammar, taking for consideration and analysis remarks and sentences which he had overheard from the teachers; at 11 o'clock singing, followed by recess.

After recess Prof. Rankin gave a lesson in algebra and Prof. Thompson talked on the subject of geography. He advocated the free use of the globe and object lessons and gave some suggestions as to teaching direction and questions to be answered. Arithmetic was then taken up until noon.

Singing. Noon recess.

AFTERNOON.

1:30—Singing; arithmetic continued. Prof. Cook took up the subject of physiology and after some good suggestions took as special study the fingers and tongue. Prof. Cook says: "Begin with the whole and work down to every detail." Singing and recess at 3 o'clock.

After recess Prof. Thompson talked on the powers of language, dividing thought into two classes—internal and external; internal thought into hearing, speaking and reading; external thought into reading, spelling and writing; these in turn into sound and form, which constitute word signs for the conveyance of thought. Prof. Rankin took a short time for rhetoricals and told what we should look for in life and the session adjourned. Number present, 53.

TUESDAY FORENOON.

Morning session opened by singing Psalm 127. Roll call, present 69. The A division began their regular lesson in algebra under Prof. Rankin, taking up definitions, development of co-efficients and identity. The B division continued history under Prof. Cook, taking Art. 4, sec. 2, clause b of the U. S. Constitution and the rights and wrongs of secession.

At 10 o'clock Prof. Thompson gave a lecture to class A on psychology. Perception is the first intellectual activity. On being struck by a stone the first element leading to perception is sensation; intuitively we connect this sensation with something foreign to ourselves; hence intuition is the second element. Bringing reason to bear we infer that the stone is responsible for the sensation, hence inference enters as the third element. Gathering our three elements together as a whole we perceive or obtain our first knowledge; hence construction is the fourth element. No one of these elements is knowledge.

B class—Grammar, conducted by Rankin. Do not be too narrow nor too liberal in teaching grammar. Do not forsake office for form. Have a jolly time. If your pupils get tired, stop.

Recess. Singing.

A division—Prof. Cook on physics: Molecules; Matter, its properties. B division—Geography, Thompson. Questions for investigation.

Singing. Noon recess.

AFTERNOON.

1:30 p. m. Singing. Roll call.

A division—Cook, physiology. Special topic, the human ear, with chart and blackboard illustrations. B division—Arithmetic, Rankin. Lesson on discount.

2:30. A division—Physiology continued, Thompson. Mental images less vivid than the original. Memory is the power to retain, represent and recognize former objects of perception and experience. Laws of Association may be divided as follows: Objects which resemble each other tend to recall each other. Contrasted ideas tend to recall each other. Ideas related as to cause and effect recall each other. Familiar objects often reviewed are readily recalled, as are also recent experiences. B division—Cook on physiology. Special topic: Nervous system and the brain; the brain an enlarged ganglion.

Song. Recess.

A class—Grammar, Rankin. Analysis of sentences from local papers. B division—Reading and language, Thompson. Teach the pupil to build words by adding letters to some simple word. Question: What shall we make the basis of language?

TUESDAY EVENING.

A large gathering of people was in the Union building Tuesday evening enjoying a social good time. A fine musical program was listened to and heartily applauded. Refreshments were then served and everyone seemed well entertained. Such gatherings tend to make the teachers better acquainted with each other and their different modes and lines of work, while at the same time it lends interest to the institute. It was late when all had left the building and many were heard to remark that they had spent a very enjoyable evening.

WEDNESDAY FORENOON.

9:00 o'clock. Devotional exercises. Singing. Roll call.

A division—Mathematics, algebra and arithmetic, Rankin. B—History, Cook. Civil War during the year of '62. Movements of the army under Halleck. Attack on Fort Donelson. Blackboard illustrations for describing and showing plan of the battle of Fort Donelson.

10 o'clock—Psychology continued by Thompson. Memory, imagination and fantasy are brothers. One's profession shows in his face. Business men seem to think teachers have no business capacity. This is largely the teacher's fault and should be remedied. The boundary line between past and future is no time at all, hence memory makes us what we are. Ben Jonson could repeat all the works he ever wrote. Themistocles could name every citizen of Athens—some 20,000—and Cyrus could call by name every man in his immense army. The question rises: Do we ever forget? Will there not come a time when we shall remember everything we ever heard, saw or did? It is reasonable to think so.

B—Grammar, Rankin. Blackboard sentences and phrases. In parsing a word forget the form but decide upon the office. Never have pupils commit lists of words. There is a difference between grammatical and elegant construction.

Recess. Singing.

A—Physics, Cook. Special topic, Force, its application, unit and meaning. B—Geography, Thompson. Geography is naturally a dull study. Keep the pupil's mind on the beautiful things in life. Study to interest.

Singing. Adjournment.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

1:30 p. m. Singing and remarks. Roll call. 81 enrolled teachers responded to the call.

A—Physiology, Cook. Special topic: Circulation of the blood and the organs which aid circulation. The idea that oxygen purifies the blood is fallacious. Oxygen produces combustion, hence makes the blood impure.

B—Arithmetic, Rankin. Stocks; explanations and illustrations.

A—Psychology, Thompson. Memory finished and imagination taken up. Imagination is the most important of all. Everything good, useful or beautiful has first to be imagined, then created. Memory simply retains things already created; imagination looks into futurity and experiments, investigates and finally produces. The sooner teachers learn to clothe their teachings with the poetry of imagination the easier their tasks become.

B—Physiology, Cook. Special topic, the human eye, illustrated by chart and blackboard. Reading and language, Thompson.

At the close of this hour Prof Cook addressed both divisions on the subject of growth. A child's character does not come from within but without; so surround the child with refining, pleasant objects, and remember that what a child learns between the ages of 7 and 14 moulds his life. Therefore require a child to commit nothing but that which he will be proud to recall in after life.

Prof. Thompson then made a few remarks, comparing our schools with those of foreign nations. We are a privileged race of people. We are proud of our educational system and yet not too proud.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Last evening, at the Methodist church, a large audience listened attentively to an excellent discourse on the subject of "Bible Lessons in the School Room." The meeting was opened with singing by the choir. Prof. Rankin gave a prayer—a recitation translated from the Russian, entitled "God," in his usual impressive manner. The choir sang another selection and Commissioner Field, with a few well-chosen remarks, introduced the speaker, Prof. E. C. Thompson of Saginaw. Prof. Thompson interested his hearers from the start and placed many gems of thought within the reach of all. "The idea of banishing the Bible from the public schools, so much talked of, can never be accomplished; it would kill our school system." We regret that we are unable to give the lecture in full. At the close of the address the choir sang "America" and the audience was dismissed.

26th ANNUAL REUNION 18th M. V. I.

Palmyra has the Honor of Entertaining the Veterans of the Sixties.

Palmyra village was the scene of a long-to-be-remembered reunion of the 18th Regiment Michigan Volunteer Infantry, last Friday, August 25th. The weather was exceptionally fine and the attendance large. About 8 o'clock the veterans began to arrive, and handshaking, enquiries, reminiscences and anecdotes were the order of the day. Some were there whom the others had not seen since the close of the war, others had been unable to attend the reunions for twenty years and more, and the meetings between these comrades showed a feeling nearer than brothers.

At 11:30 General C. C. Doolittle arrived and was received with enthusiastic cheers. General Doolittle was for a long time Colonel of the 18th and was a favorite officer among the rank and file. In his remarks he said: "I am and shall ever be proud that I belong to the 18th Michigan—that the 18th Michigan belongs to me."

As soon as was possible each comrade's name was registered, and during the dinner hour, we secured the roll book and by request give each man's name, company and present address. There were present five officers and one hundred and forty men, as follows:

At 1:30 p. m. the meeting was called to order and opened with prayer by Chaplain D. A. Curtis. Remarks by——————, answered by Gen. Doolittle. Rev. Geo. Humphrey, in behalf of the people of Palmyra, then delivered an address of welcome to the 18th, which was highly appreciated. The secretary's report was next listened to and accepted, as was also the report of the treasurer. Communications were then read from absent members,—two from Dr. H. P. Miller of San Diego, Cal., and one from each of the following: Capt. C. R. Miller, Mackinaw Island, Francis Furry, Co. F, Comrade Persons, Co. C, and D. D. Perry, Peabody, Ks.

The memorial report that follows was accepted with uncovered heads:

"The death roll of the past year reminds us that 'in the midst of life we are in death.' In memory of our late comrades: Regimental Surgeon S. P. Root, Lenawee Co.; Chas. Levans, Co. G, Hillsdale Co.; Freeman B. Gould, Co. I, Lenawee Co.; S. Nulhammer, Ft. Wayne; 1st. Sergt. W. W. Norvey, Co. D; John Acker, Co. D; Chas. Taylor, Co. H.

All have been summoned by the Supreme Commander to a brighter, higher and grander field of action. They died as they lived, heroes. It is with sorrow that we bow to the will of the Supreme, but, while we mourn their loss, let us cherish their memory for their many virtues. They were true friends and neighbors and above all noble patriots, who were ready to give their lives for their country's cause. As men and leaders they have gone before, and tramp, tramp, tramp the comrades of the war are following toward the goal which many have already reached. The comrades of the 18th M. V. I. extend comrade sympathy to the bereaved families; as friends we mourn with those who weep. Soldier comrades and friends, farewell, and as the years roll on we shall all hear the bugle sounding "lights out," summoning us to the eternal camping ground.

Respectfully submitted,

H. W. Stevens,
W. H. Colvin.

In the election of officers which followed, these were chosen:

President—Fred A. Bay, Blissfield.

1st Vice Pres.—H. W. Stevens, Tecumseh.

2nd Vice Pres.—W. H. Colvin, Lenawee Junction.

3rd Vice Pres.—Lieut. Clark.

Secretary—D. H. Warren, Clayton.

Treas.—L. W. Wolcott, Hillsdale.

The place of next meeting stood between Blissfield and Tecumseh, the former prevailing; date, August 24, '94.

During the meeting comrade Harvey received a telegram from Gen. Spaulding, of Monroe, explaining his absence as follows: "Got left. Regards to all the boys."

The meeting adjourned till evening, when speeches, songs and anecdotes were indulged in until train time. Palmyra was jammed full of people all day, enjoying the various amusements which the village provided.

Card of Thanks.

We tender our thanks to Dr. Nixon, of Holloway, for his kind and prompt attention, all through the last sickness of our baby; also friends and neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Kelley.

Teachers' Examination.

A special teachers' examination will be held at the high school building in Tecumseh on Saturday, Sept. 2nd. 1893, beginning at 8:30 o'clock a. m. standard.

C. F. Field,
School Commissioner.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor of Herald—You will kindly allow me space in your paper to express my thanks to the friends who showed so much interest in my deceased companion during her illness. I would express my appreciation of the sympathy manifested by so many friends in the affliction which has come to me in the loss of my wife. And I am particularly grateful to the choir for the music furnished at the time of her funeral.

CLINTON VS. TECUMSEH.

The ball game between Clinton and the Tecumseh Association team, last Saturday, was the best game which has been played on our grounds this season.

It was understood by our management that Clinton was coming prepared with an outside nine and so prepared themselves by securing three outside players from Jackson. It was charged that but a single Tecumseh man played in the team. This is false, as there were six association men playing, and it is asserted that just as strong an infield could have been found locally as the one secured from Jackson. A large crowd was in attendance and money changed hands freely. At 3:30 the game was called with Tecumseh at the bat.

Palmer took his position at the plate, struck air three times and then made first base on Gillen's passed ball, stole second, took third on Kennedy's error and scored on Tawse' sacrifice hit. Tawse scored on E. Tray's two-bagger. J. Tray went out at 1st. Dixon flew out to Carpenter and Heidenrich struck out. Clinton's second baseman, Schofield came to bat and went out at first. Hause got first by being hit by a pitched ball, stole second and scored on King's wild pitch, a close decision at the plate saving him. Carpenter struck out, likewise Hollenbeck, and the first inning was complete.

The next inning did not improve the score any, but in the third Tecumseh got three, the Tray brothers and Heidenrich scoring. Clinton none. The next two innings neither team scored. In the 5th Rogers was hit by King, stole 2nd and 3d and scored on Gillen's single. In the 6th Lee struck Kennedy for two bags, slipped to third and scored final tally on Coddling's single. In the next three innings neither team scored, the Tray brothers being left on second and third for Tecumseh in the 7th, and Hollenbeck and Wade in the 7th for Clinton.

The score stood 6 to 2 in Tecumseh's favor. Struck out by King, 16; by Kennedy, 14. Hits on King, 4; on Kennedy, 9.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Next Monday is Labor day.

Clarence Avery was among the Chicago passengers Monday.

C. H. Snedecor has been taking the school census in this district during the past ten days.

Ben Garlinghouse and E. N. Satterthwaite started for the big fair Tuesday evening.

The new telegraph line over the Mackinaw road, erected by the Western Union, is about completed and will soon be put in operation.

A. F. DePuy and daughter Fern, Minnie Davidson and wife and Michael Smeltzer and wife took the Lake Shore special for Chicago yesterday morning.

C. A. Slayton seems to have confidence in wheat for next season, as he is contracting some at One Dollar per bushel. Better find out what variety he wants.

Our Baptist friends are talking about getting up a lecture course of their own. A good idea. Push the scheme. There is no reason why it should not succeed.

J. S. Strong and wife, Dr. B. F. Snyder and wife, C. H. Ham and wife, start out upon the first train Monday en route for Chicago to do the World's Fair.

The T. B. B. A. will put on a close game next Saturday afternoon between the Jackson and Tecumseh nines; admission as usual. Game will be called at 3:45 sharp.

The last legislature created a new legal holiday. Labor Day as it is called, will be observed Monday, Sept. 4th, and both our local banks will be closed on that day.

Misses Franc Rosebrough and Mary Hosmer, accompanied by J. R. Hosmer were Chicago passengers Monday morning. After doing the World's Fair they will go on to Freeport.

Among the Chicago passengers taking the Lake Shore special here yesterday morning were Mrs. M. A. Freeman, Mrs. Tremaine, the Misses Temple, Ernest Albaugh and George Tiffany.

Our report of the Teachers' Institute closes with last evening's session. The attendance has been very good thus far, much better than last week, and the interest manifested by those in attendance has been very gratifying.

E. L. Wells, formerly the landlord of the Sand Lake House, has been a resident of Toledo for some time past. He has recently obtained a good position on the street railway and is evidently prospering in his present location.

The party of young men, who were chaperoned on a trip to Chicago by Alf James, returned the first of the week. They are all in usual health, and what is somewhat remarkable, Mr. James himself seems to be none the worse for wear.

On Friday afternoon the High School club of this place will play a game of ball with the Y. M. C. A. club of Adrian on the former's grounds. Come and see the Tecumseh battery, the Champion boy battery of Michigan, composed of Kay and Gillen. This will be the second time the school boys have played with the Y. M. C. A. club. In the first game the Adrian's were victorious by a score of 8 to 12, and the home team mean to make them work still, harder if they win this game. All come and see the game before school commences. Admission to all 15c. Grand stand free. Game called at 3 o'clock.

A. W. Smith, of Adrian, was in town Monday.

Walter Burridge was at Adrian Monday on business.

Rev. W. H. Babbitt preached at Clayton last Sunday.

Sam James and wife, of Detroit, were in town over Sunday.

The excursion trains to the World's Fair are all crowded now.

S. P. Hosmer and G. H. Tansley were Adrian visitors on Monday.

D. T. Hall, and his son Fred, left Monday for the World's Fair.

Will Hurlbut and wife, of Adrian, spent last Sunday in Tecumseh.

Mr. & Mrs. John E. Carr, of Adrian, were visiting Tecumseh friends Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Carr, of Adrian, were visiting Tecumseh friends Tuesday.

C. A. Blackmar, of Cambridge, was the guest of S. P. Hosmer's family over Sunday.

One Fare for Round Trip to Chicago, over the Lake Shore R'y. Sept. 6th and 13th.

Misses Ada and Ina VanValkenburg are spending the week with Hudson friends.

Miss Blanche Taylor, who has been visiting friends in Ohio for a couple of weeks is home again.

Rev. H. A. Smith and family, who have been rusticating at Devils Lake, returned home Monday.

The subject of Rev. J. P. Varner's sermon next Sunday evening, will be "The Resurrection of the Dead."

A. C. Bryan, of Neosho Falls, Kansas, returned home last week after an extended visit with Tecumseh friends.

Landlord Patterson, accompanied by his wife started yesterday morning for Chicago, expecting to be gone ten days.

Mrs. Charles Lawrence and daughter, Nellie, of Detroit, have been visiting their old Tecumseh friends for a few days.

Miss Bertha Mead and brother have just returned from a lengthy visit with friends and relatives in Detroit and Cone.

Miss Belle Goetchius returned to her home in Albion last Wednesday, after a pleasant visit with Elijah Ames and family.

Prof. Martin Palmer, of Wyandotte, was a caller at the HERALD sanctum yesterday. He will teach in Jackson next year.

Profs. Thomson & Cook, who are engaged in Institute work here this week, favored the HERALD with a pleasant call Tuesday.

Mr. & Mrs. B. J. Coller, of Detroit, with all the children, have been spending a week with Macon friends. They returned home yesterday morning.

Miss Agnes Heath, of Spring Lake, who has been stopping several weeks with her sister, Mrs. C. H. Bramble, of Franklin, has returned to her home.

C. W. Culbertson, of Ridgeway, returned home from Dakota last Friday, where he has been spending the summer with a brother.

The Granger's picnic of Lenawee and Hillsdale counties, held at Bawbeese lake on Tuesday, drew a good crowd. A number of grangers from this vicinity attended.

Keep yourself posted about World's Fair Excursions over the Lake Shore R'y. by reading this paper and asking ticket agents. Two Excursions, Sept. 6th and 13th.

Mrs. Culbertson, relict of the late Chas. W. Culbertson, died last week at Ceresco. The remains were brought here for final burial, which took place on Saturday afternoon last.

Clinton and Blissfield base ball nines are playing a series of games for the championship of the county. Tecumseh ball tossers, who say they can easily defeat either of the clubs, are warm because they have not been invited to participate in the tournament.—Adrian Times.

The Chautauqua circle will meet at the home of Mrs. E. B. Wood, on Tuesday, Sept. 5th, at 7:30 p. m., for the purpose of organizing for the coming year's work. All former members, and as many new ones as are interested, are invited to be present.

Members of the church and congregation of the Presbyterian church, Tecumseh, are requested to meet next Tuesday night at 7:30 in the audience room of said church to consult and vote in reference to the calling of a Pastor. Fuller notice in regard to this meeting will be given at the service next Sabbath morning.

We spent a portion of the day last Monday at Toledo to make a few business calls; among them was one upon the Cheney Medicine Co. They are now located in an elegant new four story brick block on Adams street where the latch string hangs out to all their business friends. They are now doing a heavy business which is constantly on the increase.

The clearing sales by Harris & Hiteshu and Anderson & Co., one the first of August and the other just closed, were attended with good results. The usual dull month of August was transformed into a good one for trade, the bargains offered being snapped up with avidity owing to the close times. Merchants of snap and enterprise generally find some way to tide over a financial stringency.

Nellie Conklin, of Toledo, spent last Sunday at home.

The fall term of the public schools will begin next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwella Hodges, of Detroit, were visiting friends in town last week.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. N. Fowler during the month of Sept. Mother's meeting Friday, Sept. 1st.

There was a tremendous crowd in town last Saturday, about half of Clinton coming down to witness the base ball game.

Mrs. James Wilson, of Detroit, accompanied by her children, came out last week to spend the heated term at her father's, N. M. Suttons.

Rebecca Smith, a daughter of Platt Smith, who was one of the earliest settlers of Tecumseh village, was visiting B. L. Baxter's family last week.

An exchange asks: "Will the cold weather start another epidemic of colds and stomach troubles?" Quite likely. A cold snap in August always makes work for the doctors.

Uncle Charley Spafford, of Manitou Beach, is in town this week. He has bought a half interest in a merry-go-round and will give his Tecumseh friends a chance to ride on it.

Confidence is gradually being restored and business will improve from this time on. Tecumseh has reason to congratulate herself that she has gone through the panic unscathed.

Co. C went to Sand Lake last Sunday to participate in the K. T. encampment. They drove up in wagons, returning in the evening. They had a fine trip and a very pleasant day at the Lake.

There are doubtless many inventors in our circle of readers. All such should peruse the article, "Prizes on Patents," on the eighth page, and avail themselves of the offer contained therein.

A. W. Mills is attending the state fair at Columbus, Ohio, this week, in the interest of the Page wire fence. He expects to make a handsome addition to his list of orders while there.

A slight change took effect in the Lake Shore time card last Sunday. Train No. 116 leaves Detroit at 7 a. m. and No. 115 arrives at Toledo at 9:13 a. m. There is no change on the Jackson branch.

James Kelly, Special Agent of the National Loan and Investment Co. of Detroit is in the city this week with his nephew, Frank Dryer, of Flint, looking after the interests of the association.

The Chicago Entertainment Bureau have superior accommodations in their control. Good rooms in either hotels or private houses can be obtained at fifty cents per day. Call at this office and get circulars.

The first of the series of monthly socials of the Baptist church will be given Thursday p. m. Sept. 7th. Supper served by Mrs. Howard and committee from 5:30 to 7:00. All are cordially invited.

The Young Peoples Society Christian Endeavor will give a Flower Social at the parlors of the Presbyterian church this evening at half past seven o'clock. Ice cream and cake served for 10c. Every body cordially invited.

In order to bring home its World's fair passengers the Lake Shore will put on a new train in a few days, that will leave Chicago in the afternoon. There has been much complaint of late of the crowded condition of trains coming east.

The congregation at the Baptist church last Sunday morning was treated to a lecture from S. I. Abrams, of Persia, in native costume. Although only three years in this country he speaks English quite fluently. He is educating himself for missionary work in his own land.

The death of U. S. Marshall VanBuren will be noted with regret, for he had a large circle of acquaintances. He was a partner in the job printing house of Thompson & VanBuren of Lansing, where our foreman, C. H. Reed, was once an employe. Mr. Reed speaks in the highest terms of his old employer.

The Detroit and Cleveland Steam Navigation Company's new steamers City of Alpena and City of Mackinac are now in commission, making four trips per week between Detroit, Mackinac Island, Chicago and way ports. Fare, Cleveland to Mackinac and return, including meals and berths, $20.00; Toledo, $14.50; Detroit, $13.50. Low Rates to Chicago. Write for illustrated Pamphlet. Address A. A. Schantz, G. P. A., Detroit, Mich.

Miss Crawford, of Menominee, spent a day or two this week with Arthur Harding's family.

Miss Mabel Hayden left here Monday morning for Texas, where she will teach violin and vocal music in Sherman's Institute. She will begin her duties Sept. 1st.

Misses Rose Hendershot, Adah Cullen, Ida Baslick, Lida Burton and Edna Bryan were all doing Jackson Park last week.

We are indebted to Miss Florence Secor, of Onsted, for our Institute notes, for the B division this week. It is a favor highly appreciated.

Will Bennett has moved his livery stock to the Central hotel barn where he will be pleased to serve all his old patrons when they want a rig.

The camp pictures of Co. C have been left with Sergt. Bowen at the Herald office. The pictures are good ones. All having ordered one will confer a favor by getting same as soon as convenient.

The old Vets of Lenawee county had a very pleasant reunion at Adrian, on Thursday last. Tecumseh was well represented both from the G. A. R. Post and the W. R. C. Two lengthy programs and a basket dinner filled the day to good acceptance.

Saline and the High School nine played a game of ball Tuesday on our grounds. The visitors fought hard but were not a match for the home team and were defeated by a score of 21 to 5. However our boys speak a good word for Saline and wish them better luck next time.

Married at the residence of J. W. Van Valkenburgh, of Franklin, at 3:30 p.m., Aug 22d. 1893, by Rev. E. P. Peirce, Mr. Hugh R. Ladd, of Adrian to Miss Tina VanValkenburgh, of Franklin. After a bountiful repast the happy pair left the home of the bride, and on the morrow entered upon a short tour to take in the wonders of the White City.

Percy Kelley, a baby of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kelley, aged 7 months, died at the home of James I. Sutherland, Saturday morning, Aug. 26th. Four weeks before his death he was taken with an attack of cholera infantum, and after a week of sickness he was apparently well, but the germ of the disease seeming to lie in the system he had a relapse, and died in a few days.

Armory Co. C, 1st. Inft. M. N. G.
Tecumseh, Aug. 30, 1893.

In accordance with the By-Laws of this Company, the election of 1st. Serg't and of the civil officers will occur Tuesday evening, Sept. 5, 1893. You are hereby notified and urgently requested to be present. As matters of complicated nature have arisen in regard to a new Armory, action must be taken immediately. The matter will be discussed at this meeting, and it is to your interest that every man be present.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal "enjoyment" when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package. also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

PICTURES OF THE VIRGIN MARY.

The Painter Invariably Makes Her According to His Own Nationality—The Impressions of One Who Is Completing His Education in Art—Interesting Relics of Ancient Art from India.

WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 25.—[Special.]—I have been very industrious lately, completing my education in art, and the first point I mastered—that is to say, got it down fine—was that art has at least one striking resemblance to literature of the newspaper sort. It is this: There is just one first-class way to do a thing, perhaps two or three so so ways, and then about a thousand bad ways. And the average beginner, he who is not a wonderful genius, does not know which is the bad way till he has tried it once or twice. People often say, "There is a right way and a wrong way to do anything." It's a great mistake. There may be but one right way, but there are very many wrong ways. And the more artistic a job might be the more wrong ways there are to do it.

I find also that the persons who go oftenest to the Art palace have their own definition of art. It does not mean painting or sculpture only. It means anything in which thought or a sense of beauty is fixed in a visible form, and so they class all sorts of things in gold, silver, bronze, leather, wood, glass, and even butter, tallow and lard, as works of art. There is a lard hog in one of the exhibits to which a friend called my attention as a curious work of art. Says I, "Do you call that art. To me it is almost repulsive." Says he, "That's the beauty of the hog—it is artistically ugly." I had not thought of that. In the same class I suppose belongs the ivory "Ganesa" in the Hindoo exhibit. It looks to me like a fat woman with an elephant's head on her, but they say it is art. But to return to the Art palace.

All the cultured ones I know say that this exhibit shows how modern painters are rapidly coming to care less about mere beauty than the expression of truth and that as this goes on painting is popularized. Sculpture moves much more slowly in the same direction. Pursuant to advice of a cultured friend I attempted to see and understand all the pictures of the Virgin, and when I got through with it the only really clear idea I had about them was that expressed once by Mark Twain—that the painter had invariably made her a Dutch, a French, an English or woman of some other people according to his own nationality, but not one had ever made her what she was—a Jewess. The question at once rose in my mind—is it the same with the pictures of Christ? I examined many more carefully and found that several painters had given Him a really Jewish cast of face, somewhat idealized of course; but why this distinction between the Christ and the Virgin I cannot imagine. It is of course absurd to suppose that Mary looked like a stout, blonde Flemish woman, but she is so represented in several pictures here.

I note also that as there are many more wrong ways than right ways, so there are very few types of beauty and many of ugliness. Those who picture ugliness therefore have an immense advantage. I wonder if this is the reason why any schoolboy can draw a caricature of the teacher while not one in a hundred can make even a passable outline drawing of the girl he likes. They tell me that in the American section there is no really distinct type of female beauty and that many years will probably pass before we have one, but of my own knowledge I haven't the thing down that fine yet. In the British section these same cultured friends go into raptures over a picture by Frederick Leighton representing the daughters of Hesperus with the dragon, and say the female forms present the truly ideal beauty. The picture is indeed beautiful, but it is evident that the Hesperides are "quite English."

I have, as aforesaid, some very cultured friends in Chicago, and they all agree that a certain "Psyche" in the German section (the catalogue credits it to Paul Thumann) is absolutely free from any trace of a race or local type—that is, it presents the purely ideal woman. I am therefore using it for educational purposes and am beginning to flatter myself that I see what they mean. It is a delicately outlined blonde figure, with gossamer wings, leaning over the water to see the reflection therein, and every group of women who come near it break out in exclamations of delight. As to working one's nationality into a picture I think the French are more given to that than the English and Americans, especially in military scenes. So far as I have examined their great victories show in the pictures that they were victories, but in the scenes of 1870 there is nothing to show which side whipped. On second thought, however, I do not remember seeing in any of our capitols a picture of Americans running from British or Mexicans or Indians, though they certainly did it a few times. As to all the rest of the 5,000 and odd pictures in the Art palace, of course they have "tone" and "depth" and "finish" and "chiaro-oscuro" and all the other things pictures ought to have. And this is all I know (and considerable more) of high art at present.

The relics of ancient art interest me aside from any idea of beauty because they represent so much history, and in the Anthropological building is one very curious collection of articles discovered only two years ago. It is supposed to be the remains of a school of art which was founded in the extreme northwestern part of India during the short period the Greeks held that region. Perhaps it is only the result of an overflow of Greek ideas from Persia during the period that Alexander's successors ruled there. At any rate it shows an overlapping, so to speak, of Greek forms, faces and ideals on a Buddhist basis. To put it in other words the figures show Buddhist ceremonies and indicate that to have been the faith the artist meant to gratify, but he has either followed Greek models or was so far a Greek that he worked his nationality into the figures just as these Dutch painters have made the Virgin Mary a stout blonde.

The most complete group is on a small slab which Surgeon Captain Stoney of the British army found in 1891. There are thirteen figures of which eleven are entire. In the front is Buddha sitting cross-legged on a throne, over him a lotus leaf canopy. He is pouring oil on the head of a boy and the attendant priests are conducting the religious ceremonies. The action is Hindoo, but the faces are Greek. Another figure, unearthed by H. C. Thomson just after Surgeon Stoney's discovery had caused a general search, represents an orator. It is pure Greek throughout, face, form and costume and is so much like the famous statue of Demosthenes at Athens that some think it represents that orator. As the find was in the Peshawer district which Alexander conquered in 330 B. C., this is not entirely improbable, though from their political relations I cannot see why the conqueror should have had that orator commemorated there.

Buddhism is always to be spoken of with profound respect because it is the faith of one-third of the human race, but it certainly is not a very artistic faith. And looking on this odd combination of the art of one nation with the faith of another I am again impressed with the old, old problem: How did it happen that a faith so lightly held, if indeed it could be called a faith, as the mythology of the ancient Greeks, gave form to the most beautiful and most enduring of all developments of art? With a sort of rude humor the exhibitors have surrounded these beautiful and curious figures with the queerest array of unsightly gods in the whole building. There are gods of stone, wood, bone, shells and feathers, and some that look like sun-baked mud, from the south seas and Alaska, from the Maoris of New Zealand and the Gaboon in Africa. They are classed, however, as objects of superstition, not of art.

It requires no education in art to appreciate the big trees which are so numerous here. They appeal equally to the untaught and the most cultured and the section of the great Sequoia which stands in the rotunda of the Government building always has a great crowd about it, gazing in silent wonder. It is thirty feet in length, with a diameter at the base of twenty-six feet and a circumference of eighty-one and a half feet. The tree was 300 feet high and this section was cut from it at twenty feet from the ground. It is a curious fact in giant botany that on every part of that great mountain range, that is on the western slope, and at about the same elevation, big timber grows, from far down in California to far up in British Columbia.

In the northern part of California I once journeyed seventy miles through a forest where, so far as I could see, no axe had ever been used. The trees ranged from one to ten feet in diameter, with a few much larger; they rose about 100 feet without a limb and their spreading tops were so thickly joined that for an hour's travel at a time one never found the sun's rays striking the earth. Far above the sighing of the wind was heard and the higher branches could be seen swaying before it, but down among the mammoth trunks there was a dead calm. Now vast strips of that wonderful region bear nothing but stumps, but the figures in the Washington building still claim 23,000,000 acres of unbroken forest for that state, on which are still standing the raw materials of 410,000,000,000 feet of sound inch lumber, worth as it stands $20,000,000. "And," adds one exhibitor with grim humor, "your goll derned congress can't demonetize that."

Mrs. Mary Miller, who owns a generous tract of this tall timber, selected the straightest and prettiest "stick" she could find on her land for a flagstaff for the Washington building. It is straight as an arrow and was 228 feet long, but in bringing it down to the railroad twenty-three feet was broken off, so, as they say, "our state has to put up with a little weed of a flagstaff only 205 feet high." More than one-fourth the entire population of the state depends on the lumber industries for labor and business, but as 1,000,000 acres of splendid coal lands are already located and opened enough to prove them, and there is much more, that interest must eventually be greater. The big trees of California are shown in many places and the whole Forestry building is itself an exhibit, being composed of every kind of logs and bark from every state in the Union. It illustrates the forestry wealth of the world in a general way and of the United States in complete detail.

It is observable that each day for special state, race or national exhibit increases in interest. Today is for the colored people, tomorrow for Missouri, the 30th for the grocers and the 31st for the Netherlands and the Ottoman empire, but no extensive programmes are made out. Sept. 1 is Nicaragua day and Sportsman's day. On the 4th comes the Welsh Eisteddfod which will be a wonderful affair, of course. The games of all nations and races excite universal interest and as such performances increase so the attendance increases.

J. B. PARKE.

One of the most magnificent views of the fair is from Lake Michigan at night. Steaming down from the city, the shore lights gleam and twinkle all the way and the fair itself is an illumined dream. The fireworks cast red lights on the enormous white buildings and the peristyle stands glowing against the lighted grand basin, with its surmounting statues outlined against the drifting smoke. Shouts of the crowds on shore float out across the iridescent waves, the crash of bombs re-echo doubly, stars shower about one and the smoke from rockets high in the air takes on odd, fantastic shapes.

The poets will celebrate Aug. 29 at the fair. Director of Works Burnham, Mr. Frank Millet and artists are at work preparing for the day. Mr. Henry Lee will spend his time at Jackson park supervising the artistic preparations and Mr. Duncan Harrison is now in New York closing up the arrangements for the appearance of some noted players. An open air production of "As You Like It" will be given

SHOT DOWN.

Labor Troubles at Detroit End in Bloodshed.

During a Fight Between Union and Non-Union Sailors, Michael O'Brien, Leader of the Former, Is Killed by Capt. Lennon, of the Schooner Dowd.

FATAL END OF A RIOT.

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—Delegate O'Brien, of the Seamen's union here, was shot and killed Friday night while leading an attack on the nonunion crew of the schooner Reuben Dowd, lying at a dock in the harbor. The Dowd was loaded and ready to sail. When waiting for a tug the party of union men headed by O'Brien, boarded the vessel and commenced an attack on the crew. The sailors were driven back by the onslaught and sought safety in the forecastle, leaving Capt. William Lennon alone on the deck. The fury of the attacking party was centered on him and he was rapidly being overpowered. O'Brien forced his way near the captain and dealt him a heavy blow on the head with a handspike.

With the force of numbers against him and weakened by his wound Capt. Lennon could not have held his own longer had not his wife created a diversion by rushing from the cabin and hastening to shield her husband. But O'Brien had no chivalry, and swinging his handspike again he aimed a blow at the defenseless woman that would have broken her skull had he not slipped, and Mrs. Lennon received the full force of the blow on her arm. She sank to the deck with a cry of agony. Capt Lennon, in this brief respite, had time to reach his revolver, and the cry of his wife at once settled any scruples he might have had in using it on the crowd. As O'Brien started to strike him again he fired, the ball striking the delegate in the neck. The noise of the shot scattered the raiding party and they vied with each other in their attempts to get off the boat. O'Brien did not seem to be badly injured at first and walked away a little distance and sat down.

After the fight was all over the patrol wagon came on the scene and O'Brien was placed in it. He died before he reached the station. Capt. Lennon was arrested and locked up. The mate of the schooner was not on board at the time of the conflict, having gone ashore for the evening. The Dowd is owned by Timothy Hurley, of this city, who is a member of the Lake Carriers' association, which composes the union.

SHE HAS REFORMED.

Lou Morrison, at One Time the Most Notorious Woman in Grand Rapids, Gives Up Her Disreputable Business.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 26.—The News publishes in detail the determination of Lou Morrison, a noted woman of the town and the rich proprietress of several houses of ill-fame, to quit the business, dispose of her property and lead a correct and Christian life. She has now begun proceedings through an attorney to have the keepers of her houses vacate, and has written a notice to them herself, to which is added a touching appeal to the girls to give up their methods of life, and reform. She also openly and unhesitatingly avows her own determination to quit the business and lead a Christian life. She is now at the house of a prominent Christian lady, who, with others, had been active in bringing about this result These ladies have great hopes of causing other abandoned women to reform, but the other objects of their solicitude flippantly deny that their hearts are touched by the appeals that have been made.

A VICTIM OF HEART DISEASE.

Sudden Death at Lansing of United States Marshal William Van Buren.

LANSING, Aug. 28.—United States Marshal William Van Buren, of the Eastern district of Michigan, died suddenly at his home here early Sunday morning of heart disease, aged 51 years. He had not been well for some months, but had not given up work. He was a native of Canada, and previous to 1871 was foreman of the news-room of the Detroit Tribune. He was subsequently for thirteen years foreman for W. S. George, state printer, and afterward managing partner of W. S. George & Co. He was twice elected mayor of Lansing and had been United States marshal since March, 1890. He leave a widow and three sons.

Schilling, of Lansing, Is Champion.

JACKSON, Aug. 24.—The state shooting tournament closed here Wednesday. The shooting was unusually good throughout, but the main interest was centered in the medal race for the individual handicap championship 25 birds, which was won by Schilling, of Lansing, who broke 23 birds. M. Maranteete, of Mendon, scored 22, Howes and F. C. Maranteete each 21, and the others down to 15.

Death of the Youngest Soldier.

GRAND HAVEN, Aug. 28.—A telegram received Friday afternoon announced the death at the soldiers' home in Milwaukee of "Chid" Duverney, who was the youngest enlisted soldier from Michigan in the civil war, if not in the entire federal army. He was 11 years old when he went into service, and served four years as drummer of the First Michigan sharpshooters.

Two Persons Drowned.

HOLLAND, Aug. 25.—Thursday afternoon while a party of four were out sailing on Macatawa bay a sudden squall came up, which capsized the boat and resulted in the drowning of John Haan, ex-porter of the steamer Saugatuck, and Jennie Anderson, of Chicago. The other two were rescued. The bodies of those drowned were recovered a short time after.

A Factory Burned.

NORTHVILLE, Aug. 24.—The Ely Dowell manufacturing works, together with a large quantity of lumber, has been destroyed. The loss is about $6,000.

THE LAKE ROUTE TO THE WORLD'S FAIR VIA PICTURESQUE MACKINAC.

Avoid the heat and dust by traveling on the Floating Palaces of the Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation Company. Two new steel passenger steamers have just been built for this Upper Lake route, costing $300,000 each, and are guaranteed to be the grandest, largest, safest and fastest steamers on the Lakes; speed 20 miles per hour, running time between Cleveland, Toledo and Chicago less than 50 hours. Four trips per week between Toledo, Detroit, Alpena, Mackinac, Petoskey and Chicago. Daily trips between Detroit and Cleveland; during July and August double daily service will be maintained, giving a daylight ride across Lake Erie. Daily service between Cleveland and Put-in-Bay. First-class stateroom accommodations and menu, and exceedingly low Round Trip Rates. The palatial equipment, the luxury of the appointments makes traveling on these steamers thoroughly enjoyable. Send for illustrated pamphlet. Address A. A. Schantz, G. P. A., Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co., Detroit, Mich.

In journeying recently with a traveling man friend, the conversation took such shape that he took a bottle, from his grip, of Brant's Extract of Blackberry, saying: "I never travel without it. I am easily affected by the change of water, Chicago water especially always troubles me, but a dose or two of Brant's Blackberry quickly cures the trouble." He had it right and if the thousands who travel and visit Chicago this summer are "Wise like the drummer" to have Brant's Blackberry with them, they will find it a very useful article. 25 cent bottles of J. J. Orr, Tecumseh. 3

Information concerning the school can be had by addressing M. P. McGregor, 20 McGraw building, Detroit.

Here an opportunity is afforded the student to combine the work of the school with that of the office, so that the practical and the scientific elements of his education may progress together. To this end all exercises of the college are held in the evening and students are also encouraged in securing work during the day in suitable law offices in the city. They are also encouraged in attending the various courts, so far as this does not interfere with their other duties.

The city furnishes good opportunities for obtaining employment to those who are obliged to earn money to defray their expenses while attending the college.

PRIZES ON PATENTS.

How to Get Twenty-five Hundred Dollars For Nothing.

Would you like to make twenty-five hundred dollars? If you would, read carefully what follows and you may see a way to do it.

The Press Claims Company devotes much attention to patents. It has handled thousands of applications for inventions, but it would like to handle thousands more. There is plenty of inventive talent at large in this country needing nothing but encouragement to produce good results. That encouragement the Press Claims Company proposes to to give.

NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

A patent strikes most people as an appalling formidable thing. The idea is that an inventor must be a natural genius, like Edison or Bell; that he must devote years to delving in complicated mechanical problems and that he must spend a fortune on duplicate experiments before he can get a new device to a patentable degree of perfection. This delusion the company desires to dispel. It desires to get into the head of the public a clear comprehension of the fact that it is not the great, complex, and expensive inventions that bring the best returns to their authors, but the little, simple, cheap ones—the things that seem so absurdly trivial that the average citizen would feel somewhat ashamed of bringing them to the attention of the Patent Office.

Edison says that the profits he has received from the patents on all his marvelous inventions have not been sufficient to pay the cost of his experiments. But the man who conceived the idea of fastening a bit of rubber cord to a child's ball so that it would come back to hand when thrown, made a fortune out of his scheme. The modern sewing machine is a miracle of ingenuity—the product of the toil of hundreds of busy brains through a hundred and fifty years, but the whole brilliant result rests upon the simple device of putting the eye of the needle at the point instead of at the other end.

THE LITTLE THINGS ARE MOST VALUABLE

Comparatively few people regard themselves as inventors, but almost everybody has been struck, at one time or another, with ideas that seemed calculated to reduce some of the little frictions of life. Usually such ideas are dismissed without further thought.

"Why don't the railway company make its car windows so that they can be slid up and down without breaking the passengers' backs?" exclaims the traveler. "If I were running the road I would make them in such a way."

"What was the man that made the saucepan thinking of?" grumbles the cook. "He never had to work over a stove, or he would have known how it ought to have been fixed."

"Hang such a collar button!" growls the man who is late for breakfast. "If I were in the business I'd make buttons that wouldn't slip out, or break off, or gouge out the back of my neck."

And then the various sufferers forget about their grievances and begin to think of something else. If they would sit down at the next convenient opportunity, put their ideas about car windows, saucepans, and collar buttons into practical shape, and then apply for patents, they might find themselves as independently wealthy as the man who invented the iron umbrella ring, or the one who patented the fifteen puzzle.

A TEMPTING OFFER.

To induce people to keep track of their bright ideas and see what there is in them, the Press Claims Company has resolved to offer a prize.

To the person who submits to it the simplest and most promising invention, from a commercial point of view, the company will give twenty-five hundred dollars in cash, in addition to refunding the fees for securing the patent.

It will also advertise the invention free of charge.

This offer is subject to the following conditions:

Every competitor must obtain a patent for his invention through the company. He must first apply for a preliminary search, the cost of which will be five dollars. Should this search show his invention to be unpatentable, he can withdraw without further expense. Otherwise he will be expected to complete his application and take out a patent in the regular way. The total expense, including Government and Bureau fees, will be seventy dollars. For this, whether he secures the prize or not, the inventor will have a patent that ought to be a valuable property to him. The prize will be awarded by a jury consisting of three reputable patent attorneys of Washington. Intending competitors should fill out the following blank, and forward it with their application:

———, ——, 1893.

"I submit the within described invention in competition for the Twenty-five hundred Dollar Prize offered by the Press Claims Company.

NO BLANKS IN THIS COMPETITION.

This is a competition of rather an unusual nature. It is common to offer prizes for the best story, or picture, or architectural plan, all the competitors risking the loss of their labor and the successful one merely selling his for the amount of the prize. But the Press Claims Company's offer is something entirely different. Each person is asked merely to help himself, and the one who helps himself to the best advantage is to be rewarded for doing it. The prize is only a stimulus to do something that would be well worth doing without it. The architect whose competitive plan for a club house on a certain corner is not accepted has spent his labor on something of very little use to him. But the person who patents a simple and useful device in the Press Claims Company's competition, need not worry if he fail to secure the prize. He has a substantial result to show for his work—one that will command its value in the market at any time.

The plain man who uses any article in his daily work ought to know better how to improve it than the mechanical expert who studies it only from the theoretical point of view. Get rid of the idea that an improvement can be too simple to be worth patenting. The simpler the better. The person who best succeeds in combining simplicity and popularity will get the Press Claims Company's twenty-five hundred dollars.

The responsibility of this company may be judged from the fact that its stock is held by about three hundred of the leading newspapers of the United States.

Address the Press Claims Company, John Wedderburn, managing attorney, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

BOLD THIEVES.

They Rob a Muskegon Saloon-Keeper of $2,215.

One of the Rascals Attracts the Victim's Attention While His Two Pals Loot the Money Drawer—All Make Their Escape.

WORK OF THREE BAD MEN.

MUSKEGON, Aug. 24.—One of the boldest robberies in the criminal history of Muskegon was perpetrated on Tuesday and J. Foeke, a Western avenue saloon-keeper, was the victim, losing $2,215 in currency and certificates of deposit. The work was done by three crooks, who rounded up at the saloon about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. One came in a buggy and the other two on foot. The man in the buggy called the proprietor outside to sample and price his wines and brandy. In the meantime his two pals entered a side door and opening a money-drawer took out $315 in cash and a certificate of deposit on the Hackley bank for $2,000. They were experts at the work, and did a clean job. The proprietor was out only two minutes and in that time they had found the key to the drawer, opened it, selected their goods and locking the drawer retired with the key. The robbery was not discovered until eight hours later and the men had every opportunity to escape, as trains and boats had departed in that time for all surrounding points.

EXPLAINS THE LAW.

Attorney General Ellis Gives an Opinion on the Saturday Half Holiday.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 26.—In response to a request from the local bank clearing house, Attorney General Ellis has given his interpretation of the law making Saturday afternoon a legal half holiday. He holds that notes and other papers due Saturday would be protestable on the succeeding secular day, or Monday. He advises the bankers, however, that it would be well, until the law is interpreted by the supreme court, to protest unpaid paper both Saturday afternoon and Monday. When a full legal holiday falls on Saturday he holds that the paper is due on Monday, and that when paper falls due Sunday it is payable Saturday before noon. The bankers here are divided in opinion and will get together at any early date to decide what to do about it so that all may follow the same line of action. None of the banks here will take advantage of the Saturday half holiday, but will keep open for business as the law says they may.

MORTGAGED HIS ALL.

Orlando Barnes Turns Over His Property and Is Released.

LANSING, Aug. 26.—Receiver Stone, of the Central Michigan savings bank, has effected a settlement with Orlando M. Barnes, who is indorser on notes aggregating $179,000 executed by Orlando F. Barnes, the Lansing Lumber company, and Lansing iron and engine works. The companies constitute part of the assets of the bank. Barnes was released on transferring to Stone stocks valued at $84,000, the payment of $4,500 in cash, the execution of a trust mortgage securing the bank in the sum of $65,000 on real estate valued at over $300,000, and the transfer of a $37,000 mortgage on Lansing real estate. The receiver will declare a dividend of about 15 per cent. payable September 1 and expects to declare another October 1. The trustee is empowered to collect all rents and sell the mortgaged property, applying the proceeds on the indebtedness.

CAUTION.—No Tags will be received before January 1st, 1894, nor after February 1st, 1894. Each package containing tags must be marked plainly with Name of Sender, Town, County, State, and Number of Tags in each package. All charges on packages must be prepaid.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,

THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

WONDERFUL CURES!

THOMAS MINCHIN. MAJOR W. A. SIMFIELD.

Before Treatment. After Treatment. Before Treatment. After Treatment.

Nervous Debility and Catarrh Cured.

Thomas Minchin says: "I was reduced to a nervous wreck—only weighed 118 pounds. The result of early abuse was the cause. I had the following symptoms: Miserable mentally and physically, melancholy, nervousness, weakness, specks before the eyes, dizzy, poor memory, palpitation of the heart, flushing, cold hands and feet, weak back, dreams and losses at night, tired in the morning, pimples on the face, loss of ambition, burning sensation, kidneys weak etc. Doctors could not cure me; but Drs. Kennedy & Kergan by their New Method Treatment, cured me in a few weeks. I weigh now 170 pounds. It is three years since I have taken their treatment."

Blood Disease and Dyspepsia Cured.

Major Simfield says: "I had Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach for many years. To make matters worse I contracted a Constitutional Blood Disease. My bones ached. Blotches on the skin looked horrible. I tried sixteen doctors in all. A friend recommended Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. I began their New Method Treatment and in a few weeks was a new man with renewed life and ambition. I cannot say too much for those scientific doctors who have been in Detroit for fourteen years. I conversed with hundreds of patients in their offices who were being cured for different diseases. I recommend them as honest and reliable Physicians."

Prof. Collins of Blissfield and Miss Nellie Marvin of Azalia are the instructors hired for the coming year for our schools. They both come with the highest recommendations and we can only wish for them a pleasant and successful sojourn among us.

A man with a patch of epidermis off his frontal bone and a sunburnt proboscis with the skin peeled off at the bridge, was in town last week. He claimed to hail from Twin Lake and a judge of the fish tribe said he would stake his reputation on this being a spotted Kingfisher.

Chas. Gripton returned from Ann Arbor last Thursday, where he had been some weeks under the care of the University eye specialist, treating his right eye, the ball of which was cut some weeks ago by a flying particle of steel. Inflammation set in and nearly caused blindness, but Charley says he's coming out all right, although the doctor thinks there is a small particle in the ball yet.

Hon. Sela Raymond and wife, of Rollin, arrived in town Thursday, and after visiting their niece, Mrs. W. B. German, resumed their trip to visit other relatives, intending to be absent a week or ten days from home.

A peach peddler sold a farmer a bushel of peaches some days ago for 50c, and the farmer triumphantly brought them to his wife as "so cheap," but when she saw them, about the size of a hickorynut, she murmered "dear, dear," and the farmer is puzzling himself yet over her meaning.

Seward Mapes had a very sick horse last Monday night, a member of the family having heard the horse threshing about all night, but did not waken Mr. Mapes, and when he went to the barn Tuesday the animal was in great agony. A neighbor came in and recommended the free application of damp salt across the loins of the horse, and in one half hour the horse got up, shook himself and went to the manger to eat. A remedy worth remembering.

The same vote could have been reached with half the talk, and the wear and tear on the country would have been less.

The Cambridge farmers' club was entertained last Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. James Newton.

Bert Marlatte has returned to his work at Lansing after a few days' visit with his parents here.

A large crowd was in the village last Saturday afternoon to attend the races, which were a success throughout.

A photographer, with all the modern improvements of his profession, has located in the village, so give him a call.

J. B. Maxwell and wife and Harry and Rena Maxwell started for the World's Fair the latter part of last week.

School meeting Monday evening passed off as usual. Two ladies were present. George Shugars was elected treasurer for the next three years. Sixteen cords of 2-foot wood were contracted for at $1.75 per cord.

Word was received here Saturday night of the death of the wife of Mr. Isaac Russell of Alma, Gratiot county. Monday morning three of her sisters took the train for that place to attend the funeral. Mrs. Russell passed her girlhood days in this vicinity and her untimely death was a shock to those who knew her in her former home.

September Excursions.

To the World's Fair, over the Lake Shore R'y. Sept. 6th and 12th. One fare for round trip, good ten days. Other excursions will be announced later.

We Are Still First.

The ball game Saturday afternoon between Jackson and the Tecumseh Association was well attended and a very interesting game was played. The Association maintained its reputation by defeating the visitors by a score of 7 to 12. Umpire McClure called the game at 4:00 o'clock, with Tecumseh batting. At the end of the first half Tecumseh had three scores. Jackson took two runs in their turn. In the second Letcher found the Jackson pitcher for a hard hit and made a home run; two others also scored. In the next three innings Jackson scored no runs. The home team got one in the 4th, one in the 6th, one in the 8th and three in the 9th inning. Jackson scored one in the 5th and three in the 8th inning. Tecumseh's battery struck out 10 men. Jackson's battery struck out 7. Seven hits were made on King, and 12 on Castner.

Some of the features of the game were Letcher's batting and base running qualities and Palmer's great one-hand catches. A quiet and interesting game and a good crowd. The Association is securing a good lot of games here and business men tell us that it is beneficial to their business. More games will be played soon, and let us have double the attendance we did Saturday. The games merit it and any lover of the American game cannot afford to miss one of these.

Saturday's score as follows.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R
Tecumseh,	3	3	0	1	0	1	0	1	3	12
Jackson,	2	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	3	7

Batteries—Tecumseh, King & Dixon.
—Jackson, Castner & Tray.

Michigan Days at the Fair.

The World's Fair officials have designated September 13th and 14th as Michigan days, and will join the state board in arranging special attractions for these dates. The railroad and steamboat companies are generally offering low special rates for that week. The fair is now at its best and the weather agreeable. The live stock show has just opened and prices for rooms and board in Chicago are but little, if any higher than they were a year ago. No special invitations will be issued, but a general invitation is extended to every person who has ever been a resident of Michigan.

Fatal Shooting Affray.

Lansing, September 2.—(Special.)—A fatal shooting affray occurred here at a late hour to-night. Montgomery Hendershott dying at the hands of Byron M. Brown. It is impossible to get a full account of the affair for the reason that no one who was present when the shooting was done will talk about it, but the facts as far as known are as follows: Brown, who is a man about 55 years of age, is a widower without family, and has for some time past occupied a room over a saloon on Michigan avenue, near police headquarters. He is a printer in the employ of Robert Smith & Co., state printers, and Hendershott was a fellow-craftsman.

It has been the custom of these and two other printers to meet in Brown's room Saturday nights, play cards and "rush the growler." This they had been doing all the evening, and at the time the shooting was done all were well under the influence of liquor. Hendershott is dead with a bullet through his stomach. Brown is in the station house with a black eye, and neither he nor the other two men will tell how the trouble commenced or what was the cause.

Hendershott was a married man and was the father of four children.—Detroit Free Press.

Many a boy feels he slipped up in his calculation when the slipper comes down.

RELIGIOUS CONGRESS.

Twenty-three Christian Denominations Represented.

A GREAT ŒCUMENICAL COUNCIL.

All Papers Translated into English and Read in That Language Before the Congress—Something About the Congress on Psychical Research—The Congresses a Branch of the World's Fair.

WORLD'S FAIR, Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Charles Carroll Bonney of Bonney Hill and all around Chicago must be credited with getting up the World's Congress Auxiliary, now proving such a brilliant success, as far as its origination can be credited to any one man. The scheme was so all-embracing, if I may coin a word, and the subjects covered so large a territory that he had some difficulty at first in getting the newspaper public to take it at aught else than a huge joke; but when scores of real leaders in many departments of thought come and gave their views the flood set in the opposite direction and there was danger apparently that the scheme would be swamped in popularity.

Today the much talked of Congress of Religions begins and the irreverent persist in looking on it as a sort of—well, I will not say burlesque, but something like that. The greatest trouble, however, was in the Congress on Psychical Research, which occupied the last week in August and attracted cranks as a magnate draws iron filings. The general impression was that the whole week was to be given up to matters of soul and spirit, ghosts, second sight, mind reading and the like, whereas this was but one of eleven congresses, all sitting at the same time. In spite of repeated publications that there were to be no "manifestations" and no attempts at any, and that this was simply a gathering of people who take a scientific interest in psychical phenomena just as they do in electricity or ocean currents, the impression got abroad that two or three thousand clairvoyants, "mediums," "seers," "faith healers," "levitators," and other supersensuous "diakkas" and "mehatmas" were to raise high jinks and other spirits.

To the Sadducees of course this was like shaking a red rag at a bull and they were on hand with "tests." As the programme was made out far in advance, the list of lectures and each one's time strictly limited and all general discussion forbidden, all these fellows were subjected to the dreadful punishment of sitting still and listening to papers written in the cool dry light of science by venerable old Dryasdusts who look at the soul very much as they would at a chemical residuum. One man, however, astonished and partially demoralized the congress and it was no less a man than Dr. Ernest Hart, editor of the British Medical Journal. In defiance of all rules he took the platform and proposed as a test for mind readers that any one of them might have a certified check for $1,000 which he would conceal in a box, if said mind reader would in forty-eight hours give the number and wording of the check. There was an uproar for a few minutes and the British doctor was forced off the stand, red with rage.

The motto of the congress organization is "Not Things, but Men; Not Matter but Mind." C. C. Bonney is president, Thomas B. Bryan, vice president; Lyman J. Gage, treasurer, and Benjamin Butterworth and Clarence E. Young, secretaries. It is officially a branch of the World's Columbian exposition, which is organized under the laws of Illinois as a corporation to manage the World's fair. The meetings are held in the Memorial Art palace of the Chicago Art Institute, a rather odd looking building on the lake front at the foot of Adams street. It is wonderfully commodious inside, and there is ample room for a dozen congresses at once and for all who desire to attend the general meetings in the large hall. In short, this is entirely too big an affair to be laughed at or captured by cranks, though occasionally the dryest and gravest looking old fellows in spectacles get off theories which to men of my sort sound like learned lunacy.

There is a world wide interest in the Congress of Religions, which nominally began yesterday, but as that was Sunday the active scientific discussion begins today. My first thought was to give outlines of the points to be made, but as it is to last three weeks and each phase of faith is to be set forth by one or more able exponents, I discovered that it would take a dozen of the best theologians in the United States to do the subject justice in a report. I do not feel able to get up a cyclopedia this month, and religion is not my strong point anyhow. Suffice it to say that twenty-three Christian denominations will be represented and that the list very appropriately begins with Adventist and ends with Universalist. If the Winnebrennarians, Zoarites and three others could have come we should have the alphabet complete. The Jews, Mohammedans, Buddhists, Parsees and Brahminical sects will also be represented by men of great ability, so this will doubtless be the Oecumenical Council of Humanity, the greatest religious congress ever held in this world. All the papers will be translated into English by competent scholars under the supervision of their authors, and read in that language of course, but as English is now the world's language in a sense, and as England rules more Mohammedans than the Sultan of Turkey and more Buddhists than any power except China, all the Parsees and nearly all the Brahmins read it, it is expected that only four or five of the lecturers will be unable to read their papers in the local tongue. The Chicago wits have not failed to remark that this is one of the very few meetings at which Mayor Carter Harrison will not speak. He is not in this connection. As I said cranks were barred out, but in the little I heard of the papers on psychical research there were occasional passages which sounded queer to a man who is of the earth earthy. For instance, here is a paragraph taken literally from one lady's production:

"There is no possibility of doubting that humanity is on the threshold of a life so much higher and more potent than the present, that to enter on its realization will make a new heaven and a new earth. The change will be as great as that from the grub to the butterfly. Humanity will find its wings. Mental and psychic power will assert their sway. The entire scenery of life will be transformed. Unsuspected stores of energy will be liberated. Mankind will live in exaltation and enthusiasm. There will be a bounding life, not plodding existence. Life will be what Emerson says it should be, an ecstacy. * * * What on the natural claim would seem miracle becomes as simple as the most everyday occurrence."

That is too rich for my blood.

Almost every day now we see what a month ago very few expected—a crowd in various places about Jackson park so dense as to be uncomfortable. Every third day on an average is a special day for some large class and about the middle of the afternoon one sees odd sights. All the seats in every building, state or general, are occupied; on all the lounges women and children are stretched out regardless of the posted notices, and on almost every secluded piece of greensward are groups of ladies taking their rest like hunters in camp. There is no pretense of genteel "reclining." They are lying flat down with a light shawl, sometimes only a handkerchief under the head, and often sound asleep. Even in the rather uncomfortable chairs in the main aisle of the Manufactures building I see them sprawled in all sorts of restful attitudes. It looks a little odd at first, but custom soon relieves that.

I regret to add that the cost of living has increased about 40 per cent. since I came here in July. One does not notice it on the bill of fare. That reads as it did, but there are so many little ways of cutting into a fellow. The cheaper dishes are generally "out," or they are so poor nobody wants to try them a second time. If one orders soup and no meat after it, the price of the soup is doubled. With a meat order but one vegetable is found and precious little of that. If one orders fish no vegetable is served with it. He must make an extra order for potatoes. If he takes soup, bread and butter are not given with it and only a handful of crackers.

These are little things, but they count up big in a day. I am speaking now of fairly pretentious middle class restaurants, such as are found on Park place, New York, or middle Fourth street, Cincinnati, or pretty well up town in Indianapolis. In any of these 60 cents will buy more than I can dispose of and that which is good, but in Chicago I can eat a dollar's worth and feel no strain on the peritoneum. When I came there was a vast difference between rates in the fair ground and outside, but it is not worth bothering about now. There is something wrong about the correspondence of prices all over this western country anyhow. Why is it that while prices are steadily going down for the farmer, they are as steadily going up for the eater in the city? And why should a restaurant dinner cost so much more in Chicago than in New York, seeing that the meat and flour and meal go hence to that city? During the war (early in 1864) I got a splendid dinner here for 50 cents. Flour has reached the lowest price since records were kept in Illinois, but 5 cents buys just the same loaf it did when wheat was $1.80. The fair is now spoken of as an assured financial success, but if these fellows don't look out they will scare us all away yet.

* * *

The increased crowd contains a much bigger percentage of easily bewildered people, and by some mysterious law of nature they get worse bewildered in the Manufactures building than anywhere else. The Columbian guard in charge of the department of watches has something about him which makes all these people appeal to him like lost children. "O, mister, have you seen my husband? He said I'd wait here," was the salutation of one lady the other day. Without a smile the guard informed her that so far as he had observed people who made special appointments will always be an hour longer getting to the place than they had expected. And so testify many others. In crossing the grounds many people use up at least twice as much time as they realize. A gentleman who had evidently lost his bearings completely addressed to this guard the startling inquiry:

"Say, guard, where am I going?"

"If you had asked 'Where am I at' I could have told you," replied the guard, who evidently reads the congressional news. Another gentleman bewildered guard and bystanders alike by asking with all the innocence in the world.

"Where will I find Jerusalem?"

"If you go far enough east and then turn south you may come to it," was the jocular reply; but the man was too much in earnest to be put off with a joke. He finally made it plain that he had somewhere seen a place with a sign announcing a view of Jerusalem, but could not remember where it was. As the guard did not know and I have never seen it, I conclude that it must be down in the plaisance or in the city. A lady asked another guard in that building where she would "find the bicycles." It turned out that she wanted the bazaar. J. B. PARKE.

What the Fair Has Done.

It is time for the croakers who have fallen into the habit of calling the World's fair a financial failure to change their tune. It is not a failure, financially or otherwise; instead, it is a great success. That the stockholders will realize little or nothing on their investment is granted. So far as that is concerned they never expected to. The citizens of Chicago who subscribed for World's fair stock did so through civic pride or with the idea that the holding of the exposition here would help their particular business. They expected it to benefit the city and in that benefit they hoped to share. And in this respect the fair has paid for itself grandly. It has brought to Chicago an abundance of $5, $10 and $20 bills. Millions of dollars have gone into circulation on account of it and the result can be seen today. While New York is short of cash and is doing business with clearing-house certificates, while Philadelphia and other cities are in the same fix, Chicago is all right. There has never been a time during all this financial trouble when the man with a balance in the bank could not get the money on his check. There has never been a time when currency went to a premium or drafts were dishonored.

HE WON'T GIVE UP.

Warden Parsell Still Holds His Office.

He Declares That His Appointment Was for Four Years and His Successor Has No Right to the Place.

REFUSES TO ABDICATE.

IONIA, Sept. 2.—A somewhat knotty legal tilt was precipitated at the state house of correction and reformation here Friday afternoon when Warden Eugene Parsell (dem.) refused to recognize Otis Fuller (rep.) as his legal successor and refused to accede to a demand for the keys of the institution. Mr. Fuller is the warden appointed by the new state administration, and at a meeting of these two gentlemen some days ago it was agreed that Mr. Fuller should take charge September 1. Warden Parsell recanted, however, and it leaked out a few days ago that he would not relinquish the office unless forced to do so.

The full board of control and Gov. Rich were present Friday, holding the regular monthly meeting, and there was a warm all-day secret session upon Parsell's refusal to vacate. The matter, it now seems sure, will come up before the supreme court in October, when Warden Parsell will claim possession of the office by virtue of an act passed by the legislature of 1891, under which he was appointed for a term of four years. The legislature of 1893 intended to undo all this work of its predecessors and legislated the old board of control out of office. Mr. Fuller was appointed by the board created by the legislature of 1893.

MICHIGAN TAX ROLL.

Apportionment of the Amount Due from the Different Counties.

LANSING, Sept. 1.—State Accountant Tompkins makes public the total amount of state taxes apportioned to the counties to be spread on the tax rolls this year. The total amount of the apportionment is $3,9[illegible],214.69, or 1.7 mills on the dollar. The following is the apportionment of the larger counties:

Alcona, $37,344.63; Bay, $[illegible] Branch, $74,[illegible]; Calhoun, $[illegible] Cass, $[illegible]; Charlevoix, $[illegible] Cheboygan, $[illegible] Houghton, $[illegible] Ingham, $[illegible] Jackson, $[illegible] Kalamazoo, $[illegible] Kent, $[illegible] Lenawee, $[illegible] Livingston, $[illegible] Macomb, $[illegible] Manistee, $[illegible] Manistique, $[illegible] Marquette, $[illegible] Monroe, $[illegible] Muskegon, $[illegible] Oakland, $[illegible] Ottawa, $[illegible] Saginaw, $[illegible] St. Clair, $[illegible] Washtenaw, $[illegible] Wayne, $[illegible]

Great Day for Sunday Schools.

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—"Rally Day" was celebrated by the Sunday schools of this city with great enthusiasm and success. The weather was delightful and the procession was one of the most unique and interesting ever seen in this city. Upward of 20,000 children with banos, drum corps, juvenile military companies, mounted escorts, bicycle battalions, etc., paraded the streets. The exercises took place in Belle Isle park, where one of the largest crowds in the history of the park gathered.

Fatal Fight Over a Poker Game.

LANSING, Sept. 3.—Montgomery S. Hendershott, a printer employed by Robert Smith & Co., state printers, was shot dead Saturday night by Byron M. Browne, also a printer. The two fought in the latter's room, over a game of poker. Hendershott was 50 years old and leaves a widow and four children in destitute circumstances. For several years Browne lived at Junction City, Kan., where he edited a newspaper.

Sold at Auction.

JACKSON, Sept. 1.—The business of the George T. Smith Purifier company, including all patents, has been sold by the receivers to Thissel & Wilder, of the Central Oil Gas Stove company, for $15,000. Some months ago at an auction sale the firm bid in the immense shops and machinery of the company and now own the complete plant.

New Industry for Ludington.

LUDINGTON, Sept. 2.—A. D. Cartier, whose mill recently burned, has arrived home from his trip down the St. Lawrence and is considering a plan for erecting a mammoth industry on the old mill site. The project includes a shingle mill, a broom handle factory and a factory to make the newly invented baskets and fruit packages.

A Farmer's Loss.

ALLEGAN, Aug. 31.—The barn of Charles Woodruff, of Hamilton, with contents, including hay, grain and farm implements, was destroyed by fire Wednesday night. Loss $1,800.

Cheap Rates, G. A. R. Encampment at Indianapolis.

Account the G. A. R. Encampment held at Indianapolis, Ind., in Sept. 1893, the C. J. & M. Ry. will offer special low rate excursion tickets from all points at rate of one cent per mile in each direction. Tickets on sale Sept. 3d, 4th and 5th. Gentlemen:

I commenced taking P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium) last fall for erysipelas, my face was completely covered with the disease, I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This spring I became very much debilitated and again took another course, and am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P., one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who are needing a general tonic for building up the system and improving the appetite I consider it has no equal. Will say any one who will care to try P. P. P., will not be disappointed in its results, and I therefore cheerfully recommend it.

ART AND MYTHOLOGY.

Greek Gods in the Palace of Fine Arts

IN FORMS OF ENDURING MARBLE.

The Great Mystery of How the Greeks So Far Outran All Other Nations in Sculpture Manifested Anew at the World's Columbian Exposition—The Paintings of Holland and Russia.

WORLD'S FAIR, Sept. 1. — [Special.] — I have taken some more lessons in high art, and have progressed so rapidly that I now understand the whole outside of the building and all the figures on it from Victory to Ceres and from the tall angels to the little caryatides. As everybody knows, the Art palace is more solidly constructed than any of the other buildings as it is to remain here, while the others, with possibly one or two exceptions, are to be removed. It stands on the north shore of the north lagoon, almost exactly in the north center of the grounds and is 330x500 feet in the main, with two annexes, eastern and western, each 120x200 feet.

The main oblong is intersected each way by nave and transept, each 100 feet wide and 70 feet high, and at their center is the great dome, the concave side of which is 125 feet from the floor and atop of it is the winged Victory. The entire structure still retains its original clear white color and externally as well as internally it is in truth a palace of art. Few visitors study the outside. They appreciate the general effect in beauty, but fail to note the Ionic purity of the columns, the chaste and yet massive simplicity of the statues, pediments and bas-reliefs, in short, all the figures suggestive of the progress of art from the dawn of history to the present time. In truth, it requires a special education to get the idea meant to be conveyed, for there certainly is not another building on the grounds and possibly not another in the country, of which the exterior more fitly suggests its purpose.

And herein is manifested anew that great mystery which has been discussed by the learned for the last 400 years and was discussed even in Rome while the fact was yet new—the mystery that a mere handful of people in a little corner of southwestern Europe, a region not so large as New Jersey, should have so far outrun all the rest of the world in this art and produced masterpieces so perfect that the modern can only admire and imitate but cannot hope to surpass. The traveler through the modern world sees on every side strange symbols of a long dead and discarded faith. Over the insurance offices is the fabled Phœnix, rising freshly hatched from the ashes of the parent bird; in the drug store windows appears Atlas, bending under the weight of the globe, or Esculapius with the serpent curling around his staff, and elsewhere are Diana and Juno, Minerva and Jupiter and Apollo and other classic gods.

The literature of every Aryan land abounds with references to these creations of religious fancy and there is scarcely a political demonstration or a Veiled Prophet or other carnival display which does not in some way revive the old religion. In this Palace of Art, with its 7,000 statues and pictures, the Greek gods are constantly recurring and even in pictures with very modern titles one can see that the old mythology was still present in the painter's mind. One must know at least a little about it to get the idea, and while it is not well to appear arrogantly instructive, perhaps the unlearned reader will stand a paragraph or two on mythology while we are yet on the porch of the Art palace.

Know then, inquiring friend, that several thousand years ago the original Aryans lived on the highlands of south central and southwestern Asia and worshipped the powers of nature. As they sent off successive swarms of emigrants and founded new races and nations their original language gave rise in turn to Zend, Sanskrit, Greek, Latin and all the Keltic and Teutonic tongues. But as the language slowly changed the names of things came to be considered the names of persons. Instead of thunder as a power they put the thunder-god as a person. The Aryan said, "The sun dries up the dew." His Greek descendant, retaining the names without their meaning, said, "Helios devours Prokris." When the obscured sun sent a peculiar ray through the clouds the Aryan said as our own children say, "The sun is drawing water." His Hindoo descendants say, "Indra's elephant is filling his trunk to shower the fields."

The exploits of great pioneers and other leaders were interwoven with the actions of gods and the fancy of poets did the rest. Hence that wonderful mythology which enters so fully into modern art. But this still leaves the great problem of Greek pre-eminence unsolved. Of course each separated branch of the Aryan stock developed its mythology according to the nature of the country in which it is located. The Aryans in India, dazzled and overpowered by the awful phenomena of that tropical country, developed that gorgeous system of millions of gods of which missionaries have told us so much. Hence that queer array of many-armed and snaky and long-snouted gods to be seen here in the India exhibits. The Teutons went far to the north and so they created Thor and Woden and Friga, with gods of ice and fire and hail, gnomes and kobolds, night-riding hags and witches and monsters not fit to be described in a family paper, which did unutterable things in the depths of forests or on the black and blasted heath.

These were the two extremes. Midway between them was our Aryan race which worshipped the beautiful and especially the beautiful in human form. In what way the Greek mind took this direction we cannot say. It certainly did and to an extent that seems miraculous, but the how and the why remain a mystery. Every myth of the Greek faith or fancy was put in the loveliest forms of enduring marble and we have them here.

Of Diana, for instance, there are four very beautiful statues in the French section alone and very many paintings elsewhere. And very appropriately, too, for she was goddess of the cold, chaste moon, the friend of hunters, patroness of old maids and guardian of chastity. She was so set in her way that one fellow who offered to see her home was instantly consumed to ashes, and when the great hunter Aktaeon accidently came upon her while bathing in the forest, she changed him into a stag and "sicked" his own hounds on him. They made a meal of him in short order and this is the only authentic instance I can find of a "stag supper" that was approved by an old maid. And there was Prometheus who gave us fire. The gods had intended to leave mankind without this blessing, but when Prometheus saw that man alone among the animals had no natural weapons, he went up to heaven and stole fire from the chariot of the sun and by its aid man became the head of creation. For this Jupiter had him chained down on Mount Caucasus with vultures devouring his ever-growing liver, and if any one doubts this story he can come here and see Prometheus, life size, and all the sorrowing sisters of the mountain weeping about him, while the horrid, grim-eyed birds tear at his vitals. (Austrian section, No. 50.)

HERCULES AND MERCURY ON THEIR VACATION.

Cupid and Psyche, or Love and Soul, are everywhere, in all sorts of combinations, and every reader knows their history. Venus is also reproduced in all kinds of marble and more paintings than I could think of counting, and every reader knows her, at least by name. She was engendered by some of the blood of Jupiter which fell in the sea and as she rose from the waves near Rhodos she was called Aphrodite, which is perhaps a poetically Greek way of saying that beauty comes of good blood and bathing. When she entered the court of Olympus all the gods broke out in acclamations and she was unanimously elected goddess of love and beauty. Jupiter gave her in marriage to his lame son Vulcan, but she preferred Mars, the red god of war, and there was material for the divorce court. Perhaps this is one reason why Mars and Vulcan are so seldom seen in art.

It was this Vulcan who made the chains for Prometheus, and it was to get a living and suffering model from which to paint the scene that Parrhasius of Athens tortured an old slave to death, as the poet says:

"Parrhasius stood gazing forgetfully
Upon his canvass. There Prometheus lay,
Chained to the cold rocks of Mount Caucasus,
The vultures at his vitals and the links
Of the lame Lemnian festering is his flesh."

It is gratifying to add that Prometheus possessed the eternal secret on which the stability of the universe depended, and Jupiter finally had to release him to get at it. Unfortunately we do not know what the secret was. Hercules is another great character in art and mythology, the emblem of strength. His statue is everywhere and almost any Fourth of July orator feels free to mention the infant Hercules strangling the serpents. Mercury was the messenger of the gods and is known in art by the wings on his helm and heels. It was he who set the fashion of wearing bird wings on hats, and he and Hercules may be seen, in types as it were, any day on the avenues of the park. And here I must mention the singular fact that in all the Holland section I have not found a single picture in which the classic gods are prominent. Nearly all the Holland paintings show work or workers or suggest work. There are peasants plowing and peasants digging and peasants driving cattle, there are many scenes in humble homes and there are boats and canals and ports crowded with shipping. There are also many beautiful pastoral scenes. But nearly all are of the utilitarian cast. And what is not utilitarian is religious. The Dutch appear to have found an art in work as well as made a gospel of it. And after two pretty thorough surveys I am satisfied that I shall never learn to like these Dutch pictures. The female forms in them are all alike to my eye, from the Virgin to the women pulling the canal boat. When I mentioned this to Mrs. C. S. Brooks, the butter sculptress, she assured me there was really great and ideal beauty in them—to a Hollander. May be so. But they are all Dutch to me.

Another section I cannot learn to like is the Russian, though it is always crowded with ardent admirers. Several of the pictures are indeed wonders in art, but they are so dreadfully intense. There is so much knocking down and dragging out. There are three large pictures in which the whole black tragedy of Russian history seems to be concentrated and the main one (No. 84 A, "Pugatchoff, Impersonator of Peter III") appears to draw and fascinate the crowd very much as a rattlesnake might. Another represents a sort of riot among the guests at the "Wedding of the Grand Duke Vasalia II." Does the Russian artistic mind turn naturally towards the dark and the dreadful? Verily, it seems so. J. B. PARKE.

Handling the Crowds.

More than a quarter of a million people attended the Fair on Illinois Day, and yet the transportation facilities were not taxed to anything like their utmost. The crowds were handled admirably, or rather they handled themselves admirably. Both the transportation companies and the public are much better educated on the subject of getting to and from the fair than they were on Fourth of July. Not one of the harrowing scenes of that day, of people physically exhausted, struggling for a chance to get home, were repeated. At no time were there any such late crowds on the streets along the north and west side cable loops as there were the Fourth of July. The Fourth of July the World's fair steamboats carried in all something over 43,000 people. As late as 10 o'clock at night steamboat inspectors were busy preventing them from overloading on the trip down. On Illinois night the last boat, the John A. Dix, left the World's fair pier soon after it o'clock with very few passengers. The inspectors say that from 8 o'clock until 11 in the morning and from 2 o'clock until 7 in the afternoon the boats did a replica of the Fourth of July business in carrying people to the fair.

Souvenir Tickets.

Souvenir tickets of the World's Columbian exposition are on sale at all entrances, at Van Buren street and at the leading hotels. The series consists of Lincoln, Columbus, Washington, Indian. They are the finest engraved tickets that can be executed. A ticket purchased at any of the gates is good for a single admission any time between its purchase and the close of the exposition.

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermoter. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country."

Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 8 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make as many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other more obstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous outputs of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—as if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of a horse at the cost of one cent per hour, write for copiously illustrated, printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rock Island Sts., Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

The Aermotor Pneumatic Water Supply System enables you to supply every part of your house with water without an Elevated Tank.

D. RANSOM'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Pimple to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 14 ounces, or 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you. It will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

THE LAST TWO DAYS OF A VERY SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

Proceedings in Detail of Thursday's and Friday's Sessions—A List of the Teachers Enrolled.

THURSDAY FORENOON.

9 o'clock. Opening exercises. Instead of regular roll call each person, as his number was called, responded by telling some fact which had been learned by him during the Institute. Prof. Cook had been unwell since he came to the institute and as his school began Monday he needed the few days' rest remaining and he therefore left for Detroit on the morning train. Prof. Thompson gave Cook's goodbye to the Institute. On account of his departure the A. and B divisions were kept together a large share of the time. Prof. Thompson thought it strange that but 81 teachers could find it convenient to attend this Institute when there are 400 employed teachers in Lenawee. Prof. Rankin told of the possibilities of this Institute. Come next year prepared for work and bring your text books. So small an attendance throws cold water on the spirits of the instructors.

A and B—Prof. Rankin. Civil government along the line of history. Silence is a soil in which thought grows. If the early bird catches the worm that worm has no business to be out. Send your pupils home with a song in the head and love in the heart. Keep civil government pupils interested in the topics of the day.

Thompson next talked on psychology to A, and Rankin on algebra to B division, demonstrating the use of signs in algebra and that any quantity affected by the "0" exponent is equal to unity.

Thompson finished his talk on memory and took up fantasy. Fantasy puts in the high lights on the picture which memory and imagination paint. Reason: Feathers are light. Light is transparent. Therefore does it follow that feathers are transparent?

Recess. Singing.

B—Thompson, geography. Reduce newspapers to a pulp and with dyes color the pulp, then let the pupils mold maps and mount them on heavy cardboard. History: Teach history by imaginary travel. Take trips through all parts of the country; study railroad connections and other things which are met with in travel. Gather all the railroad circulars you can; they are good geography and solid literature.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Opening exercises. Rankin talked to B on capital and stocks.

A—Psychology, Thompson. On the subject of "Willing." Every person possesses a certain influence over someone else, the power being proportionate to the will. When in any gathering fix your eyes on another person, exert your will to make him look at you, and the case is very rare when you will not succeed. Have you ever felt that some person's eyes were fixed upon you when in an assemblage?

Remarks to teachers: Live long and live happy. Keep young. Economize self and look out for health.

Grammar, Rankin. "If you get puzzled on anything in grammar send it to me and I will help you if I can. I have made grammar a life study and yet am far from infallible."

FRIDAY FORENOON.

Devotional exercises by Rev. Wm. Babbitt. Roll call answered by quotations from standard authors. Singing.

A—Psychology. Mr. Thompson finished his subject and reviewed the chart of intellectual activities. General talk by Commissioner Field.

Grammar from the first column of Institute proceedings in the Tecumseh News. Rankin. "That sentence beginning, 'Prof. Rankin was putting the other division through a recitation in percentage,' has floored me. I don't say I can't dispose of it, because it's all right, but I have not settled it yet in my own mind. Study grammar until you are two generations old and yet you will find something to learn. Since the aeronaut and dancing master have been given the title of Professor I don't propose to be called by any such term."

Geography, Thompson. You can teach anything about descriptive geography by travel. Get out of the ruts which are bounded by so many paragraphs. The best intellects are dwarfed by being molded and crowded and not given a chance to develop, and we call this process 'a course of study.' Be original. A proper use of the text book is good, but if it isn't used to advantage better not at all. There is a something to geography beside study. Geography is a description of a huge and interesting picture.

On account of many teachers wishing to leave town on the afternoon train it was decided to hold a short afternoon session beginning at one o'clock and adjourn early.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Opening exercises. Roll call as in the morning. Prof. Thompson lectured on alcohol and narcotics. Alcohol is the cause of many cases of heart disease. Fat produced by beer is not normal, but simply bloated tissues. Alcohol toughens the heart until it is like tanned leather. There are but three beings in the wide world that will use tobacco: 1st, the tobacco worm, the filthiest of all the worm tribe; 2nd, the African rock goat, the dirtiest of quadrupeds, and 3rd, man.

Arithmetic, Rankin. Here are five topics which may well be omitted in the study of practical arithmetic; Allegation, compound proportion, exchange, equation of payments, geometrical and arithmetical progression.

Prof. Rankin gave us the following names of those whom he considers best in the study of grammar: Mr. Hart, Palmyra; Miss Chamberlain, Palmyra; Miss Howes, Onsted; Miss McClue, Charlotte; Miss Wimple, Tecumseh, and Miss Gilmore, Adrian.

The Institute adjourned in time for those so desiring to take the 3:15 train.

The following were the enrolled attendants at the Institute:

Conductor—Prof. Thompson, Saginaw.

Assistants—Prof. Rankin, Lapeer; Prof. Cook, Detroit; Com'r Field, Tecumseh.

HAS STRUCK IT RICH.

A late copy of the Tavares Herald contains an interesting article in regard to the phosphate discoveries in Lake County, Fla. From the present appearances it looks as though our townsman, Dr. E. Hause, had struck it rich.

A year or more ago phosphate was discovered in Lake county. Some of the citizens of Sorrento became interested in the find. Searching parties started out to discover the extent of the deposits; holes were dug and bored over a radius of one and a half miles, and phosphate was found in nearly every place explored—a deposit of from three to sixteen feet was found, of rock and pebble phosphate. Samples have been sent to A. A. Persons, chemist, of the Fla. Agricultural and Mechanical College at Lake City; Norman Robinson, State Chemist at Tallahassee, also to Dr. John Kost, who was State Geologist three years in Florida, and Dr. R. C. Kedzie, M. A., M. D., Professor Chemical Dept. of Michigan Agricultural College, at Lansing, Mich.

From all reports it is found that this phosphate is of the highest grade and as good as any found in Florida.

The people at Sorrento have taken steps towards establishing a mill at the railroad station at Wm. B. Glass', for the purpose of grinding the rock and pebble phosphate, for the purpose of manufacturing fertilizers for the many orange groves coming into bearing in the vicinity of Sorrento.

Dr. E. Hause, who has become one of the most extensive land owners in this phosphate district, is now north, at his former home, Tecumseh, Mich., talking up the phosphate interests, with a view of forming a company to develop and work extensively these phosphate mines the coming winter.

This may prove a source of revenue to Lake county of great value, as developments show this to be one of the richest finds of phosphate in Florida. The deep deposit, of sixteen feet, is only two miles from the J. T. & K. W. R. R., and five miles east of Sorrento.

A World's Fair Guide that "Guides."

We have just received "The Best Things to See and How to Find Them," by far the cleverest little guide to the great Exposition that has been published. It is concise, practical, and a great economizer of time—looking at the Fair, with a due sense of proportion and giving readers an idea of what they should see and what they can best afford to overlook. It is a guide book that "guides," taking the visitors in charge and conducting them about the grounds and through the buildings, indicating the character of each display and mentioning specifically every feature and article that should be seen and where it is to be found. It is a book that it would be well for the visitor to read before going to the Fair, and is a necessity for all who wish to see the Exposition systematically. It should be in the pocket of every visitor—where it will easily go. The publishers (The White City Publishing Company, 571 The Rookery), to make it doubly convenient, have kept the left hand pages throughout the book blank for memoranda, and have given a list of routes for one, three, six, and twelve day visits. The price is but 25 cents.

NOTES FROM THE WHITE CITY.

Some Big Days and Special Celebrations in August.

Times are growing livelier at the big fair. All this month the attendance has been steadily increasing. Last Thursday, Illinois day, brought out a paid attendance of 240,000. Saturday there were 164,000 paid admissions.

The Sunday crowds are still very small. Yesterday but 21,000 people paid to see the covered exhibits, and the closed state and foreign buildings. Most of those who came did not enter the main grounds but visited the resorts of Midway which were open in the afternoon. Even these places were nearly deserted by dark.

Special attractions are many now, and he must be hard to suit indeed, who cannot find something each day to satisfy his individual taste for amusement or instruction. So many and such complete descriptions of the buildings and their contents have appeared from time to time, that I shall devote this letter to some of the interesting events that have taken place recently.

On the evening of the 16th inst. occurred the grand international ball in which all of the nations represented here took part. Each person dressed in native full dress costume and the effect was striking. Fur-clad Esquimaux and white robed Soudanese, American Indians in war paint and feathers, Turks with baggy trousers and red fez, little Laplanders, Mexicans with broad brimmed somberos all mingled together on the dance floor; Chinese gorgeous in richly embroidered robes, and Dahomeyans whose full dress consisted of a U. S. flag enveloping the form in its scanty folds, they were all there. The little Javanese women with brown legs bare to the knee, were, it is said, much shocked at the decollette costume of the American ladies.

The next evening there was an exhibition of Indian war dance, on a platform built out in South Pond, south of the Agricultural building. One of the features of the evening was the torture dance of the Quackahl Indians. This was performed by four Indians. Slits were cut in the backs of the victims and through these cords were passed; other men holding the cords goaded the victims around the platform. Blood trickled down their backs in little red streams and red lights added ghastliness to the scene. The dance was kept up until cord and flesh giving away, the victim was free. The barbarous entertainment was witnessed by fully 5,000 people.

There have been international swimming contests and races in the lagoons, and these will be continued at frequent intervals.

A regular prize fight took place in the stock pavilion not long ago. Fourteen rounds were fought with two ounce gloves for a purse of $1,000. In justice to the Exposition Company, however, I must say that this bit of choice sport was not authorized by the directors.

The West Point Cadets have been in camp east of the Goverment building for ten days, leaving to-day at 1:30 p. m. The reception and ball given for them in the Woman's building, was the greatest social event during their stay at Jackson Park. The cadets of Michigan Agricultural College camped for a week on the west of Midway Plaisance.

To-morrow night there will be an open air performance of As You Like It, in the North end of the grounds, near German building. Pain's fireworks are given twice a week on the lake front east of the Manufacturer's building and always draw the crowds.

Band and orchestra concerts are still continued. It will be seen that there is no lack of entertainment at the fair in these days.

The Columbian Guard has been the subject of much comment and I must say a word for him. I do not think they are all perfect, but most of them are first rate fellows, and are as intelligent as the average visitor. The guards have about a hundred questions, on an average, fired at them daily and if they are not all answered properly the public should remember that the poor fellows get tired of questions like the following:

"I want you to tell us please, where all those mean places are, dances you know, that we have read about in the papers; where are they?"

"Where is that big load of logs?"

"Is there a telegraph office near?"

"Where is the Liberal Arts building?"

In front of Old Vienna on the Midway "What building is that?" It represents a street in Vienna as it appeared 200 years ago. "Was it built a purpose?"

On the Midway again: "Say, would it be safe to go back this way after night, 9 o'clock or later?"

"Will you tell me please the exact weight of the Ferris Wheel?"

"Can you tell me anything about the best way to get to Lincoln Park from here?"

"Officer, will you please tell me where the Temperance camp is and how to get to it?"

"Say, how do I go to go home?"

"Can you tell me what time the clothing stores down town close?"

"What time does the Whaleback leave for the city?" Is it any wonder the guard is tired and sometimes makes a mistake?

The Ferris Wheel is one of the attractive sights on the Midway now at night. It is brilliantly illuminated with incandescent lights. Looking at it from a distance it presents the appearance of two great revolving circles of light, one within the other. The outer one is 250 feet in diameter, the inner one 80 feet less. They are hung on a firey standard at the top of the wheel, which is a great star forming their axes.

One of the finest entertainments on Midway is the Cyclorama of the volcano Kilauea. A quartet of native singers from Hawaii form part of the attraction, and their singing on the banks of the burning lake in the center of the crater is worth the price of admission.

Yesterday it was rumored that the Java village was about to close and this morning the following notice greeted the visitor at the entrance. "Closed on account of exorbitant percentages charged by the Exposition." The Java village was one of the best exhibitions on the Midway Plaisance and it was very popular with World's Fair visitors. The little people have already commenced packing and are anxious to go home, but it is thought some arrangement will be made by which they will stay. I can't keep track of all the Lenawee people who come to the fair now-a-days. I have met quite a number of friends and acquaintances in the last two weeks and am always glad to see any one from that part of the country.

Overcoats are in order this morning. I have seen several ulsters out, but for me the weather is just cool enough to be delightful. H. M. B.

OBITUARY.

Died, near Tecumseh, Mich., on Friday, Sept. 1st, 1893, Mrs. Elizabeth Lanning, widow of Mr. Joseph Lanning, in her 81st year of age. The maiden name of Mrs. Lanning was Elizabeth Updyke. She was born at Washington, Warren county, New Jersey, October 24th, 1812. In the year 1830 she was married and in 1844 came with her husband and family to Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Lanning's children numbered ten in all; four sons and two daughters. Of these, two sons and three daughters have died, and the same number are still living. For many years Mrs. Lanning has been a widow. In the management of her affairs she has displayed independence and energy. At the same time she has commanded the respect of a wide circle of neighbors and acquaintances for her social and moral worth. She became a member of the Presbyterian church in New Jersey, and transferred her membership in 1847 to the Presbyterian church of Tecumseh, of which she has ever since been a consistent and valued member. For a year or two she has been in declining health, and for six months before her death it became evident that she could not long survive. She awaited calmly the coming of the messenger who was to take her hence and was sustained in the bearing of her infirmities, not merely by the natural fortitude of a brave and noble spirit, but by the consolation of that hope which maketh not ashamed and which serves its possessor well when other helpers fail. The large gathering at her funeral service testified to the regard in which she was held by those who knew her best.

Cost of an Ex-President's Manuscript.

As an illustration of the money paid to writers as soon as they acquire a reputation, the September Cosmopolitan contains less than eight thousand words, for which the sum of sixteen hundred and sixty-six dollars was paid. Ex-President Harrison, Mark Twain and William Dean Howells are the three whose work commands such a price. The September number has more than one hundred illustrations, giving the chief points of interest in the Columbian Exposition, and the Fair is treated by more than a dozen authors, including the famous English novelist, Walter Besant; the Midway Plaisance, by Julian Hawthorne; Electricity, by Murat Halstead; the Liberal Arts Building, by Kunz, the famous gem expert of Tiffany & Company; the Department of Mines, by the chief of that department, etc.

A feature of this number is a story by Mark Twain, entitled "Is He Living or Is He Dead?"

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have obtained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT. 7, 1893.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Avery & Co. have a new card this week.

Robert Stretch is at home yesterday and to-day. He is still on the road inspecting boilers.

The special meeting of Blue Lodge called for this week is postponed until Friday of next week, Sept. 15th.

Next Sunday night Rev. J. P. Varner of the Methodist church, will have for his subject: "The Judgment Day."

Miss Adah Waldron left last Thursday for Menominee, Mich., where she will teach during the coming year.

Among the Chicago passengers from here yesterday morning was Mrs. Geo. S. Tiffany, who will be gone about ten days.

Miss Loana Davidson returned last week to Traverse City, to resume her position in the public schools of that city.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church will have the regular monthly tea-meeting at the church parlors on Wednesday, Sept. 13.

Editor Grandon returned last week from a month's respite among the mountains of West Virginia. He is much refreshed and strengthened and fully equipped to wield the editorial lance with his old time vigor.

The Chautauqua circle met at Mrs. E. B. Wood's Tuesday evening. Owing to the small attendance an adjournment was had till to-morrow evening, when arrangements will be perfected to begin work for the coming season.

The T. B. B. A., is marching right along since their nine took the bat. They have sustained but one defeat, that at Milan. The officers are entitled to much credit for their efforts to give Tecumseh a series of first-class games.

The premium list of the County Fair is received, which will be held from Sept. 25th to 29th. Entries will close on the 25th. Speed entries on the 23d. Several additions have been made to the premium list and a fine show is expected.

The remains of Lewis Olmstead, a former resident of Tecumseh, were brought from Bay City Monday last, for interment in our cemetery. The Masonic fraternity took charge of the funeral services, the deceased having been a member of the Tecumseh Lodge for many years.

At a meeting of the Presbyterian church held Tuesday to consider the election of a Pastor, there were one hundred and fifty-one votes cast, of which Rev. Chas. M. Brown, of Negaunee, Michigan, secured 148 and was therefore chosen to the pastorate of the church. He will begin his pulpit duties on Sunday Sept. 24th.

Next Sunday, Sept. 10th, will be observed as rallying day at the Sunday school of the Presbyterian church. It is hoped that if possible every scholar on the Secretary's roll will be present, ready to join heartily in the exercises of the school. In order to secure this full attendance and interest, the teachers are requested, to make a special effort to have their scholars in their places, promptly.

We have received a copy of the fifth annual report of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital at Brooklyn, N. Y., from the desk of the clerk of the board, Arthur R. Pardington. This institution has grown into large proportions and is spreading out more and more every year. Our old friend, Arthur, seems to be the right man in the right place in his present position.

Al. Heesen, of Toledo, was in town Sunday.

Moses Long, of Leslie, visited with the McCann Bros. Tuesday.

Will Baker has been home from Detroit for a few days recuperating.

Will Ross spent Sunday in Toledo, and celebrated Labor Day there Monday.

Mrs. W. H. Wiggins, of Adrian, is is spending a few days with D. T. Hall's family.

Bert Garlinghouse and N. S. Satterthwaite called on Adrian friends last Sunday.

Mrs. Abbie Fisher and daughter, Gertrude, have been visiting in Detroit this week.

Remember the social at the Baptist church to-night. Everyone come and get supper.

L. P. Tribou and F. B. Bauer went to Toledo Monday to take in the Labor Day celebration.

The Barbers' Union, of Toledo, gave an excursion to Devils Lake last Sunday. About 400 people attended.

Miss Flora Ettinger who has been visiting Mrs. C. H. Rude, returned to her home in Waterloo, Ind. to-day.

Mrs. Horatio Keyser and a few of her young friends spent a very pleasant day at Sand Lake last Wednesday.

Rev. H. A. Smith will return from Charlevoix the last of the week and will occupy his pulpit Sunday, Sept. 10.

Circumstances were against the Association at Milan Tuesday, in the ball game, but then we can't expect to win every time.

Miss Cora Reynolds, of South Ashburnham, Mass., and Miss Jennie Reynolds, of Dundee, were here calling on friends Tuesday.

Mrs. C. G. Norris, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. N. Satterthwaite, returned to her home in Boston, Tuesday morning.

Geo. E. Frost and wife, of Cheboygan, on their way to Chicago, stopped for a visit with his brother's family, Dr. W. A. Frost, of this place.

Harlow Smith and Sammy McClure are taking in the World' Fair. Truman Crossman is taking Harlow's place at Avery & Co's, and Robt. McClure fills his brother's place at McClure Bros.

A Silver Medal Contest will be held in the Opera House, on Friday evening, Sept. 15, between young people of Raisin and Tecumseh. Good music and singing will add interest to the program. Admission 10c.

Milan has one game and we have one. Come and see the rubber played on our grounds next Tuesday. Also the second game of the series between Clinton and the Association on the former's grounds next Saturday.

Miss Cornelius, of Adrian, will conduct a silver medal contest in the Tecumseh Opera House, Sept. 15. Three of the contestants will be young people of Raisin Valley and three of Tecumseh. A good musical program is also provided. Admission 10c.

The race meeting at Onsted last Saturday, on their new track, was a big success. Tecumseh and Britton were represented by some of their best stock and there were some fine exhibitions of speed. It is estimated that at least 1200 people were present.

Those boys or young men who stole and destroyed grapes from Elijah King's grapery on Sunday night, had better take warning and keep off his premises in the future, as they are known; and if they are seen again on his premises will be prosecuted, as Mr. King has borne with such lawlessness as long as he can stand it without applying to the law for protection.

The return game between the High School team and the Y. M. C. A. club of Adrian, took place Friday P. M. At Adrian, several weeks ago, our boys were defeated by a score of 8 to 12. Friday the boys paid off their debt by taking 11 scores against Adrian's 7. The game was a good one, and calls for another to decide the tie.

The Eighteenth Regiment boys decided to hold their next annual reunion at Blissfield, notwithstanding the fact that a cordial invitation was extended to them from the business men of Tecumseh to meet here. The success of such gatherings depends in a large measure upon the help of the citizens, and we fear the boys made a mistake. However, Tecumseh's turn will come in a year or two.

A new drinking fountain for the use man, horse, and dog is being put in on the corner of Chicago and Ottawa Sts. It is a large iron tank, porcelain lined, and weighs about 600 lbs. The drainage will be connected with the wooden pipes of the old water works. We understand that the old tent of the Maccabees helped materially in putting in the fountain, having contributed $40.00 toward its purchase. Now we want one in the other end of town.

Company C elected civil officers and first sergeant Tuesday evening. Richard Farley was elected to succeed himself as first sergeant. Dr. F. O. Tefft was made President of the civil organization; Harry O. Spalding, Vice-President. Treasurer W. C. Burridge and Secretary Thomas Lowry were re-elected by acclamation. The civil board were given special privileges on the armory question. A committee on entertainment for the coming season was appointed, and we will soon be given something interesting.

Dry and dusty is no name for it.

Now is the time to plant fall advertising.

Scove Walker, of Brooklyn, is in town to-day.

T. J. Kennedy, of Hanover, was in town yesterday.

Tuesday afternoon the thermometer reached 90 degrees.

We publish a big grist of council proceedings this week.

S. W. Anderson made a business trip to Toledo yesterday.

One Fare for Round Trip to Chicago, over the Lake Shore R'y. Sept. 6th and 12th.

Miss Grace McNeil is the guest of Miss Lena Lawrence of Detroit, this week.

The special examination of teachers last Saturday was well attended, forty-three teachers being present.

We are glad to see Mr. J. H. Bramble able to walk down town. He is getting to be quite like himself again.

Chas. S. Burroughs, of Clinton, has been appointed a member of the commission to lay out town sites in Oklahoma.

Mrs. E. S. Tate, of Toledo, who has been the guest of Mrs. Abbie Fisher for the past few days, will return home to-morrow.

John O'Neil and wife were visiting Tecumseh friends Saturday and Sunday. They are now living on a farm southeast of Deerfield.

Dr. R. B. House, of Springfield, Ohio, is in town for a few days. He came to attend the funeral of his brother, M. B. House, of Clinton.

The regular meeting of the Council, which was to have occurred last Monday evening, was adjourned until Monday evening, Sept. 11th.

R. B. Gillespie, accompanied by his wife and two children and Miss Anna Everhart took the Lake Shore special for Chicago yesterday morning.

Keep yourself posted about World's Fair Excursions over the Lake Shore R'y. by reading this paper and asking ticket agents. Two Excursions, Sept. 6th and 12th.

The Tecumseh Public Schools opened on Monday, with a total enrollment of 440 pupils, of which 102 were in the High School. This is a much better showing than last year.

Labe Babcock is the new postmaster at Britton. Well, John Britton is on the wrong side of the fence now and so he steps aside. Mr. Babcock has been there before and he will make a good official.

It happened in this village—parties well known—hearers authentic. He, "Do you take me for a wooden man?" She, "No, but I should judge you had a wooden arm." Query: What do you suppose was the difficulty?

Persons who design visiting the World's Fair should call at this office and see what accommodations we can give. Those who have tried the rooms provided by the Chicago Entertainment Bureau have been more than satisfied with their accommodations. Call and get a circular.

Labor Day was more generally observed this year than ever before. It is destined to become a very popular holiday. Located about midway between the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving, it comes at a very convenient season of the year to draw out large crowds.

The score of the game between Milan and Tecumseh, on the former's grounds Tuesday, is as follows:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9.—R
Tecumseh	1	2	0	1	0	0	0	0	0—4
Milan	2	1	0	1	3	0	0	0	0—7

Milan will play the return game on our grounds next Tuesday.

The Teachers Institute held in Tecumseh last week was a grand success from first to last, and it is only justice to say that this result was due in a large measure to the thorough preparation and indefatigable efforts of School Commissioner, C. F. Field. A full report of the two last days appears on the fourth page.

We call attention to the change of date in the Lake Shore special to Chicago next week. The date, first fixed for the 13th has been changed to the 12th. The 13th is "Michigan Day" on Jackson Park and the change has been made to enable all who take that special to participate in the festivities of Michigan Day.

Last Tuesday evening the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Friends church, met at the parsonage and before closing they perpetrated a very pleasant surprise upon their Pastor, presenting him with an elegant gold watch as a token of their esteem. Geo. Beneway made the presentation remarks. Rev. Fistler was taken completely by surprise, but he recovered himself and thanked the society for the gift.

An item elsewhere, taken from the Free Press gives the particulars of the shooting of Mont S. Hendershot, of Lansing, last Saturday night. Mont was foreman of this office for one year and left our employ three years ago last April. He was an excellent printer, much above the average, when he was himself, but his dissipated habits prevented his becoming a fixture in any office, but he was frequently seeking work. His wife, who was a most devoted woman, will receive the deepest sympathy of her acquaintances in the awful affliction that has befallen her.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING.

The school meeting Monday evening was given about the usual attendance. The meeting was called to order by Moderator George Howell and the report of the schools for the past year was read by Director North. P. S. McKinnon moved an amendment to the report, which was to raise the director's salary from $50 to $100. After considerable discussion the motion was carried by a vote of 17 to 9. The report was then accepted.

In the election of Trustees for the following year S. W. Anderson was nominated to succeed himself and elected. Whole number of votes cast, 46; Anderson 44, scattering 2. For trustee to succeed O. P. Bills, J. H. Smith secured the nomination and was elected. Whole number of votes cast, 49; Smith 40, scattering 9.

Supt. Kellogg reported that the cost of education per capita was as follows:

Primary grades,	$16.87
Grammar, "	16.74
High School, "	27.97
Average,	19.44

This brought on a discussion as to whether the rate of foreign tuition was high enough. Foreign pupils in the High School are charged $16.67 per year. The cost of education is $27.97, or a loss of $11.30 per capita. A motion was made to raise the tuition to $20 per year. Sentiment was about equally divided and both sides were thoroughly discussed. The motion was finally withdrawn as impracticable, at least for the present. No further business coming before the meeting it was adjourned.

Below are the principal items of the annual report:

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Extra Session.

THE bill to increase the national bank circulation was discussed in the senate on the 28th and a bill was reported for the repeal of the federal election law. It was decided by a vote of 32 to 29 that Mr. Mantle, of Montana, and Mr. Allen, of Washington, are not entitled to seats and that a governor of a state has not the right to appoint a senator to fill vacancies. ... In the house the bill in favor of the unconditional repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman act was passed by a vote of 240 to 116. The average of sentiment on free silver was shown in the votes on the ratios at 16 and 20 to 1, respectively, in both cases there being a trifle more than 100 majority against silver.

IN the senate on the 29th Mr. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee, reported back the house bill repealing part of the Sherman act with an amendment in the nature of a substitute. The difference between the house bill and the Voorhees bill is found in the attachment to the latter of a paragraph declaring that it is the policy of the United States to use both gold and silver as money metals and to preserve parity. No action was taken.... In the house an animated discussion took place over the rules between Speaker Crisp and ex-Speaker Reed. Mr. Springer introduced a bill to provide for the coinage of the seignorage silver in the treasury, which was referred.

SENATOR SHERMAN addressed the senate on the 30th in favor of the repeal of the silver law, but said the present financial troubles were not due to silver, and that alterations of the tariff laws would prove disastrous to the country. A bill was introduced providing for the dismissal from the government service of all persons not citizens of the United States. ... In the house the urgency deficiency appropriation bill ($300,000) was passed. The new code of rules was discussed.

SENATOR WOLCOTT (Col.) spoke in the senate on the 31st ult. against the repeal of the silver law. A concurrent resolution was introduced directing the secretary of the treasury to issue certificates not to exceed 90 per cent. of the amount of gold coin and bullion in the treasury. ... In the house the new code of rules was further discussed.

SENATOR VOORHEES' request on the 1st for unanimous consent that the senate bill be substituted for the house bill repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act was objected to by Mr. Cockrell. Mr. Vance spoke against the repeal of the silver law and in favor of free coinage. ... The time in the house was passed in discussing the rules. An amendment was adopted prohibiting smoking in the chamber at any time.

DOMESTIC.

SINCE January 1 last 154 national banks have suspended. Of this number one has gone into voluntary liquidation, fifty-seven have been placed in the hands of receivers, sixty-two are in the hands of national bank examiners with prospects of early resumption, and the other thirty-four have reopened their doors.

FURTHER advices from the tornado in South Carolina say that fully 100 lives were lost at Port Royal, at Beaufort and neighboring points by drowning. In Savannah, Ga., fifteen persons were killed.

THE official count of the treasury cash, begun May 31 last, necessitated by the transfer of the office of treasurer of the United States from E. H. Nebeker to D. N. Morgan, has been completed and Treasurer Jordan has signed a receipt in favor of E. H. Nebeker for $740,317,419.783. In counting and weighing this vast sum not one cent was found missing. The total weight of the coin counted was about 5,000 tons.

FOR HUNTERS.

An Abstract of the Laws Affecting Sportsmen Passed by the Last Legislature.

LANSING, Sept. 1.—It is now lawful to shoot wild ducks and snipe. The game laws were changed in some respects by the last legislature, and a little information on what can lawfully be shot and when will be of interest to hunters at this time. The open seasons are as follows:

Deer—Lower peninsula, November 5 to November 25. Upper peninsula, September 25 to October 25. Hounding, jack-shooting and killing in water prohibited.

Woodcock—August 15 to December 15.

Partridge—Lower peninsula, November 1 to December 15, inclusive. Upper peninsula, October 1 to January 1, inclusive.

Wild Turkey and Quail—November 1 to December 15, inclusive.

Ducks, waterfowl and snipe—September 1 to January 1, except jack snipe, geese, red-heads, blue-bills, canvas-backs, widgeon and pin-tails, which may be killed between September 1 and May 1.

Prairie chicken (pinnated grouse)—Cannot be killed according to law until September, 1894; then open season from September 1 to October 31, inclusive.

A general law was passed prohibiting entirely the killing of Mongolian or English pheasants.

Song and insectivorous birds cannot be shot at any time. Exportation of all kinds of game prohibited by law. A bounty of three cents per body is paid for English sparrows from November 1 to April 1.

It is unlawful to molest, harass or annoy any game bird during the closed season, by any means whatever, or to train, break or practice any dog upon any game during the closed season.

Trout and grayling—May 1 to September 1, and only by hook and line.

Bass may be caught at any time, but only by hook and line.

It is unlawful "to take, catch or kill, or attempt to take, catch or kill any fish in any of the inland lakes or streams of this state with any kind of spear or grab hook, or by the use of jacks or artificial light of any kind, or by the use of set lines or night lines, or any kind of net, or any kind of firearms or explosives, or other device except the hook and line." Being found upon the waters of said lakes and streams with any of the above devices shall be prima facie evidence in the prosecution for above offenses.

CAN'T DRAW HIS PENSION.

A Man Incarcerated as a Convict Debarred from Receiving Money from Uncle Sam.

JACKSON, Sept. 1.—The fact that a man in state prison cannot receive a dependent pension has just been decided in an interesting case. George W. Moore, of Livingston county, was received at the prison August 27, 1892, for assaulting a little girl. Just before he came he received a pension, amounting, with back money, to $1,200, his son Hiram having died in service. Special Examiner Smith looked into the case. He was informed by the pension office that Moore was not entitled to a pension while he was supported by the state, though the pension would be resumed when he was discharged. Moore had already received up to July 26, when his pension was suspended, $74.80. This has been returned to the United States treasury.

POLICE CHIEFS TO ORGANIZE.

Michigan Thief Catchers to Form a State Association.

GRAND RAPIDS, Sept. 2.—Invitations are being sent to the chiefs of police in all cities in the state to meet in Detroit soon to form a state organization upon a similar plan to that of the national association recently formed in Chicago. The national body, although very young as yet, has already been of great service to men of the craft and has already demonstrated that it will be of the greatest practical benefit in the matter of thief catching. In its platform it urges the formation of state organizations as auxiliary branches of the main body and Michigan is the first state to respond.

Will Go to Chicago.

GRAND RAPIDS, Sept. 3.—The Odd Fellows will hold the boards at the world's fair September 25-27, and the eight lodges in this city and the Patriarchs Militant expect to attend as bodies. The eight lodges recently appointed a committee, one from each lodge to make the arrangements, and the plans are rapidly being perfected. The fraternity will travel by special train over the Chicago & West Michigan, the Patriarchs leaving September 23, and the Odd Fellows probably the following day.

Special Election in Detroit.

LANSING, Sept. 1.—Gov. Rich says he will call the special election to fill the vacancy caused by Congressman Chipman's death at the time the Detroit municipal election takes place unless a pronounced sentiment develops in Detroit in favor of having it called earlier. So far, he says, no such sentiment has been expressed.

Two Were Nearly Suffocated.

KALAMAZOO, Sept. 2.—Fire late Friday night damaged M. J. McHugh's brick terrace and contents $3,000. George Polasky's loss on furniture is heavy. His guests from Lansing lost their clothes. McHugh's father and nephew were nearly suffocated. The fire was of incendiary origin.

Her Affections Worth Money.

BATTLE CREEK, Sept. 1.—Joseph Gramer, a rich farmer at Peninville, this county, has been sued for breach of promise by Agatha Yepp, who claims $10,000 damages. She came from Germany to marry Gramer, who, she claims, refused to fill his part of the contract.

Fooled With an Old Gun.

MT. CLEMENS, Sept. 1.—Fred Kracht, the 12-year-old son of Alderman Kracht, of this city, was shot and instantly killed by a playmate. The boys were fooling with an old gun. The contents struck Fred just behind the ear.

Alleged Counterfeiter Arrested.

BATTLE CREEK, Sept. 2.—Alonzo L. Gregg, of Bedford, this county, was arrested here Friday for passing counterfeit silver dollars. It is believed that the coins were made in this city.

Judge Cooley Honored.

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—At the session of the American Bar association in Milwaukee just ended, Hon. Thomas M. Cooley was elected president.

FAIL TO DO THEIR DUTY.

Everybody has at times failed to do their duty toward themselves. Hundreds of lady readers suffer from sick headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and female troubles. Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. Herbechter, Stevens Point, Wis., who for five years suffered greatly from Nervous Prostration and sleeplessness, tried physicians and different medicines without success. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine caused sound sleep every night and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three week's use of Nervine for headache, nervous prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved. WORLD'S CONGRESSES.

Greatest Conventions of Thinkers Ever Assembled.

TALK THAT IS GREEK TO MANY.

Prominent Women and Men Discuss the Labor Question at Chicago—Mrs. Xenia Nuttall's Exposition of the Aztec Calendar at the Anthropological Congress—The Congress of Religion.

WORLD'S FAIR, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—When all this grand show is ended, when the wearied sightseers have departed and these magnificent structures have been removed, when in short the Columbian exposition of '93 is but history, thinking people will realize that this city has this year had the greatest convention of thinkers ever gathered on this earth. I am far [illegible] in saying that the gatherings organized by the World's Congress Auxiliary have never been equalled, and it is very doubtful if they will be within another century. If the World's fair had not been in progress this series of congresses would have been the world's event of this decade.

It is often remarked that this is the first gathering held here of which the astute Chicago reporters could not give a pretty fair report in advance. They cannot even make a funny paragraph of it. It may well be doubted if there are ten journalists in the United States who could make a full and clear abstract of any one meeting, for each lecturer proceeds on the assumption that all his hearers know all about the fundamentals of the science he is dealing with and to 999 men out of every 1,000 his talk is even as so much Greek. In the Electrical congress, for instance, a committee was appointed to fix the units of electrical measure and here is a paragraph from the report adopted:

"As the unit of resistance the international ohm, which is based upon the ohm equal to 10-9 units of resistance of the initial C. G. S. system of electro-magnetic units, and is represented by the resistance offered to an unvarying electric current of a column of mercury at the temperature of melting ice, 14-4521 grammes in mass, of a constant cross sectional area, and of a length of 106.3 centimeters."

They talked of this as familiarly as farmers do of quarts, pecks and bushels and went on to establish a regular table, like any table in compound numbers, in which the names of the measures are ohm, ampere, volt, coulomb, farad, joule, watt and henry. On inquiry I learned that all these are taken from different nations and in honor of individual discoverers therein. The last two terms are for Professor Watt of England and Professor Joseph Henry of our Smithsonian institution. Professor George Forbes, chief electrical engineer of the great work now going on at Niagara Falls, enlivened the occasion wonderfully by an address which anybody could understand. He told us all about the wonderful tunnel which is being put through the rock alongside the falls; how the water will produce so many million units of force and how it can be transmitted 350 miles with ease and certainty, as he has already done that in India, and how it will revolutionize the carrying trade and be the cheapest force in the world. I knew they had "mehatmas" and "diakkas" and all the other Blavatskyisms in India, besides knowing all about such things as the soul and eternity and the pre-existence of the essential psychical essence, but I never imagined they were ahead of us in applied electricity.

The proceedings of the Labor congress which ended its sessions on Labor day, the 4th, were much more easily understood, and were conducted with what I might call reckless liberality. Among the women were Miss Grace H. Dodge, Mrs. Helen Campbell and Lady Emilia Dilke of London, and of men the list ranged from Felix Adler and Carroll D. Wright to Dr. McGlynn and Henry George and from Samuel Gompers to Jerry Simpson. The paper by Samuel Gompers entitled "What Does Labor Want?" is taken as a clear statement by authority. Mr. Percy R. Meggy, secretary of the New South Wales Labor commission, gave an interesting summary of what had been learned from the somewhat radical experiment in that country. The paper of Senator Peffer was on "The Use of Armed Forces in Labor Disputes," and those of Jerry Simpson, Henry George and Dr. Zacher of Berlin, on their well-known views. Every paper was interesting, of course, because they presented the carefully stated views of men who have thought long and earnestly, but I shall have to read them all over in a quieter time before I can tell whether the world is any wiser for them, or whether any practicable plan of reform has been presented.

In the Anthropological congress last week one of the most distinguished persons was a lady, Mrs. Xenia Nuttall, who had gained quite a reputation in Europe even before her last crowning achievement, the discovery of the principle of the famous Aztec calendar. Mrs. Nuttall presented her exposition of the calendar at the Congress of Americanists held last October at Huelva, Spain, and was awarded a gold medal therefor by the Spanish government. Very complete and easily understood tables illustrating the Aztec calendar were prepared according to her exposition and are now in the anthropological department of the fair. She claims that this calendar must have been the result of 4,000 years of observations, because the minute variations were corrected in it. To state this in common language, everybody knows that the true solar year does not contain an exact number of months, weeks, days, hours or minutes and probably not of seconds; so all the ancient calendars soon got out of gear, and at one time the Romans were so far behind that the battle of Cannæ was set down as having occurred in June though it certainly was fought in the dog-days.

Now Mrs. Nuttall claims that observations must have extended over 4,000 years to correct all the little variations and make out a true year, and the most conservative scholars who have examined her system say that at least 1,000 years of continuous observations were necessary. She also says (but I could not understand the proof of it) that besides the sun and moon the annual motions of Venus, Mars and Jupiter were correctly laid down in the Aztec calendar, that the system is radically different from any other known and must have originated on this continent and hence all notions about Aztec or Toltec civilization coming from the Old World must be abandoned; but if I were smart enough to explain her explanation I should be too smart to be writing letters on a salary. It may interest some people to learn that Mrs. Nuttall is but middle aged, fairly good looking, quite wealthy and a native of San Francisco.

The Congress of Religion now in session is necessarily organized on a different plan from the others. There are general meetings for hearing the exponents of each faith, but as separate meetings of so many sects are not practicable in the Art Institute building, those of the Christians are held in the city churches. This congress will be of much greater length than any other in the series, and as soon as it ends the Christians will begin another series for discussion of matters of special interest to themselves. Thus on Sept. 28 there will be congresses of all the missionary societies, to be followed at once by a general congress on the Sunday Rest. When these are ended there will be a congress of the Young Men's and Women's Christian associations, beginning Oct. 6, of the Evangelical alliance Oct. 8th, and of the Society of Christian Endeavor Oct. 9th, to be followed by several congresses of ethical organizations which will very appropriately end this very remarkable congress. It goes without saying that the results of such a comprehensive discussion will be noted with the keenest interest, not only by the religious, but by all interested in the development of beliefs.

The fact that Japan has received more medals in the fine arts department than any other nation in proportion to the number of exhibitors is indeed remarkable, but it is no surprise to any one who has studied the exhibits. The juries frankly declare that if it had been possible every Japanese exhibit in the fine arts should have had a medal, as all were worthy of it. No other nation has come here so thoroughly equipped as the Japanese. Considering the size of the country and its distance from us, this fact must be set down as one of greatest wonders of the fair. Japan was the first to complete its building and among the first to get its exhibits in order in all the buildings. It was accounted a very great special honor when the commissioners granted the Japanese the north end of the wooded island; they at once put their most skillful men at work and with temples, pagodas and landscape decoration have made it a charming bit of Japan and one of the favorite resorts of sightseers.

The Japanese evidently mean business, too, for they have a whole library of explanatory and descriptive books, all in English, printed at the government office in Tokio and beautifully illustrated. They describe the mining industry of Japan, its climate and agriculture, give the results of meteorological observations for many years and detail the commerce, manufactures, system of government and social life of the people. Three large catalogues detail the Japanese exhibits here and a list of the works in which they excel would be a long one. In all that requires delicacy of touch and absolute precision of eye and hand they seem to lead the world, and in the liberal arts department I see by the labels that some of their productions have been sold fifteen times—duplicates to be furnished. Such enterprise shows their title to the name given them, the "Yankees of the Orient."

The way we enjoy ourselves nowadays after getting weary of walking through the buildings can be judged from the record of recent days. On the first of the month there was a drill by the United States Life Saving crew at 2:30 p. m. On the second we had in the same order a free for all swimming contest, a fine stock parade and the grand fireworks at night. Every night now the electric fountains play and the Court of Honor is illuminated, every day there are grand concerts at Festival hall and popular music at the band stands; and all these are to continue to the close of the fair. The attendance steadily increases and so do the fun and satisfaction. But our far foreign and non-Ayran friends have a deal of trouble and several of them have gone home. Some of the Mohammedans have taken to drink like Christians and to fighting like toughs. The Maharajah has gone, but a real Japanese prince has come and the Nawab of Nampoor is on the way. The Nawab of Dampoor is already here and getting more numerous every day as the restaurants raise prices.

J. B. PARKE.

Mayor Gilroy at the Fair.

The mayor of New York has this to say of the World's fair: "The eloquence of silence is the only adequate means of expressing my admiration. I will say unhesitating that New York could never have got up such a show. I have read as much as the ordinary person about the wonders of the World's fair, but I never had the slightest conception of its magnitude.

"No idea of its beauty can be gained from reading. One must see it to appreciate it. If the people had an idea of what is to be seen here they would come in such crowds that you wouldn't be able to accommodate them. What strikes me as being one of the hardest things about the fair is that all of these beautiful buildings must be torn down. It seems like a sacrilege. They ought to be perpetuated in marble. These grounds are something immense, too; at no time do they seem to be crowded. Jackson park is considerably larger than our Central park and is much better fitted for an affair of this magnitude."

The mayor expressed a lively interest in everything he saw and asked innumerable questions about the fair and the strange people on Midway plaisance. He used nothing except the most complimentary terms in speaking of the buildings and sights contained in and about them.

Exhibitors in Transportation building have decided on Sept. 9 as Transportation day, and a programme will be arranged rivaling in point of popular interest the programme for Machinery Hall day.

INTERESTING PARAGRAPHS.

MICHIGAN'S DAY.

The Programme for Its Observance at the World's Fair September 13 and 14.

Michigan day at the world's fair will be September 13 and 14. No special invitations to attend the observance of the day will be issued, but a general invitation is extended to every person who is now or has ever been a resident of Michigan. The programme for the celebration as arranged is as follows:

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13.

9 a. m.—Morning band concert at Michigan building.

10 a. m.—Address by Hon. Thomas W. Palmer, president of the World's Columbian commission. Short talks by ex-Govs. Alpheus Felch, Austin Blair, Russell A. Alger, Cyrus G. Luce and Edward B. Winans, Hon. Don. M. Dickinson, President J. B. Angell, Congressman J. C. Burrows and Hon. J. A. Hubbell.

2 p. m.—Afternoon concert.

8 p. m.—Grand display of fireworks by the exposition company in honor of Michigan.

Died in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 2.—Edward Wheeler, of Manistee, Mich., has identified the body of the man who was found lying on the lake shore near Evanston Monday. It proved to be that of Edward Sayre, his brother-in-law. Mr. Sayre had been a railroad man and had held positions in the Denver & Rio Grande company, the Chicago & Alton and the Santa Fe. Ill health had compelled him to retire and he was out of employment for some months before his death. He was a mason and a member of an organization of conductors. The body was taken to Adrian, Mich., for burial.

Dropped the Suits.

NEGAUNEE, Sept. 3.—Unmarried miners at the Buffalo mines who were discharged without their wages and who sued the company and secured judgments held a meeting and decided to throw up the suit as a bad job. Other creditors are getting their claims as rapidly as possible, but the mine owners fought the suits, and the men must wait many months or drop the suits and take the same chances as other creditors, which they are now doing. Their lawyer promised them their money in fifteen days.

Appointments by the Governor.

LANSING, Aug. 31.—Gov. Rich has appointed Milo D. Campbell of Coldwater and Robert Gibbon of Detroit members of the board of railroad and street crossings commissioners. Campbell's term will expire January 1, 1895; Gibbon's, January 1, 1897. Charles Storrs, of Muskegon, has received his commission as state food and dairy commissioner. Vernon J. Willey, of Pewamo, has been appointed principal of the state school for the blind.

Manager Accused of Wrongdoing.

ANN ARBOR, Sept. 2.—The Register Printing and Publishing company assigned Friday to J. W. Bennett. Assets, $12,000; liabilities, over $15,000. The affairs are considerably complicated, the company having sued the former manager, A. Moran, for an accounting, and making serious charges against him.

Drowned.

GRAND RAPIDS, Sept. 4.—Harry Rickard, aged 12, son of a well-known cigar-maker living at the corner of East Bridge and Lafayette streets, was drowned while bathing in the river above the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee railway bridge.

Mr. Robinson for Congressman.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 4.—Much talk is indulged in here to the effect that the congressional nominee on the democratic ticket in the First district of Michigan will be Henry A. Robinson, at present statistician in the Agricultural department.

An Old Mason Dead.

ADRIAN, Aug. 31.—William Moore, aged 96, died Wednesday. He was one of the oldest masons in the United States.

It has the genuine ring. Edman & Stout, leading Druggists of Lima, O., write, April 12, 1893: "We can truthfully and honestly say that Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is the only remedy we ever sold that we never had a kick from. We only have about a doz. of the 6 doz. you sent us in January and hardly a day passes but what several persons come in and call for it. It is the best preparation for Nervous Troubles we ever handled. Send us 6 doz. quick." Sold in Tecumseh by J. J. Orr. 3

The most reliable information is to the effect that President Cleveland's health is good. It must be conceded, however, that some of his enemies are not feeling well.

WHAT DO YOU TAKE

Medecine for? Because you are sick and want to get well, or because you wish to prevent illness? Then remember that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures all debility of the system. It is not what its proprietors say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit. Be sure to get Hood's, and only Hood's.

I have been a great sufferer from catarrh for over ten years; had it very bad, could hardly breathe. Some nights I could not sleep and had to walk the floor. I purchased Ely's Cream Balm and am using it freely, it is working a cure surely. I have advised several friends to use it, and with happy results in every case. It is the medecine above all others for catarrh, and it is worth its weight in gold. I thank God I have found a remedy I can use with safety and that does all that is claimed for it. It is curing my deafness.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

Our statesmen in Washington are evidently convinced that discussion is the better part of valor.

Free to Housekeepers.

To introduce Rudge's Royal Mead, the latest Summer drink, into American homes this season, one trial package will be sent to any address in the U. S. FREE. If you can make thirty words from letters contained in R-O-Y-A-L M-E-A-D you are almost certain to secure one of the valuable articles which are to be given to each of the first NINETY-NINE persons in the U. S. able to send a list of thirty words or more. Besides this, to the person sending the LARGEST list received, will be given one of Steinway's Upright Grand Pianos; a trip to the World's Fair and return for the second largest list; an imported Shetland Pony for the third; a Pneumatic Bicycle for the fourth; fine Gold Watch for fifth; pair of Diamond Ear rings for sixth; a Parlor Organ for seventh; imported Music Box for eighth; Black Silk Dress Pattern for ninth; and a Guitar for tenth—largest list received. Rudge's Royal Mead is the popular Temperance Drink of the best classes in England to-day, and is sure to be used continually by every American family who receives one of our free packages for trial. Our word building contest is given to advertise Royal Mead, and is conducted fairly and conscientiously. It closes September 1st, 1893. Send seven U. S. two-cent stamps to cover expense of forwarding, and receive a large water-colored reproduction (suitable for framing) of "Maxy," the $1,000 prize St. Bernard owned by the President of this company. The finest dog on the continent. Address, THE RUDGE COMPANY, 118 St. James Street, Montreal, Que.

Many people, not aware of the dangers of constipation, neglect the proper remedy till the habit becomes chronic, or inflammation or stoppage results. A dose or two of Ayer's Pills in the beginning would have prevented all this.

Don't be afraid to wash anything with Pearline. You can do it without scouring and scrubbing. With anything that is delicate, it saves wear; with anything that is strong, it saves work. It devours dirt, without eating up the fabric. Millions use Pearline, but "all grocers don't keep it." What everybody needs is sold too fast to keep.

Sorry indeed. 235 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

Send for illustrated pamphlet. Address A. A. Schantz, G. P. A., Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co., Detroit, Mich.

In journeying recently with a traveling man friend, the conversation took such shape that he took a bottle, from his grip, of Brant's Extract of Blackberry, saying: "I never travel without it. I am easily affected by the change of water. Chicago water especially always troubles me, but a dose or two of Brant's Blackberry quickly cures the trouble." He had it right and if the thousands who travel and visit Chicago this summer are "Wise like the drummer" to have Brant's Blackberry with them, they will find it a very useful article. 25 cent bottles of J. J. Orr, Tecumseh. 3

Seymour, the mind reader, has not yet succeeded in burying himself alive. Has he tried a store that does not advertise?

If Congress doesn't hurry, Mr. Cleveland cannot conscientiously issue his Thanksgiving proclamation.

CLINTON, MICH., SEPT. 7, 1893.

Rev. H. R. Williams was away, over Sunday.

Mrs. E. M. Conklin spent Friday with Clinton friends.

Miss Eva Shimman spent a few days of last week, here.

Born, Monday, Sept. 4th, to Rev. and Mrs. D. H. Ramsdell—a boy.

Miss Lizzie Roff went to Jackson, Tuesday, for a few days' visit.

Miss Lizzie Schurtz, of Toledo, is visiting at Henry Lancaster's.

Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich, of Adrian, are visiting at Leslie Leek's this week.

Miss Vesta Mills, of Saline, is the guest of Mrs. L. W. Kimball this week.

Alfred Hulett moved into the east part of Sam Larzelere's house last week.

A. L. Kishpaugh moved into his house recently purchased of Thos. Ward, Monday.

Dr. H. H. Brown arrived here from Chicago, Monday morning, leaving at noon.

Alfred Kelly moved into the house vacated by Bert Kishpaugh, the first of the week.

Mrs. Platt, who has been in England about three months, arrived home last Thursday.

Clinton boys came home from Blissfield, last Saturday, with an exceedingly black eye. Score 13 to 2.

Miss Lizzie Kelly, who has been a guest of Mrs. J. S. Kies, returned to her home at Bay City, last Saturday.

Sylvester Nase and family came up from Palmyra, Monday. They are spending a few days at the lakes.

John Keusch went to Hudson Wednesday. He expects to bring his wife who has been sick there, back with him.

Miss Nellie Hunter, who has been visiting here several weeks returned to Battle Creek, Monday, Miss Lina Jones accompained her to Tecumseh.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eddy started for home, Wednesday morning. George Eddy arrived home the same day. Mr. Crowell Eddy's condition remains about the same.

The ladies of St. John's Society will hold their next social at the residence of Mrs. Ed Van De Mark, Thursday, Sept. 14th. Supper from 5 to 7: all are cordially invited.

Chas. Parker left here Monday night for Bay City, where he expects to hire out to go up in the pineries this winter. He has been at his father's, Abraham Parker's, for a few weeks.

There will be a meeting of the members of Golden Rod Chapter, No. 85, at the residence of Mrs. E. Van De Mark, Saturday, Sept. 9th. All members are earnestly requested to be present.

Eighteen tickets were sold at this station, Wednesday, for Chicago. The ladies carry the pocket-books in this vicinity, judging from the predominance of the fair sex among the excursionists.

Tecumseh vs. Clinton is the program for the next Saturday afternoon, at the ball ground. This is the second game of a series of three, and good playing is expected. Admission, 15 cents, ladies, 10 cents.

School opened Monday, with a large attendance and every prospect of a prosperous term. Corps of teachers: Floy Avery, 1st primary; Nellie Martin, 2d primary; Celia Brewster, 5th and 6th grades; Sadie Taylor, 7th and 8th grades; H. W. Daniels, principal.

Miss Mellie Brown, who was reported last week as very sick, is no better. Another consultation of physicians was held Sunday. Dr. Morden of Adrian, was called. They decided that the disease from which she is suffering is consumption of the blood.

At the school meeting, Monday evening, it was voted to have only thirty eight weeks of school this year, also that the director should receive but thirty dollars per year instead of forty and that the assessor should be paid twenty dollars per year. His services have heretofore recived no recompense. John Hause was elected in the place of W. D. VanTuyle and A. C. Huntington in the place of Geo. Calhoun.

Mont S. Hendershot, whose boyhood and young manhood was spent in Clinton, was killed at Lansing, Saturday night in a quarrel over a game of cards, by Byron M. Browne. Some charges of cheating had been made and Browne and Hendershot quarreled. The outcome was that Browne shot Hendershot in the abdomen, death ensuing in less than an hour. The deceased who was about 30 years old, leaves a widow and four children. The remains were taken to Brooklyn, the former home of Mrs. Hendershot, for burial.

Morris B. House died very suddenly, last Saturday at about five o'clock p.m. He went to the pasture near the old cemetery, after his cow, and Robert Crosby who had started to go home across the fields, saw him lying on the ground. He immediately summoned help, but life was extinct. Dr. Tuttle pronounced the cause of his death to be apoplexy. A jury was impaneled and the verdict was that he died from natural causes. The funeral was held Sunday at 3 p. m., the service being conducted by Rev. Reeves in the absence of Rev. Williams. It has been apparent for several months, that Mr. House was failing in health, and on the day of his death he had been feeling unusually bad. He insisted however on doing his usual work, and his death was entirely unlooked for. He left a wife and two children, Chas. House and Mrs. James Clark, of Tecumseh.

TO YOUNG MEN!

THE TECUMSEH HERALD MAKES A SPLENDID OFFER.

One Year's Tuition Free of Charge at the Detroit College of Law to the Young Man Who Receives the Highest Number of Votes.

"THE HERALD has made arrangements with the officials of the Detroit College of Law, whereby it is enabled to offer to the young man who receives the highest number of votes, a year's tuition free of charge in the above college. This is an excellent opportunity for a deserving young man to acquire a thorough legal education. The only condition is that the young man must be a resident of Michigan and must be voted for with coupons cut from this paper. Cut out the coupon below, fill out the blank spaces, and send it to THE HERALD, Tecumseh, Mich.

Vote as many times as you please, but always on HERALD coupons. No votes will be received after Saturday evening, September 30, 1893.

THE HERALD LAW SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIP COUPON.

THIS VOTE IS CAST FOR

Information concerning the school can be had by addressing M. P. McGregor, 20 McGraw building, Detroit.

Here an opportunity is afforded the student to combine the work of the school with that of the office, so that the practical and the scientific elements of his education may progress together. To this end all exercises of the college are held in the evening and students are also encouraged in securing work during the day in suitable law offices in the city. They are also encouraged in attending the various courts, so far as this does not interfere with their other duties.

A WINTER OF PLEASURE AND PROFIT.

Believing that the winter ought not to pass without some special entertainments that shall be both profitable and pleasing to our citizens, and learning that the parties who have heretofore furnished such entertainment have decided to discontinue this work for the coming winter, the members of the Baptist Church and Society have determined to offer a series of entertainments by which they hope to both please and profit the people. In making our selections we have aimed to bring only such speakers as shall come in touch with the masses, and while they amuse shall also instruct and profit. A meeting was held in the chapel of the Baptist church on the evening of the 5th and an organization was effected with the following gentlemen as officers:

President—Dr. L. G. North.
Vice President—A. P. Coddington.
Secretary—Rev. H. A. Smith.
Treasurer—O. B. Finch.

The various committees were chosen to carry out the plans of the organization, which is to consist of five entertainments. The price of course tickets was fixed at $1.00. As at present contemplated the course will be as follows (not necessarily in this order): The Silver Lake Quartette. These gentlemen have given the citizens here a specimen of their vocal and instrumental powers and to say that everybody was delighted is to put it mildly.

Next Rev. Washington Gardner, President of Albion College—a man at once eloquent and inspiring, fully in sympathy with all the people and especially with that army of veterans among us to-day.

The Rev. Dr. McLauren, of Woodward Ave. Baptist Church, Detroit. Some of our people are already acquainted with the entertaining manner of this gentleman. This lecture will be illustrated with numerous stereopticon views of scenes in Egypt and the Holy Land.

The committee are in correspondence with the Redpath Lecture Bureau and expect to put on one of their very best—Dr. James Hedley. There are parties in Tecumseh who have heard this man and they assure us he is a man of wonderful abilities. Then last, but by no means least, there will be one evening of song by a corps of home talent, entitled "An Evening of War Songs."

World's Fair—Cheap Rates.

On Sept. 13th the C. J. & M. Ry. will sell Excursion Tickets to Chicago and return, at the rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets good returning within ten days from date of sale. For full particulars call on nearest C. J. & M. Agent.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

"Some 8 years ago I contracted a serious constitutional blood disease. I went to Hot Springs to treat for syphilis. Mercury almost killed me. After a while the symptoms again appeared. Throat became sore, pains in limbs, pimples on face, blotches, eyes red, loss of hair, glands enlarged, etc. A medical friend advised Drs. Kennedy & Kergan's New Method Treatment. It cured me, and I have had no symptoms for five years. I am married and happy. As a doctor, I heartily recomend it to all who have this terrible disease—syphilis." It will eradicate the poison from the blood."

Touched for Thirty Dollars.

Henry Bickman, who takes charge of Col. Eldridge's farm, and the notth ent hotel, at Sand lake, was in Chicago last week and came home Saturday night minus $30 from which he received no benefit.

Henry was at the depot Saturday night waiting for his train to leave, when a stranger walked up to him, made his acquaintance, found out where he was going, and affected surprise that he too was going to the same place (Adrian) in a few days to start a harness shop. Mr. Bickman thereupon became quite intimate with the stranger, and found out that he was just about ready to start, had all his stock packed, etc. Just then a second stranger appeared on the scene, presented a bill for $30 against the harness man, and demanded payment before the goods would be released. The harness man didn't have the amount with him, but pulled out a check on one of the Chicago banks. Banks were closed, couldn't get the money, etc., and wouldn't Mr. Bickman advance the sum, less the exchange when he got to Adrian? Of course he would, and did. He is such a nice old man, always willing to accommodate, and that is how he came home Saturday night, after spending $30 for which he received no benefit.

Confidence is all we need to carry on business in this world. Even in Chicago you must have confidence, and Henry knows it.—Telegram.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

Conference will be held in Detroit next week.

Elder Yager spent Monday in Toledo with friends.

The village school began Monday with a good attendance.

Mrs. Eldredge Lowe is quite bad again at present writing.

Miss Clara Temple left for Monteith Saturday for a visit with friends.

There will be no more Sunday excursions to Devil's Lake this season.

Emma Miller went to Detroit Wednesday for a few days' visit with friends.

Loree Eaton, of Harvey, was called home last week by the death of his mother.

Next Sunday will be Elder Yager's last Sunday with us for the present conference year.

Lynn Fuller, of Detroit, was the guest of Lottie Arner Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Jane Springer, of Nebraska, visited her cousin, Mrs. M. M. Florance, the first of the week.

Several took in the game of ball between the Tecumseh and Milan teams at Tecumseh Tuesday.

Quite a number went to Clinton Saturday to witness the ball game between Tecumseh and Clinton.

Henry Lovejoy and wife, of Adrian, visited M. M. Florance and wife on Wednesday of last week.

There will be a union temperance service held at the church Sunday evening in place of the preaching service.

C. O. Hiscock, who has been spending his vacation in Chicago, returned home for a few days' stay before leaving for his school work at Albion.

Miss Marion Lowe is failing at this writing with that dreadful disease, consumption. Friends have been hopeful for the past few months of her recovery.

Tink, our hustling tinsmith, who has just completed the tin-work for Philip Kenoe's new house, has the contract for the tin-work of Scudder's new store at Macon.

The person finding a light gray summer shawl with a white border, that was lost between the village and the Lake Ridge postoffice, will please leave the same at F. J. Temple's drug store.

Mrs. Jacob Arner fell down stairs Tuesday morning, receiving an ugly gash on her head and was bruised very badly about her body. Dr. Rhodes was called and did for her all that medical skill could do, and she is doing as well as can be expected.

The funeral services of Mrs. Albert Eaton were held in the church Sunday morning, Rev. E. Yager officiating. The ladies of the Britton W. C. T. U. and those of the union here attended in a body. The floral pieces were very pretty, the workmanship of friends.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

They dance at Conlin's hall Friday night.

Irene Allen and Carl Wisner are attending the Normal at Ypsilanti.

G. W. Allen and Mrs. A. B. Wisner drove to Ypsilanti and back Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, Ella and Herbert Munger started for the world's fair Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Billington and their four children and Mrs. Ezra Simmons started for Florida Tuesday, where they go to spend the winter.

At the Lyceum Saturday night the following officers were elected: Pres., S. Newell Wisner; Vice Pres., Annie Allen; Sec., Nina Allen; Treas., Cecil Billington. The next meeting will be on October 7th, at Mrs. A. B. Wisner's.

J. E. Remsburg will speak at Hampton's hall, Tipton, Monday eve., Sept. 18th, instead of the 21st, as reported last week. Mr. Remsburg is on his way to Chicago, where he will address the international congress of free thinkers Oct. 1st. We understand that he is one of the best speakers in the liberal ranks and the opportunity to hear him should not be lost. The lecture will be free and the Franklin orchestra will render music.

Water from the Jordan River.

Of all strange articles that pass through the U. S. Custom Houses from time to time perhaps none has, of late years, attracted so much attention as seven barrels of water from the baptismal pool of the Jordan River. This remarkable shipment was consigned by United States Consul at Jerusalem to the Jerusalem and the Crucifixion Panorama, on Wabash Avenue, Chicago, where it has just been delivered. Eight large casks were started by camel train overland from the Jordan to Joppa, the Joppa of Bible days, but one camel with its burden was lost by falling over a rocky precipice, so but seven barrels reached their destination. The announcement of the arrival of this shipment by the New York and Chicago papars brought scores of people to the great Panorama, all anxious to procure some of this remarkable liquid; some wanted it for healing purposes, some as souvenirs, others for baptismal ceremonies. Mr. Gross, the manager of this remarkable and enterprising religious exhibition, said the idea of the importation was to present at stated time small bottles of this water to visitors to this magnificent, religious Exhibition, which comprises not only the panorama of Jerusalem and the Crucifixion, but also the world-famous painting, "Christ's Triumphal Entry Into Jerusalem."

The world's Fair has at last taken recognition of the fact that William Shakespeare deserved an exhibit.

STOP CROAKING.

Stop croaking and get down to business. It is the croakers who are locking up money and distressing themselves and business generally.

We have big crops with a foreign market for our surplus. The people were never more generally solvent. Money is abundant for all legitimate business; but the croakers are on top and cowardice kills where courage would cure.

Let the calamity howlers go to the rear. Many banks and business establishments have suspended, but not one in fifty of them has failed. They are solvent; ready to resume whenever the croakers are through with their work, and soon the calamity organs which have heralded failures in startling headlines, will be recording the resumption of the suspended concerns.

Stop croaking. It is as serious for the time as if bankruptcy were upon us as a people, when business could be revived at once if honest and well-merited faith in the government, in the country and industries were restored. Stop hoarding money; put it into circulation by buying, depositing or lending, and don't wait until business has enough money without the locked up resources of the croakers.

We are now adding a million a day to our national bank circulation; we are getting gold from Europe at the rate of a million a lay, and money must soon become abundant without the croakers' hoarded wealth. In addition to these sources of enlarged circulating medium, Congress will surely give us an enlarged and more flexible circulating medium, and money is more likely to be too abundant than too scarce before the close of the year.

Stop croaking. It doesn't pay; it is all loss and no profit to all, and whenever the croaker shall cease to ply his vocation money will be plenty and business prosperous. Stop croaking.—Philadelphia Times.

EAST FRANKLIN.

Blanche Dunn visited Franklin Saturday and Sunday.

Floyd Updyke and Ruth Taylor had the mumps last week.

At the school meeting last week Louis Ernst was elected director and George DePuy assessor.

Abram Hunt and wife and Ella and Herbert Munger started for Chicago Tuesday morning.

Rena Allen and Carl Wisner went to Ypsilanti Monday, where they will attend school this year.

Mrs. Lafayette Spencer and two children, of Holloway, visited at Joseph Spalding's Saturday and Sunday.

Raisin Valley Seminary.

Owing to some misunderstanding between the Seminary and the Columbian Fair, Guy Case, of Cambridge, did not enter school until Thursday.

The astronomy class are reciting in the evening at present, owing to the better facilities which that hour affords for studying the constellations.

The forty-fifth year of Raisin Valley Seminary was inaugurated September 5th with indications of life and energy in all quarters. The corps of officers and instructors is unchanged, excepting the position of associate teacher, which is now occupied by Prof. Binford. Much regret was expressed by the old students upon learning that Prof. Ratliff would not return, but we believe that Prof. Binford is giving excellent satisfaction in all lines. The attendance is unusually full, the proportion of new students being the largest on record.

A New Style of Rail Fence.

BANK OF GRAND LEDGE,
GRAND LEDGE, MICH., Sept 4, 1893.

S. C. STACY,
Tecumseh, Mich.

DEAR SIR—At the request of G. J. Brown, who comes to your vicinity to introduce a straight rail and stake fence that he is building, I wish to say through the columns of the HERALD that he has built over two hundred rods of the fence for me and thousands of rods for my neighbors, all of which is very satisfactory. With a small outlay an old rail fence can be made into a good new one. I advise (aside from Mr. Brown's request) that the farmers give the fence a trial.

Very truly yours,
WELLINGTON DEPUY.

A BOLD TRAIN ROBBERY.

A Lake Shore Train Held Up by a Gang of Robbers, on the Air Line.

Jesse James or the Ford Boys never planned and executed a bolder robbery than that perpetrated on the United States Express company, Monday night, at the little siding known as Kessler, three miles west of Kendallville, Ind., on the air line of the Lake Shore road.

The limited mail and express, known as No. 14, from Chicago to Buffalo, was side tracked at this station, between 12 and 1 o'clock, engineer James Knapp was fatally shot in the lungs, the express car was blown to pieces, express messenger M. M. Weist and helper rendered insensible, the large safe and two smaller ones were dynamited, and over $100,000 in gold, greenbacks, bank notes, etc., were taken, and the robbers effected a speedy escape.

Train No. 14 is a through express and mail train, carrying no passengers, and is in charge of less than ten men. It is one of the money trains of the U. S. Express company, and leaves Chicago every night with a large amount of cash in its vault, besides local money contained in the smaller safes. The express messenger has a helper as far as Kendallville, and from there on he goes alone. Both men are armed, but in this case they had no use for the revolvers.

The express car contains a large safe built in the car. The combination dial is taken off after the safe is loaded, and cannot be opened until it reaches its destination.

Train No. 14 that night was in charge of Conductor Martin Loop, of Toledo. He had a crew of two brakemen. They were due at Kendallville at 12:55, but were a little late. As they approached the Kessler siding, three miles west, Engineer Knapp noticed the switch light turned just before he reached the siding. The red lamp flashed in his face, and he knew there was trouble ahead as he shot on the siding, but supposed it to be nothing but tramps, who are very bold along the air line. He stopped his train as soon as he could, and he and his fireman looked out to see the train surrounded by about 20 masked men. Both were looking into the muzzels of Winchesters, and were ordered to keep still. Knapp jumped from his cab with remarkable nerve, and attempted to run. He was immediately shot down, the ball entering his left lung, the wound is thought to be serious. The fireman was terrorized and remained perfectly motionless, while the robbers went on.

Conductor Loop and one brakeman heard the shot and looked out just in time to be fired at, the balls grazing their heads. They sought shelter in the cars and remained quiet, as did the balance of the crew.

The robbers then threw a heavy dynamite bomb at the side of the express car, and there was a terrific explosion, shattering the whole side of the car, and knocking Messenger Weist and his helper to the floor, in an insensible condition. Both men were terribly shocked and Mr. Weist has been rendered almost stone deaf.

The desperadoes then went to work on the large safe. In less than five minutes they had drilled a hole in the door, filled it with dynamite, attached a fuse, and blew the safe into thousands of pieces, scattering its contents everywhere. The money which it contained amounted to over $100,000, and this was hastily gobbled up. The robbers then skipped into the darkness, but by what means they left the country is not known. The whole job was done so speedily that the citizens about there scarcely realize it.

PRIESTS FROM INDIA.

Buddhists in a Chicago Presbyterian Church.

MORMONS ALSO IN THE FAIR CITY.

The Celebrated Tabernacle Choir Takes Part in the Eisteddfod Contest—Some Special Days Which Drew Large Crowds to the World's Fair Grounds—Arab Home on the Plaisance.

WORLD'S FAIR, Sept. 13.—[Special.]—For ten days we have had a continuous series of festivals, state days and special displays, all increasing the average attendance, and the same are to continue five days more with, it is to be hoped, a similar but increased result. First was the arrival of a whole palace car full of Orientals to see the fair and then take part in the great religious discussion which began on the 11th and is to continue seventeen days. Bright looking gentlemen they are, too, but their names are known already, I presume, to the general public. I cannot spell them anyway, and if I could the reader could not pronounce them; so for the present we will do as Bill Arp did when he came to a French or Latin phrase in a book—"just call it lignum vitae and go ahead."

On their first Sunday here all the Buddhists, whether priests, monks or scholars, attended the First Presbyterian church in a body, clad in their best official robes, as a mark of special respect to Dr. John Henry Barrows, principal organizer of the congress. Among those whose names I can spell the most noted were Banriu Yatsubuchi, Zitsuzen Ashitsu, Yozo Nomura and Ryo Watanabe, all of Japan. On the platform with Dr. Barrows sat his grace the Right Reverend Dionysios Latas, archbishop of Zante, Greece, and his deacon, and all about the church sat men whose names are great in many branches of theology. Regret is expressed at the non-arrival of Justice Ameer Ali, of India, descendant of that Ali who was the companion of Mahomet, and the only noted man of that blood who has embraced Buddhism. I take it for granted that with him it is a sort of scientific theory rather than a vital faith. As to accepting the great doctrines of absorption, separate soul annihilation and passive contemplation—well, my guess is that Arabs are not built that way.

This is the first time Buddhist priests ever appeared on the streets or in a mixed assemblage in an American city in their sacerdotal dress, and Chicago records with pride that there was not a rude word or an audible laugh. The fact is, we are so satiated with wonders that if Queen Victoria should step into McGonnigle's and call for "two beers" the forks would not look at her more than twice. At night the archbishop made an address in which he stated that Zante had within a few years suffered 3,260 earthquakes which demolished 134 churches and out of 5,000 houses left but fifty uninjured, and this, he added, gave them a realizing sense of the instability of earthly things. Well, I should think it would. The same night arrived from Salt Lake city a magnificent train of palace cars containing 418 persons, among them the presidency of the Mormon church, the great Tabernacle choir of 256 persons and some pioneers who had never seen the Missouri river since they left it in 1847.

Old Red Stick and Yellow Sun and other chiefs who befriended them have long since gone to the happy hunting grounds and on their corner of the reservation has sprung up the enterprising city of Omaha; but some of these old fellows look almost as fresh and gay as when I last saw them in 1875. President Wilford Woodruff is 84 years old, but almost as spry as when I first heard him preach in 1868. George Q. Cannon, his first councilor, a native of the Isle of Man and the best scholar in the priesthood since the death of Orson Pratt, looks just as he did when a delegate in congress. Joseph F. Smith, second councilor, is comparatively young and a son of that Hyrum Smith, brother of the Prophet who was killed with him at Carthage, Ills., June 27, 1844. These three constitute the first presidency, the head of all authority. I have embraced every opportunity of getting a good look at the old Mormons without their getting a look at me, and my main thought is, How these old fellows do last! Polygamy evidently agreed with them. The choir took part in the great Eisteddfod contest, gave a public entertainment in the city, assisted at the celebration of Utah Day, and all then departed for their mountain homes.

Labor Day came next and was celebrated, of course, with extra enthusiasm, 80,000 men marching in the city procession. On the fair ground it was New York Day. The size of it may be judged from the fact that one train brought 1,400 people chiefly from places on the New York Central. Chauncey Depew was the orator of course, though others spoke, and at night there was a grand reception. It was a relief all around, for it must be confessed that the number of New Yorkers in the park has been remarkably small hitherto. Wisconsin Day, which came next, was not notable for its crowd; but on Pennsylvania Day there was a grand turnout. The music was a special feature, 600 voices being the chief attraction. Of course this does not include the speeches by Governor Pattison and others, which were also good in their way. The fireworks at night were especially brilliant. On the 8th came the great choral contest in the Eisteddfod, with exhibition drill by the United States Life Saving corps, and at night a grand procession of historical floats on the canals and lagoons.

On the 9th there were too many events for any one person to see half of them. California particularly distinguished herself by distributing presents of fruits and flowers in honor of the forty-third anniversary of her admission as a state. Utah commemorated the same anniversary of her establishment as a territory. Five great organizations also celebrated, and at night the plaisance outdid itself with fireworks, fun and racket. On Labor Day the plaisance was uncomfortably crowded for the first time and the brown people were wild with delight at the liberal patronage. The shouters for the theaters did not have to shout, all the fat wigglers were on their best hoofs and gave the danse du ventre despite the prohibition, while the ticket-takers smiled all over, even to the wrinkles in their voluminous trousers. It was a harvest for the non-Aryans.

Among the new attractions on the plaisance (at least I have just discovered it) is a little building in which the home life of the Arabs is shown. On one side are parlors furnished as in Damascus, to show the life of the city Arabs, and on the other under rude tents are exhibited various phases of desert life. I was particularly interested in the bread making as it is almost exactly like that I have seen among the Navajo Indians. The grain is ground between two stones, the dough is mixed in a coarse linen cloth and then the old woman in charge spreads it on a flat rock or convex slab of iron under which a slow fire is maintained. In the desert a rock will serve, but here they use a disk of iron; and as an oven heat cannot be secured the dough is spread as thin as our pie crust. The Navajoes make it thinner still, while the Moqui Pueblos make it into a batter as thin almost as milk and dash it on the hot rock, where it is instantly converted into a cooked sheet no thicker than printing paper. Coffee is made on the ground in the desert way and the professional musician of the tribe does his prettiest on a sort of one-stringed fiddle.

In the Samoan village I was amused to observe a newly painted notice to this effect: "Visitors will greatly oblige the management if they will kindly refrain from asking these people any questions about cannibalism, as it annoys them very much." Some of them look capable of cannibalism, but they speak pretty fair English, are remarkably courteous and are described by their manager as "entirely Christian, quite peaceable and most hospitable." The Fijians give a theatrical performance which is much the same long drawn out and roaring racket of inexplicable pounding and screaming as that of other savages. Like the danse du ventre it is a good thing to see it once, but a healthy mind doesn't hanker for much of it.

What with California, Utah and other celebrations the 9th was such a lively day that the silence of Sunday, the 10th, could be felt; but on the 11th the veterans and silver men reopened the racket, and yesterday Maryland did herself honor. The formal exercises took place at Music hall in the afternoon—prayer by His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons, introductory remarks by Governor Brown and oration by Hon. John V. L. Findlay. Today is for Michigan and the Amateur Athletic union, and Ohio promises that tomorrow will be the biggest day between that of Illinois and that of Chicago. The indications are that she will succeed, for there are and have been for some days more Ohio people on the grounds than from any other state except Illinois. Several days ago a single train from Cincinnati brought 1,500 people and the registration at the Ohio building averaged 2,000 a day for some time. Secretary Alberson says he will guarantee that 75,000 Ohio people will pass the gates in the three days ending tomorrow.

Yesterday also the "Keeley graduates" began to arrive. The delegations from the west are to be led by the military band from Fort Leavenworth and the Milwaukee military band is also to take part. Tomorrow evening in Central Music hall there will be singing by the ladies of Dwight, Ills., who organized the popular concerts to amuse the patients at the original Keeley institute. Many celebrated persons will take part, as many of that sort confess to having been "bitten" and cured by Keeley. On the 15th, which is Keeley Day proper, it is promised that 10,000 Keeley beneficiaries will appear in the procession and there will be grand reunions of those formerly patients in each of the several retreats. The finest pyrotechnic portrait ever presented in Chicago (so say the artists now getting it up) will be that of Dr. Keeley, which will glow long and brightly on the lake front during the evening fireworks of the 15th. On the same day the railroad men will fitly commemorate the sixty-third anniversary of the opening of the Manchester and Liverpool railway, officially taken as the beginning of the railroad era. Colorado hurried up her celebration which was to have been on the 19th, and did her commemorating on the 12th, because Governor Waite was here and could not return and still more because her veterans returning from the grand encampment at Indianapolis could be here on the 12th. The reader is to bear in mind that all this time the grandest show of blooded stock ever organized in America has been in progress, filling the big pavilion daily with tens of thousands of delighted farmers and "buckeyes" and that a mere list of the awards would fill many columns like this.

The Catholic church congress began on the 4th and one week later the world's parliament of religions, the Oecumenical Council of Humanity as one may say, opened with an attendance, an interest and a vigor of discussion that astonished even the most sanguine of its promoters. It was ordered by the committee and agreed to by the participants that no analysis of any paper should be given out in advance of its reading and no full publication made of any till all had been delivered, but enough has appeared to show that all the faiths of all mankind may, by leaving off a few superfluities, be reduced to four, of which one and that the very lowest is of course not represented here. This is Fetichism which men of all other religions deny a place as a religion, and treat it as a mere superstition. It is the finding of a god in everything vile, and its worship is of snakes, toads, flies and the like.

Of the other three the faith in Emanation and Absorption is that the universe and the soul are eternal, going through unending changes, and that the faithful man will after this life eventually lose his identity in the divine or infinite soul of the universe. And this is the faith of about two-fifths of the human race. This is Buddhism, if I understand its exponents, when one gets down to the essence of it. The faith that matter and the soul were alike created, but that matter will be destroyed while the soul will not, is the faith of the Semitic races and of such as have adopted it from them, our own race included. Of the fourth grand division no exponent has yet been heard, but it is spoken of as Universal Spiritualism. The hall in which the general meetings are held seats 8,000 people and is crowded.

METHODISTS MEET.

The Michigan Conference in Session at Grand Rapids—Showing Made by Reports of Officers and Committees.

GRAND RAPIDS, Sept. 10.—At the Michigan Methodist conference Thursday President Fisk, of Albion college, reported the attendance last year at 627 and that the college was prosperous in every respect. A new $8,500 gymnasium, $24,000 laboratory, presented by Senator McMillan, and $50,000 library presented by Col. A. T. Bliss, will be completed this year and Thomas W. Palmer's $10,000 endowment will be available. The annual report of the Preachers' Saving Fund society showed receipts for year $4,073.02 and disbursements $4,010.78.

Bishop Taylor, of Africa, conducted the services at the conference Saturday. Louis Ne-Da-Wis, of Nottawa, and Pe-Nec-Evah-Quah, otherwise Andrew Jackson, of Denver, Isabella county, were elected local deacons under the missionary rule. Both are Christian Indians of the Chippewa tribe. In the afternoon the conference assisted Bishop Bowman in laying the corner stone of the new Aldrich memorial home for deaconesses.

MICHIGAN CROP REPORT.

Drought Without Parallel Prevails and Much Damage Results.

LANSING, Sept. 9.—The Michigan monthly crop report for September issued from the state department says the drought now prevailing in southern Michigan is without parallel and as a consequence all crops have been seriously injured. Corn is being cut for fodder, the potato crop will be light, the meadows and pastures are dried up and are believed in many cases to be ruined. Clover sown this year is in most cases entirely killed out. Plowing for fall wheat is not possible, which, with the low price, promises largely to reduce the area sown. The thrashers' returns for 65,000 acres of wheat thrashed indicate a total yield in the state in excess of 24,000,000 bushels, or 15.33 bushels per acre. The total number of bushels reported marketed in August were 1,248,866, and for the wheat year of 1892 and '93, 14,822,056.

BRIDEGROOM FATALLY SHOT.

While Resisting a Party of Serenaders He Is Made Their Target.

SAGINAW, Sept. 8.—Report comes of a shooting affair Thursday night, near Bayport, 50 miles away on the lake shore, which may result in the death of one man and the arrest of another for murder. The facts are very meager, but so far as can be learned wedding festivities were in progress at the home of Peter Griffels, about a mile from Bayport quarries. The newly wedded couple were named Strubus. Some time during the night a party of serenaders made their appearance and commenced a serenade. This, it appears, incensed some of those in the house and a fight followed and several shots were fired. During the melee the bridegroom fell with several shots in his body. The doctor has been probing his wounds and it is not known whether they will prove fatal or not.

MORE THAN A CENTENARIAN.

Grandma Wilson, of Kalamazoo, Celebrates Her 102d Birthday.

KALAMAZOO, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Sarah Wilson celebrated her 102d birthday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William Skinner, aged 70, in this city Thursday. Mrs. Wilson, whose maiden name was Chadwick, was born in Sussex, Eng., and came to this country in 1840. She came to Kalamazoo from Buffalo twenty-five years ago, and has since resided here. Grandma Wilson has never had spectacles, and her eyesight and hearing challenge comparison with many of half her years. Meeting with an accident forty years ago she has been compelled to use crutches ever since, and a fall two years ago still further crippled her. She is the mother of twelve children, three of whom are still living. She is proud of her advanced years.

Michigan Prize-Winners.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 10.—At the world's fair live stock exhibition last week prizes were awarded to Michigan breeders as follows:

Horses, Shetland ponies: Stallion 4 years old or over—G. A. Watkins, Detroit, second premium, Mackie Rose, same, third premium, Prince of Shetland.

Stallion 3 years old or over—G. E. Gilman, Paw Paw, third premium, Captain Kidd.

Mare 4 years old or over—G. E. Gilman, Paw Paw, fourth premium, Fairy Queen. G. A. Watkins, Detroit, sixth, Nannie J., same, seventh. Linda G. E. Gilman, Paw Paw, tenth, Belle Brown.

Mare 3 years old and under 4—G. A. Watkins, Detroit, first, Dollie, same, second, Dottie.

Big Fire at Bay City.

BAY CITY, Sept. 10.—The sawmill and salt block of Eddy, Avery & Eddy was destroyed by fire about 2 o'clock Friday. It is not known how the fire started. The property had been inspected by a watchman half an hour before the flames were discovered. The lumber docks were saved. The mill was burned in 1866, rebuilt in 1873 and had a capacity of 28,000,000 feet. Loss, $300,000; insurance, $55,000.

Gov. Rich Says "No."

LANSING, Sept. 11.—Gov. Rich received a request from the St. Louis Republic for his opinion on the following question: "Do you favor a repeal of the tax on state bank circulation?" The governor's answer to the question was a negative one.

Five Million Shingles Burned.

WHITEHALL, Sept. 8.—A shed containing 5,000,000 cedar shingles, owned by C. E. and M. B. Covell; burned to the ground. It was insured for $5,000.

Death of a Pioneer.

BATTLE CREEK, Sept. 7.—Benjamin Doorman, aged 91, a resident of Penfield, this county, for the past fifty years, died at his home Wednesday.

Holland's Growth.

HOLLAND, Sept. 8.—The school census just completed here gives the city 1,815 school children. The population of the city is 5,458.

Cost of an Ex-President's Manuscript.

As an illustration of the money paid to writers as soon as they acquire a reputation, the September Cosmopolitan contains less than eight thousand words, for which the sum of sixteen hundred and sixty-six dollars was paid. Ex-President Harrison, Mark Twain and William Dean Howells are the three whose work commands such a price. The September number has more than one hundred illustrations, giving the chief points of interest in the Columbian Exposition, and the Fair is treated by more than a dozen authors, including the famous English novelist, Walter Besant; the Midway Plaisance, by Julian Hawthorne; Electricity, by Murat Halstead; the Liberal Arts Building, by Kunz, the famous gem expert of Tiffany & Company; the Department of Mines, by the chief of that department, etc.

A feature of this number is a story by Mark Twain, entitled "Is He Living or Is He Dead?"

These figures represent the number of bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which were sold in the United States from March, '91 to March, '92. Two Million, Two Hundred and Twenty-Eight Thousand, Six Hundred and Seventy-Two bottles sold in one year, and each and every bottle was sold on a positive guarantee that money would be refunded if satisfactory results did not follow its use. The secret of its success is plain. It never disappoints and can always be depended on as the very best remedy for Coughs, Colds, etc. Price 50c, and $1.00. At J. J. Orr's Drugstore.

Gentlemen:—I have had rheumatism about two months during last winter, was confined to my room most of the time; I saw an advertisement in the Saline Courier recommending P. P. P., as a cure for rheumatism, I bought three bottles, but before I got through with the third bottle I was cured and have not felt the least effect of rheumatism since. It is undoubtly the best remedy for rheumatism, I ever tried. I can cheerfully recommend it to the public.

A STATEMENT UNDER OATH.

MOUNT PLEASANT, MICH., August 15, 1892.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT AND APPLIANCE CO.:

Dear Sirs:—I now am able to say, after having purchased one of your No. 4 Electric Belts with Spinal Appliance about one year ago, that I thank God I have found relief from my terrible suffering through the wonderful healing influence of your wonderful Body Belt. August 29, 1891, at which time I was a great sufferer, and had been for more than four years from extreme nervous prostration, so much so that, on the least excitement, my whole nervous system would be all of a tremble from head to foot, and unable to control myself in the least, and would affect me to tears like a little child. I am a farmer by profession; in the fields, or at work on the farm, or at any excitement, it had the same effect. I could not lift the weight of five pounds. It so continued with increased suffering, until I was unable to be myself, and for eight months my suffering was intense. My stomach was so weak that I could not take any food but crackers and warm water for the above time. My kidneys were so weak that I could not retain my water, would pass from me continually, and I have to use the necessity of leaving my bed from one to two times during the night. All the drains upon the system have ceased, and constipation and piles have left me entirely. My nerves have regained their former strength, my eyesight and hearing have become clear, and I have gained in weight about 15 pounds, and I feel like a new man. My stomach has got back its power of digestion, and I can eat almost any kind of food that my appetite craves, without pain or distress. I am gaining daily, and I feel better and weight faster than I have for the past ten years, and it seems I have a new lease of life. I cannot say enough in favor of your wonderful Electric Body Belt. It is far superior to all medicines compounded for the relief and cure of chronic and complicated diseases and broken down constitutions. I would not take $2,000 for my Belt if I could not get another like it. There is nothing in the world for relief and cure where all other means fail. I can not praise your Belt for what it has done for me words can not express. I will say here that I recommend the Owen Electric Belt to all suffering humanity as the messenger of quick relief and certain cure of all nervous debility and other nerve troubles. I know it will cure all diseases which you advertise it to cure.

This you may publish to let suffering humanity know there is relief and cure to be found in your wonderful Belt and Appliances.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is superior to all other preparations claiming to be blood-purifiers. First of all, because the principal ingredient used in it is the extract of genuine Honduras sarsaparilla root, the variety richest in medicinal properties. Also, because the yellow dock, being raised expressly for the Company, is always fresh and of the very best kind. With equal discrimination and care, each of the other ingredients are selected and compounded. It is because it is always the same in appearance, flavor, and effect, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed. It is, therefore, the most economical blood-purifier in existence. It makes food nourishing, work pleasant, sleep refreshing, and life enjoyable. It searches out all impurities in the system and expels them harmlessly by the natural channels. AYER'S Sarsaparilla gives elasticity to the step, and imparts to the aged and infirm, renewed health, strength, and vitality.

GREAT IS EVOLUTION.

Interesting, Too, When Clothing Is Considered.

FROM GRASS TO THE FINEST SILK.

The Former Can Be Seen in Dahomey Village and the Latter in Machinery Hall—How the Need of Clothes Has Developed—Rent, Taxes and Wages Make Living High.

WORLD'S FAIR, Sept. 8.—[Special.]—Evolution is the keyword of today's philosophy and here is the place to study it. Here we see how one invention which filled a long-felt want straightway created two more wants and set many more inventors to work. Thus the pressure of newly created wants is ever forcing man along, and yet at any point in his progress there is a tendency to slip and recede. And how easily they do slip. When I was in Arizona I often remarked that while it took forty years to civilize an Indian, a well disposed white man could go wild in six months. Since my five weeks here I beg leave to add that while, according to Darwin, it took 20,000 generations for the monkey to make a man of himself, a man can make a monkey of himself in twenty minutes on three fingers of Chicago whisky. It is so much easier to slide than climb.

In the Live Stock pavillion yesterday I heard a very animated discussion between some Illinois grangers on the question, "Do hogs pay?" In this vicinity they don't. It is the rest of us who pay the hogs and if things get much higher I shan't be able to stay. Down town they have been having what the Oregon Indians call a "hyas time" over the sufferings of the unemployed, and Henry George, Dr. McGlynn, Bishop Fallows, and many other eminent men and several talented women have told the sufferers why they suffer. Now if these landlords and other builders have paid for two years past any such wages as they swear to, then with any sort of economy no laborer ought to suffer in three or four months of idleness. I had got exasperated over various petty swindles and determined to interview one landlord and get my revenge by reporting him with unscrupulous accuracy. So I fired at him these conundrums:

"Why is the cost of living so much higher in Chicago than in New York, Cincinnati, St. Louis or Indianapolis? Why is the price of bread as high as it was in 1864 when flour is only one-third as high? Why does the farmer have to sell his stuff for one-half what he did a few years ago and then pay a third more for what he eats of it when he comes to the city, and why does this keep on getting more so? And finally, why is it that with all these gains you fellows are all hard run and about every third one of you in the sheriff's hands?" pointing as I spoke to a pile of furniture on the sidewalk a square away, the last seizure of the ever-active bailiffs.

"It's as simple as fallin' off a log," replied mine host, who is an Indiana man. "It costs as much to get out a loaf of bread as it did in 1864 and it costs a good deal more to run a hotel. It all goes in rent, taxes and wages. I pay as much rent for this ramshackle concern of wood and plaster as they used to pay on Hunt's hotel in Cincinnati. And then the insurance—O, Jerusalem! They never can get it high enough to suit 'em. But you see yourself that if fire ever starts about here the whole block goes. The other day—you saw it in the papers—a little girl started a fire in the backyard and burnt up twenty-five acres of buildings in South Chicago. Five dollars a week is the very least you can get the poorest kind of a girl for and what they pay for good ones I don't know, for I can't get any. The bakers make next to nothing on bread for the same reasons. All last year and this spring common labor was 40 cents an hour—paid it right on this street for shovelin' dirt. Carpenters got twice that and so on. Now the buildings are finished and right away there is sufferin'. Well, we'd be the next ones to suffer if we didn't charge you fellows to correspond."

Now here's a state of affairs. Talented women at the lake front meetings tell how the poor girls are driven to evil by want, and 70,000 families complain that they cannot get domestic help at any price. Wages are so high that landlords can't make any money and laborers are in such straits that we have already had two riots. The farmers complain of falling prices for their stuff and in the city it is so high that in lieu of satisfying our appetites we have to tighten our belts as we did in the army. Surely somebody is lying. Or I am a bad economist? At any rate the problem is too much for me. I feel it—and right where I live—but the philosophy of it eludes me.

After these preliminary remarks, the application of which I trust the reader to find, let us go to the Machinery building and instead of wearisome walks and talks let us trace the evolution of just one article through all the ages of man. Let us take clothing because it is so beautifully illustrated and the machinery is comparatively simple. The looms run like lightning and turn out fabrics at a surprising speed, still a common man can see how they run, even if he has no wheels in his head. But to trace a suit of clothes from the very start we must go over and begin in the Anthropological department. There it is clearly shown that the first clothes were made of leaves, grass, bark and roots or rushes. Of course primeval man lived in quadrumanous innocence as the animals do, but with the growth of domestic order came a dawning sense of shame as to the sources of life and so a grass or other vegetable suit about the size of your two hands was invented for modesty's sake.

As refinement increased the suit gradually extended towards the head and the feet, even in hot countries and in summer, while in cold countries the skins of animals were used as soon as man learned how to get them. All this is beautifully illustrated in carvings, pictures and otherwise in the Anthropological exhibit, and down in the plaisance one can still see the Dahomey dude in his cool and airy summer suit of grass. That clothing began in the sentiment mentioned is further proved by the fact that among the ruder races children still go naked till the sense of shame develops in them.

The coat of skins was a rather elaborate affair, as the relics show, and there was one suit made of thick bark, pounded till it became flexible, which was almost pretty. From wearing sheep skins to wearing the wool only was a natural and easy step, and they first twisted it into very coarse strands and knotted them together as fancy or necessity dictated. Of course these strands were twisted finer and finer as man progressed and were put together by the system of over-and-under replication, and so spinning and weaving came into existence. And here are shown some of those extremely primitive looms, such as are still used by the hill people of India, the Navajo women and others—nothing in such a loom apparently but a beam fastened in the branches of a low tree, another beam staked fast to the ground and to each a loose beam attached at the ends with cords, the strands of wool running over these last. How very rude and primitive they look. Yet on such a loom I have seen a Navajo woman weave with wonderful skill, producing red and yellow flowers with colored yarns, making a blanket of such firm texture that water could be carried in it.

Much more rapid was the [illegible] making linen, for nations of finer taste took it up and the advance in silk was probably more rapid still as taste stimulated invention. Hence the "Babylonish garment" and all the wonderful stuffs of Tyre and India. But silk was not produced in Europe till some 500 years after Christ, when two missionaries smuggled the silkworm eggs out of China in the hollow of a bamboo cane. And now let us go into the Machinery building and see what marvels the Aryan has wrought with the stolen art of Serica and his own flax, wool and cotton. First in array are the exhibits of the Lowell Machine shops, the Knowles Loom works and the Cromptons. The feathery cotton and the snowy wool take the form and color of textile fabrics before our eyes and in the deft manipulation by the women in charge we see proof of the statement that with these automatic looms one woman can produce plain clothing enough for 600 people.

It is but little that the woman has to do, for the loom itself seems gifted with intelligence to give notice if anything goes wrong, even of so small a matter as the breaking of a thread. The line of evolution ran thus: First, hand power only, next wind and water power and finally steam. And is it soon to be electricity? It is to be hoped, for there are still grave disadvantages in using steam and when electricity can be transmitted to great distances from the waterfalls which generate it there will no longer be any economy in concentrating the textile manufacturer in a few cities. Each village can then have the weaving done for its own population at minimum cost. The power for this building is supplied from an annex running along the whole south side of the building. In it are forty-three engines with an aggregate of 20,000 horse power, which also operates 127 dynamos and thus produce the electric light and power for all the other buildings.

It is on the silk looms, however, that the finest work is done; but I shall refrain from explaining them for reasons into which I trust the reader will not too curiously inquire. Of Americans the Phœnix Manufacturing company, of Philadelphia, has looms in full operation, and J. J. Mannion, of Pittsburg, and John Best & Co., of Patterson, N. J., run sets of Jacquard looms. On these are woven silk handkerchiefs of almost gossamer delicacy, with figures showing pictures of the World's fair buildings and portraits of prominent men. These are sold on the spot by a so-called "concession;" but all manufacturers who have not secured that must remove their products every night. Under the general subject of clothing would come the long array of sewing machines, cloth cutting and knitting machines and machines for making thread, buttons, hooks and eyes, etc.; but it is not necessary to describe such common things. It is a far cry from the Navajo woman toiling at her rude loom and the Navajo girl twisting wool on the rude handspindle as she watches her sheep, to the automatic loom and spinning jenny, but it is all illustrated here and far more effectively than could be done by a volume of such writing as this.

Moving eastward from the looms one soon enters an area where he is almost deafened by the din—the tremendous car moving on the beams overhead, the great Hoe press, only turning out 24,000 printed copies per hour of The Columbian during two hours of each day though capable of doing much more, the great paper-making machine which I study long but cannot comprehend, and the long, long lines of ponderous machines for cutting, boring, notching, trimming or otherwise fashioning iron, steel, wood and stone. In it all we see a prophecy that by and by only the rude and uncultured nations will do hard work. Our sort of folks will just stand around and watch the machines do it and see that they do not rebel.

Blessed slaves! With no bodies to kick and no souls to be damned, they yield us the equivalent of 80,000,000 of man-power. Taking his stand upon the shore of infinite possibility the inventor has in fifty years evoked from the boundless ocean of natural dynamics, and presented to us, the labor of 80,000,000 slaves. If the Americans of 1840 had been told that by this time the supernal powers would have sent to the United States 80,000,000 of the most intelligent and stalwart beings from the most highly developed planet (for it amounts to that) and that all their labor should be ours without need of lash or fear of insurrection, with what gladness would they have cried: "Vanish want! Away forever with discontent, and talk no more of slavery in the south or misery in the cities!" For how can there be want or discontent when an intelligent and industrious people have such slaves in number four times their own working force?"

The slaves have come. Four times as many as the 20,000,000 human producers. Slaves of light and fire, soulless, bloodless, nerveless, feeding only on the condensed sunshine of the carboniferous age and wearing out in our service without a groan or a word to any man's conscience. And yet there is want and there are riots and there are said to be 500,000 people suffering for lack of work. Why?

WONDERFUL CURES!

THOMAS MINCHIN. MAJOR W. A. SIMFIELD.

Before Treatment. After Treatment. Before Treatment. After Treatment.

Nervous Debility and Catarrh Cured.

Thomas Minchin says: "I was reduced to a nervous wreck—only weighed 118 pounds. The result of early abuse was the cause. I had the following symptoms: Miserable mentally and physically, melancholy, nervousness, weakness, specks before the eyes, dizzy, poor memory, palpitation of the heart, flushing, cold hands and feet, weak back, dreams and losses at night, tired in the morning, pimples on the face, loss of ambition, burning sensation, kidneys weak etc. Doctors could not cure me; but Drs. Kennedy & Kergan by their New Method Treatment, cured me in a few weeks. I weigh now 170 pounds. It is three years since I have taken their treatment."

Blood Disease and Dyspepsia Cured.

Major Simfield says: "I had Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach for many years. To make matters worse I contracted a Constitutional Blood Disease. My bones ached. Blotches on the skin looked horrible. I tried sixteen doctors in all. A friend recommended Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. I began their New Method Treatment and in a few weeks was a new man with renewed life and ambition. I cannot say too much for those scientific doctors who have been in Detroit for fourteen years. I conversed with hundreds of patients in their offices who were being cured for different diseases. I recommend them as honest and reliable Physicians."

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes.

☞ These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermotor. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country."

Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 6 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 6th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaseless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—or if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, or that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one ($100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

D. RANSOM'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

THE JUNIOR LEAGUE.

Paper Read at the Recent Epworth League Convention at Ridgeway by Miss Lena Swick.

In looking over history, in connection with my study of childhood, I have been led to notice in particular the history of the Roman Catholic church with relation to the training of its young. The young people of that church are baptised in infancy and trained so strictly, that, if allowed to remain in their care until from nine to twelve years of age, their losing one from their faith is so seldom that we need not notice the exception. They almost invariably remain faithful to those early teachings.

The some may be said of the Lutheran and Protestant Episcopal churches to a great extent. Hence we are led to believe that the early teaching of the child really has more to do with moulding its character and future life than that received, in later years. Then, ought we not to be as wise and fore-seeing as they in the instruction of our children? Do we not neglect the early training of our boys and girls? It is true the discipline requires that the children of our church shall be early taught the Catechism, Apostles 'Creed, The Articles of Religion, etc., and that all the baptized children shall be formed into classes and placed under instruction, not excluding any who have not been baptized. It is the duty then of both Pastor and parents to see that this is carried out. But, almost entirely it has been delegated by them to the Sunday School. Now, is the Sunday School doing this work? Go with me, dear hearer, and let us see. Only from 20 minutes to one-half hour each week, aside from the time given to the opening and closing exercises, and the most of that time must be devoted to the study of the International lessons, if we derive the benefit from them we should. While we bring no censure upon the Sunday School, it is doing the best it can; true it is they study the bible, but we must confess it is not doing the work referred to for the children. Not because there is no desire on the part of the Superintendent and officers to do so, but, for the want of time. Again, very seldom will the advanced scholar take an interest in the work and so will discourage the Superintendent and the little ones in their efforts.

Now, right here comes our Junior League to the rescue; not to take the place of the Sunday School by any means, but, simply to do a work which it can not do. Like most of the institutions of the Methodist church the Junior League was born, not built. A child of Providence; coming in response to real need, not simply, to a desire to get up something new. For a long time Methodism had been asking for a suitable place to train her children. The Junior League is organized similar to the Epworth League in all its departments. Taking care of all the children under fourteen years of age, and placing them were they may be instructed in a manner suitable to their age with none older to embarass by their presence nor to disturb by their inattention. It is under the care of a Superintendent who is appointed by the pastor. We find to be a successful Junior League superintendent, means very much. It means first, close persistent effort in preparation. The best of our time must be given, not the odd moments, when brain and body are weary with the care of the day. When we remember that the boys and girls of the Junior League are there to receive their first inspiration toward making a public profession of religion we owe our best and truest efforts.

While we realize that the little ones should be provided with wholesome and elevating amusement to take the place of that which is debasing or sinful, and that they should be trained to be merciful, helpful, and temperate. Yet, we feel that while these departments should have their proper place, the work of teaching is of greater importance. For the training of a child for Christ and the church is of the utmost importance. As Mrs. Emerick says in the Advocate: "I believe in the Methodist church teaching her children Methodist doctrine."

We have in our system if fully carried out just what is needed to make of our children loyal, intelligent methodists. How often our young people at conversion are without particular love for the church of their parents, and are easily persuaded that any other is as good. A case in point: A revival was held in a regular Baptist church, a number of Methodist young people are among those converted. Having had no early training in methodist doctrine, they consequently had no intelligent appreciation of it, and the strange and unsatisfactory result is, that while the parents belong to the Methodist church, their young children have gone to the Baptist. Dear Friends, these things should not occur, and would, by the practical use of our excellent system, be avoided. O! Junior League leader, study, work and pray. A great responsibility has the Lord entrusted to you. Some days you may be disheartened. Perhaps as you study or teach some warm, summer day, your mind will wander out among the cool shadows and sweet flowers; but never mind, remember that one day you shall stand before the Junior's King, and shall there will appear the present sacrifices, but great will be your reward if this shall be said of those who teach, "They shall be mine, saith the Lord, in that day when I shall make up my Jewels." It will take time, money and real labor to accomplish all you may expect for your children, but there are older brothers and sisters enough in the Senior League to do all this, and as one has so aptly expressed, "This kind of pasture will keep the lambs from wandering astray, and secure to them the best fold in the world—the dear old Methodist church.

We would like to extend the right hand of fellowship to every one of our little leaguers and say God bless you. For our cause is a common one, and such an out-look! What possibilities seem to loom up before the vision, as the future of the Junior League movement is contemplated. This is an intelligent age and we need intelligent christians to lead it. We want christian merchants to reign over our business realm. We want christian senators to make our laws, and christian Presidents and Governors to execute them. To obtain all this we must train the child, for the man of to-morrow is the child of to-day. Let us train a generation of Sabbath observers, so that there shall be no discussion on the question of Sunday opening at the next World's fair. Prevention is better than cure, more ecomomical and far more certain.

Why police Brooklyn bridge to keep men from falling or jumping in the river? Why not let them fall and then fish them out? Not in Salvation army slum work, pulling theives and drunkards out of the gutters but in the Junior Leagues and kindred, movements is the hope of the world. This is the battle for the future, to save the children. Not one child within the reach of the church and few are beyond her reach, should come to maturity without being brought into relation to Christ and the church, for dangers and temptations multiply with every advancing step. Push the Junior League even if some other work must be neglected. Neglect anything but this. Among our little Juniors are many boys and girls who have already consecrated their lives to the Master. They have some times grown careless and perhaps made mistakes, but. Our Lord has seen their little hearts and knows how anxious they are to please him. In their little class meetings how swiftly their petitions, freed as they are from all unnecessary words, are winged heavenward and enter the ear of him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven.

How shall we hold the young people of our church and make them consistent, intelligent christians and loyal Methodists? I most hopefully answer, through the Junior League. Can the Junior League do all this for the children? Unhesitatingly we answer, 'Yes.' As regards the children, the provisions of the discipline and the purpose of the League is the same, viz: To educate the whole being for Christ. The way to have a large Senior League is to graduate into it each year a large number of the Juniors. We can double ths membership of the Methodist church in twenty years by faithful, soul-saving work among the children. For remember that in twenty years the children of to-day will be the active generation, and their influence will be felt either for good or evil. Pastors awake! Officers awake! Young people of the League, awake! Push the work among the Juniors. Let our motto be: "Every Sunday school scholar for Christ, through the influence of the Junior League of our church" The Junior movement is yet in its infancy, it is growing—growing in power. It is a mighty tide of youthful enthusiasm, consecration and endeavor. It is one conspicuous sign of the ushering in of a second and more marvelous pentecost. Already the tread of its army is the tread of thousands: soon will be that of a host.

The Detroit and Cleveland Steam Navigation Company's new steamers City of Alpena and City of Mackinac are now in commission, making four trips per week between Detroit, Mackinac Island, Chicago and way ports. Fare, Cleveland to Mackinac and return, including meals and berths, $20.00; Toledo, $14.50; Detroit, $13.50. Low rates to Chicago. Write for illustrated Pamphlet. Address A. A. Schantz, G. P. A., Detroit, Mich.

A World's Fair Guide that "Guides."

We have just received "The Best Things to See and How to Find Them," by far the cleverest little guide to the great Exposition that has been published. It is concise, practical, and a great economizer of time—looking at the Fair with a due sense of proportion and giving readers an idea of what they should see and what they can best afford to overlook. It is a guide book that "guides," taking the visitors in charge and conducting them about the grounds and through the buildings, indicating the character of each display and mentioning specifically every feature and article that should be seen and where it is to be found. It is a book that it would be well for the visitor to read before going to the Fair, and is a necessity for all who wish to see the Exposition systematically. It should be in the pocket of every visitor—where it will easily go. The publishers (The White City Publishing Company, 571 The Rookery), to make it doubly convenient, have kept the left hand pages throughout the book blank for memoranda and have given a list of routes for one, three, six, and twelve day visits. The price is but 25 cents.

A WINTER OF PLEASURE AND PROFIT.

Believing that the winter ought not to pass without some special entertainments that shall be both profitable and pleasing to our citizens, and learning that the parties who have heretofore furnished such entertainment have decided to discontinue this work for the coming winter, the members of the Baptist Church and Society have determined to offer a series of entertainments by which they hope to both please and profit the people. In making our selections we have aimed to bring only such speakers as shall come in touch with the masses, and while they amuse shall also instruct and profit. A meeting was held in the chapel of the Baptist church on the evening of the 5th and an organization men as officers:

President—Dr. L. G. North.
Vice President—A. P. Coddington.
Secretary—Rev. H. A. Smith.
Treasurer—O. B. Finch.

The various committees were chosen to carry out the plans of the organization, which is to consist of five entertainments. The price of course tickets was fixed at $1.00. As at present contemplated the course will be as follows (not necessarily in this order): The Silver Lake Quartette. These gentlemen have given the citizens here a specimen of their vocal and instrumental powers and to say that everybody was delighted is to put it mildly.

Next Rev. Washington Gardner, President of Albion College—a man at once eloquent and inspiring, fully in sympathy with all the people and especially with that army of veterans among us to-day, who, proudly as on the old camping grounds of the Rebellion, wear the blue, for he was one of them.

The Rev. Dr. McLauren, of Woodward Ave. Baptist Church, Detroit. Some of our people are already acquainted with the entertaining manner of this gentleman. This lecture will be illustrated with numerous stereopticon views of scenes in Egypt and the Holy Land. There are few who can so thoroughly interest an audience as Dr. McLauren and if we tell you this will be one of the best entertainments of the course you will agree with us when you have heard him.

The committee are in correspondence with the Redpath Lecture Bureau and expect to put on one of their very best—Dr. James Hedley. There are parties in Tecumseh who have heard this man and they assure us he is a man of wonderful abilities, very emotional, full of humor at times, at other times exceedingly grave. He must be heard to be fully appreciated. Then last, but by no means least, there will be one evening of song by a corps of home talent, entitled "An Evening of War Songs." You all know just how the loyal American heart loves to listen to these songs—so full of pathos; so full of breathings of love for the dear old country; and then too because they tell us again of the dear ones who lie covered on the hills and in the valleys of the Sunny South land. This will be an evening of lively interest to us.

And now, friends, you are aware that this effort to entertain cannot be a success without your co-operation. Will you kindly give it? The committee will soon be in the field to offer season tickets. The sale of these tickets will stop as soon as the seating capacity of the church is filled, so please don't put the committee off if you are not prepared to take the tickets when offered. Kindly give them your promise to do so before the course begins, so that the officers may prosecute their work intelligently.

BY ORDER OF EX-COMMITTEE.

MILAN vs. TECUMSEH.

The third and last game of the series between Milan and the Association was played on our grounds Tuesday afternoon, the usual large crowd being in attendance. Milan came prepared for a hard battle, having secured the services of two Detroit men besides their regular Detroit catcher, Spranger. The game opened with Milan in the field, and E. Tray and Lee scored the first thing, Whelan struck out, J. Tray went out at third, King struck out, leaving Dixon on base. Four men went to bat for Milan in the first inning, two failed to reach first base, one went out at third, one left on base. In the second inning Codling and Heidenrich scored for Tecumseh. Milan failed to score till the sixth inning, when Gallagher brought in the first tally. Tecumseh also woke up in the sixth and Lee, Whelan and Palmer scored. In the seventh Spranger (1) scored and Taylor brought in the final tally for Milan. J. Tray, Dixon and Codling in the eighth and Tray brothers in the ninth completed the score for Tecumseh.

Summary of the game: Struck out by Gallagher 15, King 13. Hits on Gallagher 18, on King 7.

Milan has 3 runs, 6 base hits, 1 2-base hit, 1 sacrifice hit and 6 errors.

Tecumseh has 12 runs, 14 base hits, 3 2-base hits, 1 3-base hit and 5 errors.

A Pleasant Reception.

The following letter, received Monday, and the account of a reception, clipped from a Sherman, Texas, paper, show what one of Tecumseh's [illegible] daughters is doing.

MR. WILLIAM HAYDEN,
Tecumseh, Mich.

DEAR SIR—I deem it a privilege and a pleasure to write you that your daughter, in an impromptu recital, won the enthusiastic applause of all who heard her. I am glad to say that she meets the highest expectations of all of us, and I congratulate you in having a daughter of such high attainments.

Very respectfully,
J. G. NASH,
Pres. Sherman Institute,
Sherman, Tex.

[illegible] Mehod custom of the Sherman Female Institute the friends of the institution and of its students were tendered an informal reception in the gymnasium of the Institute last evening. It was a gathering of the cultured of the city. The programme of the evening was composed of selections by members of the faculty.

Miss Hayden of Michigan, whose voice has won for her a legion of admirers, made her debut before a Sherman audience under the most favorable auspices. Her voice was clear and flexible with a wonderful compass. The selections rendered were appropriate and elicited applause from the hearers. Miss Hayden is a graceful and skilled violinist. Her selections were heartily appreciated."

Words Well Spoken.

At the business meeting of the Presbyterian Society held last week Tuesday evening the following resolutions were passed, which will explain themselves.

W[illegible] be Rev. Wm. H. Babbitt, afte[illegible]ithfully served the Presbyte[illegible]a at Tecumseh as their past[illegible] past eleven years, and hav[illegible] the necessity of laying aside for a time the active duties of a pastor, did, on the 2nd day of May last, tender his resignation, therefore

RESOLVED, That while we deeply regret the necessity for such action, severing the pleasant relations that have ever existed between us as pastor and people, we have accepted his resignation at his request and hereby desire to express our appreciation of his work among us. It also gives us pleasure to know that he will remain with us and that we can still rely upon both himself and his wife for counsel and encouragement in all our work. He leaves to his successor a harmonious and prosperous church.

The resolutions were adopted by a rising vote. Mr. Babbitt with deep feeling responded, briefly assuring the people of his continued interest in the church, and asking for his successor as pleasant a pastorate.

Reading Advertisements.

The every-day assertion, that "nobody reads advertisements," is receiving a curious amendment during this time of anxiety and depression. Probably almost any man's observation of his own case will sustain the assertion that the advertising columns of the press never before received so much attention.

There is a feverish curiosity to ascertain what the business world is doing, and numbers of intelligent houses are taking practical advantage of it. If it should be responded that those who read do not therefore buy, a reply is to be found in the mercantile records of other seasons of depressions.

It is a curiosity of the laws of demand and supply that the actual transactions of even a "panic year" fall so very little below a general average. T[illegible] is, indeed, a falling off, or rather there may be no increase, such as would naturally take place under easy-going circumstances, but the great aggregate of figures stands as firm as a pyramid. Hosts of people have made their purchases, as usual, and they have made them, largely at places which became known to them while they were reading, as they never read before, the doubly interesting tales of trade, set forth in the advertisements.—Ex.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Cyrus Meade, of Macon, moves his family to Ypsilanti this week, where he expects to reside for the next two or three years. He wants his HERALD to follow him of course. Having taken the HERALD for thirty years he does'nt propose to stop now simply because he is going to Ypsilanti.

Burt Billington of Franklin, accompanied by his wife, started Tuesday for Florida. They intend to spend the winter months at Norwalk, in that state, and may conclude to make it their permanent home. Mr. Billington will hold his Franklin farm until he shall decide whether or not to become a permanent resident of the land of flowers.

Two law-suits Monday engaged the attention of Justice Davidson. In the case of the People vs. Diffenbacher for horse stealing the complaining witness imbibed so freely of the flowing bowl that the prosecutor and court refused to accept his testimony and the case was adjourned until Sept. 21. In the matter of the People vs. P. J. Waldron for the larceny of Philip DePuy's eggs the jury found that the defendant was not guilty as charged.

The Mackinaw road took most of the Chicago passengers this week.

Geo. Rose and Roy Auchampaugh, of Adrian, were in town Sunday.

Hillsdale's new paper, the Telephone News, is forging right to the front.

The Maccabees state convention at Grand Rapids last Tuesday was a rouser.

They made the trip, a distance of 1600 miles, on their wheels, in 26 days, arriving here last Monday noon. Sixty-one and one-half miles per day for twenty-six days is'nt very slow riding. The boys came by the way of Chicago and although some what sunburned are healthy and happy.

One of the most interesting and wonderful exhibitions outside of the World's Fair, at Chicago, is the great Panorama of the Chicago Fire. No written description can do justice to this remarkable scene. It presents the city as it was while burning, in which are shown in a startling manner the fire ruins and panic that make this conflagration the most awful calamity of the century. Everyone going to the World's Fair to see the sights should take occasion to view this thrilling scene. It is situated at 130 Michigan Avenue and is easy of access from all the down-town hotels.

The Silver Question has been "the bone of contention" for a long time, but how few there are who understand it, or who know anything about how or where the silver itself is obtained, or how it is handled before it is made into money! To these, indeed to everyone, the excellent article on "Silver, from Mine to Mint," handsomely illustrated, which is published in Demorest's Family Magazine for October, will be especially interesting as well as instructive. Another article, "The Silver Secret," gives in a familiar and easily comprehended style all the important points about the vexed Silver Question, and the story "In the Silver Thread" tells one of those romantic incidents in the experience of an owner of a silver mine that seem too wonderful to be true, yet happen more frequently than they are recorded.

Whitney Family's Show will be here next week Tuesday.

H. L. Cope, of Manchester, was in town Sunday, between trains.

We are glad to learn that R. B. Titus, of Raisin, who has been confined to the house for several weeks by illness, is now on the mend. He is gaining rapidly and will doubtloss be up town again in a few days.

Wm. S. Comfort, of Tecumseh, was in town Tuesday and placed an ad with us for his superior drain tile, a sample of which may be seen at our sanctum. Those in need of brick or tile should address him.—Addison Courier.

H. M. Temple, of St. Paul, Minn., is in town three or four days this week. He is on a trip east and halted here to make his Tecumseh friends a visit. He is an expert accountant and is building up a fine business in that line.

Mrs. John O'Leary, of Raisin, has several Indian relics and ancient specimens of crockery in her possession. The what-not in her parlor is filled with bric-a-brac of this character, which would repay one's time to examine.

We spent a portion of last week and this "swinging around the circle," for a friendly interview with delinquent subscribers. Every available spare moment for the balance of September will be devoted to the same congenial work.

A Franklin farmer has caught and destroyed ten bushels of grasshoppers which were ravaging his celery. He drove them into a large sheetiron pan that contained a bit of coal tar. The pests were buried. Why din'nt he sell their hops to the brewery?

An Ohio farmer drew his cash out of the bank and sewed it up in the lining of his vest. Then he went to work in the fields. He hung the vest on a post. The grasshoppers got after it, cut thro' the cloth and so badly disfigured the cash that Mr. Farmer has had to send the lot to Washington for experts to figure out how much was in the pocket. The hoppers seemed to relish the stuff.

Chas. Ives is putting up a very fine family residence on his farm in Raisin, half a mile South of Ell Gray's. The old dwelling, which must have been erected fifty years ago, has been removed and the new house will occupy the same site. It will be one of the most complete residences in Raisin, when completed. A. J. VanWinkle has charge of the carpenter work and Jas. E. Lowry of the mason. H. J. Williams of Adrian, will furnish a slate roof for it. The frame of the house is now up and the roofers are at work.

A. W. Haight, of Detroit, was in town yesterday.

See what McClure Bros. new card announces this week.

The Wolverines had a big time yesterday on Jackson Park.

A. W. Slayton returned from a business trip to Detroit last evening.

Rev. W. H. Babbitt and P. S. McKinnon are attending the Presbytery, in session this week at Adrian.

Pass in your votes on the Detroit Law School voting scheme. The time will expire on the 30th of this month.

The B. Y. P. U. of the Lenawee Baptist Association will hold rally services, with the Tecumseh Union at the Baptist church in this place on Sunday evening Sept. 17th. Papers, addresses and music.

An item elsewhere gives evidence that Miss Mabel Hayden is getting finely started in her new position in the Female Institute at Sherman, Texas. Her success, however, is no surprise to those who are best acquainted with her musical talents.

The Southern Michigan District Fair to be held at Adrian, Sept. 25 to 29, inclusive, will be one of the best and most attractive in the history of the association. Everyone interested in the agricultural society of Lenawee should read the advertisement on the 8th page.

While Henry Smith, on Tuesday, was grooming a horse which he has recently purchased, the animal kicked him in the breast, just above the lower ribs. Mr. Smith managed to crawl on his hands and knees to the woodhouse where he was discovered, and Dr. Catlin sent for. He pronounced the injury serious, but thinks his condition somewhat improved at present. Mr. Smith was able to speak for the first time since the accident this morning.
